THE HYAMS TRIAL.

The Crown's Theory in the Wells Murder Case.

THE THIRD DAY

Was the Body of Willie Wells Moved.

A FEW DISCREPANCIES.

Dr. King Says Willie was Lying Dead on His Back, and Fox Says on His Face—Undertaker Humphrey Testifies.

Special to The Times.

TORONTO, Nov. 7.—When the court adjourned for recess on the third day of the trial of the Hyams twins but two witnesses had been examined. Dr. King and Undertaker B. F. Humphrey. The testimony of these witnesses did not differ in any material respects from that given by them at the previous investigation. Humphrey swore, however, that he heard the remark made by either the prisoner Harry Hyams or Fox that they had heard the weight fall. In his direct examination he said the prisoner made the statement but later he admitted he was not positive. He said the importance of the remark made by Hyams can be understood when it is remembered that the defence claim that Harry Hyams was not in the warehouse when the boy was killed.

ATTENDANCE DIMINISHING.

The repeated warning that none but those having business at the court will be admitted, has had a salutary effect. The corridors are no longer filled with people anxious to gain admittance. In the audience today were a few well dressed women who watched the twins closely and paid unflinching attention to the proceedings.

The twins had evidently just left the barber when they entered the dock. Their hair was nicely parted and their chins clean shaven. They acted as if the evidence of the undertaker was an old story. When Expressman Fox entered the box they showed more interest. Fox swore that the body of all was lying on its face when he arrived at the warehouse, whereas Dr. King was positive that when he visited the premises previously it was on its back.

UNDERTAKER HUMPHREY.

THE MAN WHO BURIED WILLIE WELLS TELLS HIS STORY.

Expressman Fox was once more absent when his name was called this morning and his Lordship announced that the next dilatoriness on the part of a witness would result in a prompt fine.

R. D. Humphrey, the undertaker who was summoned to take charge of the body of Willie Wells, was called to the stand. The witness told how he had received a telephone message from Expressman Fox at 12 o'clock, on January 16, 1893, to go to the Colborne street warehouse. When he arrived there he found the body of Willie Wells lying on its back. The latter showed Humphrey his hands, upon which there were abrasions. Hyams explained that in trying to lift the weight from Wells he had torn his hands. Fox and Humphrey descended to the cellar together.

Witness, with a series of crayons, marked the position in which the body lay as compared with the elevator. The point where the weight was resting upon its side and tilted against the shafting. The body was lying on its back with the left side of the face down. There were no spectacles on the face or gloves on the hands.

THE ARRIVAL OF THE CORONER.

Witness waited until the arrival of Dr. Alkins, the coroner, twenty minutes later. This places the time of the coroner's arrival at 12.30. The doctor himself will say that he thinks it was before 11.

Asked as to whether the prisoners, or either of them, saw anything, Mr. Humphrey said that he did not know the prisoners apart, but he heard "the one with the sore hand" (Harry) tell Coroner Alkins that he had hurt his hand lifting off the weight.

Mr. Oslar was proceeding to refresh the witness' memory by asking him if he recollected making certain statements in the Police Court, without eliciting the words, when Mr. Lount objected to the mode of procedure.

His Lordship overruled the objection and the witness proceeded. He recollected the "man with the sore hand" say to the coroner while describing the occurrence, and after he had shown him the weight, the elevator and the body, "The weight fell from the shaft and the results are there. I suppose he was looking up the shaft."

HEARD THE WEIGHT FALL.

Continuing the witness said that the prisoner also said something about hearing the weight fall. He took it to mean that Harry heard the weight fall.

"Falling from where?" asked Mr. Oslar.

"From the third floor," said Mr. Humphrey.

There were no injuries to the body other than the head, and there were no bones broken below the neck. There wasn't even a bruise on the body. The external appearance of the head before being removed from the warehouse was then described. There was a break over the right eye sufficient to place two fingers in, and the other part of the face was crushed in, coming toward the front. The right eye was not discernable. Under his direction his men made the body as presentable as possible by bandaging it up and placing plaster of Paris in the cavities. The top of the head was split down the center and across in a star shape.

Mr. Oslar was then proceeding to prove that the skull produced in court was that of Willie Wells, when counsel for defence admitted the fact and consented to dispense with proofs thereof. And that much time was saved.

A MESSAGE TO THE UNDERTAKER.

Mr. Humphrey said that shortly before the fact became public a message, purporting to come from one of the prisoners, from Fox the expressman. The nature of the message was not asked.

SOME DISCREPANCIES.

Under cross examination Mr. Humphrey stated that from Jan. 16, 1893, until the beginning of 1895, the conversation which took place in the warehouse was not called to his attention. The counsel proceeded to point out discrepancies in the evidence given by witness at the Police Court and his examination to day as to whether it was Hyams, or Fox, or the corner who said the weight had fallen three stories. In the preliminary investigation Mr. Humphrey said he did not recollect whether or not it was Hyams who made the remark, now he was positive it was.

UNIMPORTANT AND ABSURD.

Witness did not like this mode of cross-questioning pursued by Mr. Johnston and showed signs of resenting it. His Lordship told him however that counsel had a right to ask questions and although some of them might seem to witness unimportant or absurd he should answer them.

After a good deal of quoting of experts witness eventually admitted that he could be positive whether it was Fox or Hyams or the corner who made the remark.

Then Mr. Johnston called the attention of the witness to the fact that today was the first time anything had been said to him with reference to the remark about hearing the weight fall. Asked why he had not spoken of this previously he replied that he could not say, but he recollected it just the same.

THE TIME OF THE TRAGEDY.

Counsel interrupted Mr. Humphrey for fifteen minutes with a view of testing his memory but only succeeded in eliciting from witness the emphatic statement that he was positive it was 12 o'clock when he was summoned to take charge of the body. He was satisfied of it because he wanted his dinner, and he further knew it for the reason that he heard the bell ring as he was proceeding to the warehouse. To the queries as to whether he did not have many special cases Mr. Humphrey replied that he never had a case of this nature and therefore it impressed itself upon his memory.

Half an hour's cross questioning failed to shake witness as to the hour.

"Can you tell me what time it is now?" suddenly said Mr. Johnston.

"No," said the witness.

"Can you say whether 12 o'clock has struck or is about to strike?"

"And yet the clock has just struck 12. You didn't hear it and yet you are prepared to swear you heard it on a certain day?" said three years ago.

"But I was paying attention to you," said the witness.

This same line of questioning was pursued for some time, but without shaking the witness.

Mr. Humphrey is not a draughtsman. That was made manifest when the plans showing the position of the body in the warehouse were produced. The one marked at the last trial did not correspond with that marked this morning.

"I'm not very good at striking a line," explained witness, "I'm not an artist."

To Mr. Oslar witness explained that there were many features in connection with this case which impressed itself upon his memory.

EXPRESSMAN FOX.

THE MAN WHO SAYS HE SAW SPECTACLES AND GLOVES.

Joseph Fox, expressman, then smilingly entered the box. Fox is the tallest witness, being five feet high. He proceeded to describe his visit to the Colborne street warehouse on the morning of the tragedy. He was in the habit of calling there, and he now testified that he saw if there was anything to be done. He described the premises. The two glass doors were frosted with the sign, Toronto Warehousing Company, painted thereon. Fox got off his sleigh and went to the warehouse. He tried both doors, but they were locked. He started for the sleigh again, when Harry Hyams opened the east door and called, "Fox! Let me see returned and seeing blood on Harry Hyams' hands, he asked, "What's the matter?" Harry replied, "We've had a terrible accident and Willie is dead. Witness asked how it happened and Harry said "they were doing something to the elevator and it broke loose and killed Willie."

Fox descended to the basement and saw the body. Dr. King had been there at this time.

Fox swore positively that when he saw the body it was lying on its back. Dr. King will be recollected swore that when he arrived it was on its back. The big expressman then gave an explanation of the condition of the body.

MRS. AYLESWORTH IN COURT.

When the court resumed after luncheon there were more ladies present than at any previous time this week. Mrs. Aylesworth, the sister of the dead boy, came with a number of acquaintances and took up a position immediately in rear of the prisoners dock.

For the fourth time in succession Expressman Fox was late. The judge looked at the clock, then at Fox, and again at the clock, and observing that he was only two minutes behind time, he said nothing, and Fox's evidence was continued.

THE GLASSES AND GLOVES.

Fox proceeded to describe the clothing worn by the deceased. There was no hat on the head, but there was a pair of old gloves on the hands. Fox had not the slightest doubt about that, for the reason that he took them off his hands. There were also "a pair of old fashioned glasses, the kind you wear behind your ears," on his face. These glasses Fox also removed.

The right glass in the spectacles was broken, and the frame on the right side was pressed into the flesh. It was not until after Undertaker Humphrey got an order from the coroner for the removal of the body that the glasses and gloves were removed. Humphrey and his assistants were present, according to Fox, when he removed the spectacles and gave them to Harry Hyams.

Humphrey swore this morning that there were neither gloves nor glasses on the body and Dr. King testified to the same effect.

DR. E. E. KING IN THE BOX.

HE WAS THE HYAMS' MEDICAL ADVISER—HARRY TOLD HIM OF WELLS' DEATH.

Dr. E. E. King was present punctually on time after adjournment. To Mr. Oslar he said he had known the prisoners since 1891, and had been their medical adviser. He told how Harry came to his office on January 16, 1893, and said "Harry up to Colborne street, there's been an accident there," and he didn't know whether the man had been killed or not. The doctor hurried to the warehouse, Hyams having preceded him. Witness then told of seeing both prisoners on the floor of the warehouse, to descending below and finding the lifeless body of Wells. The young man had only been dead a short time, as the body was still warm. It was lying in an easterly and westerly direction, and rested prone on the back. The limbs were straight out and the impression the doctor got was that the body had been dragged there.

The distance from the elevator shaft to the head would be 18 inches in an east or south direction, said the doctor. There were no gloves on the hand, neither were there spectacles on the face, nor did he see any spectacles in the neighborhood of the body.

The doctor then described the condition of the head and the wounds thereon. In describing the weight shaft he said there was no southern enclosure to it. There was a buffer block in the shaft at the point where the weight would ordinarily come down. It was about 9 inches above the floor and wide enough to fill the enclosure. The weight produced was standing south of the weight shaft and west of the head. It was resting perpendicular on its end. The weight was about two feet distant from the buffer block.

The doctor drew a plan on which he sketched, as near as he recollected, the position of the body, weight, shaft and pool of blood when he visited the warehouse.

Very little was said by either of the prisoners respecting the accident. They did say, however, that the weight came down the shaft and alighted upon the deceased's head and that they had lifted the weight from the head.

Witness noticed abrasions on the hands of Harry Hyams. He did not notice on the hands of the other prisoner, but he might be occasioned by the weight falling from a considerable distance. There was, however, blood on the buffer.

Mr. Oslar got the doctor to describe accurately the sharply defined oblique wound which he saw on Wells' face above the eyebrow.

BLOOD ON THE SHIRT CUFF.

Witness stated that he had observed some blood on Harry Hyams' shirt cuff.

To Mr. Johnston the doctor stated that he was satisfied at the time he visited the warehouse that the killing of Wells was an accident.

"And you have no reason to change your opinion?" he was asked.

Mr. Oslar objected, and His Lordship sustained the objection, remarking that it was the opinion of the jury and not of the witness that was required.

The defence then undertook to show that the killing occurred earlier than 9 a. m. The doctor was positive that it was not 9 o'clock when Harry Hyams arrived. He had not yet had his breakfast. Witness did not think it took him five minutes to go to the warehouse.

The doctor said he saw no blood marks on Dallas.

On his return to his office he telephoned to Coroner Alkins. This was before 10. As to the wound over the eye, it certainly had not the appearance of having been caused by a chisel, hammer, or other tool, of which he saw none about the place. He was not in the building more than fifteen minutes. He believed that he instructed the Hyams not to touch the body before the arrival of the coroner. To Mr. Oslar Dr. King said that the latter had returned it. As to his own bill, Hyams still owed him $45. He had insisted that a coroner be sent for because the man had been killed. He had refused to issue a certificate until this had been done.

The court then adjourned.

Special to The Times.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—The much-talked-of wedding of Miss Consuelo Vanderbilt and the Duke of Marlborough took place at noon today in St. Thomas' church, was gorgeously decorated for the occasion, the floral display being, without doubt, the most brilliant that New York has ever known. Traffic on the avenue was practically at a standstill before noon.

Across the chancel stood three high gothic arches of bridge rods and lilies, with a background of asparagus ferns. The chancel rail was concealed by lilies of the valley, while the gates were hidden under fairyland ferns and white calceolarias and trailing vines were placed on the window ledges on the back of the chancel. In the rear of the chancel was a mass of palms and white and pink flowers, such as roses, carnations, lilies and chrysanthemums. On either side of the chancel rail were banks of ferns.

The full New York Symphony orchestra was stationed in the gallery at the north-eastern corner of the church. Under the direction of Walter Damrosch they filled in with a concert three quarters of an hour before the arrival of the bridal party.

Immediately after he had given his daughter away, Mr. Vanderbilt quietly left the church. When the marriage ceremony was over the Duke and his bride went to the vestry room and signed the marriage register. At the same time each of the bridesmaids took a basket of nosegays and marched back up the aisle distributing them among the guests.

Special to The Times.

HAMILTON, Nov. 7.—The case against Henry Slocum, who is wanted and posted for $10,000 on a charge of attempted murder, has been postponed from time to time for the last two weeks on account of the non-arrival of the necessary papers from Washington, and in the meantime Detective Dubois, of Peoria, has been enjoying himself. Detective Doyle, of this city, piloted the American detective around the city and the two imbibed to such an extent that Doyle neglected his duties and has been discharged from the Hamilton force. Detective Dubois went for a back ride yesterday with several young men and did not return to the St. Nicholas Hotel last night until a very late hour. He was minus his roll of bills, his gold watch, diamonds and a cluster of other precious stones and his horse was stolen. The minimum amount of the loss is $300.

Special to The Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 7.—A Carpenter, who was formerly editor of the Alaska News at Juneau, has just returned from the north and says that the people in the territory are in a fever of excitement over the boundary question.

It stigmatizes the attempt of the Canadian surveying party to locate the line according to their chart as a grab-up on the part of Great Britain. The great scheme of England, he says, besides the natural greed for the gold of the Yukon, is to establish a coaling station and a port of entry on the Alaskan coast, so that she may occupy a position of vantage in the event of an oriental war or trouble between Great Britain and Russia.

The Tickets not Stamped or Punched—Two Railway Employees Systematically Rob their Company—Sentence Deferred till Friday Next.

(Special to The Times.)

THREE RIVERS, Que., Nov. 6.—The hearing of the charges of conspiracy laid by the C. P. R. against Conductor B. E. Campbell and Ticket Clerk and Operator Quelette took place this afternoon before Magistrate Esliote of this city. The private prosecutors were represented by Mr. Lafleur, of Montreal, and Mr. Olivier, of Three Rivers. The prisoners being defended by Mr. Cook of this place.

The specific charge was that certain tickets had been sold to passengers on the Grand Piles train by Prisoner Quelette were not stamped, and were collected on the train by Conductor Campbell and not cancelled by punching as required by the rules of the company, but were returned to Quelette for resale. According to the evidence adduced on behalf of the prosecutors it was proven conclusively that a private arrangement existed between the conductor and ticket clerk to divide the proceeds of such tickets resold. The company claimed that the tickets in question were only once accounted for.

The evidence for the Crown was so overwhelming that both prisoners pleaded guilty, and elected to be dealt with summarily. His Honor, Judge Esliote, remanded the accused for sentence until Friday next, the 8th inst.

The maximum penalty for the offence is seven years at hard labor in the Provincial penitentiary.

MARINE MEN KICK

Against the Many Obstructions in the Canadian Canals.

Special to The Times.

TORONTO, Nov. 7.—The Executive of the Canadian Marine Association today considered the matter of various obstructions in the canals. The accidents and delays to navigation have been most vexatious this past season, so it was decided to see the government again with a view to having something done. A resolution was passed appointing a deputation to go to Ottawa and again bring before the Minister of Railways and Canals the absolute necessity of certain work to the head and foot locks of the Welland canal, work in the Morrisburg canal and the removal of the lower lock in the Beauharnois canal, being proceeded with during the winter, and leaving the same ready for the opening of navigation of 1896; otherwise navigation for the coming year would be as absolutely dead as it is today. The Minister of Railways and Canals will be at once communicated with as to when he will be able to receive a deputation.

Dear Sir:—We think we ought to acknowledge in some way that may become public, the very great benefit our daughter has derived from the use of your Electro-Curative Belts, and your application of Electricity in the Bath and from Dry Treatment: When we brought her to you she was a picture of unhealthiness, her limbs were shriveled up, and as thin as limbs could be; she had no strength even to play with other children, in fact she was dying of consumption. Besides this, there was a hard lump on her spine at the nape of her neck, which caused her neck to be so stiff she could not move her head. Although it is only three months since we brought her to you she is sound and well.

LIME JUICE CLUB

REGULAR WEEKLY MEETING OF THIS CHASTE SOCIETY.

A High Old Time at the Hall of Wisdom Night—Large Attendance of Members—Full Report of the Business Transacted.

After the meeting had been opened without further accident than Bro. John Mervin breaking a pane of glass with his elbow, and being fined $470 and costs, the President arose and said:

"My friends, I have decided to add the following new rules to the constitution of the Lime Juice Club, which will remain in force until further orders:

1. No member shall address the meeting without having both shoes on.

2. No more than forty days will be allowed in the Hall at any meeting.

The other seventy or eighty will be tied up in the alley, or left in the ante-room.

3. Religious or political discussion between individuals will not be allowed while the meeting is in session.

4. In rising to address the chair the members will face the chair.

5. Peanut-shucks, apple-cores, banana-rinds, orange-peels, and other foreign substances must not be thrown about when there is a question before the meeting, as a member who is bit on the jaw is liable to have his attention distracted.

ASTRONOMY.

After Bro. Croft had been awakened from his second nap the President called for the report of the Committee on Astronomy, which should have been handed in two weeks ago. Asteroid Johnson, chairman of the committee, promptly stood up and read the report. There had been considerable discussion in the club as to what influence the sun had on the weather, and the committee had thoroughly investigated the matter. The sun, as the committee understood it, was manufactured and hung out for the purpose of encouraging photographers, laundresses, hay-makers and house painters, and the idea that it has any visible effect upon weather 93,000,000 miles away was not to be seriously thought of. The late remarkable summer was rather to be laid to the supposed sliding of the north pole a distance of over 3,000 miles south from its usual position.

THE EARTHQUAKE.

The following lines were composed expressly for the occasion by Bro. Threely Tysel, in exactly three minutes by Dr. Beatty's stop watch. It is dedicated to the Committee on Cyclones and Earthquakes.

Oh, the earthquake comes at the break of day,
(I ain't got far to roam.)
And the trees fall down and the house gives way,
(I'm going—going home.)

Oh, the earthquake grand, and the tables dance
(I ain't got far to roam.)
The sinners cry, but they have no chance,
(I'm going—going home.)

Oh, it don't scare me, but it may scare you,
(Ah, by the way I haven't been scared.)
It don't scare me, but it may scare you,
(Well, take a drink and be content.)

In his haste to get his jaw open to move a vote of thanks to the gifted author, Bro. Darkness Craig accidentally swallowed a brass button which he was holding in his mouth to cure the earache, and it will be several days before his throat gets over the strain.

AGRICULTURAL.

This being the meeting when the quarterly report on agriculture was due, Sub-soil Tom O'Brien, chairman, arose and reported as follows:

1.—More cucumbers were harvested this fall than ever before in the history of America, and pickles are bound to be cheap next winter, no matter what the price of coal may be.

2.—Wheat is only two-thirds of a crop in Ontario, but this will save a great deal of handling and wear and tear and give freight cars and grist-mills a rest.

3.—Ninety out of every 100 barrels of apples received this season have been green. The ten ripe ones have been reserved by the commission men. We submit whether it would not be a good idea for the public to learn to enjoy the taste of green apples? It would save time, money, waste and hard feelings, and prices would probably be cheaper.

4.—Considering the weather, scandals, earthquakes, cyclones and elopements, the crops in general average more than could have been looked for and we see no cause for lamentation.

ASSISTING PARLIAMENT.

The secretary announced a communication from Ottawa, asking if the Lime Juice Club would assist Parliament in conducting the affairs of the country. The President read the letter over twice and then arose and replied:

"That will depend altogether on the action towards the organization. If we are invited to mix in and assist we shall do so with great cheerfulness; if we are not invited we shall go ahead and run our share of Canada, and let Parliament fool around with the balance."

TO BE INVESTIGATED.

The Secretary then read the following communication from Cobourg:

President McBride—We take this opportunity of writing to you with red ink on blue sheet of paper to ask that Putty Konnal, will come down here and establish a branch of the Lime Juice Club. Mr. Mitchell the grocer, has offered us the free use of the room over his store for one year and thirteen influential men are already to be sworn in as charter members. We believe that a branch will secure fifty members here in a month, and probably put a stop to the disappearance of chickens and small pigs.

In case Rev. Fardown Toothpick can come with Bro. Konnal, we will organize a camp meeting at the same time. How time so much about religion, but we want a leader whose voice can be heard two miles against the wind. The gentlemen named will be met at the depot by a string band and forty prominent people, and while here they shall drink nothing cheaper than pink lemonade with a stick in it. We hope the club will take prompt and decisive action on this petition.

LEMONADE WILLIAMS ABSOLUTE SMITH,
WAKEFUL CROFT, Committee.

"The petition is referred to the proper committee," said the President, "and I would inform the members of it that a thorough investigation is necessary. I was personally acquainted with Absolute Smith in Harwood, twenty-five years ago, and he was then a very bad man—very bad. In fact he is the only human being on the earth who ever succeeded in cutting the hind button off my Sunday coat—without my knowledge. If he is the same man we must be sure that he is reformed all the way through, and has undergone a change of heart from top to bottom."

A LITERARY TREAT.

The President announced that Bro. Basswood Whibbs was in the ante-room, and was prepared to deliver his celebrated lecture on the "Nothingness of Space." The Prof. is noted throughout the country, (particularly through Douro) as a philosopher and his lecture I have no doubt, will be a practical demonstration of philosophy. I hope all the members will pay strict attention to the eloquent lecturer.

The Prof. was then duly escorted in by the Committee on Earthquakes, and received an ovation as he ascended the platform. He loosened his necktie, pushed up his sleeves, took a gulp of the purest drinking water furnished by the Peterborough Water Company from the Otonabee river, and began:

"My friends, look across the room at that stove-pipe hole in the chimney. That is a nothingness. You can't carry it away; you can't handle it; you can't pledge it at Bro. Fairm's or the Palace for a drink; the police can't arrest it. And yet that hole was made to take in six inches of stove-pipe, and carry off the smoke of a big coal stove. Without this nothingness the somethingness of combustion, heat and comfort could not prevail. See? (Loud applause all over the hall.)

"I turn my breeches pocket wrong side out," continued the Professor, as he suited the action to the word. "What do you see? Nothingness. And yet, if I didn't have this nothingness where would I put this somethingness? In other words, but for this pocket where would I put the money necessary for my expenses, but the nothingness is highly necessary to further somethingness. See?"

"Here is a paper bag," said the Professor as he held one up to view. "Look inside and what do you find? Emptiness. It is a somethingness of nothingness. If we had a million of this somethingness we would starve on the nothingness of it. And yet, when Bro. Wm. Snowden goes to Bro. Brown's or Bro. Elliott's grocery, and orders ten pound of white sugar the grocer makes use of this very nothingness to bring about somethingness. The emptiness is driven out and becomes a fullness, and Bro. Snowden goes home with a bag of sugar under his arm. See? (Great applause during which 27 length of pipe fell down, and the water plap upset into Bro. Hardware Phelan's shoes.)

"We look into a barrel on a dark night. We see the nothingness of something and the somethingness of nothing. The nothingness was created to hold forty-two gallons of cider or somethingness. We go and bore a hole in the ground. It is nothingness. Nobody can take it away. Put a gate post in that hole and the nothingness becomes a somethingness to once. See? (Long continued applause.)

"As a further illustration, take this room when empty. All is nothingness. The regular Friday night meeting comes round and the nothingness becomes a somethingness P. D. Q. The meeting adjourns in due time and the somethingness resolves itself into nothingness with promptness and despatch. But, my hearers, I do not intend to take up the valuable time of the meeting. My object was to prove that riches do not constitute happiness, and that the Town Solicitor and Bro. Belcher do not own the town. (Cries of "go on!" from all parts of the hall, and during the confusion someone hit Backup Beavis in the eye with potato.)

"The Pyramids of Egypt are another illustration," continued the orator, as he wiped his brow with the back of his hand and gulped down some more water. "At first sight they are nothingness. You pause and ask yourself what they are good for? Presently along comes a newboy and points out the fact that the great heaps of stone break the raw winds of spring off lots of truck patches, and you at once discover the somethingness. But he would be idle for me to proceed further. My sole object was to convince you of a body that being discouraged never encourages any body, and that Sir Mackenzie Bowell must obey the laws as the poor and humble citizens. Thanking you for your dedicated attention to my disinterested address and trusting that the seeds I have sown may fall upon sportified ground, I will now bid you good evening." (Cries of "go on," and "come back!" with much applause in which the professor made good his escape and a couple of lamp chimneys were knocked overboard and broken by the tornado of applause which followed.)

THE CLOSE.

Attention was called to rule 469,843 which makes all business transacted after 11 p.m. illegal, so the meeting went out into the chilly night to the tune of "Daddy's Coming Home."

Holmes, the murderer, was not convicted of the murder of B. F. Pitzel on the evidence submitted. He was convicted by the force of public opinion. The verdict in his case was not strictly just, but few will care to find fault with it. His conviction in Philadelphia will save a lot of trouble and expense, for his conviction either in Indianapolis or Toronto on other charges would have been certain.

Out of total revenues of $300,000,000 Germany spends $118,000,000 for army and navy; England $180,000,000 out of $488,000,000, and France $174,000,000 out of $679,000,000. Dr. Mendes, who gives the figures, estimates the annual military expense of the United States at $80,000,000, but this omits $140,000,000 for military pensions. When these are included its total military expenses are greater than those of any other country, with the possible exception of Russia.

Mr. Jacob Wilcox of St. Thomas, Ontario, is one of the best known men in that vicinity. He is now, he says, an old man, but Hood's Sarsaparilla has made him feel young again.

"About a year ago I had a very severe attack of the grip, which resulted in my not having a well day for several months afterwards. I was completely run down and my system was in a Terrible Condition.

I lost flesh and became depressed in spirits. Finally a friend who had been benefited by Hood's Sarsaparilla advised me to try it and I did so. I continued taking it until I used twelve bottles and today I can honestly say Hood's Sarsaparilla has restored me to my former health." JACOB WILCOX, St. Thomas, Ontario.

BORROWED SEX.

WOMEN WHO HAVE MADE THEMSELVES FAMOUS AS MEN.

Queen Christina of Sweden Exhibited Many of the Masculine Vices as Well as Virtues—"Sir James" Barry of the British Navy Was a Woman.

Instances of girls receiving the training and education of boys and of women disguising themselves as men are not as rare as may be supposed. Strong-willed women with features masculine have found it easy to deceive their own as well as the other sex. In some cases the assumed character became a second nature and assumed the common characteristics of the stronger sex.

Perhaps the most noted woman brought up as a boy was the famous queen, Christina, of Sweden, the daughter of Gustavus Adolphus. The king's disappointment at the birth of a daughter instead of a son was so great that the little girl was dressed as a boy and had tutors and valets instead of maids and governesses. She also received a boy's education, being well grounded in the sciences, the ancient and modern languages and in statecraft. She proved her knowledge of this last by bringing to a conclusion the disastrous Thirty Years' War in 1648, contrary to the advice of her ministers, the treaty of peace being in every way a most advantageous one for Sweden. She encouraged the development of the arts in her kingdom and did her best "to rule and be respectable," as it is publicly put by one high authority. Denying her determination not to marry, in 1650 she "solemnly took to herself the title of king."

Her education having been opposed to the development of the feminine instincts, naturally Christina exhibited many of the masculine vices as well as virtues; she lavished wealth and dignities on worthless favorites, and finally resigned the crown in 1654, at the age of 28, to travel over Europe in masculine garb, creating a sensation wherever she appeared.

Her entrance into Paris was made on horseback, with an escort of a thousand men. She rode astride, had a cane in her hand and pistols in her holsters. During a visit to the theatre she swore, sprawled on her chair, throwing her legs over the arms, and assumed positions never seen except in a man. After making herself a nine days' wonder, Christina outraged all Europe by having her favorite, Mondsieck, put to death—it is said by some in her very presence. Cardinal Mazarin having notified her of the king's displeasure, she replied in a haughty letter that "Christina was a queen wherever she might chance to reside," and advising "Jules" to do so himself as to meet her favor. She died at Rome in 1689, aged 68.

"That impudent woman, the Countess of Shrewsbury,"—as Evelyn calls her, the "wanton Shrewsbury" of Pope—made herself the talk of all England in the reign of Charles II. by disguising herself as a page to follow the Duke of Buckingham. She was said to have held the duke's horse thus attired while he fought with and killed her husband, the Earl of Shrewsbury, in a duel.

Those who doubt the possibility of a woman being able to keep a secret should read the story of "Sir James" Barry, who died July 25, 1866, on the retired list of the British navy as senior inspector general of the medical department. This person, at the age of eighteen, became a hospital assistant in 1813, and two years later was made assistant surgeon. After serving with skill in different successive grades who was made inspector general in 1858 and retired on half pay in 1860. On her death in 1866 word was at once dispatched to the department that the late inspector general was a woman. The landlady in whose lodgings she had lived for years and her black servants were equally ignorant of the fact. Lord Albemarle, who met death in 1819 at Capetown, at the house of the governor, Lord Charles Somerset, described her as "the most skillful of physicians and the most wary of men." She had the appearance then of a bearded man of the Scotch type with reddish hair and high cheek bones; her style of conversation was decidedly superior. She actually fought a duel with an officer, who called her effeminate and expressed his belief that she ought to wear skirts.

Who she was still remains a mystery to the general public; she was said by some to have been the granddaughter of a Scotch earl, and to have chosen the medical profession in consequence of her love for an army surgeon, but the truth of this is not known.

Instances of borrowed sex have been numerous in every war. Two sisters, Felicité and Theophile Ferney, the younger only thirteen, lived in the village of Montange during the French revolution. Finding that their soldiers were insufficient in number to resist the attacks of the enemy, one night they slipped on the clothing of a brother and charged in the front rank of the national guards. Their intrepid behavior brought them to the notice of Gen. Dumouriez, he discovered their sex, and attached them, with their father and brother, to his staff. They won every action that followed, and always in the front rank in a charge. Theophile killed a general officer in an engagement near Brussels, while at the battle of Jemappes she disarmed and captured a gigantic Hungarian, carrying him prisoner to the general. The two sisters aided the general in his escape after capture, and they retired, resuming their feminine garb. The younger married a Belgian general, but Felicité died single.

Some years ago a gentleman who was investigating revolutionary records in Richmond came across the names of two persons by the name of Lane, who had received pensions for services during the revolution. One of these names being that of a woman, he was curious enough to inquire about her until he found a descendant. The two proved to have been man and wife. Lane had enlisted in the beginning of the war in Manchester, across the river from Richmond, and having been sent north to Washington's army, was wounded severely and faithfully nursed by a soldier belonging to the same company. Having recovered, naturally the two became devoted friends and the term of their enlistment having expired, they re-enlisted together, and were sent to Gen. Lincoln's army in Georgia. In the siege of Charleston the woman was wounded; not until then did Lane discover the sex of his devoted comrade. In turn, became nurse, and she recovered and married him. She had been in love with Lane before his enlistment, but made no impression upon him. When he entered the army she ran off from home and became "a soldier's lady" that she might be near him.

LOCAL AND DISTRICT HAPPENINGS OF THE DAY.

Mill Wood For Sale.
450 cords, quite dry. Hemlock slabs and edgings for sale (wholesale and retail) by the Rathburn Company.

Increasing Membership.
L. O. L. No. 80 met Tuesday and performed two initiations and received two certificates. The affairs of the lodge are prosperous and the membership is increasing.

Are You Particular
About the quality of bread you eat? If you want the best and most healthful ask for Bates' bread. It is the only reliable home-made bread in Peterborough. Sold at all grocers and at Emerson's, Kerr's, Wells and Doxie's, Ashburnham. Every loaf stamped large and plain B.

An Open Meeting.
The open meeting of the fortnightly club last night was very largely attended, and Sheriff Hall's paper "When the World was Young" was greatly enjoyed by the assembly. It proved to be an intensely interesting and instructive essay. The discussion which followed was participated in by quite a few and proved an intellectual treat.

Breaks Gail.
A man named Peterkin was arrested in Bobaygon on Wednesday, charged with being one of the gang who rifled Sturgeon Point cottages last winter, and he was lodged in the lock-up. On Tuesday Mr. Crawford went there Saturday to bring the prisoner to town, but before returning he went out to the country to make another arrest, and while absent on this errand the man in the lock-up effected his escape, and has not since been seen. However, the County Constable arrested another man named Tripp, and he was put in charge of Gail Jackson Saturday morning and will appear with his brother before County Magistrate Deacon tomorrow morning.

Illegal Fishing.
It would seem that there have been a good many violations of the Fishery Act this season at Stony Lake with regard to catching salmon with nets, and a number of the fishermen will no doubt pay a big price for their nets. On Tuesday Mr. Geo. Fitzgerald, Dominion Fishery Inspector, made conviction against some twelve or thirteen Peterborough men of illegal fishing and a fine of $1 was imposed in each case. Mr. J. A. Moore, Ontario Government Inspector, also has information out against about fifteen offenders and captured a large quantity of netting. The cases will come up before Mr. John Hull, J. P., in a day or so.

A Patriotic Poem.
Mr. James Panny, of Montreal who has contributed many excellent poems and short sketches to THE TIMES, has composed a beautiful sketch on Valkyrie III. in which is told the story of the recent international yacht race, and in a beautiful style the composer refers to the boasted fair play and freedom of the American sporting element. The sketch is handsomely printed and enclosed in a beautifully engraved cover. THE TIMES returns thanks for a copy.

PAID IN ADVANCE.

A Funeral Paid For Two Months Before It Took Place.

About two months ago, Mr. Aaron Comstock, the well known George street undertaker, was summoned to the residence of a widow lady living near Peterborough. Mr. Comstock repaired to the lady's house and was greeted with the following strange request:

"I want you to make out the bill for my funeral expenses, and I will pay it now." Naturally, the request was a staggerer, and the worthy undertaker tried to dissuade the lady from her determination to pay for her funeral, while still in the flesh. "Why," he said, "you may outlive me."

But the lady insisted. She knew she would not live very long and she wanted everything settled before she departed this life. Finally Mr. Comstock made out the bill and the lady paid it.

Less than two weeks ago, the lady in question expired, and the undertaker fulfilled the agreement he had been paid for in advance.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S ASSOCIATION.

Affiliation With the Kings' Daughters in Certain Directions.

The regular meeting of St. John's Young People's Association held Monday night with a very large attendance of members. After a good deal of informal discussion the meeting opened, the president, Mr. Geo. S. Ames, in the chair. A large number of communications were received from different piano manufacturers in reference to the piano, but no action was taken, final action being left over till next meeting. A deputation from the King's Daughters was received and upon a motion it was decided that the two societies work in conjunction as far as practicable. A reception committee was appointed to decorate the opera house on Thursday evening.

LATEST FROM LAKEFIELD.

Correspondence Morning Times.
Social gatherings and entertainments are becoming frequent with the shortening days. The Kiwanis social last week in the Town Hall marked the opening of the winter concert season and owing to various circumstances was not so largely attended as the excellence of the programme deserved.

A large number of new books have arrived and have been placed on the shelves of the public library.

The Halloween pranks were this year confined to the removal of a few gates, etc., and no harm was done owing to the vigilance of the constable.

A large number of hunters from the village went to the northern lakes and woods last week. E. C. Strickland and party had two fine ducks in Skany lake on Saturday.

Several sales of farm stock are taking place in this vicinity, but prices are low. H. Mallinoy, son of and successor to the late Geo. Mallinoy, is giving good satisfaction to his patrons as an auctioneer.

INSPECTOR'S REPORT.

To the Chairman and Members of the Board of Education:

GENTLEMEN:—In submitting for your consideration a statement of the condition and progress of the schools, during the month just ended, it affords me great pleasure to report a very satisfactory month's work.

The attendance of pupils has been excellent, the average, as is shown in the accompanying statement, reaching over ninety per cent. of the total number enrolled. Under any circumstances, this would speak well for the vigilance of the teachers, and the zeal of the pupils. When the inclemency of the weather is taken into account, even greater credit must be accorded.

The absence of truancy during the month affords still further ground for congratulation. Except in two instances, and these occurred toward the first of the month—all cases of absence have been satisfactorily explained as due either to illness or unavoidable detention by the parents. While much of the credit is due the parents for this satisfactory state of affairs, unstinted praise must, in justice, be awarded the pupils for their promptness and regularity. I have strong hopes that the unwearied efforts of the truant officers in tracing and securing delinquents, and the promptness of the teachers in reporting cases of absence, have taught the few habitual offenders a lesson which, that, guided by their own good sense, these boys will be among the most regular in attendance.

The order and discipline in the schools, except in the instance referred to in my last report, are really excellent. In these cases, however, further experience has fully confirmed my first impression, both as to the seriousness of the laxity, and as to the necessity of more prompt action.

And though it is a somewhat hopeful sign that improvement has been made, still the children are led to attribute the change to the outside influence, and neither teacher nor pupil are possessed of the idea of the moral necessity of order. However time and reflection on the part of the teacher may bring about a more desirable condition.

In my former statement reference was made to the subjects of reading and mechanical arithmetic, and I have since had no occasion to change my opinion, as these classes, black and white, had not been well taught. The pupils are lamentably backward in both. The teachers, however, have taken the matter vigorously in hand, and a most encouraging feature in the marked improvement made during the month. Still a heavy task remains to be accomplished, and even with the most strenuous efforts a long period must be required to bring the pupils to a state of efficiency.

In this connection I would respectfully suggest that a principle which is already in operation to some extent in the schools might profitably be made of more general application. I refer to the plan of allowing teachers to interchange classes, each teaching the subjects in which he is most proficient. It is the plan so successfully adopted in all the High Schools and Collegiate Institutes of the Province, and which business men apply with good results in the shop, the office, and the factory. It has already been fully tried and proven in the case of the two entrance classes in the Central School, and to a more limited extent in the classes, under charge of Mr. Yenny and Miss Mark. With your approval I will endeavor to make it more general.

A matter which I cannot but regard as a serious defect in the organization of the schools has lately pressed itself upon my notice, and as it seems to demand immediate adjustment, I would respectfully point it out as worthy of your consideration. I refer to the congested state of the primary classes. As proof of the deplorable overcrowded condition of these classes, a plain statement of the facts will, I think, be sufficient:—Of the 1400 pupils now enrolled, (including the Kindergarten) but 744 have got beyond the first book while 744, or over 50 per cent. are still in these classes. A comparison of the statistics given in the reports of the minister of education for the last two years, shows that, while in Peterborough the pupils in these primary classes, contribute 48 per cent. of the whole, they reach but 30 per cent. of an average in other places about equal in population. That the first book pupils with us are about half of the whole, while in other towns of similar advantages they do not exceed twelfth.

These facts tell most unfavorably against our schools; for no better test can be had than the progress of the pupils, and where progress is so slow, the cause is not even worse than they are. Experience has demonstrated clearly that no teacher can secure good results with an infant class numbering above forty. Both the interests of the children and economy of outlay demand, I am sure, a rearrangement upon this basis. With such classification, under a good, energetic teacher, pupils should reach the Second Book in two-and-a-half years, and, in the case of the better, a matter of fact they spend five, on the average, in covering the same ground. Two years saved is an important item in the child's life; and, if it is remembered that by reducing the time required for each child to pass through the Public schools, we reduce the cost proportionally, the economy of progress will be evident. The additional accommodation which will be afforded by the opening of the new rooms, renders an arrangement of the kind suggested quite practicable. Indeed, the opportunity may not again offer, and, in neglect it, it would be unwise to neglect it.

As any alteration in the classes just before the close of a term would injure the prospect of the pupils at the examinations I would recommend, in view of the fact that several weeks must still elapse before the new building is ready for occupation, that existing arrangements be continued until after the New Year. It might be well, however, to make an exception in the case of the Division under charge of Mr. Yenny. With the two large classes, (about seventy pupils in all) now in his room it is impossible to devote either to himself or the pupils. If the Third Class could be placed under charge of an additional teacher, as soon as a room is ready, I am convinced that better progress will be made.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

ALEX. WHERRY, Inspector.

SUPERVISOR'S COMMITTEE.

To the Chairman and Members of the Board of Education:

GENTLEMEN:—Your Supervision Committee beg leave to report in reference to the matters referred to them as follows:—

1. Your Committee have made careful enquiry into the question of purchasing encyclopedias and dictionaries, well adapted to the wants of the schools, and that the offer by the Bryant Company to supply four sets of the work, and four dictionaries, is reasonably low; we would therefore respectfully recommend that the purchase be made, and each of the four schools be supplied with a set of works.

2. Your Committee would recommend that the classes for 1896 be arranged as follows:—

(a) That the senior third class, of seventeen pupils, be removed from the West Ward school to the Central school.

(b) That the boundaries remain as at present for that school.

(c) That the boundaries remain unaltered for the Central and South Ward schools (as shown on the map), but that all the pupils in the part of the town known as Gore, be required to attend the South Ward school.

(d) That all the pupils of all classes living in the district for the Central and South Ward school attend that school, thus relieving the Central school of the following: Six senior fourth class pupils, thirty-three junior fourth class pupils, fifteen first class pupils, eleven junior third class pupils, also about twenty pupils in the lower classes. This distribution would make it possible to relieve the primary rooms in the South school, the West school and the Central school, and as there are now in each of these divisions about 80 pupils, such relief will be timely, both in enabling the teachers to devote more time to the instruction of the pupils, and in providing accommodation for those who will enter during the spring months.

With these few changes to classes in the four schools, the boundaries might be arranged as shown on the accompanying sheet.

3. Your Committee beg leave to submit the following report in reply to the questions of the Hon. the Minister of Education—respecting the truancy of the town:—

1. Truancy though it prevails to a limited extent among the children of the town, is confined to the cases of some dozen incorrigibles.

2. The practice is owing in a few of these cases to the indifference of the parents, in others to the greater number of cases, however, the parents are anxious to keep their children at school, and fall in doing so, solely through their inability to control them.

3. (a) We are of the opinion that it would be unwise and unjust to punish the children since the parents are at fault in not exercising sufficient firmness.

(b) The Minister will not prosecute to the extent of imposing a fine, but contents himself with dismissing the defendant with a caution, on the promise of amendment being made, many pupils and parents having been brought before him, against whom the charge of violating the act was clear, but in no instance was a fine imposed.

(c) The Board of Education take an active interest in enforcing the law. For two years a Public School Inspector has been employed solely for the town, one of whose chief duties is to watch closely the case of the pupils and report promptly to the truant officer any cases of truancy. He reports also to the Board of Education, the number that have occurred during the month.

(d) Your committee are of the opinion that, if enforced, the penalties would be sufficient in all except the cases of the few habitual truants, and that these in the interests of the other pupils, should be removed to some other school specially provided for them.

(e) The duties of the pupils respecting compulsory attendance are ruled to them by the teachers from time to time.

(f) Your committee are of the opinion that the visits of the truant officer—usually a policeman—would have an injurious effect upon the pupils—near all of whom are well disciplined, and a tendency to make them feel that they were suspected and placed under police surveillance.

We are of the opinion that while the case of setting apart one school as a truant school could be operated successfully and beneficially in large cities, it is impracticable in the small ones; (1) because the smallness of the number of truants would not warrant the necessary outlay, and (2) because the incorrigibles coming from all grades, and to be taught efficiently by one teacher. As a more practicable plan we would suggest that each constable with the district and towns, situated within it in providing one such school, the cost being borne co-jointly by the county, and these separate municipalities. The school would be in operation in the schools of this town in our opinion, operates efficiently, so far as pupils registered are concerned.—The

HIS SHOP OPENED UP.

CLOSED FOR TWO MONTHS IN THE EXPECTATION OF DEATH.

A Richmond Ont., Harness Maker Unexpectedly Turns Up and Resumes Business at His Old Stand After Being Cured of Bright's Disease With Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Richmond, Ont., Nov. 5:—This not very distant suburb of the Canadian capital has been highly wrought up during the past few days over the recovery of a well-known business man here, Mr. J. McCarthy, who being declared to be in an advanced stage of Bright's disease of the kidneys, had been given up to die.

Curious to know the particulars of a case creating so much local interest your correspondent made haste to call and introduce himself to Mr. McCarthy, and found him in his shop and willing to talk of his case.

"I have called to see Mr. McCarthy; are you that gentleman?"

"Yes, sir," said he, "what can I do for you?"

"Hearing that there was something very unusual about your recovery from a seemingly fatal illness I have called to learn the facts," said I.

"Well, sir, replied he, "I am never too busy to talk about my doctor, I mean Dodd's Kidney Pills, for, with the blessing of God, they have saved my life."

"Is it true that you had been given up to die, and that your doctors both named your trouble Bright's disease?" asked I.

"Yes, sir," he answered, "although ailing for some time it was only about seven months ago that my case became serious. After doctoring here and in Ottawa about four months I had to close my shop fearing that I must die of Bright's disease."

"About ten weeks ago Mr. McCord, a farmer living out near here, advised me to use Dodd's Kidney Pills, for, with the blessing of God, they have saved my life."

"After using two boxes all distress left me. I have used twelve boxes in all; have just re-opened my shop and expect to do business at the old stand for some years yet, as I am just coming 50 years of age. There is no use trying to describe my sufferings. You can understand when I tell you that my weight ran down from 165 to 120 pounds. I am nearly up to my weight, but feel as well as ever in life, and I am perfectly cured."

Dodd's Kidney Pills is the only medicine ever known to cure Bright's disease.

teacher on modifying the absence of the pupil at once sends a written inquiry to the parent as to the cause of absence. The answer is not forthcoming or is unsatisfactory, she immediately reports to the Inspector, who in return reports the case to the truant officer, in this way truants are quickly discovered and brought to book, one day usually sufficing.

In the case of the pupils who do not enter school, no provision is made under the Act, by which the trustees are enabled to detect cases of truancy except once a year, through the returns of the census-taker. In the interim between census a whole year absence from school is possible.

We are of the opinion the defect might be remedied by inserting in the Act a clause making it compulsory for every parent or guardian to register with the clerk, the names and ages of all minors, under his charge at least twice a year, say in March and September.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

J. MCKEE, Chairman.

PROPERTY COMMITTEE.

To the Chairman and Members of the Board of Education:

GENTLEMEN:—The Property Committee beg leave to report that, in accordance with instructions received from your Board, we have purchased the school desks required to furnish the rooms regarding desks in the South Ward school. The following report which we received from the Public School Inspector, guided us as to the requisite quantity required. In addition to the desks purchased he recommended the purchase of four teachers' tables, also one large pendulum clock for Principal's room and three small ones for assistants rooms which we would recommend.

We can scarcely say positively that the new South Ward school will be ready for school purposes on December 1, but we would hope that it will be in such a shape that at least the entrance class will be able to take possession of their room, as at present the presence of two large classes in the Principal's room numbering over 70 pupils is detrimental to the pupils both mentally and physically and does not permit of the Principal giving reasonable attention to the work required.

The insurance on the South Ward school expired on the 1st of November. We have had the building reinsured for $10,000 and contents $2,000. In estimating this amount due consideration was given to the new edition.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

PETER HAMILTON, Chairman.

A FEW MOTIONS.

On motion a grant of $15 was made to Janitor Laing for extra services during examinations.

On motion of Messrs. McBain and Hamilton the Property Committee was instructed to have a fence erected around the South Ward School and to make the necessary repairs to the gymnasium.

On motion of Messrs. Hill and Ferguson the secretary was instructed to write to Contractor Rutherford and inform him that the Board was not at all satisfied with the progress of the erection of the South Ward school, and to give the contractor notice that the Board would exact the full penalty of the contract if the work was not completed by the specified time.

WHO FELLED WELLS?

Some Sensational New Evidence in the Trial of The Hyams.

A HOLE OVER THE EYE

MADE BY A BLUNT INSTRUMENT

SIX WITNESSES TESTIFY TO ITS EXISTENCE.

Special to The Times.

TORONTO, Nov. 9th.—The tale of the dead was continued when the Court opened on this fifth day of the trial of the Hyams twins for the murder of William C. Wells in their Colborne street residence on January 16, 1893.

The attendance was larger than on any previous morning session of the trial. The twins evinced the greatest interest in the proceedings.

Several witnesses called for the first time, were put in the box to testify as to the character of the wounds on deceased's head. Their evidence strengthened the theory of the Crown as to the deceased having received two distinct blows.

It came out for the first time that there was a distinct wound over the left eye, three separate witnesses swearing positively to this fact.

Several of the witnesses were ladies the first called since the opening of the court.

By an arrangement between His Lordship and counsel it was decided that argument as to the admission of evidence touching upon the attempt to place $200,000 insurance upon the life of Martha Wells Hyams, should be heard at the opening of the court on Tuesday morning. The question came up while Nurse Leaverit was on the stand, and Messrs. Oler, Johnston and the Judge held a private conference out of the hearing of jury and spectators.

That the Crown's case is much stronger this time than at the previous trial was evidenced last afternoon when a witness who did not previously give his name was examined. His name is Walter Davenport and he was Undertaker Humphrey's assistant. Davenport proved a most important witness. His testimony settled beyond a doubt that the right eye of the deceased was not right when he died there were spectacles and gloves on the body. It is proved either a most cursory examination was made by Dr. King and the coroner or that the body was placed on the table with the right eye to the right eye, or rather into the hole where the eye had been, for it was driven into the head. The Crown regards this as important as proving their contention that Wells was killed by a blow in the face from some weapon such as the back of an axe, and then the weight was dropped on the head. The presence of an angular wound on the face running down from the back of the head, was also a startling new piece of evidence. This the Crown claims was the impression left by the weight when it was dropped on the head.

Dr. Humphrey was first put in the box to testify in reference to the message sent by Dallas Hyams to him by Fox. Fox swore that Dallas Hyams told him to tell Humphrey to keep his mouth shut in reference to the case. The defense strenuously opposed the admission of the evidence, but His Lordship overruled the objection, and Mr. Humphrey said he received the message.

A NEW WITNESS PRODUCED.

Mrs. Caroline Wells, of 823 Spadina Avenue, a new witness for the Crown, was then called. When a trim little woman dressed completely in black and wearing a black felt hat and black veil and black gloves, she came into the witness box, there was a straining of necks by the counsel for the defense. Mrs. Wells, who is neither a relative nor a connection of the deceased, was seated in the witness box. Mr. Oler proceeded with her examination. Mrs. Wells, who is a dentist by occupation was most composed. She was the first lady witness that has been called.

THE WOUND OVER THE EYE.

Mrs. Wells said she knew Wells since he was 18 or 17. He wore very strong spectacles continuously, being extremely short-sighted. She saw the body in Aylesworth's house when it was lying in the coffin. There was a triangular shaped wound over the left eyebrow filled with plaster of Paris. She put some pink powder over the deposit of plaster.

To Mr. Lount the witness said that she was subpoenaed at the last trial, but was not called. She understood that she had been called to testify regarding Wells's teeth, which she had fixed.

A WOMAN'S WILL.

Mrs. Wells was positive that the wound she saw on Wells's head was on the left eye. "But," said the counsel, "Dr. King, the coroner, the undertakers who prepared the body all say it was on the right side. Now what do you say?"

"I saw a wound on the left side," said the trim little dentist, emphatically.

"Well, that ends the matter," said Mr. Lount.

"When a woman says she will, she will! You may depend on it." (Laughter).

Continuing the witness said she did not care what the other four persons said, she saw a wound on the left side, and fifteen minutes cross examination did not shake her in the slightest.

Mr. Oler showed that Mrs. Wells had been called at the last trial only to assist in the identifying of the dead by testifying as to the teeth. Her evidence in this line was not required as the identity was admitted.

THE NURSE WHO WATCHED BY THE BODY

Then an intelligent looking woman, attired from head to foot in a waterproof and wearing a Tam O'Shanter, entered the witness box, she was nurse Lydia Leaverit, of No. 110 Queen street west. She was called in to attend Martha Wells on the night of the tragedy. She knew the previous witness, Caroline Wells. Witness had said the head of Willie Wells as he lay in the coffin and noticed a wound above the left eye on which she and Mrs. Wells placed some powder. The body was lying on the right side, with the left side uppermost, and it was over the uppermost eye.

THE WOUND OVER THE RIGHT EYE.

Joseph Rowley, jeweller, of Spadina Avenue, followed Nurse Leaverit. He saw Wells's body at Humphrey's place on the day of the killing. All the face round the right eye, cheek and temple were crushed in, and there was a wound over the left eye. This latter was still wet with blood when he saw it, and resembled a barrel nut in shape. To Mr. Johnston Rowley said he had had unsatisfactory business relations with the twins, and as a result they were not on friendly terms, however.

Mr. Dewar undertook to question witness as to the cause of the "unpleasantness," but His Lordship sustained the objection of counsel for the defense and ruled it out. Had it been admitted Rowley would have sworn that Harry Hyams got two diamond rings from witness on probation, but failed to settle for them. Since the arrest of the twins the account has been compromised.

More Corroboration.

Ernest Rowley, son of the last witness, also saw Willie Wells's body at Humphrey's undertaking establishment the day of the tragedy. He saw the wound over the right eye, and also swore positively there was a smaller wound over the left eye. He remembered it by a particular circumstance.

Asked by Mr. Johnston if there was anything which called his attention to one wound more than another witness said there was; that it was a question he asked the undertaker's assistant which called his attention particularly to the wound over the left eye. He was positive in consequence of the answer to this question that there was a wound over the left eye and that he was sure of it. If a doctah other witnesses said differently.

THE WOUND ON THE LEFT SIDE.

Mrs. Joseph Rowley, who saw the coffin body of Willie at Aylesworth's, swore that she saw the wound over the left eye. She placed some flowers over the eye to hide its sight.

Then Mr. Johnston did a curious thing. He picked up the skull of the dead boy and walked towards the witness with a view of having her point out where she saw a slight wound on the right side near the jaw. Mr. Oler objected, but Mr. Johnston picked up a "shop" skull and held it up to the witness, who turned away and showed signs of fainting. Finally, after further remonstrance from the Crown counsel as to the taste in holding up a grinning skull in front of a lady witness, counsel laid down the skull and picked up a book for the purpose of illustration.

THE DEAD BOY'S UNCLE.

Uriah Jones, farmer, of Pickering, uncle of Willie Wells also saw the body of the dead boy in the coffin in the cemetery between Whitby and Oshawa. The right side was down. He observed the wound over the left eye, spoken of by other witnesses.

Then the story of the death, which has occupied the attention of the court since the opening day, was broken into and the first stage of the evidence as to motive was entered upon. An agreement signed January 16, 1893, was put in which had been made between deceased and Jones whereby deceased purchased from the witness a small farm, lot 18, 1st concession, Pickering Township, consisting of 35 acres. The sum of $1,000 was to be paid down, the balance of $1,400 to be paid in five years.

Three telegrams were put in which were delivered to witnesses at the Pickering office as purporting to come over the wires from the Toronto office. The first, dated Jan. 10, 1893, read:

Will wire when coming.

That telegram was from Willie Wells, said witness, in accordance with an arrangement made by Willie in writing that he would come down.

FRIDAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

AN IMPORTANT NEW WITNESS CALLED FOR THE CROWN.

At the afternoon session Friday the cross examination of Fox was continued.

Mr. Oler was proceeding with an examination of Fox as to certain experiments made with the hoist after the arrest of the prisoners, but Mr. Lount objected, claiming that the experiments had been made both to the building and the hoist between the time of the occurrence and the tests, the result of the test was not evidence. His Lordship agreed with the defense, and the result of the test was not given.

To Mr. Oler, Fox said he could not say whether it was before or after the coroner and undertaker arrived that the people came over from the hotel.

And Fox's long tale of eight hours was over.

AGAIN THE TALE OF THE DEAD.

Walter Davenport, a witness whose evidence was not heard at the last trial, said that he corroborated the evidence of Humphrey. Davenport testified that it was 12 o'clock when he went to the Colborne street warehouse under instructions from Mr. Humphrey. Witness swore that he saw a pair of spectacles there with the right places out and the right rim badly bent. The spectacles were resting on a box. The body was lying partly on its side and partly on its back. The right side of the head was uppermost. There was a pair of gloves on the body and Fox removed them. Witness swore that when he got to the shop with the body it was nearly one o'clock.

Witness then described the condition of the body. There were no bruises from the neck down. The neck was broken, as the head could be twisted completely around. There was considerable glass in the wound, and he did not succeed in washing it out. There was a mark down the right side of the face which crossed back of the head. There was a large cut on the back of the head. Witness then described how he had sewed up the several wounds in the head and placed the body in the coffin. The right side of the head was uppermost. The cut over the eye was two inches long and half an inch wide and two fingers could be placed in it. The right eye was gone right into the head. The nose was also broken.

Witness said the piece of glass which he found in the wound over deceased's eye was about one-eighth of an inch square.

Court then adjourned.

ALGER INSURANCE CASE.

DR. FRANCY'S STORY IN THE WITNESS BOX.

Strong Evidence Against the Husband of the Woman who was Insured While ill With Consumption—Whitby's Sensation. Special to The Times.

WHITBY, Nov. 9. N the grand jury room of the court house yesterday the investigation into the Alger insurance case was begun before Police Magistrate Harper. Mr. S. Alfred Jones, of Toronto; Mr. T. H. Lennox, of Stouffville; Messrs. MacDonald & Fitzgibbon, of Whitby, and County Crown Attorney Farwell prosecuted, with Detective Murray's assistance.

George Eliza Alger is charged with conspiracy to defraud the Equitable Life Insurance Company, and the evidence submitted was startling.

Dr. Eastwood was called, and said in 1888, he found Mrs. Alger suffering from incipient phtisis and Alger knew her position. In 1891 Alger told him of her insurance with the Equitable Life, on the occasion of witness examining her for a $4,000 policy in the London & Lancashire. Alger asked him to make a favorable report, as Dr. Francy had done. Major Farwell then put in the medical report for the Equitable Life Insurance Co., policy, and the witness said that affirmative answers should have been made to a number of questions as to whether she had had consumption, spitting of blood, chronic cough and shortness of breath, a previous severe illness, etc.

Witness erased entries of attendance on Mrs. Alger from his books. He had told around the clock and 30 pounds a week, and that he must throw up his claim if trouble resulted. Alger knew his wife had not long to live. Witness described the examination of Mrs. Alger in secret, so that no one might know, and that he and she were doing. Mrs. Alger, so far as he knew, was an

The Times.

PETERBOROUGH, NOVEMBER 10 1895.

China is waking up. She is about to establish a new foreign university at Tientsin, where science, civil, electrical and mechanical engineering, mining and law will be taught by foreign professors.

An old gentleman of Odessa has left a million rubles apiece to four nieces on condition that they work for fifteen months as chambermaids, cooks or farm servants. They will probably accept the condition.

They say Woman is not much of an inventor, but a new bicycle tire, which is said to be an improvement over those in general use, has been invented and patented by Miss E. S. Hutching of Big Rapids, Michigan. In the middle of the rim of an ordinary 'style pneumatic rubber tire is a groove, into which is fitted a smaller tire of leather, which it is claimed, is much more durable than the present style of all-rubber tires while equally elastic and light.

Nebraska is excited over her newly discovered gold fields. The latest confirmation of the value of the deposits comes from Professor Herbert Bartlett, an expert, who has been employed in gold fields in Colorado, South Africa and Honduras, and who has just been employed to examine the field near Milford. This consists of a gravel deposit two miles square and very deep, and tests from various sections have shown from $3 to $30 yield of gold in each ton, while the middle field of Australia, of similar character, only yielded from $1.25 to $2.90 a ton, and yet panned out $1,000,000 clear profit. This kind of deposit is very easily worked when there is supply of water, and it is confidently expected that plenty can be secured from artesian wells.

Hit the Enemy

The process by which blood is made is called digestion.

This fresh supply of new blood is constantly being added to the circulation. The kidneys receive this new volume direct from the heart.

It brings with it watery and other matter which would be injurious, or in other words poisonous, if not separated from the blood.

It is the office or function of the kidneys to separate these poisons out of the blood.

But suppose they do not do this? Then there is a sick man. It may be a level. It may be one of a dozen forms of suffering, depending on the circumstances and on the constitution of the patient. What must be done?

Dodd's Kidney Pills is the answer to this question. Only they must be used. The kidneys must be set a right, and once this is done the work of purification will be started at once.

For only by the kidneys can this blood be purified.

Did you ever notice that we never say "Try" Dodd's Kidney Pills?

We say "Use" Dodd's Kidney Pills. This is because they have earned a position beyond mere experiment.

A few doses will always show beneficial effects; because the first does help.

You can cure a cold quicker by using Dodd's Kidney Pills than with anything else in the world. So keep a box in the house.

This is because a cold always acts by way of the kidneys. And a cold is the commonest beginning for nearly all fatal endings.

It is a good thing to know how to meet a cold.

It is half the battle to know what to do at an enemy, and to know just where to hit.

Use Dodd's Kidney Pills as ammunition and you will hit a cold every time.

Slavery still flourishes beneath the British flag. Both Zanzibar and Pemba are English possessions; yet out of the population of half a million, two-thirds, according to the statistics furnished at a meeting of the British and Foreign anti-Slavery society held in London a fortnight ago, are in a state of slavery. About ten thousand slaves are imported into Zanzibar and Pemba from the mainland every year, while in the town of Zanzibar itself women slaves may be seen every day chained together in gangs passing in front of the gates of the British residency. Moreover, as in the olden slavery days of this country, masters can put their slaves to death without any let or hindrance on the part of the authorities.

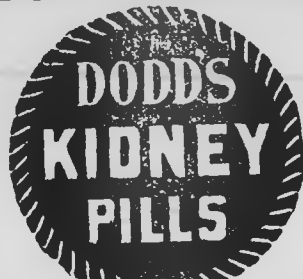

The almost marvellous development of temperance in the British army has already been noticed in these columns, and every successive annual report shows that it is rapidly increasing. So also in the navy, and it is instructive to learn that those ships of war which are known as lodge ships, i. e. on which there is a temperance lodge stand at the head of the lists for good discipline and good conduct of the crew. The same growth of rational principles and conduct is witnessed in the American army also. The report of the war department indicates that drunkenness is less common in the army than ever before, though everything is not as it should be even yet. But a decrease from 45 per cent. hospital entries to 31 per cent. in two or three years is progressive. The days of alcoholism seem passing slowly but surely away, and moral force is doing what no amount of legislation could effect.

Millionaires and Their Sons.

On the average great fortunes in America have probably done more good and less harm than might have been expected. They have undertaken enterprises which could not otherwise have been undertaken and tried experiments which could not otherwise have been tried. The luxury and display of their owners are limited by the conditions of democratic society, which among other things preclude large establishments of servants such as are kept by the magnates of Europe, since in America one domestic will not take orders from another. Besides men who have made their own fortunes commonly retain the simplicity of their early habits of life.

The worst sin of the millionaires as a class probably has been the corruption of politicians in the interest of railways or other commercial concerns, and even here they have acted largely on the defensive. In politics they take little part, desiring only to be let alone. The worst of them is that they die and leave their wealth to idle and worthless sons. We give up the jeunesse doree of the great American cities without reserve to Mr. Stead's apostolic severity, though we cannot go so far as to say with him of men convicted of no actual crime that "any well regulated community would be justified in sinking them in the nearest bog till the breath had left their bodies."

Dear Sir:—We think we ought to acknowledge in some way that may become public, the very great benefit our daughter has derived from the use of your Electro-Curative Belts, and your application of Electricity in the Bath and from Dry Treatment: When we brought her to you she was a picture of unhealthiness, her limbs were shriveled up, and as thin as limbs could be; she had no strength even to play with other children, in fact she was dying of consumption. Besides this, there was a hard lump on her spine at the nape of her neck, which caused her neck to be so stiff she could not move her head. Although it is only three months since we brought her to you she is sound and well.

"Life and Adventures of Augustus Sala," written by the following concerning her, a gifted songstress and her day, appears: In addition to her annual concert in London, she used to have a yearly recital at Brighton either on Christmas or just before. ## A FAMILY CREMATED

The Awful Death of the Inmates of a New York Tenement.

Special to The Times.

New York, Nov. 8.—Fire started on the first floor of a tenement house, No. 311 Van Brunt street, Brooklyn, shortly after two o'clock this morning, in which a family of six persons lost their lives. The fire started in the lower hall way and extended to the roof. It is supposed to have been caused by a gas jet in the lower hall setting fire to the wood work. The cremated family lived on the top floor and were in bed when the fire started. The other tenants in the house got out safely.

The dead are: Chas. Ryan, forty-nine years old; his wife, Ellen, aged forty-five; their four daughters, Johanna, Sarah, Maggie and Lizzie, aged respectively twenty, seventeen, fourteen and twelve years. The cause of the fire is not known, but there are indications that it may have been started by the explosion of a kerosene lamp.

THE DETROIT DISASTER.

Two More Bodies Found—Several People Still Missing.

Special to The Times.

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 8.—The walls adjoining the wrecked portion of the Journal have been braced and the work of digging in the ruins progresses rapidly and with a greater degree of safety. Two bodies were taken out this morning. They were those of Lizzie Weidensch, employed in Hiller's Chinery, and Charles Long, aged 20, also an employee of the bindery. Several persons are still missing, but it is expected that all will be recovered before night. A mass meeting has been called for tomorrow night to take steps for the relief of the families of the dead. Several popular subscriptions have also been started and a generous response is being made.

On account of a numerous signed petition on their behalf the magistrate, out of consideration for their families and friends, did not impose the full penalty of the law, which is seven years.

ORANGEVILLE, Nov. 8.—The Reformers of Cardwell held an informal meeting at Caledon East for the purpose of discussing the political situation in the riding. Alex. Smith, the party's Ontario organizer, and Charles L. Hyman, of London, were present to advise the local brethren. Messrs. Myers, Pattullo, Wallace and Garrity, of this town, were also present. The general feeling was that they should put a man in the field, but who he is will not be known until the 17th, when a regular convention will be held at the same place. Reeve R. B. Henry, of Caledon, will likely be the choice.

Removal Establishment by a Canadian Firm of a Branch in Albany, N.Y.

Special to The Times.

ALBANY, Nov. 4.—The outcry in certain quarters against the high tariff still goes on, but it is to the tariff that Albany is likely to owe the addition of another industry to her numerous existing ones. A Canadian firm located in Toronto has, it is understood, been interviewed by an Albany business man, with a view to establishing in this city a manufactory of the staple kidney remedy, Dr. Kidney Pills. As the business done by the Canadian firm throughout the United States has assured very large proportions, owing to the recognition by the American public of the great value of this staple, it is probable that arrangements will be satisfactorily entered into. The annual output is very large and is rapidly increasing.

READ WHAT PHYSICIANS SAY OF POND'S EXTRACT

PHILADELPHIA, Pa.,
Dec. 29, 1894.
I have used "Pond's Extract" for many years and always insist upon my patients getting "Pond's," not the ordinary Extract, which is often a very poor article. W. K. BROWN, M. D.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa.,
Jan. 9, 1895.
I use Pond's Extract a great deal in my practice. I think it very valuable in all venous enlargements. J. L. BRADFORD, M. D.

SANTA BARBARA, CAL.,
Nov. 27, 1894.
I have been using Pond's Extract in my practice for twenty years. I frequently have the experience you mention of druggists insisting they can put up as good as yours. I don't believe it. I use Pond's Extract a great deal as an antiseptic in combination with glycerine and carbolic acid. I think it far superior to any antiseptic known. F. G. FLOURNOY, M. D.

COLUMBIA, PA.,
Jan. 18, 1895.
I have been a constant user of Pond's Extract since 1859, and do not expect to discontinue it while I live. S. ARMOR, M. D.

CHELSEA, MASS.,
Nov. 8, 1894.
I have made diseases of the skin a specialty for thirty years, and am free to say I know of no remedy that has given me such perfect satisfaction as Pond's Extract in cases for which it is recommended. G. W. BARCOCK, M. D.

ASTHMA'S INSTITUTE,
Buffalo, N.Y., Dec. 8, 1894.
I know Pond's Extract to be a valuable remedy, and shall continue its use whenever the opportunity offers. GEO. H. CALKINS, M. D.

NEWARK, N. J.,
Dec. 13, 1894.
I am pleased with the purity and strength of Pond's Extract. J. L. DURYEE, M. D.

FORECASTING THE PRIME MINISTER'S SPEECH.

What Lord Salisbury Will Say at the Lord Mayor's Banquet—The Eastern Question and England's Policy.

Special to The Times.

ONDON, Nov. 9.—Deep interest is manifested in the speech that will be delivered by Prime Minister Salisbury at the banquet that will be given at the Guild Hall tonight by Sir Walter Henry Will.

Mayor of London, who will be inaugurated in his office today. It is known that the Prime Minister will make a statement concerning the Government's foreign policy, which statement has been prepared under the cognizance of his inner Cabinet, and it is understood that his utterance will be of the highest importance.

It is only from side indications that the topic of Lord Salisbury's statement can be gleaned. Thus, the Duke of Devonshire, speaking at Sheffield on Thursday referred to the comments made by him during the previous week at Leeds, as being of

TWO ALARMIST A NATURE.
Two Cabinet councils have been held in the interim, and although the Duke admitted the existence of the Eastern question in an acute form, he took care to modify his previous declaration, which was to the effect that it was idle to discuss the fact that both in Eastern Europe and in Eastern Asia events were occurring and questions arising which might effect great interests in this country. He added that the time might be approaching when it would be necessary for the Government to appeal to all political parties for sympathy.

This view, however, has, as above stated, been modified since the holding of the Cabinet meetings, and judging from the tenor of the Duke's speech at Sheffield, tension has been greatly lessened. This coincides with the opinion held at the Carlton Club in regard to the pronouncement that will be made by Lord Salisbury.

It is expected that the Prime Minister will be more than usually explicit considering

THE DELICATE SITUATION.
So far as can be forecasted, Lord Salisbury will state the fact announced by the United press yesterday, that the Admiralty has decided to strengthen the British Mediterranean fleet by the addition of six ships, but at the same time announce that Turkey must meanwhile be left to work out her own salvation. The great powers will continue to rely upon obtaining from the Sultan's newly formed ministry the protection of Christians and the maintenance of order, but they have no intention to intervene in Turkish affairs. The powers will patiently preserve an attitude of observation, and as far as Lord Salisbury foresees, will continue to act in concert as hitherto. It is believed that the speech throughout will be more assuring than the developments daily telegraphed from Constantinople seem to justify.

FORMER SHIPS.
Another feature of the speech will be an intimation that the coming naval estimates will show a very considerable increase.

An inspired note in the Globe says that Lord Salisbury and his colleagues are convinced that Great Britain is not strong enough on the sea and have decided to build more ships. The Globe adds that it needs a strong Government to propose a large addition to the burdens of the taxpayers after what Parliament has already voted for the navy, but the Ministers are already to take the responsibility, reply upon Parliament cheerfully regarding the money.

The appointment of Mr. Gerald Balfour, the Chief Secretary for Ireland, to use his influence to settle the troubles between the Belfast and Clyde ship builders and their employees is directly due to the Admiralty's urgency. The Government has always hitherto held aloof in labour matters, but it now comes to the front. Under Government pressure the employers will be compelled to either submit to arbitration or accept the terms of the men. The Conservative press, notably the St. James' Gazette, sides with the employee.

THE ONLY HELP.
A Victim of Bright's Disease For Many Years—Cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills. Special to The Times.

NEPWAU, Nov. 11.—Mrs. T. H. McKee, formerly of Listowel, came here as a last resort. Had suffered ten years with Bright's disease. Reported to be past help and dying her reappearance on the streets in apparent good health, was a pleasant surprise with explanation given was that her little boy had insisted that she should use Dodd's Kidney Pills and prophesied that they would cure her. She says: "From the first few doses I began to feel better, and after taking four and a half boxes, I say it with hearty gratitude, I am perfectly cured." Dodd's Kidney Pills is the only medicine in the world that has ever cured a case of Bright's disease at such a stage.

INTERVENTION IN TURKEY.
Italian and French Warships to be Sent to Constantinople. Special to The Times.

LONDON, Nov. 9.—The correspondent of the Pall Mall Gazette in Rome says that a council of Ministers has been held, which discussed the probability of Italy acting in concert with England in the matter of intervention in Turkey. The decision of the council is not yet known, but the Minister of Marine has given instructions that two warships shall immediately get in readiness to proceed to Constantinople.

He Cometh Not, She said.
LONDON, Nov. 9.—The wedding of J. A. McLean, an officer of the Royal Irish Lancers, to a daughter of Seymour Forbes a Yorkshire landowner, which was fixed for yesterday, was postponed through the failure of the groom to appear. No trace of him can be found.

Four Hamilton Children in Luck.
HAMILTON, Nov. 9.—It is stated that the four children of Prof. Cawthra, 100 Jackson street west, have fallen heirs to $30,000, bequeathed to them by their uncle, Joseph Cawthra, of Manchester, England.

Keir Hardie Going to Montreal.
NIAGARA FALLS, Nov. 9.—J. Keir Hardie the Socialist and ex member of Parliament left here last night for Montreal and Boston.

A Bear Chewed a Lung Out.
LOWELL, Mass., Nov. 9.—Walter Billings keeper at a summer resort at Lakeview, was attacked by a bear and terribly lacerated. He was taken to the hospital and he died at a late hour last night.

Left Her Ten Children and Died.
ORILLIA, Nov. 9.—Word comes from the camp of the Longford Lumber Company in Digby of the suicide by drowning of a widow named McKenzie, who left her home and ten children in good condition, and deliberately went and threw herself into the water.

British Steamer Sunk.
LONDON, Nov. 9.—The British steamer Eustace was sunk off Lowestoft this morning by an unknown vessel. Her crew were saved.

Twenty Thousand Roses.
There are nearly 30,000 rose trees in bloom now at Dunlop's conservatories Bloomsbury, Toronto. Visitors are always well come. Mr. Dunlop is proud of his establishment and takes pleasure in speaking of his beauties. He ships them by mail and expresses to all parts of Canada, and as these orders are filled direct from the trees, he guarantees them to arrive in good condition. Sale room, 45 Yonge-st., and 45 King street west.

Grief from a Medical Standpoint.
The nervous system requires complete rest after blows caused by sorrow. Recent medical observations show that the physical results of depressing emotions are similar to those caused by bodily accidents, fatigue, chill, partial starvation, and loss of blood. Birds, moles, and dogs, which apparently died in consequence of capture, and from conditions that correspond in human beings to acute nostalgia and "broken heart," were examined after death as to the condition of their internal organs, and it was found that the nutrition of the tissues had been interfered with, and the substance proper of various vital organs had undergone the same kind of degeneration as that brought about by phosphorus or the germs of infectious disease. The poison of grief is more than a name. To urge courage, study, travel, the vain search for amusement, is both useless and dangerous. For a time the whole organism is overthrown, and temporary seclusion is imperative for proper readjustment.

Grief cannot be ignored, neither can it be cheered up. It must be accepted and allowed to wear itself away. Readjustment comes slowly. Sorrow, grief, and all great misfortunes should be regarded as conditions similar to acute infectious diseases, which they resemble in result; and later, as convalescence from such diseases. Seclusion, rest, sleep, appropriate food, fresh air, sunshine, interests that tax neither mind nor body, these are the requirements in this class of illness.—The Charlotte Medical Journal.

What They Might Plant.
The wagon maker—An axle tree.
The blue bloods—A family tree.
The shivering poor—A fire tree.
The carpenter—A plane tree.
The epicure—A spice tree.
The miser—A pile of money tree.
The children—A Christmas tree.

A new dainty for afternoon tea, which can be cordially recommended, is a macaroon sandwich. It is made with two macaroons between which is placed a very thin slice of sage cheese.—Comfort.

"For two or three years I was subject to poor spells. I always felt tired, could not sleep at night and the little I could eat did not do me any good. I read about Hood's Sarsaparilla and decided to try it. Before I had finished two bottles I began to feel better and in a short time I felt all right and had gained 12 pounds in weight. A balloon fitted with automatic instruments was sent up recently in Paris and came down safely. The instruments showed that it had risen to 17,000 metres, 56,000 feet, or over ten miles and a half; at that height the temperature outside the balloon was 120° below zero, while inside it was 12° above. The apparatus for taking in a sample of the air seems to have worked satisfactorily, but the result will not be known until the analysis of its contents is made in M. Berthelot's laboratory.

A railroad through the sea is to be built between Brighton and Rottingdean, the rails being so near low-water mark that they will be submerged the greater part of the time. There are four rails, the outside ones 18 feet apart, fastened to concrete blocks mortised in bed rock. On these four-wheeled trucks will run supporting 12-inch steel tubes, inside which are the shafts that propel the wheels. The tubes rise 23 feet above the rails supporting the car, which has a deck 46 feet by 22. The motive power will be electricity conveyed by the trolley system.

FLOATING KIDNEY.

THIS SOUNDS STRANGE, BUT IT IS A RECOGNIZED DISEASE

Any Way—The Victim Given up by Five Doctors, Acknowledges a Cure and Says Dodd's Kidney Pills Did the Curing.

Gelert, Oct. 12, 1895.

The Dodds Medicine Co.

Gentlemen.—Some time in December 1893, I was taken sick; and laid up unable to work for fourteen months. I was attended at various times and took medicine from five doctors. Three agreed in calling my disease Floating Kidney, and the other two thought it was some form of spinal disease. I got no help, was still in bed, and all pronounced my disease incurable.

About this time, some friend advised me to take Dodd's Kidney Pills, I was run down to a skeleton and suffering night and day, I had taken about three boxes only, when I was able to get out and walk a few steps. I kept on taking the pills and getting better, until now I have taken eighteen boxes with the result that I can say I am able to work again and perfectly cured of what was considered an incurable kidney disease or spinal trouble.

You are at liberty to use this certificate for the benefit of all who are afflicted with a cure, and believe in

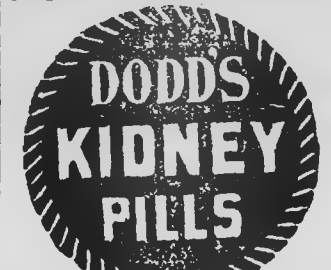

Yours gratefully,
SAMUEL KERNAHAN.

It is a notion of some people that the ties of Masonry will avail to protect a criminal from the operation of the law. Evidently the brother of a defendant in a court in Anderson, Ind., had that idea for he came into the court-room and, standing before the judge, who was a brother Mason, excited what were said to be the signals of distress pertaining to the order. The judge was either not in a fraternal mood or he recognized the man as an impostor, for he promptly had him committed for contempt. Whether the prisoner was able to work the Sheriff more successfully, or fortune in some other way favored him is not certain, but at all events he managed to get away.

In 1886 a man named Gardner of Paterson, New Jersey, was fishing on the Hackensack river, when he saw floating before him a sinking catboat in which were two girls. He went to the rescue and took off the girls just as the boat, which had been wrecked by a collision with a railroad bridge, was foundering. From that time until the other day he heard nothing of the girls, but then he saw a personal in the advertising columns of a newspaper asking him to call at a certain address to learn something to his advantage. He called and was told that there was $4,500 to his credit, the proceeds of a legacy left by the father of the girls he had saved, and having learned this much Gardner went back to work in the bobbin factory.

The financial commissioners of the Paris International exhibition in 1900 have just concluded their labors, and scheme they have elaborated is to be submitted to the chamber. The expenses are to be provided for by an issue of 3,250,000 lottery bonds of 20 francs each, which should provide 60,000,000 out of the 100,000,000 the exhibition is expected to cost, the bonds to be issued at latest at the beginning of next year. Each bond will entitle the owner to twenty tickets of admission of one franc each, and confer on him certain other privileges, such as a reduction of 25 per cent, on the charges for admission to places of entertainment inside the exhibition, a reduction in railway and boat fares during the period of the exhibition, etc. Foreigners holding such bonds will be entitled to the latter reduction on the journey to and from Paris. Finally, holders will share in a grand lottery, consisting of twenty-nine drawings, spread over the period between 1896 and 1900, and the prizes of which amount to 6,000,000 francs, including five prizes of 500,000 francs each and twenty-four prizes of 100,000 francs each.

A. NORMAN, ESQ.

Dear Sir:—We think we ought to acknowledge in some way that may become public, the very great benefit our daughter has derived from the use of your Electro-Curative Belts, and your application of Electricity in the Bath and from Dry Treatment: When we brought her to you she was a picture of unhealthiness, her limbs were shriveled up, and as thin as limbs could be; she had no strength even to play with other children, in fact she was dying of consumption. Besides this, there was a hard lump on her spine at the nape of her neck, which caused her neck to be so stiff she could not move her head. Although it is only three months since we brought her to you she is sound and well.

The Times

PETERBOROUGH, NOVEMBER 12 1895

DIAGNOSIS BY WIRE.

Unquestionable Advantage of Having a Telephone in Every Household.

The beneficent uses of the telephone are not as yet fully understood. The other night young Smythe awoke about 3 a.m. with an excruciating pain in his stomach. The more he squirmed the worse he grew. Finally the terrible thought flashed upon him that he had been poisoned. In a moment he dashed out of bed, downstairs to the telephone and demanded to be switched on to his physician's number without delay.

"For heaven's sake, doctor, come at once! I'm poisoned!"

The M.D., who had also crawled out of bed to answer the summons, growled back. "What makes you think so?"

"Frightful pain—awful cramps—inside on fire—burning up, or I'm a dead man!"

"Humph! Does—or—does your stomach make any noise?"

"Yes, kinder growls—must be arsenic, or something."

"Growls, eh? Just put the phone against the pit of your stomach. Ah! I thought so—you've been to the French Hospital late this evening, haven't you?"

Helps to Memory.

Mrs. Elephant (after trying knot in her spouse's trunk)—There, now! I guess you won't forget again to bring the baby home some of those cocoanuts when you go down to the jungle.

A Young Example.

"Jedediah," asked Mrs. Jiggs, "what do you think the baby has done?"

"I dunno," replied Mr. Jiggs. "Something smart, I'll bet you."

"No. It's dreadful. Do you remember the gold dollar you laid on the parlor table?"

A Slight Offense.

An English tourist arrived in an Irish town where a man was about to be hanged for shooting his landlord. Ignorant of the cause of the gathering, he questioned one of the peasants.

Englishman—What is going on to-day, my man?

Peasant—They're going to hang a man, sor.

Englishman—What is he to be hanged for?

Peasant—Just for a bit o' a joke, sor.

Englishman—Hang a man for a joke? Absurd! What did he do?

Peasant—He just made game of his landlord, sor—Life.

Juvenile Theology.

A Washington woman is the happy mother of a bright boy, whose only failing is his boylike propensity to be mischievous. After doing some annoying thing yesterday, his mother called him to account and remonstrated with him for being naughty.

"Nobody saw me, mamma," said the young hopeful.

"Yes, my son," said the mother, "God saw you."

The little fellow looked up at her with a thoughtful expression, and said: "God won't tell."—Washington Post.

A Canning Patient.

Muller meets his friend Nagel at the Turkish baths. Each is troubled with a gouty foot and has been ordered massage by his doctor. During the operation Muller cried lustily with pain, while Nagel maintained a stolid composure, greatly to Muller's astonishment, who afterward asked him:

"How could you stand the rubbing so quietly? Didn't it hurt you atrociously?"

"Nothing of the kind," smilingly replied Nagel. "I simply held out my healthy foot."—Lustige Blätter.

Scared Them Off.

Friend—How is this? I thought you were to be called as a witness in that trial. Sharp—I got out of it.

"Eh? Why, I heard that both sides were after you!"

"I scared them both off."

"Cracky! How?"

"Told 'em that if I was called I would tell the truth."—Puck.

Did Not Know His Name.

The men of the Light division in the Crimea always spoke of Sir George Brown as "the general," as was then and is still, though in a lesser degree, the habit of soldiers, possibly from not knowing the name of the immediate leader. This ignorance cost Sir George £1 during the worst of the winter. He had seized an opportunity of meeting Lord Raglan to urge the desirability of his showing himself more frequently in the camp.

"What good will it do?"

"Oh, 'twill cheer the men up! Why, sir, numbers of my men don't know your name."

"But they don't know your name, George."

"Every man in the Light division knows my name."

"I'll bet you £1 the first man we ask does not."

"Done," said Sir George, and they rode to the Light division camp.

"Come here, my man. Who am I?"

"You're the general sir."

"But my name?"

"You're the general, sir," and nothing more could be elicited from him. Sir George Brown paid up on the spot.

No one who saw him ride straight toward the foe, without an indication that he was in any danger, is likely to forget the animating effect of his bearing on the soldiers. Sir Evelyn Wood in Fortnightly Review.

The Lady of the Plains.

A young woman from the treeless plains of the west had gone to Boston to a music school on her first trip east, and among the first persons she met at her boarding house was a youth from Bangor. As their acquaintance ripened she told him of what had interested her on the journey.

"Why," she said, with an exultant spirit, "I saw at one place in Pennsylvania a hundred saw logs in one pile."

"A hundred?" he asked, with a tinge of a smile.

"That's what they told me. You know, we don't have saw logs where I came from."

"Is that so? You ought to come to Maine once."

"Do you have them there?"

"Do we?" he replied magnificently. "Do we? Why, my dear young lady, saw logs grow on trees in Maine."

"Really?" she asked in open-eyed astonishment.

"It's a literal fact," he asserted positively.

"Well, I don't believe it," she contended, and do what he could, he could not convince her that he was telling plain, unadorned truth.—Detroit Free Press.

Twenty Years Hence.

Mrs. Newera (entering kitchen hurriedly about 8 p.m., registration day)—Alfred, dear, I am sorry to disturb you, but if we don't register every vote we've got in the ward they are going to lick us sure! Take off your apron and come along. There's a carri—go to the door.

Mr. Newera—Etheberta, I've tried to be a good husband to you. I've never refused to do anything reasonable you have required of me. I have taken care of the house and kept the children out of mischief while you've been at the club or hobnobbing with the candidates down town, and I've never complained, but I'm right in the middle of the fruit canning season, and if you think I'm going to leave this porcelain kettle full of peaches all ready to put in the jars and let the six gallons of apple butter in this washbowl burn and go to waste just for the sake of going out to register you don't know me, madam, that's all. Now, you get out of my way and go on about your business, or I'll throw a dipper of hot water on you!—Chicago Tribune.

Comparative Strength of Materials.

Cast iron weighs 444 pounds to the cubic foot, and an inch square bar will sustain a weight of 16,500 pounds; bronze, weight 825 pounds; tenacity 8,600; wrought iron, weight 480, tenacity 50,000; hard "struck" steel, weight 490, tenacity 78,000; aluminum, weight 168, tenacity 84,000. We are accustomed to think of metals as being stronger than wood, and so they are, generally speaking, if only pieces of the same size be tested, but when equal weights of the two materials are compared it is then found that several varieties of wood are stronger than ordinary steel. A bar of pine just as heavy as a bar of steel an inch square will hold up 125,000 pounds, the best ash 175,000 pounds and some hemlock 200,000 pounds. Wood is bulky. It occupies 10 or 12 times the space of steel. The best steel castings made for the United States navy have a tenacity of 85,000 to 75,000 pounds to the square inch. By solidifying such castings under great pressure a tensile strength of 80,000 to 150,000 pounds may be obtained.—Railway Review.

The Old Time Huking Bee.

A story is told of huking bees devility in the pioneer days of Dexter. Captain Small, one of the first comers, after he had grown to the dignity of having a big barn, gave a huking, to which a large and merry party gathered. While the supper was progressing and the coast was clear some of the "boys" drove one of the captain's steers into the barn floor, and attached a rope to him lifted him up over the high beams to the top of the haymow. They were so spry about it that the joke was not discovered. The steer was misad, of course, and a search of the surrounding country was made without success. The animal was given up for lost when one day, a week after the huking, the captain was in his barn and heard a long "moo!" up in the ridge pole. Looking up, there was the missing steer gazing calmly down at him over the high beam. Such was the sport the daddies had in their young days. Modern hukings are more promiscuous.—Lowiston Journal.

MRS. LANGTRY'S LATEST.

She Throws Overboard Peel and Takes Up the Earl of Shrewsbury.

LONDON, Nov. 11.—Sir Robert Peel's projected marriage with Mrs. Langtry, which constituted her main object in instituting divorce proceedings in the United States against her husband, has been broken off. The bitter feeling between them may be judged from the fact that after Peel had got a wealthy German brother-in-law to advance $50,000 to pay his debts Mrs. Langtry put in a $25,000 claim which nearly upset all arrangements. The brother-in-law, however, put up $15,000 more in order to pay the bill.

The Dean of Jersey's daughter has a new titled avian in tow, the premier Earl of the realm, Lord Shrewsbury. He has become her racing partner, and the two are inseparable. They went to Paris the other day by special train, after winning close upon $100,000 at Newmarket.

WAS A FLYING ROLLER.

C. W. Williams, a Disciple of Prince Michael, Hangs Himself at Windsor.

Special to The Times.

WINDSOR, Nov. 11.—C. W. Williams, a machinist, living on Pitts street, committed suicide by hanging himself in his hen house yesterday.

For nineteen years Williams had been employed in the D. G. H. & M. machine shops in Detroit. Seven years ago he joined the Prince Michaelites, but prior to this was a devoted member of All Saints church and officiated in the choir. His family tried to break him from the long haired sect but it was no use.

He continued as a member of the church he had left. He never lived with the Detroit contingent but always spent Sundays with them and for the past two years he preached opposite the post office on Sunday evenings. Williams was 46 years old and leaves a wife and three sons, the eldest being 16 years old.

THE EARL'S ACCUSATION.

It Accuses Some Adverse Comment in England—Another Side of the Question.

Special to The Times.

LONDON, Nov. 11.—The St. James Gazette, in an article on the Dunraven-New York Yacht Club controversy, says: While Lord Dunraven was in America we were induced to believe that he had been rather shabbily treated, but his statement shows that there is another side to the question. The officials of the New York Yacht Club behaved throughout as gentlemen and sportsmen. They could not change the condition of the race nor could they drive the public off the high seas, but if the accusation brought by Lord Dunraven is untrue and we decline to credit it without further proof, this manner of making it will have succeeded not only in stopping all American Cup contests, but in making it very difficult for any yachtsman with a particle of self-respect to consent to run against the accused in the future.

Twenty Thousand Roses.

There are nearly 30,000 rose trees in bloom now at Dunlop's conservatories Bloomsbury, Toronto. Visitors are always well come. Mr. Dunlop is proud of his establishment and takes pleasure in speaking of his beauties. He ships them by mail and to all parts of Canada, and as these orders are filled direct from the trees, he guarantees them to arrive in good condition. Sale room, 45 Yonge-st., and 45 King street west.

FILLS! FILLS! Itching Pills.

Catarrh in the Head

Is a dangerous disease because it is liable to result in loss of hearing or smell, or develop into consumption. Read the following:

"My wife has been a sufferer from catarrh for the past four years and the disease had gone so far that her eyesight was affected so that for nearly a year she was unable to read for more than five minutes at a time. She suffered severe pains in the head and at times was almost distracted. About Christmas, she commenced taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and since that time has steadily improved. She has taken six bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla and is on the road to a complete cure. I cannot speak too highly of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and I cheerfully recommend it." W. H. ## The Times.

PETERBOROUGH, NOVEMBER 13 1895.

Harold Frederic writes in the New York Times that the Queen's melancholia, precipitated by the death of a favorite servant, grows worse, instead of improving, and that her bodily health is falling rapidly.

The important point the news of the advance of the Chinese rebels upon the capital is that they are supplied with Russian arms. This gives them a superiority in equipment over the disorganized forces of the Chinese Emperor which will make it impossible to beat them back without European assistance such as was given by Englishmen at the time of Taiping rebellion. Should the rebels obtain the mastery of the Government, China would become a Mohammedan Power strongly under the influence of Russia.

The democratization of English society in recent years could hardly be better illustrated than by the dinner of the Lord Mayor of London to Barney Barnato, the Kaffir King, so-called, at the Mansion House. A large company attended it, and Barnato was commended as a public-spirited citizen who had saved the country from a financial disaster. A few years ago the Lord Mayor would sooner have seen the country go to the dogs than to go out of his way to do honor to an ex-circus performer, as Barney is said to be. The London Times voices the sentiments of the old-timers by criticizing the official for paying so unusual a tribute to the mine operator. It declines to believe that he has done anything very patriotic in buying up weak stocks. Barney is the most talked of man in London at the present time, and with the stock-jobbing set he is the most popular.

Our Trespasses

There is a great deal in the papers nowadays about Dodd's Kidney Pills. Scarcely a daily paper, or any paper, in fact, but you may read the particulars of some one who has been at death's door and cured.

It seems that at last there is a medicine that has been designed and advertised for a single purpose, and it answers expectation.

Dodd's Kidney Pills is for the kidneys, and every day it becomes more and more certain that all diseases resulting from impure blood are kidney diseases.

The doctors know this to be true. They understand that the blood must be as pure as distilled water.

You can't make water pure with drugs. It is nonsense to say it can. You must filter it. And so must the blood be filtered and that is what kidneys are for.

A grateful old farmer who had been cured at a hopeless stage of diabetes said: "People ought to buy Dodd's Kidney Pills the same as groceries and never be without them in the house."

The moment any of the symptoms are felt, such as chills, fevers, creeping sensation, backaches, headaches, etc., then you ought to take a few doses of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

They are so much like the stitch in time.

It is wonderful how like a "shoulder to the wheel" they are for tired kidneys.

Except sitting in a draft, over-eating and over-drinking has more to do with poor kidney work than any other cause.

Then Dodd's Kidney Pills affect us like forgiving our trespasses.

What is the cause of sallow, sickly skin, nervousness, depression, lack of ambition, hysteria, sleeplessness, Bright's disease, diabetes, paralysis, female troubles?

The plain unvarnished truth is, the kidneys are failing or have failed to do blood filtering work. They want the help, the cleansing that only one medicine in the world can give, that is, Dodd's Kidney Pills.

THE GOVERNMENT'S PROGRAM.

A fine programme is mapped out for the Dominion Government by the well-posted Ottawa correspondent of the Toronto World, says the Hamilton Herald. In brief he asserts that at the coming session of Parliament a compromise remedial bill is to be introduced in the Manitoba Schools matter; Mr. Chapleau will be taken into the Cabinet to keep Quebec in line; Chief Justice Meredith will be asked to step into the ring in order to reconcile the Conservatives of Ontario to a moderate remedial bill, and if Clarke Wallace wants to get on his high horse and bid a fond adieu to his $5000 a year and his office, he will be at liberty to do so.

In the bye-elections the fight will be made along the lines of remedial legislation of a mild type. It is not expected that the Government can carry West Huron, but every resource at its command will be used in Cardwell and North Ontario. When the bye-elections and the meeting of Parliament are over the Government will go to the country with a solid front on its fiscal policy, which is described as the real and important issue, but if the Manitoba schools question is brought up, the claims will be made that the Government was simply obeying the constitution in giving the Manitoba minority a measure of relief.

This is a pretty enough programme in its way, but it is obvious that it is, like white man, mighty on paper. The Ottawa Citizen, for instance, a Government organ, editorially pooh poohs the idea of Mr. Meredith entering the Cabinet. The bye-elections may go "agin the Government," and the House may refuse to pass the meekest and milkiest kind of a remedial bill, on the principal that the Dominion has no business to interfere with a matter that is purely Manitoba's concern. When the programme comes to be carried out it may be found that some of the numbers will have to be declared off.

That pretended divine healer, John A. Dowie, is thought to be upon the point of ending his career of imposition and deception in Chicago. His case was heard in a court last week, and he was fined $100 and costs for maintaining a hospital without a license. He will probably appeal, and his effacement as a public nuisance may be delayed for a time, but it cannot be far off. The residents of his neighborhood have waged determined war against him.

HOW THE SUN LIFE FULFILLS ITS PROMISES

A MATURED 10 YEAR ENDOWMENT

Profits paid by the SUN 21 per cent more than . . . the estimates . . .

The following letter which speaks for itself, was received by the undersigned this morning from a gentleman at Brockville whose ten year endowment which he held in the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada, matured last week and was paid him. The Sun are modest in promises but unequalled in results. The public are benefited by results, not by promises unfulfilled.

W. H. HILL, ESQ.,
Mgr. Central Ontario Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada
PETERBOROUGH, ONT.

DEAR SIR,—I should have acknowledged the receipt of yours enclosing cheque for endowment policy No. 12,871 before, only I wanted to write something more than a mere receipt. I am pleased to hear of the continued prosperity of the "Sun" and it speaks well for your Company when the profits are greater (by 21 per cent.) than you as the Company's representative promised, or rather estimated, as was the case with this policy.

I hope your Company will continue to prosper and I often regret that I do not carry more insurance than I am doing. I might have carried twice as much as I do when at Minden without any great effort, still what little I do carry I feel is perfectly safe being in the "Sun."

I must thank you for your promptness and kindness regarding this policy just settled. I hope we will both be alive and well when the one I now hold will be due in 1905 and assuring you of very best wishes, I remain,

Yours sincerely,
(Signed) F. R. C.

P. S.—The above was written without any suggestion on my part, and it will certainly prove interesting reading to our host of policy holders.

WITH THE UPPER TEN

LIFE IN THE AUTUMN AT ENGLISH COUNTRY HOUSES.

Routine For Entertainers and Guests.
How the Time is Employed by Ladies and Gentlemen of Leisure—When They Have Their Meals and What They Eat.

With the opening days of September the country house parties nominally commence. August gatherings do not amount to "parties" in the strict sense of the word, being principally composed of relatives and intimate friends asked for a pleasant ten days' rather than for a smart five days' visit, but it is during these friendly visits that ceremony is put on one side as far as may be, and every one allowed to do pretty much as he or she likes. Even at the smartest country house parties the modern hostess takes up this line as against the strict discipline formerly in force.

"Do you like paying visits?" is a question frequently put by those who distinctly dislike doing so, on the ground that the restraints of each day are irksome to them. They do not like the method by which they are to be amused—the fixed hours for pastimes, for meals, for riding, driving, shooting and the rest. There is a good deal in this from the point of view of a jaded and tired individual seeking perfect quiet and repose, and also from that of an idle man who likes his own way and to take his own time for amusing himself.

The generality of men feel very much the same on this head—viz., "the liberty of the subject"—although they nevertheless conform to the rules of the house at which they are staying and allow themselves to be taken, say, to luncheon at the house of people they do not like, and in the meekest manner if their hostess so wills it, when they would far rather be left at home to amuse themselves in their own way, whatever that may be, with a favorite pipe for a companion. Ladies, on the contrary, are not averse to plans being made and carried out for their benefit. They readily fall into their hostess' projects and expect to go somewhere and to do something most days, but a hostess knows from experience that these plans must include the company of one or two of the men of a party, or the expedition will fall very flat, and the ladies, left to themselves, will not return in the most cheerful of spirits. The modern hostess invites the guests with due regard to their exigencies, so as not to sacrifice the leisure of the one sex to the demands of the other.

The writer of a recent article in a daily contemporary characterizes a country house breakfast as a "first installment of a day of gorging." It is quite true that many men do "make a good breakfast," but a good breakfast appetite is a sign of a clear conscience and a good digestion, and if a man eats two eggs, half a partridge, two or three mackerels, broiled bacon, a mutton and some marmalade and passes by the numerous other breakfast dishes set before him—dressed fish, broiled fowl, omelet, cold ham, cutlets, etc.—he does not consider he has "done himself" too well, taking into account the walking exercise that is before him.

In these days of early rising, walks before breakfast, and the greater portion of the day passed in the open air golfing, playing tennis or croquet, rowing and riding, a breakfast appetite is a natural result, and the question so far as the present moment as to whether ladies do or do not eat too much answers itself in any case at a country house party.

From 9 to 9:30 is the usual breakfast hour in most houses. Occasionally it is extended to 10, where late hours are kept in the smoking room. Again, personality at this meal is the rule in some houses. Not so in others, where great latitude is allowed. As to guests shaking hands with each other, this ceremony takes place only in the evening, when good nights are said. In the morning a nod, a smile or a "Good morning!" is all that is said or done by way of greeting.

The next general meeting is at luncheon—1:30—on nonshooting days, or a meeting of ladies only, and though a choice of dishes is offered ladies generally prefer to eat of one dish only in the most conspicuous moment as to whether ladies do or do not eat too much answers itself in any case at a country house party.

As to guests shaking hands with each other, this ceremony takes place only in the evening, when good nights are said. In the morning a nod, a smile or a "Good morning!" is all that is said or done by way of greeting.

The dinner hour, however, is the signal for the whole of the company to assemble at close upon 8:30. When precedence is strictly followed, the same couples are often sent in to dinner together night after night, but a hostess endeavors to introduce a little variety in this respect as far as possible, so that the companions of the hour may not suffer from monotony. A country house dinner is generally so much to the taste of men that they go through the menu gallantly, but the ladies, as a rule, draw the line, say, at half the menu. A country house visit lasts four or five days, as the case may be—from Tuesday to Friday or to Saturday—only very intimate friends being asked to remain over Sunday.—London Queen.

Physiology and Fortness.

Mr. Veryfresh—I weigh 164 pounds, and do you know that in a person of that size analysis has shown that there are 90 pounds of water, 9 pounds of albumen, less than 1 pound of pure glue, 84½ pounds of fat, 2½ pounds of phosphate of lime, a pound of carbonate of lime, 3 ounces of sugar and starch, 7 ounces of fibrine of calcium, 6 ounces phosphate of magnesia and a little salt. What do you think of that? Miss Kew—It is all right enough in this instance in the matter of the

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

A PACK OF SCOUNDRELS.

THE CHARACTERS OF THE TURKISH SULTAN'S NEW MINISTRY.

They Want Him Deposed—The Desire of the Young Turkey Party—Grand Vizier Issues Orders—Ambassadors are Dissatisfied. Special to The Times.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 11.—The change in the Ministry here has not been conducive of any better feeling in political and diplomatic circles. In fact, the new Ministers, generally speaking, are looked upon as scoundrels.

as their reputations give no promise of any better government than that hitherto ruling. The members of the new Cabinet are nothing more than puppets of the Sultan, and whatever he wills will be, without any questioning, law to them. Halil Rifat Pasha, the new Grand Vizier, was formally Minister of the Interior, and it is openly charged that while occupying this position, he fostered the massacre of Christians. Abdurrahman Pasha, Minister of Justice, once held the Grand Vizierate, but was dismissed on a day's notice for lying. Mendiluh Pasha, Minister of the Interior, is reported to be a downright scoundrel. There is the strongest feeling here against the Sultan, due, among other things, to his choice of ministers. It was thought that possibly an attempt might be made on the life of His Majesty as he went from the Palace to the Mosque in the ceremony known as the Selamlik. The usual large number of guards, who keep the route when the Sultan goes to the mosque to offer his prayers, was greatly strengthened, and a close watch was kept on every side for suspicious characters by the police and gendarmes. There is no doubt that the Empire is passing through one of the most critical periods that has threatened it for years. The help to the Sultan has no better policy than the Sultan, so no advantage would be gained by depositing the latter in favor of the former.

The Young Turkey party aim at the removal of both of these scoundrels, and the substitution in the place of Reshad Effendi, the heir to the throne, of a healthy minded aristocrat who dislikes intrigue. Advice from the interior shows that dissensions are prevailing and that the suffering from this cause surpasses that resulting from the massacres. A very large number of people are homeless and without food, and there is no doubt that the suffering will increase during the winter. In several districts a famine is anticipated.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 11.—The Grand Vizier has sent a circular to the governors of the various provinces insisting upon the necessity of preventing the populace from attempting to repress public disorder, inasmuch as this duty lies solely with the civil and military authorities. The latter the circular says, should act with the utmost energy.

It is announced that Kiamil Pasha has been appointed Vali of Vilayet of Adia, Asia Minor, and that he started yesterday for Smyrna, the capital of Vilayet. Hassan Fehmi Pasha, the present Vali of Adia, will be transferred to Salonica, while Zihni Pasha, now Vali of Salonica, will be transferred to Aleppo.

LONDON, Nov. 11.—The Times will tomorrow print a despatch from Constantinople, saying that the diplomats there believe that the recent massacres were instigated by influential men belonging to the palace party, and that the Grand Vizier, Kiamil Pasha, the then Grand Vizier, and the reform party. The city is quiet. On Saturday the new ministers held a council and in the afternoon went to the Yildiz Palace.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 11.—The Sultan has decorated Gabri Pasha, formerly Vali of Van, with the Grand Cord of the Imperial Order of Osmanieh. Gabri was dismissed from the governorship of the province of Van in consequence of representations made against his administration by Sir Philip Currie, British Ambassador, and as the line of conduct which he followed by them toward the Porte. M. Berthelot also said that, in view of the situation, the Eastern division of the Mediterranean Sea had been ordered to be closed to the waters of the Eastern coast of the Mediterranean.

LONDON, Nov. 11.—The correspondent of the Pall Mall Gazette in Rome says that a council of ministers held here which discussed the probability of Italy acting in concert with England in the matter of intervention in Turkey. The decision of the council is not yet known, but the Minister of Marine has given instructions that two warships shall be immediately got in readiness to proceed to Constantinople.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 29, 1894. I have used "Pond's Extract" for many years and always insist upon my patients getting "Pond's," not the ordinary Extract, which is often a very poor article. W. K. BROWN, M. D.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 9, 1895. I use Pond's Extract a great deal in my practice. I think it very valuable in all venous enlargements. J. L. BRADFORD, M. D.

SANTA BARBARA, CAL., Nov. 27, 1894. I have been using Pond's Extract in my practice for twenty years. I frequently have the experience you mention of drugists insisting they can put up as good as yours. I don't believe it. I use Pond's Extract a great deal as an antiseptic in combination with glycerine and carbolic acid. I think it far superior to any antiseptic known. F. G. FLOUNOY, M. D.

ASTHMA'S INSTITUTE, Buffalo, N.Y., Dec. 8, 1894. I know Pond's Extract to be a valuable remedy, and shall continue its use whenever the opportunity offers. GEO. H. CALKINS, M. D.

THE HYAMS CASE.

could not as yet see the motive of the testimony it must go on for the present. "It is of the greatest importance," continued Mr. Oler, "from a mechanical point of view. My learned friend opened this on Monday by his suggested question to the witness as to how the accident might happen by the dropping of the weight. Now, if the weight drops, we know the extent of its distance from the wall. The suggestion made is that deceased was looking up. I propose to show the distance from the point of vision at which the witness would be if he were looking at the weight. I am now questioning the witness on the assumption that the weight is three feet above the witness's line of vision with the object of finding out how far deceased should be from that weight to look up at it. It is my contention that he would have to be two feet and a half away to be entirely out of danger at that point, standing vertically. Mr. Johnston said the contention of the defence was totally different to that suggested."

Mr. Oler—"I propose to show that the other contentions of the defence are more impossible than this."

WILLIE WELLS' FACE AGAIN. Then counsel produced a photograph of Willie Wells. "Now, tell me," he said, "if his field of vision would be increased or reduced by his wearing spectacles. I can give no opinion. Witness was requested to stand 6 inches from the wall and turn his head sideways. Then he asked, 'Does that cut your vision in any way?'"

"Certainly it does," said the witness. Standing 2 feet 6 inches from the wall was the most convenient way with the head turned toward the wall to see an object three feet above.

To Mr. Leont witness admitted that if a person pulled hard on the pull rope the effect might cause the weight to vibrate, and if there was an obstruction on the south side of the weight shaft the weight might catch either going up or coming down, and there was a possibility under certain conditions of the hook being jerked in or out of the eye.

Then Mr. Leont took up the line of vision. Witness admitted that deducting the length of the weight, 20 inches, from the 3 feet line of vision, a person could stand a good deal closer than 2 feet and see the bottom of the weight, which would only be 15 inches above his head, equally as well.

WITNESS ADMITS THAT IF, WHEN THE SUPPOSED OBSTRUCTION OF THE WEIGHT TOOK place, any person had taken and shaken the pull rope at the same time looking round the edge of the elevator up the weight shaft, the vibration caused by the pulling of the rope might release the weight, and the person looking up the shaft might be in exactly the position to receive the weight upon the right side of the head. Witness further said it might be possible for the weight to afterwards strike the buffer and tilt over upon the head of the injured person lying on the floor.

WOULD CHANGE THE LINE OF DESCENT. The contention of the defence is that the weight struck Wells on the head as he looked up the shaft, that he was knocked to the ground and that the weight followed him and crushed the skull. Mr. Galt said, however, that the head would offer violent resistance to the weight to change its line of descent.

To his Lordship Mr. Galt stated that if the weight became fast in its descent a person looking for the obstruction would naturally place his head more or less under the weight.

Mrs. Rengally, the Hyams' domestic, was again put in the box for the defence and swore that she saw no bloodstains on Dalas Hyams when he came home after the occurrence on January 10, 1891.

MAHER WON IN ONE ROUND.

O'Donnell Only a Chopping Block for the Irishman. Special to The Times.

MASKEP, L. I., Nov. 12.—The meeting of Peter Maher and Steve O'Donnell in the arena of the Empire A. C. at this place tonight created an immense amount of interest among the sporting fraternity. An early as eight o'clock there were very few vacant seats in the club house, and outside a long line of sports pushed and struggled in their frantic efforts to get at the box office. It was the largest crowd ever seen at the Empire A. C. Maher was the favorite in the betting, his manager J. Quinn, laying odds of 5 to 2 when ever he could find takers. O'Donnell was not without friends, and a good deal of money changed hands. The contest was between Caspar Leon of New York and Billy Smith of Philadelphia. They commenced their sparring bout at catch weights at 9 o'clock. Tim Hurst was referee. Just as the boys stepped into the ring Corbett came in, and was received with a good deal of applause, but some hissing was audible through the cheering while Sullivan was received with uniform favor. The referee awarded the fight to Leon.

The opening bout only served to whet the appetites of the 4,000 persons who packed the arena, and they were all agog to see the big fellows. They were announced to fight 25 rounds at catch weights. O'Donnell's second was Billy Doherty, Jim McCabe and Ben Murphy. Maher was looked after by Peter Lowery, Buck Cornelius of Pittsburgh and Peter Burns. O'Donnell was the first to appear at 9.35 o'clock. He was well received, but Maher, who stepped into the ring about a minute after, got a great ovation.

The Irishman looked out his opponent in the first round, after one minute and three seconds of fighting. Maher led with his right and landed on the jaw, knocking O'Donnell down. The moment the Australian got up Maher repeated, and again O'Donnell went down. He rose on the ninth count, and after sparring for a second, Maher knocked him down and with a left swing on the jaw, Time, 1 min. 3 sec.

O'Donnell had to be carried to his corner, but he recovered, and was assisted to the dressing room. The crowd went wild, and poured into the ring, amid a scene of the wildest enthusiasm. O'Donnell did not seem to realize what he was against, and did not make the slightest effort to defend his jaw. He got up only to be felled like a sheep.

A COLLISION AT SEA.

By Which Five Lives Were Lost—A Steamer and a Schooner. Special to The Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 12.—News of the sinking at sea and a loss of a portion of the crew of the American bark, William Hales by a collision on Nov. 8 during a dense fog with the Ward line steamer Niagara, outward bound with a general cargo and a number of passengers, was contained in the cablegram received here today by the agents of the Niagara. It is dated Nauyas, where Capt. Combs, her master, Mate Geo. Rummelt, and five of her seamen have just been landed in the Niagara. Five of the crew were drowned, every possible effort to save them having failed.

Sallybury Not Worried Over Venezuela. WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Lord Salisbury's failure to mention the Venezuelan question in his gilded hall speech is regarded as most significant. The speech summed up the Premier's position on all foreign questions regarded of pressing importance, so that the avoidance of all mention of Venezuela is construed to mean that he attaches less importance to it and the controversy over the Monroe doctrine than had been supposed.

Baldwin Acquitted. HAMILTON, Nov. 12.—Yesterday Judge Snider honorably acquitted Albert J. Halston on the charge of forging the name of F. C. Allan, Toronto, to a note. Missionaries Attacked. LONDON, Nov. 12.—Mr. Dickson, the British consul at Jerusalem, has informed the Government that a mob has attacked the mission at Nablous, 33 miles north of Jerusalem. The missionaries escaped, but some of their servants were killed. Lord M. Herbert, the British charge d'affaires at Constantinople, as soon as he heard of the affair, made a protest to the Porte, which instructed the wali of Jerusalem to protect the missionaries in every way.

Has Camille Dubois Another Wife Living in Chicago?—A Case in Hull. Special to The Times.

OTTAWA, Nov. 12.—Camille Dubois, of Hull, was arraigned before Recorder Chagnon on the charge of bigamy. He was married about a week ago to Miss Lavelle, of Hull. It was his new wife who laid the complaint against him. Something her husband told her led her to suspect he had been married before.

Dubois, who is 31 years of age, arrived in Hull last spring from Chicago, where, it is said, his first wife and three children reside. He worked at lathing all summer in Hull.

The further hearing of the case was adjourned to permit of further evidence being obtained.

ROBBERS GET $20,000

The Next Haul Made at a Colorado Springs Express Office. Special to The Times.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Ont. Nov. 12.—The express office at the Santa Fe depot in this city was robbed of $20,000 late last night. Immediately after the departure of the night express at 9.12 George Knott, the express agent, stepped from the platform into his office and was confronted by two masked men who leveled revolvers at his head and ordered him to open the safe. This he did and they helped themselves to two packages of money containing $5,000 and $15,000 respectively. They then made their escape. The money was part of a consignment of $20,000 sent from Denver to Cripple Creek, the remainder of which was in the safe, but was not found.

LEFT A LEGACY.

Manager Dias Falls Heir to the Sum of $17,500.

Mr. G. E. Dias, the popular manager for the R. S. Williams' branch, 372 Water street, is receiving the congratulations of his numerous friends on a piece of good fortune which befell him several days ago.

Mr. Dias received word yesterday that he had fallen heir to $17,500 by the death of a distant relative in Rochester. The legacy is in cash and will therefore be the more acceptable. In these hard times a legacy of this amount is very rare indeed.

The deceased relative of Mr. Dias was a wealthy Rochester manufacturer and Mr. Dias was named after him. This fact explains why he was left part of the estate.

Mr. Dias may find it necessary to go to Rochester in a few days to look after his interests.

LITTLE LOCAL LINES.

Items of Interest Intelligently Presented for Busy Readers.

Weather is moderating.

The hunting season for deer will close Friday.

Thanksgiving Day will be one week from tomorrow.

On Saturday morning the express from Port Hope struck and killed a fox on the Grand Trunk track about a mile this side of Frazerville. This is the first time train men remember hearing of such a fatality.

A fox being considered too cunning an animal to be caught napping on a railway track. The fox killed had apparently been captured and under restraint of one time, as it wore a collar round its neck with a piece of chain attached. However, he had evidently been running at large for some time, as the collar having been put around the neck when the animal was young, was cutting the flesh of the neck, which had grown with time.

THE A.O.F. AT HOME.

The Attendance Was Large and the Program Interesting.

The "At Home" held last night by the Courts of the A.O.F. in Unity Hall, was a great success. The attendance was large and the program very interesting and entertaining. It is published below:

Quartette—Hayden, Morphet, Kingscote and Varnes.

Recitation—Miss Hamilton.

Solo—Miss Courtney.

Instrumental—Williams, Gibson & Taylor.

Reading—Miss Green.

Solo—Mr. Taylor.

Duet—Misses Pettitt.

Instrumental—Mr. Roadhouse.

Solo—Misses Montgomery and Comstock.

THE COMPLIMENTARY CONCERT

Tendered to the Visiting Bicyclists—A Pleasant Affair.

The complimentary concert tendered to the visiting bicyclists in the skating rink last night was a pleasant affair, and the attendance was fairly large, considering the chilliness of the weather. The bicyclists should feel complimented at the turn of affairs, as so many ladies, who were largely in the majority last night.

The Fire Brigade Band furnished music for the evening, and rendered several pieces in excellent style, evoking many complimentary remarks from the visitors who were unanimously of the opinion that Peterborough has a splendid band.

The greater part of the evening was taken up with the stereoscopic dissolving views by Mr. R. M. Roy. These were very beautiful and pleasing to the eye. Pictures of the visiting bicyclists were shown on the large screen, and when they appeared the crowd cheered.

"Rastus, the Wanderer," accompanied to the great amusement of the spectators. "Rastus" is a clever little step dancer, and appears to be a favorite where ever he goes.

Davidson and party left for Toronto on the early train this morning.

PERSONAL MENTION.

The Times invites all its readers to contribute to this column all items of a personal nature, such as the arrival and departure of guests, the movements of well-known people, business men, etc. All that is required is to send a post card or telephone message to the Editor of the Times.

HORSE MEAT SAUSAGES.

The Board of Health Investigating the Matter—Other Complaints.

The Provincial Board of Health is holding its regular quarterly session at the Parliament building. The members in attendance are: Dr. J. Macdonald, Hamilton, chairman; Dr. P. H. Bryce, secretary; Dr. F. Rae, Oshawa; Dr. J. J. Cassidy, Dr. C. W. Coverton, Toronto; Dr. H. Vaux, Brockville; Dr. E. E. Kitchen, St. George.

The attention of the Board was directed for about a quarter of an hour to a peculiar communication from Dr. Norton, Medical Health officer in the village of Shelburne, Ontario.

It complained that some five or six cases of barber's itch—syphilis parasitic, the doctor called it—had occurred in the village within the past three months. All the victims had complained that they had contracted the disease in a certain barber shop. As a consequence the villagers were incensed against the uncleanly barber and wanted him, the health officer, to close up his shop.

It was decided to require the barber to discontinue his brushes, combs, razors, etc., or to turn them over to the Provincial Health Department to be disinfected. The barber's shop and linen will be disinfected.

Then the Board turned its attention to horse sausage. A letter was received from a medical health officer in the western part of the Province informing the Board that certain enterprising speculators were buying up old horses at a dollar per head and shipping them to Toronto where they were killed and manufactured into sausages, although they were shipped ostensibly for fertilizing purpose.

Several members of the Board considered that if the horses had died of no specific disease but of half-grown cholera, as it was steamed that the meat would be innocuous. The prejudice against horse meat as an article of diet, determined the Board to investigate the matter thoroughly and bring the guilty parties to account.

Another letter was read from John Richardson, J.P., M.P.P., of York, which might be summarized by members of the Board—throw some light on what became of the old horses. It set forth that one Wm. McKay, of the county of York, was in the habit of feeding his 200 hogs on the waste of the city, so that when they were killed the hogs were full of filth.

Dr. Bryce informed the Board that he had written to the County Crown Attorney and that an information had been laid against McKay, who would be prosecuted for the offence.

GRAVE-ROBBING CHOUOLS.

Their Horrible Work Systematically Conducted.

If it were possible to relate the experiences of students of the Royal Medical College in respect to the robbery of graves, reading matter of a most interesting and spicy character would be produced.

The details of the horrible work which some of them had from being killed in the performance of their work would make the basis of a sensational novel. Strange to say, however, it has yet to be ascertained that a student was injured while in the act of robbing graves or vaults.

Not every student who has attended the College, as the Kingston News, has been adapted for the work of bringing in corpses for dissection. Only a few in each year had the nerve and pluck and ingenuity for the task. It is not satisfactorily the student must be brave and shrewd. They must watch funerals and take a note of cemeteries in which bodies are placed and the location so that when they are visited no difficulty will be experienced in finding them.

Their trips to the cemeteries are very hazardous, for it is not known who may be waiting to receive them unkindly. It is the general experience that people who care for the graves of those who guard the graves of their friends are just as nervous and suspicious of those who are doing the robbing, and, when there is an alarm, all run away. A physician who has a large practice now, says he was never so badly frightened as on the night when he was in a graveyard with companions looking for bodies. A call ran among the graves a short distance from them, and, although it was small, it appeared to the students as big as an elephant. They ran away from the yard and returned to the city without a body.

Probably the boldest and most daring robber that ever was in the College was a young man named G—. He was the prince of grave robbers, and delighted in the pastime. He was shrewd, careful and brave. During his term he was superintendent of grave digging, and was responsible for the supply of subjects for dissection.

On one or two occasions, by clever disguises and by mournful tales, he induced people in charge of bodies to give them up to him. He used to go to institutions when an angry died, and amid bitter tears would plead for the bodies, so that he might take them away and bury them alongside of relatives. When he got them he sent them straight to the College. If this man had met the devil in a graveyard, he would not have been afraid of him.

The olden times body-snatching was not done in order that money might be made out of the work. The traffic in bodies such as is carried on now would have been despised then. The bodies were stolen for purely scientific purposes.

A professor in Queen's Medical Faculty said last evening that he was not in favor of trafficking in bodies. He thinks that some minds could be devoted by which bodies could be got without having to recourse to the robbery of graveyards.

INS AND OUTS.

We had occasion some time ago to give publicity to the disgraceful escapade of Big Jim Lindsay, of Apsley, who ran away with the young daughter of a hotel-keeper at that place, leaving his wife and children in a penniless condition. Readers will readily recall the circumstances of Lindsay's cold blooded actions. So it will not be necessary to relate them again.

He it known however, that Big Jim was in town a few days ago and favored our sanctum with his mormonistic presence.

Jim walked into the office with blood in his eye and bluster written all over his face, but when he gazed upon the proportions of our fighting editor, the bluster melted away like fog before a Junelet sun, and the iris of his optic regained its natural color. In an ordinary tone of voice he asked us to apologize for all we had said of him, or he would immediately institute an action for libel.

With all the horrible details of the Mason case fresh in our mind and the vista of unlimited costs attached to a lawsuit, this was indeed a terrible threat, but it didn't work. Mr. Lindsay was firmly informed that he would get no satisfaction from this journal, and when he saw that his bluff wouldn't work, he peacefully took his departure.

An Extension OF OUR BARGAIN DAY SALE

Hall, Gilchrist & Co.

We have been asked by a large number of our town customers to offer the same Bargains on Friday afternoon that we give on Saturdays, their reason being that owing to the enormous crowds attending these sales on Saturday from outside places they are unable to get waited on with any satisfaction.

We are pleased to grant this request as we have been unable (even with extra help) to wait on all the people wanting these bargains, and we think this extension will relieve us somewhat. On and after this week our Bargain Sale will commence EVERY FRIDAY at One o'clock p.m. and continue till 9.30 p.m. SATURDAY.

With a resident buyer in Europe and a vigilant watch kept on the Canadian Markets, our syndicate is in a position to often buy clearing lines at, in many cases, less than it costs to manufacture them.

We are proving every week to those who have been wise enough to trade with us, that there is money saved to every customer who deals at our store.

THE SITUATION IN CARDWELL.

Cardwell Grits are probably putting up a candidate to save their fellow-partisans in Quebec from necessity of explaining why the Liberals in Ontario are working with D'Alton McCarthy against the Government.

It would not pay Wilfred Laurier to leave the contest in Cardwell to the McCarthyites and the Conservatives. The abandonment of the constituency by the Grits would be the outward and visible expression of that party's sympathy with the McCarthyites.

The nomination of a Liberal candidate ought to secure the success of the Government nominee in Cardwell in. Mr. Wiloughby is an able and popular young Canadian, as strong as any non-farmer can be in that intensely agricultural constituency. He might not win against Mr. Stubbs single handed, but when there is a Grit in the field, Tories who have no quarrel with McCarthy will vote against his candidate in order to keep a constituency that has never been anything else but Conservative in line with its traditions.

The admission of Utah adds the forty-fifth star to the sprangled banner. Only New Mexico, Arizona and Oklahoma now remain as territories, and their admission will bring the number of states up to forty-eight, at which figure it will probably remain for a long time, unless the Mayor of Detroit or some other jingo American takes a notion to annex Canada.

THE M'CARTHY CASE.

ANOTHER DISPATCH CONFIRMING THIS REMARKABLE RECOVERY.

Had Bright's Disease—Was Given up to Die—Got Well—Calls Dodd's Kidney Pills His Doctor and Says Cured.

Special to The Times. Ottawa, Nov. 14.—A dispatch from Richmond reached the Citizen and Free Press here and copied by both of them was the first news, to a wide circle of interested friends, of the recovery of Mr. J. McCarthy, harness-maker, of that place, from a hopeless condition of Bright's disease. His friends had expected to hear of his death at any time.

Inquiry direct with Richmond confirmed the fact that his shop was open and that the late patient was hard at work. "Is it true that he owes his life to Dodd's Kidney Pills?" was asked.

"Yes. He gives that remedy all credit, for he had quit the doctors and took no other medicine," was the answer.

"Mr. McCarthy had been running down for some time from Bright's disease and deciding, after hearing of another remarkable cure in the same vicinity, to use Dodd's Kidney Pills." "He was not disappointed, and after ten weeks reopened his shop."

Such were the replies confirmatory of the original dispatch concerning this remarkable cure.

It seems only necessary for any person despairing of life to let go all other remedies and use Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Out of over a million boxes sold there has never been a complaint that Dodd's Kidney Pills has disappointed expectations.

Mr. McCarthy calls these pills his doctor, and so they are; and are used at present in a million homes in Canada.

"COMPROMISE."

There is much talk of "compromise" in connection with the Manitoba school question. The Toronto World professes to know that the government will introduce a "compromise" remedial legislation bill, and Winnipeg Free Press, which is not in the confidence of the Greenway government, advises that government to pass some "compromise" legislation. We agree with the Hamilton Spectator that the details of each of the "compromise" show that both aim at the re-establishment of separate schools in Manitoba. When it is remembered that the question in Manitoba is not to what extent a church is to be allowed to meddle in school affairs, but whether a church shall be allowed to meddle at all, the proposed "compromises" look very much like proposed back-downs—very much like proposed surrender to the church. Once re-establish the separate schools, and the object the people of Manitoba have been working for twenty years is entirely lost. Once give the separate schools a legal footing and the church will soon be able to so manipulate the voters as to secure perfect control of the schools. Once acknowledge that the church has the slightest right to meddle with the schools, and the church will very soon be in a position to demand the right to control the schools entirely. The history of separate schools in the Protestant province of Ontario proves that Manitoba's only salvation is to stick where she is. She has taken the right course and should not allow herself to be bullied or cajoled out of that course to the slightest fraction of a degree. Either the churches have a right to govern the schools or they have not. There is no intermediate ground—no room for compromise. Manitoba holds that the churches must not meddle with education, and can make not the slightest "compromise" without stultifying herself. She cannot yield in the slightest without surrender. We are of an opinion that the people of Manitoba are so completely satisfied with the result of their twenty years' work in the school matter that they will not make the slightest change.

An old procuress of 60 years who plied her hellish trade for a commission of 25 cents a head, was sentenced at Montreal yesterday to twelve months in jail. She should have got twelve years at least.

If all the members of the Women's Christian Temperance Union and other temperance societies are sufficiently interested in the cause they have espoused to spend one cent a day for the next four weeks they can do a good work. If they will get one ratepayer each day to write to one of the aldermen from his ward urging him to support Ald. Lamb's early closing by-law it will not be long before there will be a change of sentiment among the aldermen.

Points of analogy between the late war of Japan and China and the Franco-German conflict of a quarter of a century ago have often suggested themselves, and another is now added. For, as the uprising of the Commune followed the conclusion of peace with Germany, so in China the Mohammedan rebellion is making great headway. Matters become serious when the leader of the Dungans after a series of victories threatens a march on Pekin unless his terms are complied with. And for the suppression of this rebellion China has no GORDON at command. And another cause of trouble is the mutiny of troops at Kin-Kiang, on the Yangtse above Shanghai.

HOW THE SUN LIFE FULFILLS ITS PROMISES

A MATURED 10 YEAR ENDOWMENT

Profits paid by the SUN 21 per cent more than . . . the estimates . . .

The following letter which speaks for itself, was received by the undersigned this morning from a gentleman at Brockville whose ten year endowment which he held in the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada, matured last week and was paid him. The Sun are modest in promises but unequalled in results. The public are benefited by results, not by promises unfulfilled.

BROCKVILLE, November 7th, 1895
W. H. HILL, ESQ.,
Mfr. Central Ontario Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada
PETERBOROUGH, ONT.

DEAR SIR,—I should have acknowledged the receipt of yours enclosing cheque for endowment policy No. 12,871 before, only I wanted to write something more than a mere receipt. I am pleased to hear of the continued prosperity of the "Sun" and it speaks well for your Company when the profits are greater (by 21 per cent.) than you as the Company's representative promised, or rather estimated, as was the case with this policy.

I hope your Company will continue to prosper and I often regret that I do not carry more insurance than I am doing. I might have carried twice as much as I do when at Minden without any great effort, still what little I do carry I feel is perfectly safe being in the "Sun."

I must thank you for your promptness and kindness regarding this policy just settled. I hope we will both be alive and well when the one I now hold will be due in 1905 and assuring you of very best wishes, I remain,

Yours sincerely,
(Signed) F. R. C.

P. S.—The above was written without any suggestion on my part, and it will certainly prove interesting reading to our host of policy holders.

MARINE GRAVEYARD.

SAWYER'S BEND, NEAR ST. LOUIS, AND ITS HIDDEN WEALTH.

The Fatal Locality in the Mississippi Where Some of the World's Finest Boats Went Down—Millions of Dollars' Worth Buried in the Sand.

"The recent discovery of a sunken raft by Mayor Walbridge in the channel of the river above the Chain of Rocks," said Street Commissioner M. J. Murphy, "will bring to the minds of many of our old steamboatmen the disasters that befell the marine craft of this city in that portion of the river now included in the harbor of St. Louis. The charter harbor of the city includes that stretch of the Mississippi river between the mouth of the Missouri and the mouth of the Meramec. That portion of the harbor under the care and control of the harbor and wharf commissioner lies between the Chain of Rocks and the Rives des Peres. From the upper mouth of the Missouri to the foot of North Market street there are now lying under the silt and sands the wrecks of over 60 boats and barges. Many of these steamboats were the largest, best equipped and speediest that ever walked the navigable waterways of the country. They were in reality marine palaces, such as this generation has not seen. Sawyer's bend was the fatal locality where nearly all these splendid crafts foundered and settled under the shifting sands of the treacherous channel. Among the boats that were lost many now living will recall the following: York State, Southerner, Mary Blain, Highland Mary, Grace Darling, Alleghany, Federal Arch, C. Bull, Yuba, Baltimore, John B. Carson, Philadelphia, Edinburg, Challenger, Moderator, Nebraska, Sioux City, White Cloud, Omaha, New Admiral, Geneva, Warsaw, Empire City, Governor Sharkey, Submarine No. 18, Saratoga No. 2, War Eagle, Ben Jonson, Gerard B. Allen, Fanny Scott, Henry Adams, Columbia, Silver Bow, R. J. Lockwood, Wild Duck, Nile, Victoria, Champion, Blue Lodge, Calhoun, Alma, Central City, Raven, Salvor, J. W. Garrett, Hudson, Beaver, John P. Kester, Pacific, Lulu Worth, Cornelia, Badger State.

"The above were sunk between the years 1855 and 1858. In addition to these, there were 30 barges lost north of Bissell's point within the same years. No record was kept of the sawyer or old lumber rafts that were lost south of Alton, but it has been estimated that the aggregate value was over $1,000,000. Only two of the above named boats, the Calhoun and Alma, were raised. The bones of all the others lie many feet beneath the sand, petrifying under the action of the water. The actual loss in marine property to the merchants of St. Louis by the sinking of these boats was over $5,000,000. Many of the owners in the loss of this property lost not only all they had, but also lost courage because of the increasing dangers to the marine commerce of the immediate harbor of St. Louis. To add to the pathetic story of these disasters, many of them fatal to life, it might be stated in passing that during the period named above 53 splendid steamers were destroyed by fire within the charter harbor of the city. The hulls of many of them lie just outside of the present water line and form the retaining dike for the granite wharf. Many of the grandfathers and grandmothers of today will remember with varying emotions their bridal trips on the James Howard, the Leviathan, the Blismark, the Grand Republic, the Carrie V. Kountz and others equally grand. It is beneath the sand above that I find the term 'the upper mouth of the Missouri.' I did this advisedly, because of the fact that within the past 40 years that river, where it empties into the Mississippi, has changed its location four or five times, and its present mouth is several miles south of where that existed a few years ago. Opposite these various mouths, and for one mile southward, many of the disasters named above occurred. The outpouring of the Missouri waters was swift, the eddies and currents were treacherous, and the snags and other obstructions so numerous at that point that unusual care was necessary in order to avoid the fatal places.

"The conditions that existed in Sawyer's bend 40 years ago exist practically today and are still a serious menace to the marine commerce of the city, with the added dangers to the important municipal and railroad interests that have grown with the requirements of the water supply and the transportation demands of a great metropolis.

"In 1857, when Robert E. Lee, afterward the great Confederate general, was assigned by the war department to the work of improving the harbor of St. Louis, he outlined to congress what should be done for its permanent fixation. These plans involved the securing of regular and partial alluvial shores on the Missouri and Illinois sides of the river, and the regulation of the bed of the river above the city so as to deflect the water in a direct line into the channel under favorable conditions. If he had been allowed to carry out his plans, there would be no marine graveyard in Sawyer's bend today, and it is difficult to estimate now what would have been the marine destiny of this city if President Folk had not persistently vetoed every bill that was passed for harbor improvements and for the improvement of the inland seas of the west. I had occasion in 1887 to make a survey of the charter harbor of St. Louis for the river and harbor committee, and I found north of the city the same obstructions that were noted on the map prepared by Lieutenant Lee and filed with the war department in 1857. If the proper and necessary improvements were made in Sawyer's bend now, I estimate that 3,000 acres of solid land could be reclaimed to the riparian owners, worth at the present value $3,000,000. Putting entirely aside the question of re-establishing the former shore line, the present rapid erosion must be stopped, or great damage will result to the railway terminals now being constructed there. The water department, too, may be confronted in time with the serious problem of retarding the encroachments of the mouth of the Missouri on the immediate site of the new waterworks, and the erosion of the banks along which the conduits are constructed. If the waters in Sawyer's bend could be deflected backward, as the waters of the Red sea once were, the sands cleared away and the skeletons of our former palatial steamers photographed, what a terrible object lesson would be conveyed from a spot that is now the most thickly settled marine graveyard in the world!"—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

MAHER WON IN ONE ROUND.

O'Donnell Only a Chopping Block for the Irishman.

Special to The Times.

MANPETH, L. I., Nov. 12.—The meeting of Peter Maher and Steve O'Donnell in the arena of the Empire A. C. at this place tonight created an immense amount of interest among the sporting fraternity. As early as eight o'clock there were very few vacant seats in the club house, and outside a long line of sports pushed and struggled in their frantic efforts to get at the box office. It was the largest crowd ever seen at the Empire A. C. Maher was the favorite in the betting, his manager J. Quinn, laying odds of 3 to 2 when ever he could find takers. O'Donnell was not without friends, and a good deal of money changed hands. The opening bout was between Caspar Lee of New York and Billy Smith of Philadelphia. They commenced their sixround bout at catchweights at 9 o'clock. Tim Hurst was referee. Just as the boys stepped into the ring Corbett came in, and was received with a good deal of applause, but some hissing was audible through the cheering while Sullivan was received with uniform favor. The referee awarded the fight to Leon.

The opening bout only served to whet the appetites of the 4,000 persons who packed the arena, and they were all agog to see the big fellows. They were announced to fight in rounds at catchweights. O'Donnell's seconds were Billy Delaney, Jim McCabe and Ben Murphy. Maher was looked after by Peter Lowery, Buck Cornelius of Pittsburgh and Pete Burns. O'Donnell was the first to appear at 9:35 o'clock. He was well received, but Maher, who stepped into the ring about a minute after, got a great ovation.

The Irishman knocked out his opponent in the first round, after one minute and three seconds of fighting. Maher led with his right and landed on the jaw, knocking O'Donnell down. The moment the Australian got up Maher repeated, and again O'Donnell went down. He rose on the ninth count, and after sparring for a second, Maher knocked him down and out with a left swing on the jaw. Time, 1 min. 3 sec.

O'Donnell had to be carried to his corner, but he recovered, and was assisted to the dressing room. The crowd went wild, and poured into the ring, and the wildest enthusiasm O'Donnell did not seem to realize what he was against, and did not make the slightest effort to defend his jaw. He got up only to be felled like a sheep.

NEWARK, Nov. 11.—Mrs. T. H. McKee, formerly of Listowel, came here as a last resort. Had suffered ten years with Bright's disease. Reported to be past help and dying her reappearance on the streets in apparent good health, was a pleasant surprise. The explanation given was that her little boy had insisted that she should use Dodd's Kidney Pills and prophesied that they would cure her. She says:— "From the first few doses I began to feel better, and after taking four and a half boxes, I say it with heart felt gratitude, I am perfectly cured." Dodd's Kidney Pills is the only medicine in the world that has ever cured a case of Bright's disease at such a stage.

PETERBOROUGH, NOVEMBER 12 1895

DOWN TO DEATH.

TERRIBLE FATE OF A GRAND TRUNK PASSENGER.

Found Floating in the Ottawa River—Supposed That He Was Blown off the Chicago Express While the Train Was Crossing the Bridge at Vaudreuil.

Special to The Times.

MONTREAL, Nov. 13.—The coroner has been summoned to Vaudreuil by a message which stated that the dead body of a man had been found floating in the Ottawa River, near the Grand Trunk Railway bridge at that point.

A jury was sworn in here, beyond the reach of the body they could do nothing, and the inquest was adjourned until Monday next, the 18th instant, in order that further particulars might be obtained.

Coroner McMahon has learned that the deceased was L. Pelletier, of Nashua, N.H. From papers found upon his person, it is believed that on Saturday last he bought a ticket from Nashua to Montreal, Wisc., leaving the former place at 10 a.m. and arriving in Montreal at 10.15 the same evening, and leaving again on the 10.25 Chicago express. It can only be surmised that while the train was crossing the bridge at Vaudreuil the unfortunate man attempted to pass from one car to another, and being caught by the wind, which was blowing a regular cyclone at the time, was lifted clear over the chain at the side and dropped into the water.

As the water at this point is not very deep, there is every reason to suppose that Pelletier was instantly killed by falling from the great height over the rocks below. Telegrams have been sent to Nashua and also to Montreal, for the purpose of obtaining further particulars concerning the deceased, but up to the present no news have been received from either place.

DIDN'T HEAR THE TRAIN.

Miss Allingham, a Music Teacher, Run Down and Killed at Oro Station.

SPECIAL TO THE TIMES.
BARRIE, Nov. 13.—Miss Allingham, a music teacher at Barrie, was struck and instantly killed this afternoon by a Grand Trunk special freight train on the public crossing south of Oro Station. Miss Allingham was a great pedestrian, and it is supposed she was walking home along the track and did not hear the approaching train. An inquest will likely be held tomorrow.

ALMOST TORN TO PIECES.

The Heartrending Death of a Young Man in a Flour Mill.

SPECIAL TO THE TIMES.
HAMILTON, Nov. 13.—At Howard's flour mill at Watford, this morning, a young man named Wm. Anderson, who was employed in the mill, was in some way caught in the belting and almost torn to pieces. One arm was pulled entirely off, both legs were cut and mangled, his boots and part of the feet were torn off, and his body was covered with cuts and bruises. Anderson was 19 years of age. His parents live at Mount Forest.

CORBETT SURRENDERS

The Championship and the Belt—But He Never Won the Latter.

SPECIAL TO THE TIMES.
DALLAS, Tex., Nov. 13.—Wm. A. Brady has telegraphed to Dan A. Stuart for J. J. Corbett saying: "Corbett surrenders the championship belt to Maher and will back Maher for $10,000 against Fitzsimmons."

The telegram was forwarded to Stuart at El Paso, who sent the following reply to his Dallas representative: "Tell Corbett that Corbett had better win that belt before he disposes of it."

RUN DOWN BY A TRAIN.

The Awful Fate of Mr. Lapine Near Renfrew Yesterday Afternoon.

SPECIAL TO THE TIMES.
RENFREW, Nov. 13.—A man named Lapine, who lived with a son on a farm about four miles east of here, was instantly killed on the track about a quarter of a mile east of the town, by the Winnipeg express going west this afternoon at 4 o'clock. He had been in town making some small purchases, and had started to return by the track, meeting the train at the point mentioned, and although he could not see the train, he seems to have made no effort to get out of the way. An inquest will probably be held.

The Marine Set at Liberty.

VICTORIA, B.C., Nov. 13.—The Admiralty Court has dismissed the charges pending against the sealer schooner E. B. Marvin, which was made prisoner by the cutter Seahawk for alleged use of fire-arms in Behring Sea, and restored the vessel to liberty. Chief Justice Davis held that Captain Taylor's explanation was amply sufficient.

Killed at Watford.

WATFORD, Ont., Nov. 13.—William Anderson, of Mount Forest, was instantly killed here yesterday while trying to put on a belt. He was caught in it and almost torn to pieces. He was about 19 years of age.

A PEARL IN A PATTY.

A Bowery Preacher Has Found One in an Oyster.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—The "Rev." John Robinson, a Bowery evangelist, ran up against a pearl in an oyster patty yesterday. It was in J. J. Wain's restaurant, No. 177 William street, and the jewel was served to him by John Tierney, one of the waiters. Robinson struck the gem at the third mouthful and nearly broke his teeth as he fell upon a pearl as big as a hazel nut. The preacher was reluctant to hand over the pearl to the proprietor of the restaurant, claiming that he had paid for the oyster patty and all pertaining thereto, but finally he was persuaded to hand it over to the proprietor.

CANADIAN BANK AT DETROIT.

It is Said a Branch will be Opened N. at Feb. 1st—Not Believed Here.

SPECIAL TO THE TIMES.
DETROIT, Nov. 13.—It is stated on good authority that one of the largest banking institutions of Canada, having a capital of several million dollars, will open an office in Detroit on or about the first of February.

There are only three banks in Canada with a capital of several millions—Commerce, Merchants and Montreal. It is absolutely certain that Montreal would not establish a branch there and the other two banks do their western business at Windsor, so it is altogether unlikely that a branch will be opened in the City of the Straits. Local bankers scout the idea.

KILLED NEAR THOROLD.

Bert Upper and His Horse Meet Death by Going Over the Edge of a Cliff.

SPECIAL TO THE TIMES.
THOROLD, Ont., Nov. 13.—Bert Upper, a farmer from Stamford township, while driving home from here last night in the darkness took the wrong road and drove over the edge of the best cement kiln and fell a distance of about 30 feet. Both he and his horse were killed.

McKinley for the Presidency.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 13.—Col. H. G. Otis, editor of the Los Angeles Times, has received a letter from John Sherman saying: "The recent elections have cleared the political sky, and I believe fairly opened the way for the nomination of Major McKinley for the Presidency. He will be heartily supported from Ohio and I trust be nominated and elected."

In Advanced Years

The strength and pure blood necessary to resist the effects of cold seasons are given by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"I have for the last 25 years of my life been complaining of a weakness of the lungs and colds in the head, especially in the winter. Last fall I was again attacked. Reading of Hood's Sarsaparilla I was led to try it. I am now taking the fifth bottle with good results. I can positively say that I have not spent a winter as free from coughs or pains and difficult breathing as I have now. I can lie down and sleep all night without any annoyance from cough or pain in the lungs or asthmatic difficulty." E. M. CHAMBERS, J. P., Cornhill, N. B.

The Times.

PETERBOROUGH, NOVEMBER 15 1895.

In his speech at the lord mayor's banquet, Lord Salisbury delicately indicated that, although England's voice was not for war, it was in good condition for the utterance of a war-hoop if necessary.

A queer church quarrel is reported from Scotland, where an Episcopalian clergyman has rent his congregation in twain by trying to suppress a debating society connected with the church. This society, it seems, recently considered the relative influence of the modern press and the modern pulpit, and decided by vote that the orators who sustained the newspaper side of the controversy had the better of it. The reverend clergyman therefore declared both himself and the church grievously insulted, and peremptorily ordered everybody connected with the debating society to resign from it. Nobody obeyed, and the result has been empty pews and much harsh language from the pastor and his rebellious flock.

Kidney Talk.

Why is a person ever seriously ill? Impure blood, nearly every time. What is pure blood? It is the vital fluid which in passing through the kidneys, as it must do many times every hour, carries with it no impurity—perfectly filtered. Will the kidneys always do this? Yes, if they are not weak, or overworked, or injured by accident, or congested and inflamed by cold. So long as the kidneys are in good health, so long will you be quite well and healthy. What happens when the kidneys are out of order? Why, any form of illness may happen. You can never know where or how it may end. In case the warnings called symptoms are ignored and the tissues of the kidney break down, the doctor will tell you that it is diabetes and incurable, or Bright's disease and a hopeless case. But after that? Well, watch this paper and you can read of many great cures of these so-called incurable diseases by using Dodd's Kidney Pills. But greater cures, we think, are the simple ones, the cures of the small beginnings, where the misery and the harm to the constitution is escaped. What a happy thing cure is! How endlessly people will talk of their case! With what smiles and enjoyment! Some of our grateful patients never come to the city without calling to talk over their cures. A man by the name of Joshua Clarkson living at 114 Robert street, this city, came in the other day. He had saved his life by using two boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills. What was the disease? Diabetes. Yes; he had lost thirty-one pounds in weight in five weeks. It took him seven weeks to regain his health and his avoirdupois. No one could hear him talk and not take courage, be he ever so sick. A full account of this case will appear in this paper. Then, not long ago Samuel Murray came in, looking well, too. He it was who was paralyzed for a whole year, given up by ever so many doctors and was cured by twelve boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills. A reporter of a city paper saw him. Seemed to think it impossible that a man could recover from such an illness. There was no miracle about it. He used Dodd's Kidney Pills. Hundreds of people are talking to each other about cures accomplished by this medicine, and these pills are selling everywhere. And they always cure.

GOOD ROADS.

There is a society in Ontario called the Good Roads association. This society meets occasionally, and the members read papers at each other, in which all manner of suggestions are made. These papers are printed by the Ontario, government and there the matter ends. The farcical system of statute labor continues to exist, and the roads remain cut into ruts. In Ontario, where capital road material can be had everywhere, there should be no trouble about having good roads. Our excellent contemporary the Hamilton Spectator hits the nail squarely on the head when it says that all that is necessary is for the legislature to abolish the statute labor system, compel all men to pay their taxes in money, and have the road taxes applied under the supervision of competent engineers. Then add a clause compelling the use of wide tires, and the thing is done. But it seems to be utterly impossible to induce the ultra-Conservative—the moss-back Conservative—government of Ontario to make a change in a law that has existed for some time. That government seems to have a veneration for old and useless things which it is impossible to overcome. It is better to make a mistake once in a while, in attempting to improve, than to go on year after year making absolutely no effort to get out of the pioneer way of doing things.

English papers say that Mr. Gladstone is at present engaged in editing all the letters which he has received and thought worthy of preservation. They number more than 200,000.

Some momentous questions have recently been settled by eminent legal authorities of the United States. The Michigan Supreme Court has decided that "having a jawbone fractured while getting a tooth drawn is not an accident;" the United States Supreme Court has decided that "a tomato is a vegetable," although lay authorities call it a fruit; the Oregon Supreme Court has held that "a mortgage is real estate," and the Pennsylvania Supreme Court has ruled that "beef stew is not soup." The only great questions now unsolved are the identity of the man in the iron mask, the authorship of Junius' letters, and whether Fitzsimmons or Corbett would have won the champion sluggership of the world.

Kansas has the peculiar practice of not executing its criminals who are sentenced to death. The custom is to allow them to serve in the penitentiary for life. There are now 75 of these gentry under sentence of death. No Governor of Kansas, so it is said, has ever signed a death-warrant, and Gov. Morrill has just intimated that he would not break the precedent, even to oblige 600 citizens of Edwards County, who have petitioned him to sign the warrant of Carl Arnold and William Harvey, who, while drunk, killed the Mayor of a city. A mob would have hanged the two young toughs to a telegraph pole had it not been for Judge Vandiver, who promised the leaders that if they would turn Arnold and Harvey over to the Sheriff he would guarantee their conviction and sentence to death, and that he would then go before the Governor and ask that he allow them to be executed after one year's incarceration in the penitentiary. The men were convicted, and they have been in the prison for a year. The refusal of Gov. Morrill will be resented in all probability, and it may be conducive to lynch-law in the future.

A MATURED 10 YEAR ENDOWMENT

Profits paid by the SUN 21 per cent more than . . . the estimates . . .

The following letter which speaks for itself, was received by the undersigned this morning from a gentleman at Brockville whose ten year endowment which he held in the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada, matured last week and was paid him. The Sun are modest in promises but unequalled in results. The public are benefited by results, not by promises unfulfilled.

W. H. HILL, ESQ., Mgr. Central Ontario Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada PETERBOROUGH, ONT.

DEAR SIR,—

I should have acknowledged the receipt of your enclosing cheque for endowment policy No. 12,871 before, only I wanted to write something more than a mere receipt. I am pleased to hear of the continued prosperity of the "Sun" and it speaks well for your Company when the profits are greater (by 21 per cent.) than you as the Company's representative promised, or rather estimated, as was the case with this policy.

I hope your Company will continue to prosper and I often regret that I do not carry more insurance than I am doing. I might have carried twice as much as I do when at Minden without any great effort, still what little I do carry I feel is perfectly safe being in the "Sun."

I must thank you for your promptness and kindness regarding this policy just settled. I hope we will both be alive and well when the one I now hold will be due in 1905 and assuring you of very best wishes, I remain, Yours sincerely, (Signed) F. R. C.

P. S.—The above was written without any suggestion on my part, and it will certainly prove interesting reading to our host of policy holders.

HENRI ROCHEFORT.

A Famous Writer Whose Caustic Pen Got Him Into Trouble.

A cable correspondent estimates that 800,000 people were at the railroad station in Paris the other day to welcome Henri Rochefort on his return to the French capital after years of exile in England.

Rochefort has been called the D'Artagnan of French journalism. During the points of rashness when he handled a pen, Rochefort is timid if called to plead his own cause by word of mouth. If he had been in that Paris court a few months ago when the magistrate sentenced him to three months' imprisonment for "insulting the bench" in one of his blazing leaders in the Intransigent he would probably have made a poor appearance.

But when he took up his pen and began to dissect the limb of the law who had shown his resentment by making "complete amnesty" difficult for him, the advantage was all on his side. With the lightning of his irony he so "scorified" that judge that he made him ridiculous, and in France ridicule is killing.

The exile which has just come to an end is not the first to which he has been subjected. For his share in the wild doings of the commune he was condemned to death, but the sentence was commuted to transportation to New Caledonia. The story of his escape from that penal settlement and of his passing through the United States is well known. On his return to Europe, as he, of course, would not go to France, he settled down in Switzerland and lost no time in annoying the French government by his political articles and pamphlets. He attacked the anarchy bill was passed, which restored all those implicated in the commune to France, and Henri Rochefort at once returned to Paris. He started the Intransigent—the word means one who will never compromise—and the paper rapidly obtained a large circulation. He attacked on the government and on all public men prominent in its councils were daily and of the most unrelenting and violent kind. These attacks were in the form of a short signed leader printed in large type.

When the Boulanger movement began,
Rochefort, although he had not spared General Boulanger when the latter was minister of war, became one of his warmest supporters and made the Intransigent one of the chief organs of the party.

When the government decided to crush the Boulangerist, Minister Comans issued an order for the arrest of the general, Count Dillon and Rochefort. All three received timely warning and escaped to Belgium. From Brussels Rochefort continued his attacks, sending his daily article to the Intransigent, and when the Belgian government, a few weeks later, requested him to leave the country, he went to London. In his absence he was, along with General Boulanger and Count Dillon, tried by the senate, organized as a special tribunal, found guilty of having attempted to overthrow the government, and sentenced to imprisonment. It is from the effects of this sentence that Rochefort is relieved by the amnesty bill passed the other day by the French chamber and senate.

Rochefort has been trying hard to return to France since the advent of Cassim-Perier to power, says the New York Advertiser. But it was latterly intimated to him that the door is not likely to be opened, as he is the guardian of too many dangerous and compromising secrets. It was the anger awakened by this news which prompted the article that caused the government's anger. The government has not forgotten the Boulanger business and the important role which the great journalist played in it.

Rochefort may almost be said to have created Boulanger. He acted as keeper to the elephant during the early months of the campaign. But he is too adroit to be left with an elephant on his hands, and he was getting well out of the affair when the orsh came. It was not exactly the thing to desert the poor, misguided general when the cardinal was falling about his ears. But Rochefort claims that he could not do otherwise. He had counted on seeing the general triumphantly parading through Europe on his famous black charger, and it made him furious to find his scheme a failure and to have that failure complicated with enforced absence from Paris.

Besides he found General Boulanger altogether too feeble in presence of adversity. To a man with the iron nerves of Rochefort, who had looked down the muzzle of the pistol of General de Gelliff's aide-de-camp when he was arrested during the months in prison; who had refused chances to escape before the trial came on, and who had been able to build up a great newspaper enterprise after touching bottom, socially and financially —the plastic, yielding nature of Boulanger was incomprehensible.

In his quality of gentleman allied to the cause of the people he pleased the masses better than if he had sprung directly from their ranks.

He was poor as poverty, and when he began to write his caustic political chronicles in the Figaro he had not a hundred francs to his name. In eighteen months he had risen to the command of a salary of $400 monthly for contributing three columns per week, and he got a bonus when he had his contract. From that time forward Rochefort has made journalism pay in the sense that painters and actors who are successful make their profession pay.

Rochefort's Lanterne lighted the empire to its tomb, and illuminated the bold writer's way to parliamentary life. But in the arena of debate he does not seem to have been an imposing figure. When it was dangerous merely to utter the word republican in France it was natural that his appearance in the corps legislatif should have given him prominence. People expected too much of him, and they were disappointed. His true role was then, as it is now, in aggressive journalism; in the article which draws blood every time.

For years Rochefort has been rich.
When he started the Intransigent, a journal devoted to the proletariat, he was living in a sumptuously furnished little mansion, and spent more on his breakfast than a workman's whole expense for a week. Luck comes to him when it is needed. It was luck which prompted the banker, Edmond Adam, to send the $5,000 francs which opened the way to Roche-fort's escape from the penal colony of Noumea. It was luck which prevented his recapture and imprisonment return to Australia. And now luck has brought him eagerly sought, by his friends connected so often that he begins to look upon the operation as a periodical necessity. Yet this time he feels the triumph keenly.
And he feels that there is still room for him in the millstone politics of the third republic.

Electrical Treatment

A. NORMAN, ESQ.
210 Cowan Ave., Toronto.

Dear Sir:—We think we ought to acknowledge in some way that may become public, the very great benefit our daughter has derived from the use of your Electro-Curative Bells, and your application of Electricity in the Bath and from Dry Treatment: When we brought her to you she was a picture of unhealthiness, her limbs were shriveled up, and as thin as limbs could be; she had no strength even to play with other children, in fact she was dying of consumption. Besides this, there was a hard lump on her spine at the nape of her neck, which caused her neck to be so stiff she could not move her head. Although it is only three months since we brought her to you she is sound and well

PETERBOROUGH, NOVEMBER 15 1895.

CITY AND COUNTY NEWS

LOCAL AND DISTRICT HAPPENINGS OF THE DAY.

The Weather.

Probe—Fresh to strong southerly to westerly winds; fair to cloudy; showers tonight.

Special Council Meeting.

A special meeting of the town council has been called to meet this evening.

A Lecture to Tailors.

A Lecture on China.

Dr. Kitts delivered a very interesting lecture on China in St. Andrew's school room last evening. He dwelt upon the customs, habits, and religion of the nation. He was dressed in native costume. The audience was large.

Quick Returns.

On Wednesday a small advertisement appeared in these columns for Mr. T. Cavanaugh, for men to work in the lumber shanties. Yesterday 11 men from Port Hope, Cobourg and Millbrook applied to Mr. Cavanaugh for work. They stated that they saw the advertisement in THE TIMES.

A Visiting Delegation.

A number of the members of Lindsay Lodge No. 100, I. O. O. F., are contemplating a fraternal visit to Otonabee Lodge No. 13, Peterborough, on Wednesday evening, Nov. 21th. The Lindsay degree team will exemplify the degree work, and the occasion is looked forward to with pleasant anticipations.—Lindsay Post.

A $1,000 Order.

Yesterday THE TIMES shipped from its job department, a completed order for one of the railways, amounting to $1,000. The Times is the great railway and show printing establishment of Ontario and is the only office outside of the large cities that is equipped to do all kinds of job work, stereotyping and book binding.

A Very Good Plan.

The corporation of Smith's Falls, acting on the suggestion of a local judge, in order to forestall all actions for damages from defective sidewalks, have a standing advertisement in the local papers requesting all parties finding broken planks to at once report the fact to the street inspector. The same course might be followed with advantage in Peterborough.

Season Closed.

To-day all the hunters of the Province will be required to lay aside their rifles, gather up their game, and leave the lands where "antlered monarchs" roam. Game wardens and their spies are keeping vigil watch for those who trespass beyond the limit of the law—the 15th inst. Deer have been hard pressed by hounds in every quarter this year, and scores of them have been driven into the wilder country to become a prey to the wolves.

A Saturday's Moon.

"A Saturday moon will go seven times round" is an old saying which has been heard from old weather prophets, who expected no good from a moon which came in on Saturday. The next new moon, by the way, that will be seen on November 15th, is a Saturday's moon. But, on the other hand, the scientific meteorologist believes that there is not the slightest trace of influence on the weather of any period of the moon's orbit around the earth, and he backs that belief by a long course of careful observation.

Typhoid Fever Epidemic.

From nearly every district of Ontario comes news of drying up of wells, low level of lake and river marks, and typhoid fever. Localities which have hitherto had no thought of any scarcity of water are now compelled to consider the question of improved supplies. Contemporaneous with this scarcity of water the typhoid fever cases show a considerable increase in the number of the week of the week. The approach of frost will, it is believed, help to reduce the fever cases to a minimum.

Our Chances For the Meet.

Already Peterborough and the papers of that thriving place are talking for the O. W. A. meet in 1896, says the Toronto Telegram. Peterborough deserves to have the opportunity of entertaining the Canadian wheelmen. At the annual meeting last spring the representatives of Peterborough made a hard fight for the big meet, but with the influence put forth by Mr. J. E. Beagman Waterloo got the meet. If Peterborough gets the O. W. A. the hundreds of enthusiastic cyclists of that place will most assuredly furnish a program that no bicycle organization could be ashamed of. The hotel accommodations and the track are also as good as there is in Ontario.

Selling Tobacco to Minors.

A subscriber writes: Will you please allow us to bring to notice of tobaccoists, and others, the matter of supplying tobacco in any form to minors. Notwithstanding the act which was passed in April 1893 we find young boys smoking or observing to an alarming extent in all parts of our town, and they are being supplied with the tobacco from stores and other sources. The following clause taken from the statutes should be sufficient warning: "Any person who either directly or indirectly sells or gives or furnishes to a minor under 18 years of age, cigarettes, cigars or tobacco in any form shall on summary conviction thereof be liable to a fine of not less than $10 or more than $50, or to imprisonment in the discretion of the convicting magistrate." Having the welfare of the boys at heart we are determined to do what we can to stop this practice, and hereby striving to influence the boys to give up this pernicious habit, we shall also endeavor to convince those who are supplying them with tobacco in any form.

BROKE HIS THIGH.

A Very Painful Accident Befalls a Small Boy.

A little boy named Elliott, whose parents live on Stewart street broke his thigh yesterday afternoon. With a number of children he was playing around a piano box on King street. He crawled into the box and his playmates tipped it over. The lad was caught between the edge of the box and the sidewalk. A gentleman happened along, released the lad and carried him to his home. Drs. Greer and King attended Elliott.

ABOUT IMPURE ICE.

The Provincial Board of Health Will Issue a Guiding Circular.

At the last quarterly meeting of the Provincial Board of Health a committee was appointed to draft a model set of regulations for the cutting, storing and sale of ice for domestic and other uses. Dr. Bryce brought the matter before the Board this morning before making any recommendations. There has always been some uncertainty about ice cutting in Toronto, said he, and if the Board thought it should be left to the local authorities nothing need perhaps be recommended. The matter was referred to the Committee on Food and Drinks with instructions to prepare a circular for the guidance of local boards. A long discussion took place on the proposed reorganization of the local medical health boards. By an act passed last year it was decided that counties had the power to abolish official health officers and to appoint one official at a fixed salary. The counties have as yet taken no action and the Board decided to send out circulars advising the adoption of such a policy.

THE KING OF TRAMPS.

He Was in Town Yesterday and Had Lots of Money.

"Whitey," the acknowledged king of the tramps, was in town yesterday with his companion. "Whitey" is the leader of all tramps in Canada and plans all expeditions against hen houses, pantries and even bolder attacks.

He is a tall, white-haired man, standing fully six feet in height, and is very intelligent looking. This is his fourth visit in Peterborough this season. He is familiar with the town and has been seen in the same places without number. "Whitey" is a tramp in appearance as well as by profession. "Whitey" is not. He could pass as a gentleman if he shaved and donned a good suit of clothes.

The pair had an amount of coin and in the saloon where they were seen they were spending money freely, displaying big handfuls of silver and fat rolls of bank notes. Money appeared to be no object to them.

While they were in the bar, Frank Murphy, who was recently acquitted on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon, saw him and put his hand behind his back and gave the tramp a signal. Murphy went through the same movements, clapping one hand against the half-dime palm of the other. "Whitey" immediately recognized him as one of the order and stepped up to him.

"How are you heeled?" he asked.
"Just got out," replied Murphy, "my can is full."

"Whitey" then took out a roll of bills and extracted a "five" which he gave to Murphy. At the same time he remarked:
"You stick to this cob of corn; I want you at Smith's Falls in a few days."

The tramps all had a drink and went out.

Griffith in "Faust."

The Toronto Evening News thus speaks of Mr. Griffith and his splendid company, which are to appear in the opera house, Peterborough, on Tuesday evening next, 10th inst: The reappearance at the Toronto Opera House last night of Mr. John Griffith as Mephistopheles in the never failing drama of "Faust" was greeted by an audience which filled every corner of the theatre and gave the popular actor a patient and appreciative hearing. Neither the age of the play nor its recent rendering in this city by Sir Henry Irving appears to have effected the success of Mr. Griffith's production. The fact that he is one of the few Canadians who are winning success in the theatrical line may have lent a slight additional fervor to his Toronto welcome.

But his acting, his support and his stage settings combined to make a production noteworthy of praise on its merits. Miss Madeline Winslow made a very acceptable Marguerite and Martha was well taken by Miss Jennie Stevens. A change of bill will be made on Saturday evening when "The Ball" with Mr. Griffith as Matthias will be given. "Othello" will precede it on the following evening.

OAK HALL.

A CORRECTION.

Through an inadvertence, which is very much regretted, THE TIMES stated in yesterday's issue that the Foresters' concert would be held on Thursday night. The error was one of those which occur not infrequently in the rush and hurry of publishing a morning paper which appears on the streets at 4 o'clock each morning.

The error occurred in a little two line local brief and before noon it was the talk of the town that the date of the concert had been changed. Mr. Jamieson, of the Examiner, who is prominently connected with the Foresters, informed us that he had been kept busy the greater part of the day answering telephone enquiries about the matter. Other Foresters complained that they had also been bothered with the enquiries of citizens who had read THE TIMES.

It is only a little two line local in THE TIMES that created all this trouble. Let it here be stated that both the Examiner and the Review had published for several days a paid advertisement for the concert, in LARGE BLACK TYPE, setting forth the date and all particulars. Yet it appears from Mr. Jamieson's statement and the statements of other Foresters, that the great mass of citizens had not seen these paid notices, but they did see the little two line local in THE TIMES, all of which goes to show that this journal is an excellent advertising medium.

We regret very much the mistake which has caused so much trouble. We regret it doubly when we realize the annoyance that inaccuracy in a journal which is read as widely and circulates as widely as THE TIMES, is likely to create.

INS AND OUTS.

"Burritt," said the Town Engineer, "you are the cleverest lawyer in all the world." "And you are just the cutest engineer in existence," said the lawyer.

"You guess that's so," said John. "Isn't it queer how we both managed to get into the same family?"

"There are strong indications that Russia is encroaching on the Chinese frontier, my lord," said the private secretary to the British Premier, after going through the morning's mail.

"H'm," mused Lord Salisbury, "we must be diplomatic. Better wait for confirmation."

"An English party in Africa has been fired on by French troops and several persons have been killed."

"That's too bad. We must tell France that we are very sorry, that our party was there and hope she'll."

"The Sultan of Turkey tells us to mind our own business about Armenia. He says he is going to kill as many Armenians as he can, and if we don't like it, we can do the other thing."

"Write at once to the Sultan that we are extremely displeased at the unsatisfactory tone of his communication."

"The United States sends notice that it will regard further encroachments on the territory of Venezuela as a violation of its Monroe Doctrine."

"I don't know how we can afford to forfeit the friendship of the United States."

"The King of Ashantee refuses to comply with your demand that he surrender his country to Great Britain."

"The coast of Zealand is England to submit to such an insult! The honor of our flag has been sullied. The glory and power of our nation is assailed. We will declare war on the King of Ashantee immediately."

G.T.R. Schedule Changes.

The following changes have been made in the G.T.R. time card, which will go into effect on Monday next:

Morning train for Lindsay and west, leaves 8:25.

To Port Hope, 11:47, a.m.

To Lakefield, leaves at 2 p.m., instead of 1:15.

To Belleville, leaves at 1 p.m., instead of at 9 a.m. The 3 p.m. train will be discontinued.

A Narrow Escape.

Conductor Gail and Engineer Hough, in charge of one of the Lindsay special trains now employed on the Allandale division were completely "hoodooed" on Tuesday; when between Barrie and Orillia they ran down a hand car and demolished it; the occupants jumped for their lives. Near Allandale they had the misfortune to strike a Miss Allingham, of Hawkestone, with a projecting buffer on the end of a car, which has since caused her death. The lady in question was a music teacher, and quite a pedestrian. She was on her way home and was walking close to the track and paid no attention to the whistle and bell. It is supposed she was struck in the region of the heart. In the afternoon when near Grass Hill the same train struck a horse cutting it up so badly that it has since died. The boys are down hearted over the effect of their series of serious casualties.

NEGLECTED CHILDREN.

Two Little Girls Given Into the Society's Charge.

In the police court, yesterday morning the magistrate decided that two little girls, Sadie and Luella Free, aged 9 and 6 years should be taken in charge by the Children's Aid Society. The case and its long one, and a sad one. The mother of the children is in the Toronto Asylum.

Several witnesses were examined and the first one, Mrs. Blackstock, Rutledge street, testified that Mrs. Free met her on the street on the 17th of March and told her she desired Mrs. Blackstock to take the two children and keep them, the implied understanding being that Mrs. Free was to be paid. Mrs. Free gave her children had been boarding with Mrs. Geo. Tighe and the reason Mrs. Free gave for leaving Mrs. Tighe was that she had had some words with that lady. Mrs. Free left Luella with Mrs. Blackstock and took Sadie to Campbellford with her, saying she would be back in a few days. Sadie came back alone on April 1st with some clothes. Mrs. Blackstock kept both children and sent them to school. She had not been paid anything for their keeping. Sadie left her on the 1st day of October and Luella was hidden away on 21st of October. She understood both went to Mrs. Tighe's. Mr. Blackstock stated she wanted pay for keeping the both children. Mrs. Free is now in the asylum and Mrs. Blackstock desires to adopt Luella, the youngest child until the mother was released. The mother did not want the children to go any place but Mrs. Blackstock's. She understood the children were Canadian and did not know of any relatives except some in Ashburnham.

Helen McKelvie, a half sister of the two little girls, in her evidence gave a sketch of the family. Her stepfather, Jas. Free, was a farmer in Seymour, Ont. and he died about six years ago. He had two farms when he died and they were sold after his death. Her mother bought a house in Campbellford with money left after paying debts, &c. She thought the house was mortgaged now. There was nothing to support the children as her mother had practically no means.

There were two children two years ago in July and they all lived together at Mrs. Tighe's. Her mother had supported them by nursing. She became ill and went to the asylum. Miss McKelvie is working at the Canadian General Electric Works. Her sister, Sophronia, was doing nothing. Sophronia is 17 years of age and Helena is older. In letters Helena had received from her mother, prior to going to the asylum, Mr. Blackstock had stated that the children should be taken from Mrs. Blackstock's. At present the oldest child was at Mrs. Tighe's and the youngest at the Canadian General Electric Works. The latter she thought was a good home. Regarding the oldest sister she said it would be equally desirable to find her a good home also. Miss McKelvie wished to have the children under the supervision of the Children's Aid Society.

THE MCCARTHY CASE.

ANOTHER DISPATCH CONFIRMING THIS REMARKABLE RECOVERY.

Had Bright's Disease—Was Given up to Die—Got Well—Calls Dodd's Kidney Pills his Doctor and Saviour.

Special to The Times.
Ottawa, Nov. 14.—A dispatch from Richmond reached the Citizen and Free Press here and copied by both of them was the first news, to a wide circle of interested friends, of the recovery of Mr. J. McCarthy, harness-maker, of that place, from a hopeless condition of Bright's disease. His friends had expected to hear of his death at any time.

Inquiry direct with Richmond confirmed the fact that his shop was open and that the late patient was hard at work.

"Is it true that he owes his life to Dodd's Kidney Pills?" was asked.

"Yes. He gives that remedy all credit, for he had quit the doctors and took no other medicine," was the answer.

"Mr. McCarthy had been running down for some time from Bright's disease and deciding, after hearing of other remarkable cures in the same vicinity, to use Dodd's Kidney Pills."

"He was not disappointed, and after a few weeks reopened his shop."

Such were the replies confirmatory of the original dispatch concerning this remarkable cure.

It seems only necessary for any person despairing of life to let go all other remedies and use Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Out of over a million boxes sold there has never been a complaint that Dodd's Kidney Pills has disappointed expectations.

Mr. McCarthy calls these pills his doctor, and to they are; and are used at present in a million homes in Canada.

WITH THE SPORTS.

Since early in the record season Sam Gibbons has had an eye upon the hundred-mile record held by F. F. Radway, of London. Down at Peterborough, says the Toronto Telegram, Gibbons in practice rode five and ten-mile trials unpaced faster than Radway had made in the long ride against the watch. The stocky cyclist who rides under the name of the Royal Canadian Bicycle Club should certainly lower the century mark with any kind of pace-making. In all probability he will take a trip to Rosedale or the Island track for the purpose of making an effort to reduce the existing mark.

Under circumstances that there were anything but favourable did Harley Davidson get the quarter and half mile records by the importation of W. L. Stetson and Penneyers, the Blon City flyers. When he was about ready for the long looked for onslaught, the machine went to pieces, and after trying to ride it after a temporary repair, Davidson was forced to take the quad back to Buffalo. After being overhauled he took it to Peterborough again only to find that it was no use so far as fast work was concerned. Then the tandem which he brought with him were called into requisition, and with the aid of them he got the quarter and half mile records. The weather, too, militated against his record work. When he went to Peterborough there was quite a frost in the ground, and the road was not so good as it was on Thursday the track was in perfect condition. Then every preparation for a great day's work was made for Friday. On that day it rained and Davidson, disgusted, sent his pace-makers, Sam Gibbons, Percy Brown, Willie McIntosh, Bob McCaul and J. Grats, home. As soon as the track dries out he will endeavor to establish some new unpaced record work.—Telegram

A Narrow Escape.

Conductor Gail and Engineer Hough, in charge of one of the Lindsay special trains now employed on the Allandale division were completely "hoodooed" on Tuesday, when between Harris and Orlith they ran down a hand car and demolished it; the occupants jumped for their lives. Near Allandale they made the mistake to strike a Miss Allingham, of Hawkestone, with a protesting buffer on the end of a car, which has since caused her death. The lady in question was a music teacher, and quite a pedestrian. She was on her way home and was walking close to the track and paid no attention to the whistle and bell. It is supposed she was struck in the region of the heart. In the afternoon when near Grass Hill the same train struck a horse cutting it up so badly that it has since died. The boys are down hearted over the effect of their series of serious casualties.

A WOMAN SUSPECTED.

MISS FINDLEY ARRESTED ON THE CHARGE OF MURDER.

Charged With Killing a Barnado Home Boy—The Accused a Powerful, Passionate Woman—Owen Sound's Sensation.

Special to The Times.

OWEN SOUND, Nov. 14.—A sixteen-year-old Barnado boy named George Green, died last Saturday near the village of North Keppel, on the farm of one Ellen R. Findley, lot 32, on the 25th concession of the Township of Keppel. His death has given rise to all sorts of ugly rumors and has led to the arrest of Miss Findley on a charge of murder.

Miss Findley, a woman of masculine strength and tendencies, occupies the farm which belongs to a brother who disappeared somewhere in British Columbia. She has excluded her relatives and her father and mother from interfering in any way on the farm, and during the past summer has worked the farm with the assistance of young Green and a little girl named Mary Brown. Miss Findley herself performed the regular work of a hired man, and in that vicinity is regarded as muscular as the barnyard laborer. Green, who seems to have been a simple sort of boy, came to her place in May last.

Coroner Cameron and County Crown Attorney McKay decided to hold an inquest, and Monday morning a jury was summoned and viewed the remains. A post mortem was ordered and the taking of evidence commenced. Dr. Dow, assisted by Dr. Scott, performed the post mortem and found all the internal organs in a perfectly healthy condition. The body was very much emaciated and covered with wounds and bruises, and the bones of the fingers on both hands exposed at the ends and also at the knuckles, the nails were falling off, the toes were in about the same condition and gangrene had set in. The upper part of the body was covered with bluish insects or vermin.

Ellen R. Findley, the accused, deposed that the boy had been a trouble and a nuisance to her ever since he came. He had often milked six cows morning and evening and carried milk about half a mile to the house, and that he drawn wood and worked in the harvest, etc. On November last he took very sick with a complaint and on Saturday, the 9th, died. She had not called in medical aid, but had tended him and kept him clean. He was always healthy and ate heartily and could not account for the emaciated and bruised condition of the body.

Several other witnesses testified that the Findley woman had frequently beaten the boy unmercifully, that the boy had never been properly fed or clothed either before or during his sickness. The jury brought in a verdict that Green had died from ill-treatment at the hands of Ellen R. Findley and from not giving him proper care and treatment during his sickness. On Tuesday the Findley woman was arrested and brought before Geo. Price, J.P., on a charge of murder. She was remanded to jail for a week, when the preliminary investigation will be commenced. Messrs. Tuckey & Patterson will defend the prisoner.

ANOTHER AWFUL AFFAIR.

Thirty One Pupils and a Teacher Cremated in a School Building.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Nov. 14.—A special from Granada, British West Indies, dated Nov. 10, says: "A school building here, in which 30 children were present, caught fire and before anything could be done the whole building was ablaze and in spite of the heroic efforts of the people, the building was destroyed. Thirty-one children, including the teacher have so far been taken out."

The fire is believed to be of incendiary origin and two boys, who had been severely punished by the teacher and suspended from the school, are believed to be the authors of the crime. They have been arrested but so far have not confessed.

LITTLE PAUL MURDERED.

A Half Breed's Peculiar Death Near Calgary—An Inquest Near.

CALGARY, Nov. 14.—On Thursday night Little Paul, a half breed, who lives across the Bow with Mr. L. Hironelle, was called for by five men, who took him away with them. They had whips in their possession. That was the last that was seen of Paul until this afternoon, when his body was found near the first island below the Landyville bridge. Detective Brooks immediately went to work to examine the surroundings and among other sensational discoveries he made were traces of blood on the bridge, the indications pointing to the fact that there had been foul play. Coroner Mackie was at once notified. He took charge of the body and an inquest will be held.

MENTION THIS PAPER.

The Times.

PETERBOROUGH, NOVEMBER 16 1895.

GOOD ROADS.

There is a society in Ontario called the Good Roads association. This society meets occasionally, and the members read papers at each other, in which all manner of suggestions are made. These papers are printed by the Ontario, government and there the matter ends. The farcical system of statute labor continues to exist, and the roads remain cut into ruts. In Ontario, where capital road material can be had everywhere, there should be no trouble about having good roads. Our excellent contemporary the Hamilton Spectator hits the nail squarely on the head when it says that all that is necessary is for the legislature to abolish the statute labor system, compel all men to pay their taxes in money, and have the road taxes applied under the supervision of competent engineers. Then add a clause compelling the use of wide tires, and the thing is done. But it seems to be utterly impossible to induce the ultra-Conservative—the moss-back Conservative—government of Ontario to make a change in a law that has existed for some time. That government seems to have a veneration for old and useless things which it is impossible to overcome. It is better to make a mistake once in a while, in attempting to improve, than to go on year after year making absolutely no effort to get out of the pioneer way of doing things.

English papers say that Mr. Gladstone is at present engaged in editing all the letters which he has received and thought worthy of preservation. They number more than 200,000.

Some momentous questions have recently been settled by eminent legal authorities of the United States. The Michigan Supreme Court has decided that "having a jawbone fractured while getting a tooth drawn is not an accident;" the United States Supreme Court has decided that "a tomato is a vegetable," although lay authorities call it a fruit; the Oregon Supreme Court has held that "a mortgage is real estate," and the Pennsylvania Supreme Court has ruled that "beef stew is not soup." The only great questions now unsolved are the identity of the man in the iron mask, the authorship of Junius' letters, and whether Fitzsimmons or Corbett would have won the champion slugging of the world.

Kansas has the peculiar practice of not executing its criminals who are sentenced to death. The custom is to allow them to serve in the penitentiary for life. There are now 75 of these gentry under sentence of death. No Governor of Kansas, so it is said, has ever signed a death warrant, and Gov. Morrill has just intimated that he would not break the precedent, even to oblige 600 citizens of Edwards County, who have petitioned him to sign the warrant of Carl Arnold and William Harvey, who, while drunk, killed the Mayor of a city. A mob would have hanged the two young toughs to a telegraph pole had it not been for Judge Vandiver, who promised the leaders that if they would turn Arnold and Harvey over to the Sheriff he would guarantee their conviction and sentence to death, and that he would then go before the Governor and ask that he allow them to be executed after one year's incarceration in the penitentiary. The men were convicted, and they have been in the prison for a year. The refusal of Gov. Morrill will be resented in all probability, and it may be conducive to lynch-law in the future.

LIME JUICE CLUB

REGULAR WEEKLY MEETING OF THIS CHASTE SOCIETY.

A Large attendance and Considerable Business Transacted—A Wild Scene—Full Report of the Proceedings.

"Is Pardon Kelly in the hall this evening?" asked the President, as he turned his gaze toward the stove, behind which Pardon is sure to be seated with brethren of the medical profession, provided the thermometer works less than eighty degrees above.

"Yes, sir."

"Then please step this way till I speak a few words with you. Pardon, I understand that you are studying to be a doctor?"

"Yes, sir."

"That's good news, and I'm personally glad to know it. There are certain things about this doctor's business which you should always keep in view. In the first place, look dignified and wise. Many a man who don't know enough to come in when it rains has kept this fact from the public by looking as if he knew all that had happened in this world ever since the first sun rose and set."

"Yes, sir."

"If you are called to the case, and you find you don't know whether the person has got smallpox or the measles, don't give yourself away too quickly. Give the case a few days to develop, and it will turn out to be one or the other. After it turns you want to remark that you were sure of it from the first."

"I understand."

"Never give up a case. The doctor who admits that he can't do a patient any good loses prestige; the doctor who hangs by till the patient goes under ground can say that nobody could have saved him."

"I was intending to do that, sir."

"Keep your prescriptions an awful secret, Pardon. If you shall tell a sick man that you have given him a Dover's powder or some Peruvian bark, he would never get well. Your only safety is in deceiving your patient. If the medicine works all right, they will get well and praise your skill; if it works the other way the undertaker and the sexton will hide them under ground."

"That's what I'm calculating on."

"In case some other doctor should so far forget himself, Pardon, as to order morphine instead of quinine, and the patient didn't happen to detect the difference, and death resulted, don't go back on the profession. If you can't help him to lay it on the drug, you may spread the idea that some one of the family changed the powders to profit by his death, or you can boldly swear that morphine is quinine. If the right kind of a coroner has the job his jury will bring the doctor out with flying colors."

"That is my programme, sir."

"And lastly, Pardon, enter into partnership with some druggist as soon as you make your start. People who are foolish enough to fall sick must expect to pay well for the medicines. The hundred per cent profit which the druggist calculates on can just as well be made a hundred and forty, and the extra goes to you. And still more lastly, don't have anything to do with patient medicines. If a patient of yours has a bruise don't permit him to buy his salve or liniment of the shelf. You can get two dollars for writing him out a prescription for the very same thing."

"I learned that the very first week, sir."

"Exactly, I'm glad you have tumbled to all the little racket, and on behalf of this club I bid you God speed and promise that after the proper course of study you can go forth into the wide world and help to lay a dill with the utmost confidence."

AN OPINION WANTED.

The Secretary announced the following letter from Ennismore:

"I do not remember that President McBride has yet expressed himself on the question of tariff. Is he for free trade or protection? Before we make application for a branch lodge at this place, this question must be settled. Let him give us his candid opinion."

"In reply to that," said the President, as he caressed his right ear in a reflective way, "I never had but one policy. If I had an old nag to sell, I toted around till I got all he was worth and a little more. If I wanted to buy a horse, I waited till horse-flesh was cheap, and got one for a little less than he was worth. I want free trade so I can get my whitewash brushes cheap, and I want protection so that nobody can undersell me an axe and hoe handles. I reckon there's a spot somewhere in this question when they both will balance, and neither end will be up or down all the time."

A WILD SCENE.

As the President concluded speaking, Tiedup Garley went to the water-pail to quench his thirst. Bombshell McNaughton was there and had possession of the dipper. Owing to the fact that he is in the habit of drinking out of a jug, he consumed so much time that Bro. Garley said something about a baboon, and from words they proceeded to kicks and blows. Bombshell was knocked over a bench, and Tiedup was landed with his head under the stove, and for a moment a general row was imminent.

Bro. Garley pulled off his coat and uttered a war-whoop; Bro. Mervin danced around, and even the placid Mainspring Wasson, who is considered the son of good nature, threw down his hat and jumped over three stools and a bench.

But in two minutes all was over. Bombshell held out his hand and explained that the peculiar pucker of his mouth obliged him to drink like a horse with a bit in, and Tiedup took the preferred hand, and said he had just returned with Harry LeBrun's hunting party, and the reaction had been two much for him.

Both were deeply grieved and heartily ashamed, and by the time the President had gained his feet, perfect harmony prevailed.

AN IMPOSTOR.

The Secretary announced a letter from Razor Reynolds, Port Hope, stating that a seedy looking individual, calling himself Anvil Davis, and claiming to be an active local member of the Lime Juice Club, was in the town disposing of photographs supposed to represent President McBride. He sold the photographs at twenty cents each, and claimed that the funds were to be sent to Labrador to establish a mouth organ factory among the Esquimaux. The photograph represented a small man with a broken nose, a squint eye, front teeth gone, and ears large enough to throw a shadow over a wall eighteen feet high. Was it all right or was the man an impostor?

The President was jumping two feet high before the Secretary had finished, and it took him only four minutes to write and send a telegram to Port Hope, to arrest the impostor if it cost $50,000. In this connection it might be well to say:

1. The Lime Juice Club employs no travelling agents.
2. It offers no crowns.
3. None of its members are allowed to attach their names to medical inventions.
4. It favors a scheme to build factories in Labrador, or Orphan Asylums in the Sandwich Islands.
5. It publishes no dime novels, sends out no hair dyes, and has no Parliamentary candidates.

PETITIONS.

Some fifteen or sixteen petitions were received during the week, but the bundle was accidentally knocked off the Secretary's table, and probably burned up by the janitor when he built the fire.

The janitor offered to make affidavit that his kindling consisted of two old ink bottles and a bird's eye view of Peterborough, but he is a man who often labours under fits of absent-mindedness.

THEY MUST DROP IT.

The Secretary read the following letter for Bobcaygeon:

PRESIDENT MCBRIDE:

DEAR SIR.—We desire to organize a branch of the Lime Juice Club at this place, and seeing that you have ruled against the use of the letter "O" in front of the names of individuals and the time of day, etc., we desire to know whether that euphonious attachment must be eliminated from the front end of the o'possum also. Our members regard the o'possum as all God's creation as the ne plus ultra of perfection, and we are afraid to meddle with it, and shall use that letter as usual in connection with our favours, unless ordered by you to drop it.

Yours truly,

HUSTLER ROBINSON,
WHALERONE WELLS,
OLD SHADY, Chairman.

HORNPIPE JOHNSON, Sec.

"No branch will be established until that O is dropped," replied the President. Why an o'possum should be an o'possum any more than a rabbit should be an o'rabbit is a mystery without any sense in it. If the O belongs to O'Brien, then it belongs to O'Smith and O'Gowan. If it belongs on o'clock it belongs on o'watch. If Bobcaygeon desires to establish a branch of this club it must begin right. The English language has been mauled, maimed, pounded and knocked around long enough, and it is time that people gave it a rest."

NO LECTURE.

The Secretary announced a letter from Lindsay, saying:

President McBride:—Prof. Anatomy Scott will arrive in Peterborough via Millbrook on Nov. 27. He will deliver his great lecture, "Wonders of the Atmosphere" for the benefit of the Lime Juice Club building fund.

"The Professor may arrive in Peterborough," observed Sir Richard, as he nodded to Bro. Harry LeBrun to stir up the fire, "but he won't lecture before this club. If there is anything about the atmosphere to wonder over, no member of this club would be apt to hear or know about it, and it was likewise voted by this club to let the atmosphere severely alone. If Mr. Scott can tell why our weather should change forty degrees in twenty-four hours without anybody having petitioned for it, he can walk up ten pairs of stairs and have a talk with the signal officer at Toronto."

THE CLOSE.

After Bro. Darkness Craig had been fined $500 and costs for sitting with both feet in Bro. Holden's plug hat, a meeting went out in the chilly night.

Market Reports.

PETERBOROUGH.

There is a good demand for all kinds of produce, especially hay, straw, oats, and other coarse grains. Wood is also asked for.

The prices in dressed pork, are very encouraging, ranging the same in price as last week, from $4.50 to $5.50, according to weight and quality.

Next Tuesday will be live hog day; porkers are in good demand for the home market.

Mr. Jacob Wilcox of St. Thomas, Ontario, is one of the best known men in that vicinity. He is now, he says, an old man, but Hood's Sarsaparilla has made him feel young again.

"About a year ago I had a very severe attack of the grip, which resulted in my not having a well day for several months afterwards. I was completely run down and my system was in a Terrible Condition.

I lost flesh and became depressed in spirits. Finally a friend who had been benefited by Hood's Sarsaparilla advised me to try it and I did so. LIVE STOCK MARKETS.

Nov. 15.—The demand for good cattle of all descriptions was active at the Point this morning and the attendance was large, but the offerings were not of extra good quality generally. The highest price for cattle was 32c but some sold down very low. There was about 650 head of butchers' cattle, 50 calves and 1,000 sheep and lambs offered for sale at the East End Abattoir today. The butchers were present in large numbers and there was a brisk demand for anything good or even moderately good, but common and inferior cattle, which included nearly nine tenths of the offerings today, were dull of sale and very low priced, and it is probable that a considerable number of this kind will not be sold today. Butchers and drovers were all agreed that there were no prime cattle offered here today, and the highest price paid today did not exceed 24c per lb. Common stock sold at from 24c to 26c per lb., with the leaner beasts at from 14c to 20c per lb. Calves were in good demand and sold at from 20c to 24c per lb. Shoppers are still paying about 24c per lb. for good large sheep; good lambs ranging from 10c to 24c per lb. and common lots about 8c per lb. Fat hogs are in pretty good supply and sell at about 40c per lb. just off the cars.

THE HYAMS CASE.

Very Important Evidence
For the Prosecution Ruled Out.

THAT $200,000 INSURANCE

EVIDENCE REGARDING THE ATTEMPT TO INSURE MRS. HYAMS RULED OUT—A RESERVED CASE ASKED—NOTES OF THE TRIAL.

Special to The Times.

TORONTO, Nov. 11.—The attempt to insure the life of Mrs. Harry Hyams, as the Crown claims, with the intention of murdering her, will not be heard by the jury at the present trial of the Hyams twins. Mr. Justice Street at the previous trial, that evidence as to subsequent insurance could not be received. The jury were absent during the argument and consequently heard none of it. The effect of the ruling out of this testimony is to vastly weaken the case for the Crown. In his application for its admission Mr. Oser stated how much stronger the case would be if the evidence as to the event of premiums being paid by notes and the insured dying either from natural causes or accident before the notes fell due the insurance companies would pay the insurance money.

WILL THERE BE A RESERVED CASE?
Mr. Oser asked for a special reserved case, in view of an appeal if necessary. "I see that my brother Street granted a reserved case," said Mr. Oser. Mr. Oser explained that as a disagreement took place at last trial the reserved case could not be argued. If the prisoners were convicted no appeal would, of course, be asked. If the prisoners were acquitted the Crown proposed holding the prisoners pending the argument of the reserved case.

After argument by counsel, his Lordship reserved his decision until a later stage of the trial. The prisoners looked immediately relieved when the decision, fraught with such momentous results to them was announced.

The application for the admission of the subsequent insurance evidence, came up when J. W. Carr, connected with the Standard Life Insurance Co., was put in the box. He had stated that he had an interview with one of the prisoners in July or August, 1905.

"What was the purpose or object of that interview?" said Mr. Oser. "Knowing no more than I know from the question, I don't see the object of the object," said his Lordship. Then witness answered that it was on the question of the insurance.

Mr. Oser, after saying that he did not wish to put a question unfair to the defence yet he wished to submit that would open up the question. Then he put this: "Whose life was the prisoner endeavoring to insure?" Counsel for defence objected. Mr. Oser withdrew it and put this: "Was the insurance that was to be effected on that occasion on the life of the applicant?"

Again objection was taken and the defence held that the first question was sufficient to open up the subject. His Lordship ruled that the question should be answered, and the witness said it was not on the life of either prisoner. THE QUESTION THAT WASN'T ANSWERED. Then came the question: "On whose life was the application for insurance made?" This question remained unanswered. The defence objected, and the objection was sustained.

THE JURY RECALLED. Mr. Johnston then asked that the jury be excluded while argument as to the admission of the evidence was heard. Mr. Oser "I say my view of this question of evidence is that it should be discussed before the jury, the jury should be excluded. I have no desire to have anything seemingly unfair, or to suggest something that may be ruled out, and therefore, in deference to my learned friends, that the jury should retire, though I think it is better practice to not order it."

His Lordship in reply said that the first view presented to his mind was that nothing should pass in a trial that the jury shouldn't hear. However, he thought it best that in this case, the jury should be excluded. Turning to the jury he said: "Counsel seem to be agreed that a discussion should take place as to whether certain evidence is proper to be received in this case, and that that discussion should take place in your absence. If the evidence is to be admitted you will hear it. If not you will not hear it. For that reason it is considered convenient and proper that you withdraw while the discussion goes on."

MR. OSER'S ARGUMENTS. The jury having filed out Mr. Oser arose and said: "The objection taken by the defence had been taken because it was known that the preliminary question would be succeeded by many others showing a conspiracy between the prisoners to insure the life of Martha Hyams, the wife of H. P. Hyams for $200,000, an insurance which would cost from $6,000 to $7,000 per year, an insurance which would be placed upon the life with first payments to be satisfied by promissory notes."

"The Crown proposed to follow up this by evidence to show that it was being obtained upon misrepresentations made to Mrs. Harry P. Hyams, and also inquiries made by the prisoners as to the effect of satisfying the premiums by notes, and as to whether the amount received be payable in the event of death during the currency of the notes."

"It was also proposed to show that the insurance was totally beyond the means of the prisoners to keep up, and the only viable object was to realize the claim, by the death of Martha Hyams, or in other words, that a conspiracy was on foot to insure and murder."

of quarterly payments. It was proposed to show that by deceit or fraud prisoners had obtained the bulk of the money. THE METHOD OF THE PRISONERS. "The argument was that the subsequent insurance on the life of Martha Hyams showed the method of the prisoners. Supposing the prisoners were indicted for conspiracy to murder for insurance the evidence of the death of Hyams would be but one of the overtures within such conspiracy and evidence could be given of the attempt to insure Martha Hyams as the other act in the same conspiracy."

EVIDENCE AS TO SYSTEM. "The presentation of the testimony would be evidence of a system to be adopted by the prisoners for making money out of unlawful death by insurance. The evidence was also tendered upon the ground that it threw light upon the issue whether the death was accidental or by design. "It was not necessary that the second act should have been a completed one. The distinction did not exist in the cases that a line is drawn upon the subsequent act being one of murder or akin to the one on trial. The cases showed it to be sufficient that an attempt should be proved though it need not necessarily be successful."

HENDERSHOT CASE NOT ANALOGOUS. Mr. Oser explained that he did not intend to take up the time of the court with lengthy argument, so he had sent his Lordship a brief in which cases bearing on the subject were cited, and counsel for the defence had in reply cited their authorities.

"The ruling of the Chief Justice in the Hendershot case," continued Mr. Oser, "is not binding on your Lordship seeing that the ruling was upon the tender of evidence of an attempt to insure a bad life. The fraud there intended was to get the life of the man on trial. It was not passed as a good life by the doctor. It was argued that insurance was to be realized upon by natural death and not by murder, and that there it was not evidence of an attempt to insure and kill."

That element did not enter into the present case. It was submitted that this case was within the purview of the authorities and given to his Lordship. JUDGES DIFFER. No doubt, continued Mr. Oser, there was a ruling on this case at last court when the evidence was tendered and rejected by Mr. Justice Street. The decision of a judge at nisi prius is entitled no doubt to a great deal of respect but is not binding on your Lordship.

His Lordship in reply said that there was nothing binding on your Lordship seeing the same as had a previous judge in a similar trial. But it was the rule. Mr. Oser pointed out that in this case his Lordship had taken an entirely different view as to admission of the admission of the street car employees to that of Mr. Justice Street.

His Lordship—I may say here that in regard to the admission or rejection of the evidence I intend to give my own opinion after consulting all the authorities I have found. CAN SECURE A NEW TRIAL. Mr. Oser pointed out the dangerous character of the class of crime charged and mentioned the fact that if his Lordship decided to admit the testimony and the prisoners were convicted the court of Appeal would grant a new trial. With his Lordship's judgment he declared erroneous.

Deputy Attorney General Cortwright also argued for the admission of the testimony. HIS LORDSHIP'S DECISION. His Lordship said that he had received a large number of cases pro and con from both sides and had paid as much attention to the subject as he possibly could. Counsel had aided him by sending books which he had not been able to procure. Never had he considered a question in which he took deeper interest and paid greater attention to. He had gone through all the authorities and had considered every work referred to.

GOVERNED BY HIS OWN OPINION. He had said to himself, "Pay no attention to what has taken place in this case before." In saying this no disrespect was intended for any judge who had previously given a decision, but he had endeavored to arrive at a conclusion of his own. With whatever ability he possessed he considered the question. Whether right or wrong, he had arrived at his conclusion, after considering and reading over and over again all the authorities.

THE EVIDENCE NOT ADMISSIBLE. He had not elaborated a judgment because he had not had time, and intended to speak his judgment. He prepared himself as well as he could for a ruling, and hearing additional matters urged by the Crown to rule as to the reception of the evidence.

"I am of opinion," concluded his Lordship, "however wrong it may be, that the evidence ought not to be received at this trial." THE MECHANICS OF THE SITUATION. INTERESTING EXPERIMENTS AS TO A MAN'S LINE OF VISION.

Pending the argument as to the admission of the insurance evidence Mr. John Galt, mechanical engineer, was called to the witness stand and detailed the results of experiments made with the book and the weight on the previous day. Judges and jury paid great attention to the experiments made by Mr. Oser and the witness, the two contractors on the jury especially evincing the liveliest interest in the proceedings.

AS TO THE LINE OF VISION. Mr. Oser then brought out an interesting piece of evidence. "What is the height of your line of vision?" asked counsel. "About 5 feet 2 inches."

"Now come to this wall and tell me how far upwards you can see at a distance of 6 inches?" "About 8 inches."

"Take an object three feet above you. How far out from the wall would you have to stand to see it?" "About two feet and half."

"Now put on a pair of glasses," and Mr. Oser handed his own to the witness, "have you to come nearer or go further from the wall to see the object?"

WITH A PAIR OF GLASSES. Mr. Lount here objected saying that neither the glasses nor the eyes of young Wells were being used and the circumstances were entirely different. His Lordship ruled that although he could not say yet as to the motive of the testimony it must go on for the present. "It is of the greatest importance," continued Mr. Oser, "from a mechanical point of view. My learned friend opened this on Monday by his suggested question to the witness as to how the accident might happen by the dropping of the weight. Now, if the weight drops, we know the extent of its distance from the wall. The suggestion made is that deceased was looking up, I propose to show the distance from the point of vision at which the witness would be if he were looking at the weight. I am now questioning the witness on the assumption that the weight is three feet above the witness's line of vision with the object of finding out how far deceased should be from that weight to look up at it. He says that as far as he can judge he would have to be two feet and a half away to be entirely out of danger at that point, standing vertically."

Mr. Johnston said the contention of the defence was totally different to that suggested.

other contentions of the defence are more impossible than this."

WILLIE WELLS' FACE AGAIN. Then counsel produced a photograph of Willie Wells. "Now, tell me," he said, "if his field of vision would be increased or reduced by his wearing spectacles?" "I can give no opinion."

Witnesses were requested to stand 6 inches from the wall and turn his head sideways. Then he asked, "Does that cut your vision in any way?" "Certainly it does," said the witness. Standing 3 feet 6 inches from the wall was the most convenient way with the head turned toward the wall to see an object three feet above.

Then Mr. Lount witness admitted that if a person pulled hard on the pull rope the effect might cause the weight to vibrate, and if there was an obstruction on the south side of the weight about the weight might catch either going up or coming down, and there was a possibility under certain conditions of the hook being jerked in or out of the eye.

Then Mr. Lount took up the line of vision. Witness admitted that deducting the length of the weight, 20 inches, from the 3 feet line of vision, a person could stand a good deal closer than 2 feet and see the bottom of the weight, which would only be 16 inches above his head, equally as well.

WHAT MIGHT OCCUR. Witness admitted that if, when the supposed obstruction of the weight took place, any person had taken and shaken the pull rope at the same time looking round the edge of the elevator up the weight shaft, the vibration caused by the pulling of the rope might release the weight, and the person looking up the shaft might be in exactly the position to receive the weight upon the right side of the head. It was suggested that it might be possible for the weight to afterwards strike the buffer and tilt over upon the head of the injured person lying on the floor.

WOULD CHANGE THE LINE OF DESCENT. The contention of the defence is that the weight struck Wells on the head as he looked up the shaft, that he was knocked to the ground and that the weight followed him and crushed the skull. Mr. Galt said how the weight would have to offer sufficient resistance to the weight to change its line of descent.

To his Lordship Mr. Galt stated that if the weight struck first in its descent a person in looking for the obstruction would naturally place his head more or less under the weight.

Mrs. Reginald, the Hyams' domestic, was again put in the box for the defence and swore that she saw no bloodstains on Dallas Hyams when he came home after the occurrence on January 16, 1903. MAHER WON IN ONE ROUND.

O'Donnell Only a Chopping Block for the Irishman. Special to The Times. MANSFIELD, L.I., Nov. 12.—The meeting of Peter Maher and Steve O'Donnell in the arena of the Empire A.C. at this place tonight created an immense amount of interest among the sporting fraternity. As early as eight o'clock there were very few vacant seats in the catch weights and outside a long line of sports pushed and struggled in their frantic efforts to get at the box office. It was the largest crowd ever seen at the Empire A.C. Maher was the favorite in the betting, his manager J. Quinn, laying odds of 5 to 2 when ever he could find takers. O'Donnell was not without friends, and a good deal of money changed hands. The opening bout was between Caspar Leon of New York and Billy Smith of Philadelphia. They commenced their staccato bout at catch weights at 9 o'clock. Tim Hurst was referee. Just as the boys stepped into the ring Corbett came in, and was received with a good deal of applause, but some hissing was audible through the cheering while Sullivan was received with uniform favor. The referee awarded the fight to Leon.

The opening bout only served to whet the appetites of the 4,000 persons who packed the arena, and they were all agog to see the big fellows. They were announced to fight at 10 o'clock. Maher was the favorite in the betting, his manager J. Quinn, laying odds of 5 to 2 when ever he could find takers. O'Donnell was not without friends, and a good deal of money changed hands. The opening bout was between Caspar Leon of New York and Billy Smith of Philadelphia. They commenced their staccato bout at catch weights at 9 o'clock. Tim Hurst was referee. Just as the boys stepped into the ring Corbett came in, and was received with a good deal of applause, but some hissing was audible through the cheering while Sullivan was received with uniform favor. The referee awarded the fight to Leon.

The Irishman knocked out his opponent in the first round, after one minute and three seconds of fighting. Maher led with his right hand, and after a few seconds O'Donnell down. The moment the Australian got up Maher repeated, and again O'Donnell went down. He rose on the fourth count, and after a few seconds Maher knocked him down and out with a left swing on the jaw. Time, 1 min. 3 sec.

O'Donnell had to be carried to his corner, but he recovered, and was assisted to the dressing room. The crowd went wild, and poured into the ring, amid a scene of the wildest enthusiasm. O'Donnell did not seem to realize what had happened, and did not make the slightest effort to defend his jaw. He got up only to be felled like a sheep.

A COLLISION T SEA. By Which Five Lives Were Lost—A Steamer and a Schooner. Special to The Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 12.—News of the sinking at sea and a loss of a portion of the crew of the American bark, William Hales by a collision on Nov. 8 during a dense fog with the Ward line steamship Niagara, outward bound with a general cargo and a number of passengers, was contained in the cablegram received here today by the agents of the Niagara. It is dated Nauyas, where Capt. Combs, her master, Max Geo. Kimmelte, and five of her seamen have just been landed in the Niagara. Five of the crew were drowned, every possible effort to save them having failed.

CHARGED WITH BIGAMY. Has Camille Dubois Another Wife Living in Chicago—A Case in Hull. Special to The Times. OTTAWA, Nov. 12.—Camille Dubois, of Hull, was arrested before Recorder Champagne on the charge of bigamy. He was married about a week ago to Miss Lavelle, of Hull. It was his new wife who laid the complaint against him. Something her husband told her to suspect he had been married before.

Dubois, who is 33 years of age, arrived in Hull last spring from Chicago, where, it is supposed, he was married to the first wife. He worked at lathing all summer in Hull.

The further hearing of the case was adjourned to permit of further evidence being obtained. Salisbury not Worried Over Venezuela. WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Lord Salisbury's failure to mention the Venezuelan question in his glib half speech is regarded as most significant. The speech announced the Premier's position on all foreign questions regarding pressing importance, so that the attention of all men of affairs was directed to the subject. The attack on Venezuela was to it and the controversy over the Monroe doctrine that had been supposed.

CITY AND COUNTY NEWS

LOCAL AND DISTRICT HAPPENINGS OF THE DAY.

The Bridge Unsafe.
The floating bridge at Pigeon Creek, is reported to be in an unsafe condition about half way across. A load of straw was being taken over on Monday, and when at this particular point, the one side of the bridge sank so deep with the weight that the load was upset.

Wedding Dells.
The marriage of Mr. John Wetherhead and Miss Elizabeth McCormick, was solemnized in St. Peter's Cathedral, Tuesday morning at 8 o'clock. The bride-maid was Miss Annie Spelman, and the bridesman Mr. James McCormick. Rev. Father Scanlan performed the ceremony.

Business Troubles.
Charlotte Wood, general storekeeper, of Peterborough, has assigned to S. McCutcheon. W. G. Harkness, stationer, of Garsfield, assigned to James Harkness. B. & S. Sweeney, general store, Otonago, has assigned to W. T. Wickham.

Found Dead in Bed.
Mr. Richard Denton, gardener, was Tuesday morning found dead in bed at his residence, 32 Cedar street. He has been suffering from an ailment for some time, and it is supposed to be due to that cause. The late Mr. Denton was a well-known man in the community, and his death is a great loss.

Police Court Notes.
In the police court Tuesday morning the two girls, Elsie Hadden and Mary Hadden, were allowed to remain with their mother, who is in court. The girls were charged with being drunk and disorderly. A charge was also laid against a man named Foy, who gave one of the above named girls a cigarette was allowed to go after a lecture.

Some Fast Driving.
Mr. Chas. Westlake's record for fast driving, when he drove the Ray-Rutherford party to Gull Lake, leaving Peterborough at 8 o'clock in the morning and returning at 10.30, has been beaten by Mr. R. L. Leary, who on the same day drove a party of hunters to Gull Lake, leaving at 8 o'clock a.m., and returning at 8.30 p.m. Both records, however, are good, and speak well for the kind of horse flesh there is in Peterborough.

One Discharged, One Fined.
A charge preferred against Frederick Payne of Dummer by Chas. Inspector Grant, of adulterating his milk sent to the factory, was dismissed by county Magistrate Edmondson, who stated that while the inspector had proven his case, and was to be commended for his prompt action, yet he could not convict, as the sworn evidence of Mr. Grant, who wanted to show that even if the milk was adulterated it was not done with their knowledge. John Taylor, of Otonabee, was fined $20 for costs on a like charge.

Shooting Accident.
Harry Duncan, who is in the employ of the Turner Drug Co., Millbrook, met with what might have been a serious disaster. Upon entering Dr. H. A. Turner's pharmacy after a certain duty, he picked up a revolver and carelessly pulled the trigger, never dreaming that it was loaded. To his surprise, however, the weapon went off, the ball fortunately not entering any dangerous spot, but nevertheless inflicting a severe wound on the left hand by entering between the index and next finger, penetrating deeply into the hand, where it is still lodged, the doctor not being able to locate it. The wound is healing rapidly and Harry expects to have the right use of his hand soon.

Provincial Appointments.
The following appointments have been made by the Provincial Government: William Fielding, of Minden, to be police magistrate of the provincial County of Hamilton, at a salary of $400 per annum, over; Frederick Foulds, of Glenora, Middlesex county, to be clerk of the peace for the County of York; John Young Murdoch, of Toronto, and Ralph John Slatery, of Arnprior, Renfrew county, to be notaries public for the Province of Ontario; Robert Keith Sharpe, of Gravenhurst, to be clerk of the Second Division Court of the District of Muskoka; Jacob C. Springstead, of St. Catharines, to be clerk of the Fifth Division Court of the County of West-ward; and Robert G. Dickey, of Peterborough, to be clerk of the Fifth Division Court of the County of Lambton.

Landlord and Tenant.
By an act of the local legislature, passed at its last session, it is the opinion of many that it is the duty of a landlord to restrain and a tenant's right to fixtures are taken away. Until there has been a judgement in the courts upon the question it would be safer for all leases, hereafter drawn up and executed, to contain a paragraph guarding against these consequences, and the following is suggested: "It is further agreed between the parties hereto, the lessor and the lessee, each for himself, his executors, administrators and assigns, that the contract upon which the relation between them is founded by these presents in the relation with all its rights, remedies and incidents existing between landlord and tenant in the province of Ontario before the passing of 38 Vic. (O.) ch. 38, sec. 4."

An Eloping Couple.
Felix Donagall, a dago who lives on Bedford street, Cornwall, returned home from work at Mills Roches the other day and found his house deserted and in great disorder. His better half had eloped with a man named Saunders, who had been boarding with them, and had taken with her the sum total of Felix's savings for several years, $323, which he had drawn out of the savings bank a few days previously for the purpose of starting a boarding house at Leblanc, Que. The woman who goes by the name of Boyer, has lived with Donagall for eight or nine years, and he had the time of his life with her. She is described as 47 years of age, round shouldered, has a wart on her forehead and speaks with a marked French accent. Saunders, who is a violinist, is of a florid complexion, 33 years of age and when last seen wore a black suit and a black derby hat. As soon as he discovered his loss Donagall took legal advice, and hearing that the elopers had gone to Malone, N.Y., he visited that city, but failed to get any clue. On Saturday he wired a description to the chiefs of police in Toronto, Montreal, Ottawa, Peterborough and other places. A warrant has been issued for the woman's arrest, but so far she has not been located.

DRANK SCALDING WATER.

A LITTLE GIRL ALMOST BURNS HER THROAT OUT.

Seized a Tea Pot of Boiling Tea and Swallowed Several Mouthfuls—Her Throat and Neck Fearfully Scalded and Burned.

The little girl of Mrs. Sheppard, who lives on Alfred street, met with a terrible accident last evening, from the effects of which it was at first thought the child would die.

Mrs. Sheppard was preparing supper in the kitchen and her little daughter, two and a half years of age, was playing near her. Mrs. Sheppard filled the tea pot with boiling water and went out of the kitchen for a minute or so.

The agonized screams of her little girl brought her quickly back to the kitchen. She found the child lying on the floor writhing in agony and emitting piercing screams. On the floor near the child was the broken teapot, the contents spilled over the little one's dress and neck.

It seems that the child seized the teapot while her mother was out of the room and placing her mouth over the spout took several swallows of the boiling hot tea. The poor child's throat and mouth and the cords of the neck were horribly scalded and burned, and it did not seem possible at first that the little sufferer could live.

Dr. Pigeon was summoned and applied the necessary remedies. The little girl's condition Monday was very precarious, and her suffering was terrible, but it is expected that she will recover, although it is not without the greatest pain and difficulty that the child can swallow.

DIDN'T OCCUR AGAIN.

A Railroad Official's Dislike that the Conductor Remembered.

They are all now on an official of a certain railroad company. This gentleman was a strict observer of discipline, and if anyone was found to be in charge of a train, he was always ready to take a little trouble to see that it was done. A little while ago this official was riding toward Toronto in a train, and in charge was a man who was a little more than a little bit of a trouble maker. He knew by sight, however, several of the officials of the company, and he did what he thought would be a good thing. When he collected fares, he simply glanced at the gentleman in question, and passed him by. Our disciplinarian was this, and when the conductor came back, called him up.

"You have not collected my fare," said he. "Oh, sir," responded the conductor, with a contemptuous smile. "That's all right. You see I know you, sir. You are Mr. —, and, of course, you have a pass." "You should not know anybody, sir," remarked the official, in a tone that made the conductor wonder whether he would not soon have to apply for another job. "No matter whether I ride on this train a hundred times a day, you should collect my fare. Pardon this pass, sir, and be sure you do not let this occur again."

But he laughs best who laughs in his sleeve. It was but a few days after this that Mr. Official came riding back from Toronto, and happened to strike the same train. The conductor observed him quietly and made sure he would not get caught a second time. So the proper moment he approached the official and remarked about "Tickets, please." The railroad looked up and saw standing before him the man he had "roasted" so severely a few days before. "Ah," said he, "quite right, quite right," and then he fumbled in his pocket for his pass book. It was not there. Nor was any of his other pockets. "Strange," murmured he, "Where could I have left it? How unfortunate." All of a sudden, however, he felt on his person a conductor looked stonily into space and then held out his hand again. "Well, you see," said the confused official, "I have misplaced my pass book. I am Mr. —, you know."

LITTLE LOCAL LINES.

Items of Interest Intelligently Presented for Busy Readers.

Weather is moderating. The hunting season for deer will close Friday.

Thanksgiving Day will be one week from tomorrow. On Saturday morning the express from Port Hope struck and killed a fox on the Grand Trunk track about a mile this side of Peterborough. This is the first time men remember hearing of such a fatality a fox being considered too cunning an animal to be caught napping on a railway track. The fox killed had apparently been captured and under restraint at one time, as it was a collar round its neck with a piece of chain attached. However, he had evidently been running at large for some time, as the collar having been put around the neck when the animal was young, was cutting the flesh of the neck, which had grown with time.

THE COMPLIMENTARY CONCERT

Tendered to the Visiting Bicyclists—A Pleasant Affair.

The complimentary concert tendered to the visiting bicyclists, the skating rink Tuesday night was a pleasing affair, and the attendance was fairly large, considering the chilliness of the weather. The bicyclists should feel complimented at the turn-out of so many ladies, who were largely in the majority last night.

The Fire Brigade Band furnished music for the evening, and rendered several pieces in their usual excellent style, evoking many complimentary remarks from the visitors who were unanimously of the opinion that Peterborough has a splendid band. The greater part of the evening was taken up with the stereoscopic dissolving views by Mr. R. M. Roy. These were very beautiful and proved to be interesting. Pictures of the visiting bicyclists were shown on the large screen, and when they appeared the crowd cheered.

STURGEON POINT ROBBERIES.

The Three Offenders Before the Lindsay Magistrate.

Monday the case against Reuben Trip was continued before Police Magistrate Deacon, County Crown Attorney Devlin conducting the case for the Crown, while Mr. W. H. Steers acted as private prosecutor for Mr. McGaffey. Benjamin Thomas and William Parker gave evidence, the former two to tracks they had seen in the snow about the cottage; the latter's evidence did not amount to much. The defence then opened their case, and gave him $25 in cash on his bond. He heard that the cottages had been entered, but took no steps to let it be known, as he was afraid of the Peterkin boy.

The crown then put in the same evidence in the charge of stealing Gregory's goods, and the defence followed suit. His worship reserved judgment until Tuesday morning. The case against Wm. Trip was dismissed, as no evidence was produced by the crown.

The three Parkers were then charged with disobeying the summons of the court in not appearing on Thursday, warrants having been issued for their arrest. The father, George Parker, was fined $5, and the two sons were each fined $5, and were allowed to go.

GRAVE-ROBBING GHOULS.

Their Horrible Work Systematically Conducted.

If it were possible to relate the experiences of students of the Royal Medical College in respect to the robbery of grave yards, the work would be a most interesting and spicy character would be produced. The details of the hair-breadth escapes which some of them had from being killed in the performance of their work would make the basis of a sensational novel. Strange to say, however, it has yet to be recorded that a student was injured while in the act of robbing graves or vaults.

Not every student who has attended the College says the Kingston News, has been asked for the work of bringing in corpses for dissection. Only a few in each year had the nerve and pluck and ingenuity for the task. To do satisfactorily the student must be brave and shrewd. They must watch funerals and take a note of cemeteries in which bodies are placed and the graves, so that when they are visited no difficulty will be experienced in finding them. Their trips to the cemeteries are very secret, and it is never known who may be waiting to receive them, unless it is the general experience that people who care for the graves and who guard the graves are not to be trusted.

Probably the boldest and most daring robber that ever was in the College was the prince of grave robbers, and he died in the pastime. He was shrewd, careful and brave. During his term he was superintendent of grave digging, and was responsible for the supply of subjects for dissection. On one or two occasions, by clever disguise, he made a sale, he induced people in charge of bodies to give them up to him. He used to go to institutions, when strangers died, and amid bitter tears would place the bodies, so that he might take them away and bury them alongside of relatives. When he got them he sent them straight to the College. If this man had been a grave robber, he would not have been afraid of him.

In the olden times body-snatching was not done in order to steal the bodies for made out of the work. The traffic in bodies such as is carried on now would have been despised then. The bodies were sought for purely scientific purposes. A professor in Queen's Medical Faculty said last evening that he was not in favor of the practice of body-snatching. He thinks that some means could be devised by which bodies could be got without having to recourse to the robbery of graveyards.

INS AND OUTS.

We had occasion some time ago to give publicity to the disgraceful escape of Big Jim Lindsay, of Apsley, who ran away with the young daughter of a hotel-keeper in a penniless condition. He will readily recall the circumstances of Lindsay's cold blooded actions. So it will not be necessary to state them again. It is known however, that Big Jim was in town a few days ago and favored our J. M. walked into the office with blood in his eye and bluster written all over his face, but when he came upon the proportions of our fighting editor, the bluster melted away like fog before a Junelet sun, and the iris of his optic regained its natural color. In an ordinary tone of voice he asked us to apologize for all we had said of him, or he would immediately institute an action for libel.

With all the horrible details of the Mason case fresh in our mind and the vista of unlimited costs attached to a lawsuit, this was indeed a terrible threat, but it didn't work. Mr. Lindsay was then informed that he would get no satisfaction from this journal, and when he saw that his bluff wouldn't work, he peacefully took his departure.

Our Daily Motto—To give our advertisers best returns; to give our readers the news, the freshest news and all the news.

The sewer has stopped the street cars. During the stoppage of the street cars the town watering cart will carry passengers to all parts of the town.

RECEIVED A DEATH BLOW.

MR. JOHN FAWCETT FATALLY INJURED BY HIS HORSE.

While Hitching it Up the Animal Kicked Him in the Head Causing Contusion of the Brain—Dying from the Injuries.

Mr. John Fawcett, of Water street, is dying from the effects of a most shocking accident which befell him Sunday. It was not expected last night that he would survive until this morning.

Shortly after 10 o'clock yesterday morning Mr. Fawcett went out to the stables to hitch up his horse preparatory to taking a drive. While in the act of putting on the harness, the animal stepped to one side and made a vicious kick. The iron shod hoof striking Mr. Fawcett on the side of the head above the ear, hurling him some distance to the ground in an unconscious condition.

A few minutes afterwards members of the family discovered Mr. Fawcett lying unconscious in the barn. He was tenderly carried to his house and Dr. Halliday was summoned, who found that the unfortunate man had sustained a severe concussion of the brain, from the effects of which it is impossible for him to recover. Dr. Halliday and Dr. Fawcett were called in consultation by Dr. Halliday and it was found that nothing could be done to save the life of the injured man, who is hourly expected to breathe his last. He has not recovered consciousness since the accident occurred.

At one time Mr. Fawcett had the street watering contract for that portion of the town. He has been a resident of Peterborough for a number of years and was well known and respected.

DEATH OF MR. FAWCETT.

Mr. John Fawcett, of Water street, who was killed by his horse on Sunday morning, died Monday from the effects of his injuries. The injured man never regained consciousness. The funeral will take place from the family residence tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

A POWER PROJECT.

Belleville and Trenton to Have Electric Power From Trent River.

A despatch from Trenton says work has been commenced here on the electric power transmission plant, which is, in point of distance, the most important transmission of electrical energy so far undertaken in Canada. The valuable water power on the Trent River at Trenton will be used for the purpose of generating electrical energy, by which power, light and heat will be supplied throughout the Town of Trenton, and also Belleville, 12 miles distant. At the latter city the electric current will be used to operate the waterworks and to furnish power for all classes of motor service.

It is expected that in the near future the Belleville Street Railway will receive power from the same source.

The initial installation will have a capacity of 300 horse power, the system used for transmitting the energy being what is known as the three-phase alternating system. The Canadian General Electric Company have been awarded the contract for the entire installation.

HORSE MEAT SAUSAGES.

The Board of Health Investigating the Matter—Other Complicates.

The Provincial Board of Health is holding its regular quarterly session at the Parliament buildings. The members in attendance are: Dr. J. Macdonald, Hamilton, chairman; Dr. P. H. Shelburne, Dr. F. R. Rae, Ottawa; Dr. J. J. Cassidy, Dr. C. W. Coverton, Toronto; Dr. H. Vauz, Brockville; Dr. E. E. Kitchen, St. George.

The attention of the Board was directed for about a quarter of an hour to a peculiar case from Dr. Norton, Medical Health officer in the village of Shelburne, Ontario. It complained that some five or six cases of barbers' itch—scabies parasitic, the doctors called it—had occurred in the village within the past few months. All the victims had complained that they had contracted the disease in a barber shop. As a consequence the villagers were incensed against the barber, who was a stranger, and wanted him, the health officer, to close up his shop.

It was decided to require the barber to destroy his brushes, combs, razors, etc., or to turn them over to the Provincial Health Department to be disinfected. The barber's shop had been visited at the time the cases occurred. Then the Board turned its attention to horse sausages. A letter was received from a medical health officer in the village of Shelburne, Ontario, complaining that certain "scraping" operators were buying up old horses at a dollar per head and shipping them to Toronto where they were killed and manufactured into sausages, although they were shipped ostensibly for fertilizing purposes.

Several members of the Board considered that if the horses had died of no specific disease but were killed and their flesh eaten that the meat would be innocuous. The prejudice against horse meat as an article of diet, determined the Board to investigate the matter thoroughly and bring the guilty parties to account. Another letter was read from John Richardson, J.P., M.P.P., of York, which might be summarized by members of the Board as follows: "It was found that one of the old horses, of the county of York, was in the habit of feeding his 200 hogs on the most filthy offal, notably horse heads. He had written to the County Crown Attorney and that an information had been laid against McKay, who would be prosecuted for the offence."

Electrical Treatment

A. NORMAN, ESQ.

Dear Sir:—We think we ought to acknowledge in some way that may become public, the very great benefit our daughter has derived from the use of your Electro-Curative Belts, and your application of Electricity in the Bath and from Dry Treatment: When we brought her to you she was a picture of unhealthiness, her limbs were shriveled up, and as thin as limbs could be; she had no strength even to play with other children, in fact she was dying of consumption. Besides this, there was a hard lump on her spine at the nape of her neck, which caused her neck to be so stiff she could not move her head. Although it is only three months since we brought her to you she is sound and well.

OVER THE BRIDGE

Did the 2.64 Express Train
Crash Early This Morning.

WHO IS RESPONSIBLE?

THE CONDUCTOR AND ENGINEER
TELL DIFFERENT STORIES ABOUT THE SIGNAL LIGHTS—A CLUE.

With a terrible rumble of swiftly revolving wheels, and a clash of steel as the iron rails were struck by the enroaching rolling stock, the 2.64 express crashed over the looks bridge at 1.45 this morning. The train was made up of an engine and tender, baggage and express car, 3 passenger coaches and a Pullman sleeper. In the cab of the engine was Engineer Lever, of Belleville, and Fireman Firepup, of Millbrook. The cab contained nothing else except a large oil can and a monkey wrench for turning curves.

Citizens will remember the terrible accident which occurred at this bridge last month, when engine and baggage car dashed over the abutments at the open bridge and plunged into fifteen feet of the raging waters of the Otonabee. This terrible affair, although terrible as terrible can be, is only out-terrible by the terrible occurrence which occurred early this morning.

The train left the depot at 1.30 this morning. As was stated above, the train was made up of passenger coaches, and therefore, not being a freight train, the depot was left at this time. The train was in charge of Conductor Fairpleas, who has only been in the employ of the company about two weeks. He is spoken of as a careful, conscientious man, and no blame can hardly be attached to him. His version of the horrible catastrophe is straight-forward and fearless. His crew, outside of the engineer and fireman (who are not menials) is composed of John R. Bellesford, of Kingston, brakeman, and Thos. Veighlesse, baggageman, both of whom corroborate the story of the conductor in every important particular.

Conductor Fairpleas when seen, at the scene of the occurrence, said:

We left the depot at 1.30, just 7 minutes late, and pulled up to the semaphore at the rate of 4 or 5 miles an hour. I was in the first car to the baggage, when we stopped at the semaphore. I stepped down from the train to look at the signal lights myself, for since the last accident, I have made it a point to do this. The lights plainly signalled all clear, and a few minutes later we started off for the bridge. At this point the conductor seemed to be overcome with the horror of the scene at the bridge, for he staggered with faintness and murmured "you know what followed."

THE STORY CORROBORATED.
The brakeman and the baggageman both corroborated the story of the conductor. They are both willing to swear that the lights signalled all clear. They are positive they waited at the semaphore for about four minutes before they pulled out from the semaphore. This clearly proves that the conductor is in the right.

WAS THE ENGINEER TO BLAME.

Engineer Lever says that the lights were against the train, but not enough to shove it off the track. He would not have gone on had not the gong in the cab been rung to go ahead. He was surprised at this for he could see the bridge ahead of him. However, as the signal to go ahead was repeated, he opened the throttle, and the train sped on to its terrible destination. The water in the river was very rough and with rare presence of mind he took the oil can and squirted it oilerous elements upon them. This act no doubt saved many lives.

The story of the engineer was corroborated by Firepup who was in the tender at the time shovelling snow off the coal. He told the same story in every particular, and it is clearly to be seen that no blame can attach to the engineer.

WAS IT A FRIENDLY PLOT.

The conductor emphatically denies that he pulled the bell rope and the question now is, who did? It is the general opinion that some malicious person, who had a grudge against the brakeman for not putting him in the cooler, did the deed in a spirit of cold blooded revenge. The conductor can furnish a clue which may likely lead to the perpetrator of the party. There was a man on the train, thick set, and wearing a heavy coat and salmon-tinted underwear, who showed a pass when the conductor called for fares. It is thought that this man had a "pull" and pulled the rope. If he can be found the mystery will be solved.

HOW IT OCCURRED.

The train left the semaphore at 2 a.m., and crashed over the bridge. People living near the bridge were awakened by the crash, but knowing that it was the train going over the bridge, rolled over on their beds and resumed their slumber. The train reached Belleville in safety. There will be another train going over the bridge today.

SEWERAGE COMMITTEE.

To the Mayor and Council of the Town of Peterborough:

GENTLEMEN,—Your Sewerage Committee beg leave to report and recommend that David O'Brien be given the work of laying the steel pipe for the outfall of the brick sewer at the river, and of setting, jointing and covering the same, and furnishing all material therefor, except the pipe, in accordance with the plans and specifications prepared by the town engineer, and that he be paid $120 for the work upon the certificate of the Town Engineer that it has been properly performed and completed.

All of which is respectfully submitted.
HENRY BEST,
Chairman.

The report was adopted as read.
STREET AND BRIDGE COMMITTEE.

To the Mayor and Council of the Town of Peterborough:

GENTLEMEN,—Your Street and Bridge Committee beg leave to report as follows:

1. Your Committee as instructed asked for tenders for the construction of a bridge on George street at Townsend street and received the following tenders:—

Winch & Grant, for masonry ..... $1,325.00
John Hayes, for masonry ..... 2,350.00
James Bogue, for masonry ..... 2,400.00

W. L. Innes, for bridge complete ..... 2,705.00

Your Committee recommend that the contract for the masonry be let to the lowest tenders.

2. The brick sewer on George street between Perry street and the Canadian Pacific Railway station, and also on points north of the station, will require more covering to protect it from frost than the present level of the street will give. It is therefore necessary that the street be raised at these points, and the street railway track will also have to be raised. We recommend that the Committee be authorized to procure gravel for the purposes, and that upon the Street Railway Company agreeing to draw the material from the pit to the places where it is required, including furnishing and filling the cars, the Committee also purchase the gravel necessary to raise the road bed of the railway and spread it upon the street and roadbed.

All of which is respectfully submitted.
HENRY BEST,
Chairman.

The report was adopted as read.
CHARITY COMMITTEE.

To the Mayor and Council of the Town of Peterborough:

GENTLEMEN,—Your Charity Committee beg leave to report that the amount expended up to October 31st this year by your committee was $1,540.42, which with the two months salary of the Relief Officer, makes $1,567.00 expended by your committee. The amount expended by the Charity Committee during the corresponding ten months of 1894 was $1,733.76, which with the ten months salary of the Relief Officer, made a total of $1,822.00, showing a saving in 1895 as compared with 1894 of $255.

All of which is respectfully submitted.
JOHN SAWERS,
Chairman.

A bylaw authorizing the execution of a contract for the erection of the abutments for the new bridge, was passed on its several readings.

On motion of Councillors Best and Denne, all taxes on the wall against the Carbon and Porcelain Company for 1893, with the exception of school taxes, were remitted and hereafter this company will be exempt.

TO SELL THE ENGINE.

Councillor Dawson gave notice that at the next meeting of the council he would move that the fire engine be sold, and that unless some arrangement be made about the account with Ashburnham the engine be instructed not to go to Ashburnham fires.

Councillor Mason said it was time some provision was made for street cleaning. He moved that the Street and Bridge Committee be instructed to advertise for tenders for snowploughing. Carried.

Councillor Smith, of Ashburnham was heard in reference to fire protection.

The bylaw exempting the Lock Works and the Auburn Woollen Mills was passed on its several readings and became law. Preceding this Mr. Carnegie said he and Mr. Brooks represented the majority of the stock of the Lock Works, and he firmly believed it would be ratified by the company. All negotiations with out side parties, he stated, were withdrawn.

Councillor Cahill asked Mr. Carnegie if there was any chance of the company remaining where the works are at present. In view of the offer of the Bank of Montreal, Mr. Carnegie replied there was no chance of the company remaining at their present location. The company would not be coerced into remaining in buildings that were not suitable.

JACK THE FOLLOWER.

A Man Who Follows Young Ladies in the North End.

There is a tall individual in this town, who wears a light overcoat, who is likely to get into trouble if he doesn't discontinue his practices.

On Thursday night a young lady was walking near the Catholic school when she was approached by a tall man, who persisted in following her a few steps in the rear and addressing remarks to her. The young lady paid no heed to the remarks and walked faster, but the man suited his footsteps to her pace and maintained the close distance behind her.

As McDonald street, the young lady turned, and started to run. The tall man started to run also. Thoroughly frightened the young lady increased her speed and was very near her home, when she met a gentleman friend. He was quickly made acquainted with the state of affairs and started after the man, who had in the meantime taken to his heels.

This same fellow has followed a number of young ladies recently and he will come to grief some of these nights.

A SPLENDID CONCERT.

The Annual Event of the Foresters a Great Success.

The opera house was packed to the doors last night, the occasion being the Foresters' annual concert. The attendance was on a par with other years, while the entertainment surpassed all former attempts.

The artists and entertainers were: Mrs. Thos. Dunn, Mr. Sim Fax, Little Miss Lola Ostrom and Miss M. Frengloss Stevenson. A better array of talent could not be procured.

Mr. Thos. Dunn sang "The Gallant Salamander," "On the Rolling Wave," "The Hero's Return," and to each of these he responded to enthusiastic encores. Mr. Dunn surpassed himself last night. He is too well known in Peterborough to make comment on his excellent voice necessary.

Miss Stevenson sang with rare power and sweetness. The recitations of Little Miss Ostrom were wonderful efforts. Mr. Sim Fax took the audience by storm. Each of the artists was enthusiastically encored.

The Work Completed.

The divers have almost completed the work of repairing the bottom of the upper gate at the locks, and last night work was suspended for this year.

Catholic Literary Association.

Last night a large gathering in the rooms of the above society was treated to an address by Rev. Archdeacon Casey. A program of varied excellence was also rendered.

Police Court Notes.

There will be several cases before the magistrate this morning. Two young men will answer to a charge of being drunk and disorderly on Thursday night. Several other cases will be up on remand.

A Branch Organized.

Mr. J. O. Donnell, general agent of the Provincial Building and Loan Association, has just returned from Lakefield where he organized a branch of the association, with Duncan Fraser, M.D., President, and R. J. Munro, vice-president.

An Important Discovery.

Stony Lake and its vicinity seem to be abounding in different kinds of minerals, copper, mica, and several other kinds having been found there in the past few years. The latest find is supposed to be a silver or tin mine, specimens of which are in Col. Gibson's possession, and which were found in the vicinity of Stony Lake. If the specimens turn out to be the genuine article it will be a valuable find for the owner.

The Canal.

Work is going on at a rapid rate on this section of the canal, and the large number of men and teams are rapidly clearing the ground preparatory for the heavier work of blasting during the winter months. Work has been commenced a short distance below Lakefield and a carload of machinery arrived this week. Blasting will start in a day or so at this place and active operations will begin. The work of removing the houses on the route of the canal through the village is going on and before very long it will be clear.

A Close Call.

On Thursday night the Presbyterian church at sheds Lakefield was discovered to be on fire. The neighbors in the vicinity of the sheds were hastily awakened, several of them appearing on the scene scantily attired, and in a short time the fire was subdued with about a dozen pails of water. The fire is supposed to have originated from a match or a cigar stub, which had been thrown down by some person who had their horse in the shed. If the fire had not been discovered when it was, the sheds would have undoubtedly been destroyed as the wood in the shed had caught.

PETERBOROUGH, NOVEMBER 17 1895.

THE EASTERN WAR CLOUD.

The gravity of the situation at Constantinople appears to be increasing with every day. The Sultan's Government, never the best, is plainly suffering from panic, and is in a poor condition to stand the scrutiny of Europe. Lord Salisbury's late speech pictured a united and harmonious Christendom gathering in judgment about Stamboul, and denouncing that the Porte give his subjects a just government. The British Premier was careful to stripe the movement of anything of the character of a religious crusade against the enemies of the Christian faith; and he was well advised in taking pains to make this clear, for the intervention of Christian Europe on behalf of Christian Armenians persecuted by Moslems, might very easily bear this guise in the eyes of the Mohammedan world. But it is hot as defenders of the faith that the European Powers have sent their warships to the Dardanelles. The Turkish Government has long been a sort of ward of Europe, for whose good behavior the Powers were in a measure responsible and it is because of this and because the sense of their people revolts at the cruelties permitted under a feeble government, that they now dictate terms to the Sultan.

Thus far, as Lord Salisbury said, all is harmony. But anxious times will come if the Sultan is deposed and the Power attempt to deal with his empire. It is probably just as well, in view of such a contingency, that they have not gone to the East in the name of Christianity, for there might be some practices not notably Christian if the carving of Turkey become a necessity.

Berlin proposes to have an immense "Cairo Street" at her exhibition next year. Six times as much space will be given to it as was given at the Chicago exhibition, and besides reproductions of Egyptian scenery and monuments there will be a harem hidden among the shops.

The new South is not yet all it ought to be. In the month of September thirty-six persons, more than one a day, were killed in that section of the country by mob rule or in street fights. For the seven months ending October 1 the total of such victims was 154, of whom 135 were negroes and fourteen were women. Georgia and Tennessee furnished the most of the 154.

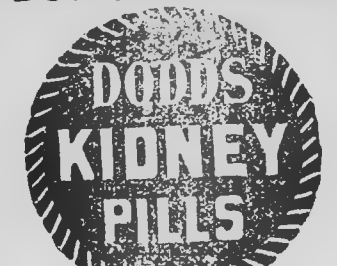

Hon. Mr. Foster is anxious that the electors of Canada should regard the school question as an incident in national affairs and not allow it to obscure the consistent loyalty to the old flag. Loyalty to the Empire and the policy of Protection are the only planks on which the Government want to be judged. The trouble is that neither the Quebec voter nor the Ontario voter will take that view of the question.

The Ministerial meeting at Smith's Falls last night was as much of a success as it could be in a hall which only holds 500 people at a pinch and is not intended to hold more than 400. Hundreds were turned away disappointed at not being able to hear the speakers. It was developed during the course of the evening that the stories of Cabinet dissensions are naughty romances invented by the wicked Grits. Instead of the slightest friction everything is happy and harmonious. The Ministers are all one on the Manitoba Schools question and on everything else affecting the Government. And there you are. This spectacle of happy harmony is almost enough to move a sympathetic soul to tears.

Russia is displaying a good deal of commercial activity in Persia. A Russian company has been formed with an influential Moscow directorate, to bring Tcheran into easy communication with the Caspian littoral by the construction of a road from Resht to Karvin. The capital is 1,000,000 rubles in shares which have been already taken up, and 1,500,000 rubles in debentures. The Russian government guarantees a 5 per cent. dividend, to be paid during the construction of the road, provided that the work is satisfactory and promptly done. The first section of the road, from Perl Bazaar on the Enzell lagoon to the foot of the mountain range at Kudum, has been begun, and is to be finished by the middle of January next. The enterprise is expected to have considerable influence on Russia trade in Persia. The question of constructing a port at Enzell is also said to be under consideration.

A company is being formed, with $500,000 capital, to operate a line of horseless wagons between Ashcroft and Barkerville, British Columbia, a distance of some 200 miles. Ashcroft is on the line of railway, and Barkerville is in the heart of the gold region. There is a fine wagon road the whole length of the route, and at present a big business is being done by horse stage lines. But in the Cariboo country everything the horses eat has to be imported at a heavy expense, and the road runs through such a mountainous region the horses do not last long. The company thinks it can handle the business of both passengers and freight, including the ore output of the mines, with an adaptation of one of the oil motor wagons that has been designed for use on this route, and at a much cheaper rate than by the present horse stages. The provincial legislature has been asked to pass a bill granting the company the privilege of operating horseless carriage on all the main routes in the Cariboo region. By the government direction the wagons are to be constructed with extra wide tires in order that their use may be beneficial rather than injurious to the roads. While oil motors are to be used for the present the company believes it will soon be able to adopt storage electric battery motors.

"SUN" LIFE

.. ASSURANCE COMPANY OF CANADA ..

The Rev. J. L. Murray, of Kincardine, Ontario, assured in the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada, in December, 1874, under Policy No. 1406, on the Twenty Year Endowment plan, paying an annual premium of $69.90 for ten years. He paid into the Company in all $699. In December, 1894, his Endowment matured, and he received a cheque from the Company for $1,364.70, being a return of all the premiums paid, and in addition, $665.70. That is to say Mr. Murray got back all the money he invested, with about 4 1/2 PER CENT. COMPOUND INTEREST, and had his life assured for $1,000 for twenty years free of charge.

It is needless to say that Mr. Murray was much pleased. You may gather that fact from the perusal of his letter here to appended. QUERY:—How many of the people of Peterborough invest their money to better advantage?

N. B.—This is an example of profits paid under our Five Year Distribution plan. The results under our Reserve Dividend (or Semi-Tontine) policies may reasonably be expected to greatly exceed that realized under the above plan.

KINCARDINE, Jan. 6th, 1895.

The Sun Life Assurance Co. of Canada, Montreal.

GENTLEMEN,—I beg to acknowledge the receipt of your cheque in full settlement of claim under my Ten Payment Twenty Year Endowment policy, No. 1100, and I desire to express my satisfaction with the result of my investment. I paid to the Company an annual premium of $60.00 for ten years, making a total of $600, for which I now receive a cheque for $1,364.70, being a return of all I have paid the Company, and in addition, $665.70, besides having had my life assured for $1,000 during the twenty years. This I consider very good indeed, and I have pleasure in giving my testimonial to that effect.

Yours sincerely,

(Signed,) REV. J. L. MURRAY.

DREAMLAND.

A land not far from us where souls at times walk in sleep—a dim, vast land, far than Egypt, full of rivers spanned mist. Broad meads it hath and moonlit knolls,
from the purple asphodel unrolls d many a pale death flower. Wide open stand trees all night, whence dreams in riotous band are, thronging, to the couch of sleep till morning bell. Then, nimble as a thought, vanish, save some luckless elf in nets
so fine than Queen Mab's eyelash, tripped

FUN FOR THE PLAIN GIRLS.

Honors Were Easy Between the Two Pretty Ones, the Rivals.

By bad certainly been rivals, and she came to call the two plain girls and dropped in to offer their congratulations decided not to go yet. The hostess, who was warmly and gave her a facing the light, and then the two girls rejoiced that they had not do the first time they rose to go. It was to be interesting.

"We will you are looking, dear!" said at once. "Your hair is really much becoming than when it was its natural color."

"We kind of you to say it, dear, especially your own blonding turned badly."

"By the way, you were not to forget your lunch. What a pity we forgot you! I'm sure she didn't go out intentionally."

"I couldn't have gone anyway. I had another engagement." The two girls giggled audibly.

"Well, then, it wasn't so bad, after all. I told all the girls we were to leave you out when you have so much to say."

"But, my pleasure is never done on dissipation. How pretty those flowers on your hat are! What a color is so trying!"

"Of course you won't dare to wear me out at Ida's tea yesterday?"

"I haven't been anywhere of late. It is too bad to be left out like this. I shall ask Jessie to be sure to have a card for her reception. It will be a crush. She is simply asking for it."

"I trouble yourself, dear. You don't care to visit Jessie. Besides, she is really not my own now. I'm well, then."

"Horace is so foolishly devoted to me that we are to be married yet."

"I didn't know it, and she couldn't be so young, but she really nobly. No, indeed!" she cried. "I'm so near it! The poor fellow was so when I told him in August that he must give up hope. I've felt fairly ever since, and now I'm so you have consented to console me."

"The two plain girls got up and said they must go now, they had such a lot to make."—Chicago Tribune.

A Story of John Bright.

Bright went into an agricultural day and had to walk from the long way into the village. A man who was driving in a dogcart, and learning his destination to drive him there. "Have you seen today?" the person asked.

"Bright had accepted a seat. That is in them?" "Why, that man Bright has been making an error." "And what was it about?"

"Bright, the clergyman explained. 'Well,' said the stranger, 'Bright was up here, and I've felt fairly ever since, and now I'm so you have consented to console me.'"

"Oh, no," said the stranger, "I had him here, I would feel him."

THE TIMES.

GREAT BRITAIN AROUSED

THE SULTAN RE-APPOINTS OFFICIALS REMOVED UPON HER DEMAND.

England Snubbed by the Turkish Ruler in a Bare Faced Manner—A Rumored Conflict Between Soldiers and Guards. Special to The Times.

ON STANTINOPLE, Nov. 15.—The Sultan apparently has not tired of snubbing Great Britain. Quite recently, he decorated Bahri Pasha, who has been removed from a governorship at the instance of a British Ambassador.

Sir Philip Currie, for ill-treating Armenians, and it was said that Bahri was to be appointed to the command of the Turkish troops operating against Zeitung, where the Armenians have seized the barracks and strategic positions after capturing a battalion of Turkish troops.

DISMISSED OFFICIALS ARE REINSTATED. It is now announced that three prison officials of Moosh, who were dismissed some time ago upon the demand of the British Ambassador owing to their maltreatment of prisoners, have been reinstated. The British charge d'affaires, the Hon. Michael Herbert, has demanded of the Porte that the three prison officials be again dismissed.

The report of a serious outbreak at Sivas is confirmed. The rioting, which has not been confined, but it is added order has been partially restored and the Turkish officials are protecting the foreigners there.

NO CHANGE FOR SOME DAYS. No change in the situation is anticipated for some days to come. The report of a conflict between the Albanian regiment and the Tripoli regiment at Yildiz Kiosk has not been confirmed, although it is well known that there has been bad blood between the guards at the palace ever since the Tripoli regiment furnished the sentries instead of the Albanians, as a result of notes being left with different palace officials saying that their lives were in danger and there was a plot to assassinate the Sultan.

ARREST IN THE ALGER CASE. Insurance Brown Also Accused—And There Are Others. Special to The Times.

WHITBY, Nov. 15.—Nicholas L. Brown, the agent of the Home Life Association for Ontario county, was arrested last night charged with conspiracy with George L. Alger to defraud the Home Life Company by insuring Alger's sick wife.

WHITBY, Nov. 15.—The adjourned trial of Alger for conspiracy against the Equitable Life came up in the court house before P. M. Harper at 11 o'clock this morning. The cross examination of Dr. Frances by T. H. Lennox, counsel for Alger, was in progress at 12.30 p.m., when adjournment was made for lunch.

Nick C. Brown is in court and will have a preliminary trial after the conclusion of the Alger case.

Joseph Horton has not yet been arrested, though a warrant is out for him. He is in Whitby. Sensational developments are expected.

WITH FORTY EIGHT SOULS. H.M.S. Edgar's Steam Launch Founders in Japanese Waters. Special to The Times.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—The Admiralty have received information that a steam launch belonging to the British cruiser Edgar was lost near Nagasaki on November 13, and it is believed that all of the 48 persons in the boat were drowned.

ENTERED FOR PROBATE. The Will of a Druggist—And That of a York County Yeoman. Special to The Times.

TORONTO, Nov. 15.—Angus Matheson, druggist, who died last month, left $300 in personal estate and the north-east corner of Balm and Spadina avenues, worth $2,700. It is willed to his immediate family.

Edward Heydon, of Carlton, died in March, 1880. He was entitled to about $3,575 from the executors of James Heydon, and willed it to his brother's wife, Mrs. Francis Heydon.

Before Treatment. After Treatment.

"At the age of 15 I commenced to ruin my health. Later on as 'ONE OF THE BOYS' I contracted a serious blood disease—syphilis. I was weak and nervous, despondent, pimples, swollen eyes, bone pains, dizziness, hair loss, more tongue and mouth, drains in urine, varicocele—I was a wreck. I was in the last stages when a friend recommended Dr. Kennedy & Kegan. A dozen other doctors had failed in curing me. Dr. K. & K. cured me in a few weeks by the New Method Treatment. I would warn similar diseased men to beware of Medical Friends. Dr. K. & K. are reliable, honest and skilful physicians."

Niblo's Garden, one of the historic theatres, has seen its last performance. It will be torn down right away.

Twelve Gullbert, the French music hall singer, about whom foreign correspondents have raved for a year or two, is coming over next fall.

The all conquering Brady will raise from prize fights to comic opera next year. He has hired Julian Edwards to write the score of an Irish opera to a libretto by Stanislaus Strang.

Theodore Thomas, the orchestra director, will celebrate his golden jubilee in July. He was born in Hanover sixty years ago, and came to America a lad of ten. He played in New York while a youngster as a kind of juvenile prodigy.

A St. Louis man has organized a pedestrian dramatic company, which proposes to walk all the way from New York, giving a show every night at some small town by the way, and carrying their scenery, costumes and baggage with them.

There is a good deal in a name sometimes. Mr. Dabney, who has been singing tenor songs in Daly's company a little while under the name of Daubigny, has now joined the Abbey & Grau opera company to sing tenor parts and will be known as Daubigne, which sounds very French indeed.

Louis Cyr's little daughter recently made her debut as a strong girl in Montreal. She is only seven years old and weighs 65 pounds, yet she lifted two dumbbells of 300 pounds, a 38-pound dumbbell above her head, a 150-pound one with one hand and two weighing 82 with one finger.

ABOUT WOMEN WOMEN.

Lady Randolph Churchill wears the very exceptionally granted and much coveted Imperial Order of the Crown of India conferred upon her by the Queen.

The Queen of the Belgians is usually attended when on horseback by one of her favorite dogs, of which she has a dozen, with a preference—just as Queen Victoria has—for Spitz terriers.

Lady Florence Dixie has accepted the presidency of the British Ladies' Football Club. The members of the club do not play in fashion's dress, but in knickerbockers, blouses, caps and football boots.

Mrs. H. H. Kitson of Boston has been selected to execute for the City of Providence a statue of Ezekiel Hopkins, first admiral of the Revolutionary Navy. Her husband is a sculptor of prominence and she has exhibited some highly creditable work at the Paris Salon.

"The late Lady C. Schreiber was a great patroness of London cabmen," says the London (Eng.) Queen. "They were indebted to her many years since as the kind donor of the cabmen's shelter outside the Langham Hotel, of which she has there are forty. Once a year she invited about 300 to a magnificent tea and entertainment. She was a warm supporter of the Cabdrivers' Benevolent Association."

RAM'S HORN BLASTS.

It is seldom that a man with a big income is ever prosecuted for righteousness' sake.

Whenever the world comes face to face with unselfish love it has to stop and think.

Some very good people can never see any harm in sin when it can wear good clothes and ride in a coach.

There is no sin so little but that if it had the right of way and time enough it would wreck the universe.

The sermons that do the most to save the world are not preached in pulpits. The devil probably loves a stingy man. The man who is not a friend will never have one.

Big words often make a poor cloak for a small idea.

Every good woman is a constant reminder that God lives.

An optimist is a man who believes that all eggs will hatch.

If the brother of the prodigal could have sat at the head of the table and carved the calf, it may be that he would not have refused to go into the house.

There are educated pigs, but there are none who do not like mud.

GATHERED HERE AND THERE.

It is calculated that in large ocean steamers more than 3,000 articles of glass and china are broken on every voyage.

A flour mill in Minneapolis contains a belt 300 feet long and weighing over a ton. It required twenty cowboys to handle it.

Were it not for the multitude of storks that throng Egypt every winter there would be no living in some parts of the country, for after every inundation frogs appear in devastating swarms.

The ashes of coal from the mines of the Transvaal Coal company and other countries in South Africa have been analyzed recently and found to contain nine pennyweights of gold to the ton.

More than 100,000 muskrat skins are bought in New York every winter to supply the demand for imitation seal skin trimmings, caps, etc., as no other fur so closely resembles seal.

The Navajo Indians, as soon as the weather gets warm in the spring, gather their best ponies and leave the reservation for the ostensible purpose of hunting deer and antelope. When they return they bring with them bunches of sheep numbering anywhere from fifty to 500.

ANIMAL LIFE.

Blue-eyed cats are said by Darwin to be always deaf.

The tail of a beaver is a regular trowel and is used as such.

The greatest velocity attained by a whale when struck by a harpoon is nine miles an hour.

The natural life of an elephant is said to be 100 years. It is, however, greatly shortened by captivity.

The lowest order of animal life is found in the microscopic jellyfish. It is simply a minute drop of gelatinous matter.

A CURIOUS FACT.

The Count of Montequien, a wealthy and eccentric French nobleman, inhabits a splendid villa in the neighborhood of Paris, chiefly remarkable for its magnificent conservatory, which is used as a banqueting hall. Creeping among the plants in this winter garden are to be seen a number of little tortoises, which their eccentric owner has encased and studded with precious stones.

Santes Alleriel.

Heavily—Upon Downes lighted his cigar with the paw of his dog and the other day by mistake. So he took the ashes of the ticket to the pawnbroker. Answer—What did it say? Heavily—They said that they had a fire the day before and handed him the ashes of his dog suit.

PETERBOROUGH, NOVEMBER 19 1895.

CITY AND COUNTY NEWS

LOCAL AND DISTRICT HAPPENINGS OF THE DAY.

The Weather.

Probe.—Fair today; showers tonight.

Thanksgiving Dinner.

The Thanksgiving dinner to be held in the Charlotte street Methodist church on Wednesday evening promises to be a great success. The ladies have been busy securing a large supply of the delicacies of the season and will be prepared for a crowd.

North Ontario.

The World was informed last night that the first of the bye-elections to be held in Ontario would be all probably be North Ontario, and that the Conservative candidate would be in accord with the Government in regard to the Manitoba school question.—Toronto World.

A Trip to Rice Lake.

Mr. C. G. Snyder and party enjoyed a trip on the steam yacht "Minnie" down the river to Rice Lake on Saturday afternoon, and report a very pleasant time. They arrived at 7.30 yesterday morning. Judging by appearances the lake will not freeze up for a month at least. Ducks are scarce, if not being cold enough for them yet.

Largest of the Year.

Saturday's market, despite the drizzling weather, was the largest of the season, so reports Market Clerk Green. Produce and poultry was readily bought up at good prices, except butter which took a decline. There was a lively Thanksgiving market in buying. A large Thanksgiving market is anticipated on Wednesday. Tuesday will be live stock day as usual.

An Imported Stock.

The Hoffman House wine rooms have been augmented by a large stock of imported wines, liquors, whiskies and brandies, and is now very complete. Wines of the most famous vintage and liquors manufactured by the best known foreign distillers have been imported, and the Hoffman House can now boast of a wine cellar equalled only by the Russell House, Ottawa.

A Change of Pulpits.

Last night sermons to young men were preached in all the churches. There was a merry exchange of pulpits as follows: Murray street Baptist—Rev. W. C. Beer. Mark street Methodist—Rev. J. E. Trotter. George street Methodist—Rev. Dr. Torrance. St. Paul's, Presbyterian—Rev. J. J. Rice. St. Andrew's, Presbyterian—Rev. W. H. Young. Charlotte street Methodist—Rev. A. McWilliams.

Death of Mrs. Matchett.

The death of Mrs. Margaret Matchett, widow of the late Alexander Matchett, occurred Friday at the family residence, lot 18, con. 13, of Otonabee, in her 82nd year. She had lived in Otonabee for over 60 years. She was the daughter of the late William Stewart, of Otonabee. One of the first settlers in the township of Otonabee, she was married to Alexander Matchett, who was a well-known settler in the township. She was a devoted wife and mother, and was highly respected by all who knew her. She died at 1.30 o'clock.

Winters Long Ago.

Speaking of the change that has taken place in the length and severity of the winters in this part of the country, a subscriber informed a Times reporter that several years ago there was an exceptionally severe winter in this section. On the 28th of October of that year a heavy rain storm set in followed by sleet and then snow. The snow fell to a depth of three feet on the level and the ground was not seen again until the following May. Many of the people had not taken up their potatoes and in some instances the potatoes were good condition the following spring. People are not hankering after a return of the good old fashioned winters of this description to any very great extent.

A Narrow Escape.

Last Sunday evening, Mr. Skeff, manager of the Bank of Toronto, with his wife and Mr. Connolly, who have been a most serious accident, saw the Cobourg World. Anyone who have driven from Port Hope at night know that when driving south from the point, it is impossible to see where one is going, owing to the glare of the electric lights on that road. While returning from Port Hope on Sunday evening, and unable to see the road from the mentioned cause, Mr. Skeff drove off into the ditch. The horses became unmanageable, threw the occupants from the buggy and started off at a furious pace. When running down King street they fell into a sewer excavation near the Y.M.C.A. hall. After considerable difficulty the horses were extricated from their dangerous position, fortunately with only a few bruises. We are pleased to say that none of the occupants of the carriage were injured beyond a slight shaking up.

A Canadian Puma.

Mr. A. E. Kennedy, foreman carpenter for Mr. M. Boyd, was commissioned the other day to have a cage built for the accommodation of a puma that had just arrived from British Columbia. It is a cub that was caught on the island of Vancouver and arrived here in good order and very much alive as Mr. Kennedy discovered when transferring the varmint to his new abode. The puma, cougar, catamount or panther is one of the largest of the American feline, rivalled only by the jaguar. It is sometimes called the American lion, though it is allied more to the leopard. The fur is thick and close and of a reddish brown lighter on the sides, and white on the breast. It has a rather unpleasant pensive look and sneaking up a tree to drop down on the back of a person's neck is a little practical joke much affected by this amiable animal. It is said to be a gentle creature, putting like a cat, and showing equal love of attentions. Mr. Kennedy is of opinion that the latter assertion is all false, as any rate his taste for putting gentle creatures does not run in the direction of young pumas with claws like patent hay forks.

For Breaking up a Cold.

"I am much pleased with the Paper Pills, which were sent for one trade mark from Hood's Pills and ten cents in stamps. I have taken Hood's Pills and have derived great benefit from them. I have suffered a great deal with my back since having typhoid fever, but Hood's Pills have proved beneficial and are also good for breaking up a cold."—Mrs. John J. Russell, London, Ont., 220 E. 1st Street.

HOOD'S PILLS cure biliousness, indigestion.

TWO BURNED TO DEATH.

A Fatal Fire at Rathburn, on the Central Ontario Railway.

A despatch from Marmora says: The hotel belonging to Wm. Stanlick, of Rathburn was consumed by fire about midnight. Two persons, whose names have not been learned, were burned to death, and Mr. Stanlick and his wife barely escaped the same fate. Seven hundred dollars in cash, some furniture and contents, were consumed. The loss was partially covered by insurance. Rathburn is a village on the Central Ontario railway.

LITTLE LOCAL LINES.

Items of Interest Intelligently Presented for Busy Readers.

The changes in the G. T. R. time card will go into effect today. Invitations are out for the Firemen's ball to be held on Wednesday night. The Lindsay Oddfellows will pay the Peterborough lodges a fraternal visit on Wednesday night.

Eleven tramps were quartered at the police station on Saturday and Sunday nights. The wet weather is driving them in.

Two young men will appear before the magistrate this morning charged with disorderly conduct.

SHE IS OVER AGE.

And Refuses to Return With Her Parents—An Elopement.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bender, of Moulinette, were in town last week in search of their daughter, Martha, who had eloped the night with a young man named Jack Johnston, formerly of South Finch. They evidently did not approve of Johnston's attention to their daughter, and when she later called on Monday last he was refused admission to the house. A quarrel ensued and Mr. Bender claims that his would-be son-in-law struck him over the head with his whip. Monday morning when the old couple arose they found that love still laughs at locksmiths. The door had been broken during the night and their daughter had fled with her admirer. Mr. and Mrs. Bender came to Peterborough, but as the girl is 21 years of age they found that they could do nothing to interfere with her actions.

CAUGHT IN THE ACT.

Mrs. Meharry Shadows Her Hubby and Scars Him With a Gun.

Mrs. Robert Meharry, of George street, between Astor and Smith streets, armed with a revolver on Friday night, and followed her husband to a house on Edinburgh street. He entered the house and she followed a few minutes later, to find him in company with another woman. When thus caught, Mr. Meharry resorted to tears, but they didn't phase his strong minded wife. She told him she had caught him this time, and then went outside to get a witness to the fact. Mr. Meharry objected to a third party witnessing his discomfiture and proceeded to leave the house. He reached the sidewalk and tried to pass his wife, but she drew out the revolver and pulled the trigger. Meharry was not struck by the bullet, but he was by his wife's determined manner and so he did just as she said. Mrs. Meharry only fired off the revolver to scare her husband, so she says.

The other woman in the case was Agnes Murray. Agnes is a recent importation, but just where she hailed from is not known. She told one person she came from Cobourg and another from Owen Sound. Mrs. Meharry got onto the racket through a photograph which Meharry had in his possession and also by remarks he let drop from time to time. She disguised herself on Friday night and played the role of a detective with great success. Meharry has shown every sign of repentance, and his wife has forgiven him and they are once more happy. It is not likely the police will do anything in the matter.

THE LORNES ARE CHAMPIONS.

Quebec Rugby Kickers Prove an Easy Prey to the Toronto Combination.

Saturday afternoon the Lornes met and defeated the Quebec Rugby Club on the Rossdale grounds before about 700 spectators by a score of 34 to 2. At half time the score was 20 to 0, and in the second half the Lornes scored 14 more to Quebec's 2. This makes the Lornes the champions of Canada. The Quebecers have not met with defeat this season until Saturday, while the Lornes were defeated by Varsity only in the first match of the season.

For Quebec, Pant, Scott and Davidson showed up well, while every man on the Lorne team was up to championship form. Although the score is one sided, it does not show the true character of the game, as it was fast and free from rough play throughout. It was the Lornes' combination that was so effective, for every point they got was through that particular feature. After the game the Lornes dined at the Quebec team at Webb's.

MONTREAL MEET VARSITY.

MONTREAL, Nov. 10.—Montreal defeated Ottawa at Montreal Saturday by a score of 19 to 11. In the first half Montreal scored 10 to Ottawa's 2. The result of this match makes Montreal the Quebec champions, and they will play Varsity, the Ontario champions, at Montreal on Thanksgiving Day for the championship of Canada.

IVES FAILED.

New York, Nov. 16.—Ives was beaten in his brilliant match with Gallagher at Daly's last night. Ives started in to make some 3,000 points to Gallagher's 1,300 in five nights' play. The final score last night was: Gallagher 240; high run 90; average 122.17; grand average 17 61-67. Ives 630; high run 483; average 41 3-18; grand average 36 13-66.

Church Notes.

About 250 scholars attended St. Andrew's Sabbath school yesterday afternoon. The school was opened by Mr. G. W. Mulligan, in the absence of Rev. A. McWilliams, who is suffering from a severe cold and sore throat. The musical part of the service was led by the orchestra, which made its initial appearance yesterday afternoon, and is composed entirely of members and adherents of St. Andrew's church. The following are taking part: Miss Maud, 1st violin; Miss Edmison, 2nd violin; Mr. W. S. Corbin, 1st flute; Mr. H. Edmison, 2nd flute; Mr. J. Jones, tuba, and Mrs. Jones, pianist. A cornet and clarinet will also be added next week.

Large congregations attended both morning and evening services at St. Luke's church, Ashburnham, yesterday, and listened to two excellent discourses by the rector, Rev. H. Symonds. Next Thursday being Thanksgiving Day, divine service will be held at 10.30 a.m. Sermon by the rector. On Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock the Women's Auxiliary purpose holding an "At Home," when Miss Symonds will give an address on Indian life, showing the work of the church in the northwest. The platform will be arranged to represent an Indian camp. Refreshments will be served by the ladies and a pleasant evening is looked forward to. Silver collection.

OAK HALL.

There would be better men in this world and less misery and crime. Mrs. Meharry is a brave little woman, and should be honored for protecting her own good name and preserving the future respectability of her children. We have heard much talk about the New Woman. Mrs. Meharry may not be one of them, but we trust the New Woman will possess some of her spirit, nerve and ideas. She did the right thing at the right time on Friday night, and the only regret we feel, is that she did not put a bullet through her husband's head, as a souvenir of the occasion and a reminder of it, should he incline towards a repetition of his conduct.

TOWN TOPICS.

Nobody will blame the Lock Works for reaching out and grasping all that the town offered them to remain in Peterborough.

A leading shareholder of the Lock Works is also a shareholder of the Auburn Woollen Mills, which may be or may not be a significant fact, inasmuch as by refusing the offer of the Bank of Montreal to reduce the rent on the present buildings, and accepting the offer of the town—which is almost a certainty—both the Lock Works and the Auburn Woollen Mills secure exemption from taxation.

The Town Council was precipitate in making such a tempting offer. When the promoters of the Lock Works gave as a reason for wishing to locate elsewhere that the rent of their buildings was too high, a special committee of the Council or a committee of the Board of Trade, should have ascertained whether or not the proprietors or mortgagees of the buildings would reduce the rent. Then it would have been time enough to make an offer. After the offer was made it is not reasonable to expect the Lock Works would accept one less advantageous. The Council was delirious in not foreseeing the recent action of the Bank of Montreal.

Possibly the tax exemption granted by the council, representing some $5,000, is the only sop that would have retained the Lock Works in Peterborough, but this is a question, and one that interests every ratepayer to the extent of a mill and a fraction upon every dollar of his assessment. Questions such as this should not be passed over hurriedly. The town has allowed this company to name its own terms, and the precedent is one, which if followed up, will leave the town poorer in the end. By the present arrangement the Auburn woollen mills is able to dispose of idle land and surplus power at a good figure, while manufacturing sites owned by the town and power that the town can easily secure to advantage, lay idle.

Councillor Dawson's notice of motion to dispose of the steam fire engine should meet with defeat. It will be an unwise step for the town to dispose of the engine. Toronto with her miles of water mains and excellent pressure suffered millions of dollars' loss, when she relied solely upon the waterworks pressure for fire protection. The lesson to Toronto was costly, but it resulted in the immediate purchase of several fire engines, without which the property of her citizens was not reasonably secure against another conflagration.

Peterborough is in the same position as Toronto. Fortunately no fire has occurred within the limits of the town to over-tax the pressure on the mains, but we venture to say that should a fire break out on George street the services of a steam fire engine would be invaluable. Peterborough can afford to house the old engine in idleness for years, rather than feel the want of it when the emergency comes. It cannot be disposed of for any sum nearly representing its purchase value and its intrinsic cost would be more than trebled in service should a serious conflagration occur.

From this, should Ashburnham be absorbed by the town, as it assuredly will be some time, a fire engine would be necessary. Retain the old engine by all means.

No Juggler.

Two or three more regular council meetings will usher in the new year, and it is to be hoped, a new council. There are some good men on the present board but they are sadly in the minority. The men who have stood by the ratepayers, interests should be retained, and the rest should be left at home, unless they have the good sense to graciously retire. Peterborough has reason to be proud of the school board. Men of like calibre should compose the council.

The election pot will soon be boiling, and the interest attendant upon the approach of an election will soon begin to grow. More interest will be manifested this year than for several years past, owing to the retirement of Mayor Kendry, who has served the town faithfully and well, and the speculation as to who will fill the mayor's chair for 1896. It is altogether probable there will be several candidates for the honorable position. In this connection THE TIMES will make announcements later on.

This is a bad month for the trembling Turk. A cable despatch says: "Turkey is ready for dismemberment." This of course refers to the sick man of the old world. But the old world Turkey is not the only one over whose head the axe is hanging these days. As Thanksgiving Day approaches, countless trembling Canadian turkeys are quaking with fear as they look forward to their "dismemberment" and partition among the powers with cranberry sauce.

If every woman whose husband goes galavanting around with other women, was like Mrs. Meharry, of George street, there would be better men in this world and less misery and crime. Mrs. Meharry is a brave little woman, and should be honored for protecting her own good name and preserving the future respectability of her children. We have heard much talk about the New Woman. #### A Pretty Wedding.

A very pretty wedding took place on Thursday afternoon at four o'clock, at Spruce Lawn, says the Cobourg World, when Mr. William Beatty, of Montreal, was united in marriage to Miss Etie, second daughter of Mr. D. H. Minaker, town clerk of Cobourg. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. J. Joliffe, B.C.L. The bride was assisted by her sister, Miss Lou Minaker. Owing to recent affliction in the groom's family, the wedding was very quiet, being witnessed only by the family and a very few intimate friends of the bride. The wedding gown was of white silk trimmed with white satin ribbon and chiffon. A unique feature was the painted china, decorated by the bride. The table and the rooms were decorated with pink and white chrysanthemums. The presents were numerous and costly and evinced the esteem in which the bride and groom were held. The happy couple left on a short trip to the west, followed by the good wishes of the bride's many friends in town.

He Stole a Pig's Head.

On Wednesday a couple of gay and festive tramps struck town, says the Lindsay Post, and went in for a good time. To get the wherewithal they invested in a few yards of wire, and being ingenious chaps they speedily manufactured a number of hangers for clothing and a dozen or two brain twisting puzzles, which they were not long disposing of. With the funds thus obtained they dipped deep into the flowing bowl, and while in this condition one of them was nabbed and taken to the cooler. Next morning he rejoined his companion and the program of the previous day was repeated with variations. When the shades of evening again descended one of the tramps was observed standing in front of Porter's window vainly endeavoring to hide a huge pig's head under his tattered coat from suspicion that it had been stolen. Chief Bell caught him, and being unable to account for his prize, was again lodged in durance vile. His companion, who overhauled later, and this morning the latter was sent up for 10 days as a vagrant, while the former was remanded. It is supposed that the pig's head was stolen from Spratt & Kilien, as a number was temptingly displayed on a box near the doorway.

Weak Links.

When the kidneys are weak, or overworked, various kinds of ailments are sure to slip past them. Sickness of some kind is sure to result. The kidneys are filters and their work is to keep poisons out of the circulation. The sickness will depend on the nature of the poison—it may be Malaria or Typhoid poison—or something else. People with weak kidneys can escape effects by taking these organs by kidney treatment. People are coming to understand this truth. It explains why Dodd's Kidney Pills though only a kidney medicine set people right, and they get well. It is all because they go straight to the cause which shows itself first in the weak link.

The Times.

PETERBOROUGH, NOVEMBER 17, 1895.

The Council have put up "another $500" as costs in the Mason case. The impression that Corporation Lawyer Edwards is the only lawyer on earth is rapidly fading away.

According to the latest statistics, New York has one saloon to every 254 of her population; Chicago, one to every 242; Philadelphia, one to every 841, and Boston, one to every 500.

Three women preachers hold ministerial charges in Belfast, Maine. Miss Kingsbury is pastor of the Universalist church, Miss King of the Church of the Advent and Mrs. McIntyre of the Church of God.

A French naval engineer named d'Humi has invented a pressed oilcake for use as fuel on ocean steamers. It is not affected by temperature, is smokeless and odorless, cannot evaporate or cause explosions, and burns only on the surface, giving out intense heat, and leaving only from two to three per cent. of ash. A ton of this fuel is equal to thirty tons of coal, and costs between five and ten dollars.

The Journal of Hygiene says that a doctor has a new idea concerning food for consumptives. His treatment consists of the inhaling the fumes of vinegar and the eating of peanuts. He gives his patients as many peanuts as they can eat without injuring their digestive organs. Two young ladies who had been the rounds of the doctors and taken cod-liver oil and tonics till they were nearly dead were put on his treatment and recovered.

The health of the rich is valuable. Dr. Julius Rosenstein, a San Francisco surgeon, is suing for $14,000 for six weeks' attendance on Joseph MacDough, the millionaire. Rosenstein charged $20 an hour for his time. His bill amounted to over $14,000, but he reduced it to $10,000. When the administrator of the estate refused to pay him Dr. Rosenstein restored his original bill and brought suit. Another doctor not long ago recovered $5,000 from John W. Mackey for the treatment of a simple flesh wound.

The strangest project for rapid trans-Atlantic travel is that of the French engineer, Basin. His ideal "ship" is not a ship at all, a platform several stories high, carried on and propelled by tubes or "rollers" about sixty feet in diameter, entering the water about twenty feet. The inventor claims that with such rotating monster rollers a speed of thirty-two knot an hour is possible. A very small model has shown satisfactory results, so much so as to attract the attention of French government. A model seventy-five feet long is now in course of construction.

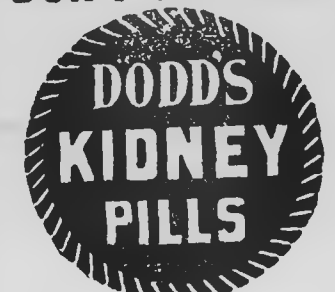

In speaking of Dr. Glaser's recent discovery of ancient inscriptions in Arabia, Professor Hommel, of Munich, says: "It is my conviction that Arabia itself will furnish us the direct proofs that the modern destructive criticism of the pentateuch is absolutely erroneous. The age of the Mosaic inscription runs parallel with that of the so-called code of the priests. If the former are as old as Glaser believes them to be, and the Arabian civilisation, as I have proved in my first article, already existed at the time of Abraham, then the laws of the priests of Israel are also very ancient. The best proofs of the historical accuracy of the Old Testament traditions come more and more from without, from the inscriptions of the surrounding nations."

Bear kegs are being used with great success for the odd purpose of catching bears in the vicinity of Hoquiam, Washington, and are said to make the best bear traps ever used in that region. One end is knocked out of the keg, and then a number of strong, sharp spikes are driven into its sides, the points slanting slightly toward the closed end. A big dab of honey or other delicacy especially liked by a bear is then placed at the further end, and the keg is carelessly dropped in the woods where the bears are likely to stumble across it. The device caught five bears in one week for one keg planter recently. The bear just pushes tight into the keg after the honey in the end, and the spikes effectually prevent him from backing out, and all he can do is roll around until he is tired, and then wait for the trap layer to come round.

The sum of $1 each was left to his sons by the late Col. Albert W. Johnson who died on November 6th at the home of his son, Representative Tom L. Johnson, the Cleveland capitalist who is a prime mover in the new Buffalo street-railroad project. Col. Johnson was worth $304,977. Years before his death his three sons had secured a good footing in business, and their relations with the father during his last years were those of brothers. The Johnson boys had an understanding with their father some years ago that all of his property should go to their mother. They had urged him to cut them off with $1 each. This he did in a will made 12 years ago. Representative Johnson's brothers are associated with him in his street-road enterprises in Cleveland, Detroit and other cities.

The Rev. J. R. Rice, the cowboy preacher who has a wide reputation in the East for getting into trouble with his audiences, underwent a familiar experience in Salt Lake City a few days ago. Being short of cash, he suggested at the beginning of the service that it would be well to lubricate the wheels at once. The audience had not become sufficiently warmed up to contribute generously, and the hat came back with little in it. The young soldier of the other world thereupon told the people frankly what he thought of them. A couple of hearers made a dash at him, and at the same moment, a patrolman walked forward and arrested him for disturbing the peace. He had a quantity of nickels and dimes in his pocket large enough to cover the bail, and he was allowed to spend the night elsewhere than in jail.

..ASSURANCE COMPANY OF CANADA..

The Rev. J. L. Murray, of Kincardine, Ontario, assured in the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada, in December, 1874, under Policy No. 1406, on the Twenty Year Endowment plan, paying an annual premium of $69.90 for ten years. He paid into the Company in all $699. In December, 1894, his Endowment matured, and he received a cheque from the Company for $1,364.70, being a return of all the premiums paid, and in addition, $665.70. That is to say Mr. Murray got back all the money he invested, with about 4½ PER CENT. COMPOUND INTEREST, and had his life assured for $1,000 for twenty years free of charge.

It is needless to say that Mr. Murray was much pleased. You may gather that fact from the perusal of his letter here to appended. QUERY:—How many of the people of Peterborough invest their money to better advantage? N. B.—This is an example of profits paid under our Five Year Distribution plan. The results under our Reserve Dividend (or Semi-Tontine) policies may reasonably be expected to greatly exceed that realized under the above plan.

KINCARDINE, Jan. 6th, 1895.

The Sun Life Assurance Co. of Canada, Montreal. GENTLEMEN,—I beg to acknowledge the receipt of your cheque in full settlement of claim under my Ten Payment Twenty Year Endowment policy, No. 1406, and I desire to express my satisfaction with the result of my investment. I paid to the Company an annual premium of $69.90 for ten years, making a total of $699, for which I now receive a cheque for $1,364.70, being a return of all I have paid the Company, and in addition, $665.70, besides having had my life assured for $1,000 during the twenty years. This I consider very good indeed, and I have pleasure in giving my testimonial to that effect. Yours sincerely, (Signed,) REV. J. L. MURRAY.

MORAL.—Get a Policy in the Sun Life for the benefit of your family. You may find it very useful personally.

Novelties in Short Fur Capes

The prevailing styles in Fur Capes worn in all the continental cities of Europe are short and very full, reaching barely to the waist. Many styles of short Collarettes are also worn and look very stylish over heavy winter costumes. We are showing quite a variety of these in all the most fashionable furs. Some are trimmed on the collar and down the front with Black Thibet, and others with Alaska Sable, which is very effective, and the prices are very reasonable, costing from $25 to $75, according to length.

A MORNING BATH IN MAUI.

From cloth of gold of eastern looms
And whirl and glare of city rooms
She fled away to woodland blooms
In softly swaying hokoku.
Her bare feet wet with morning dew,
She strayed upon the hills she knew,
She climbed among the waterfalls
Where streamlet unto streamlet calls
Amid the somber canyon walls;
And at some placid pool between
Where forest trees together lean,
Making untwined a perfect screen,
She staid and listened for some sound
Of man or beast that, lingering round,
Might trespass on her chosen ground.
The oos sang their roundelay,
An ilwa flashed a crimson ray
Athwart the shadows of the day,
A lizard rustled in the sod,
The bamboo swayed its slender rod.
None saw her but the birds and—God,
Like an expectant chrysalis
She shed her clothes as things amiss
And radiant stood for winds to kiss;
She shook her dark hair to the breeze,
And so arrayed unto her knees
She stole among the whispering trees
And climbed among the rocks that lie
In primal masonry on high
And stood outlined against the sky.
The sun shone on her body fair,
The trade winds frolicked with her hair,
All nature did her homage there;
And she, there standing in the sun,
Was with all other nature one,
And felt its currents through her run.
Too soon, alas! in sinuous grace
She ran with swiftly flying pace
And boldly sprang from that high place,
And like a meteor in its flight
Or unheated knightly salar bright,
She flashed one moment in the light
And then in watery ecstacy
From velvet toes to finger tips
Went out that sweet apostrophe!

Trickery of the Camera.

One of the most eminent architects in the kingdom once showed a photograph of a column and capital to a number of his colleagues. Had they ever seen such a capital? They had not, and they said so. Then arose disputes as to the precise nature of the architecture. Finally sundry big wagers were made, and then the architect proceeded gravely to explain the structure of the column and its capital. This he did by producing his Malacca walking stick and a few sprigs of succulent broccoli. Naturally enough, however, after many abstruse disquisitions on medieval architecture had been given on the subject of the mysterious pillar, this explanation of the photograph was received in silent disgust.

An equally amusing case of the duplicity of the camera was found in a law case in London when suit was brought to tear down a court, which, it was maintained, was dingy, dirty and haunted by loafers of questionable character. The counsel on the other side, representing merchants having offices in the court, represented that the passage was well lighted and eminently respectable. Photos were handed in from both sides. The first showed a narrow, disreputable looking alley, strewn with rubbish and fallen hoarding. The other picture, however, showed the court in dispute to be a fairly broad, well lighted city thoroughfare, frequented by merchants of thriving appearance.—Strand Magazine.

Modernized Holy Land.

Whatever romance and poetry were in olden times associated with pilgrimages to places reputed sacred are rapidly being destroyed by the prosaic spirit of this very progressive age and matter of fact age. Thus those who with pious intentions now visit the Holy Land are transported by rail from Jaffa to Jerusalem, where a funicular line conveys them to the summit of the Mount of Olives, while comfortable hotels on the American plan are to be found at Bethlehem and on the site of the garden of Gethsemane. A hydraulic elevator has been established at Mar-seilles for the purpose of hoisting pilgrims to the much visited shrine of Notre Dame de la Garde, perched on the summit of the highest rock overlooking the city and bay, and to which sailors and travelers from starting out or upon returning from sea voyages have from time immemorial been wont to ascend by the thousands of steep steps. Naturally on their knees.—New York Tribune.

Never did any soul do good but it came readier to do the same again, with more enjoyment. Never was love or gratitude of bounty practiced but with increasing joy, which made the practitioner still more in love with the fair act.

It is curious that men are not generally ashamed of any form of anger, wrath or malice, but of the first step toward a nobler nature—the confession of a wrong—they are ashamed.

A VICTORY FOR PEDDLERS.

TORONTO LOSES THE APPEAL TO THE PRIVY COUNCIL.

The 'Privy Council' Judgment in the Virgo Case—City Exceeded its Powers in Passing Prohibitory Legislation.
Special to The Times.

LONDON, Nov. 18.—The Privy Council today handed out judgment in the appeal of the City of Toronto against the judgment of the Supreme Court of Canada in the Virgo case. The appeal is dismissed with costs.

Their lordships' conclusion is that it was not the intention of the act to give municipal corporations power to enact prohibitory legislation under the authority conferred upon them to pass certain regulations.

The bylaw which has been quashed by the Privy Council, in dismissing the appeal of the city against the judgment of the Supreme Court, was passed by the City Council on October 26th, 1891. The object of the bylaw was to prevent hawkers and peddlers from plying their calling on the busiest sections of the following streets:—King street, Queen street, Yonge street, Spadina avenue and Dundas street. The bylaw came into force on July 1st of the following year. Believing that the bylaw placed unlawful restrictions on their business, the Peddlers' Association decided to test its validity, and for that purpose selected Mr. Virgo, to commence litigation with a view of quashing the bylaw, on the ground that it was beyond the power of the city, which it was claimed, had no right to interfere with the common law rights of the peddlers, and also on the ground that it was an unjust discrimination. The motion was argued on the 6th of September, 1892, before Chief Justice Sir Thomas Gait, who, eleven days later, dismissed the application. The peddlers, however, carried an appeal to the Court of Appeal where they were again worsted, the court unanimously sustaining the bylaw. Not yet satisfied, the peddlers carried the case to the Supreme Court where it was argued and on the February 20th, 1894, the court delivered judgment in favor of the peddlers. Justices King, Sedgwick and Gwynne holding that the city had not the power, claimed for it, and Justices Taschereau and Fournier dissenting. The city this time decided to appeal against the judgment of the Supreme Court, and the special cable, as above published, shows that the peddlers have been sustained. The case was argued in the council chamber, Whitehall, on the 25th of July last in the presence of Lord Watson, McNaughton, Davey, Morris and Sir Richard Couch. The city was represented by the Hon. Edward Blake, who argued the appeal, while the Peddlers' Association was represented by Mr. E. F. A. Du Varney, who has argued the case for the Peddlers in every court. The costs of the case, which the city will now have to pay, will amount to about $3,000, and in addition to that the city may have to defend probably 200 cases of claims for damages to peddlers by reason of the restrictions placed on their business for the past three years, while several who were fined for infractions of the bylaw and were committed to trial for non payment of the fines imposed, will also sue the city for special damages on that account.

A WORLD'S WONDER.

THE ESCURIAL, BUILT BY PHILIP II.
OF SPAIN IN 1563.

A Temple, a Palace, a Treasury, a Tomb and a Museum—Here are Buried the Rulers of Spain and Their Children—The Builder Lived Here Like a Monk.

The Escorial, built by Philip II. of Spain, between 1563 and 1584, was called "the eighth wonder of the world." It was at once a temple, a palace, a treasury, a tomb and a museum. That is to say, all these were included in the huge building which Philip erected on the slope of a spur of the Guadarrama range, thirty-two miles northwest of Madrid. The builder's object was to carry out the will of his father, Charles V., by constructing a royal burial place, and also to fulfil a vow he had made during the battle of St. Quentin, when he implored the aid of St. Lorenzo, on whose day (August 10, 1557) the battle was fought. A correspondent of the Boston Herald writes from San Sebastian describing this eighth wonder:

The edifice stands about 8,000 feet above the sea, facing the mountains, with its back toward Madrid. It is a rectangular parallelogram, 740 feet from north to south, and 580 feet from east to west. On the east side is an advanced portico which breaks the facade. This gave rise to the vulgar impression that Philip's idea was to make the building in the shape of a griffin, an allusion to the manner of St. Lorenzo's martyrdom, he having been boiled to death on a slow fire in the reign of the Roman Emperor Valerianus, A. D. 261. There seems to be no other ground for the fanciful invention.

The building covers 500,000 square feet of land, or nearly 12 acres. It has 18 court-yards, 88 staircases, 15 cloisters, 88 fountains and 3,000 feet of painted fresco. The church, which occupies less than a sixth of the whole space, is 280 feet long, 200 feet wide and 200 feet high to the top of the cupola. The redeeming qualities of the enormous structure are size, simplicity and situation. It seems to be a part of the mountain on the slope of which it rises. It still looks grand even among mountain buttresses. Otherwise, it disappoints. Its architecture has little in form or color to commend it. It lacks the prestige of antiquity, and it does not express any religious sentiment. It might be a vast manufactory. Its cold granite walls, blue slates, leaden roofs and small windows give it a commonplace appearance.

Of course, it is now little more than a skeleton of what it was. The living monks who swarmed in its courts are here no longer. The revenues on which they lived have been taken away. The French soldiers stole and carried away many of its golden ornaments in 1808. Its best pictures have been removed to Madrid. The building has suffered from neglect, exposed to hurricanes and winter snows. Better care has been taken of it in later years. It is now used as a seminary, where about 200 youths receive a secular education. The fanatical Philip lived here, half king and half monk, for fourteen years after the building was completed. His last end was miserable, for he was harassed by doubts as to whether his seat in burning heretics would secure him a passport to heaven.

The family vault under the high altar, as built by Philip, was severely plain, as usual by Philip, and severely plain. His successors, Philip III. and Philip IV., built the gorgeous subterranean chamber which has become the Spanish Pantheon. Here repose the remains of kings and queens who have really reigned, and the severe etiquette of the Spanish court does not stop at death. The chamber, to which we descend by some sixty steps, the stairway lined by green and yellow-colored jasper, is an octagon thirty-six feet in diameter and thirty-eight feet high, terminating at the top in a pointed dome. The materials of which the walls are composed are dark polished marbles and gilt bronze. There are twenty-six niches hollowed in seven of the eight sides, the altar occupying one, with black marble sarcophagi, all exactly alike. The reigning sovereigns are on the right of the altar and their consorts on the left. The names of the occupants are written on the urns, beginning with Charles V. Several are empty, awaiting future kings and queens. The last to receive a tenant was that of Alphonso XII., who died in 1885. An empty one awaits his son, now Queen Regent, and another his son, the present boy king, not yet ten years of age.

Perhaps the most interesting part of this huge pile is the suite of humble apartments where Philip lived the monk-like life which he preferred, reserving all luxury for the temple. He was still one of the most powerful monarchs of his age. His armies carried the flag of Spain half over Europe. Rich argosies brought to his ports the treasures of the new world. He lived here a slave to bigotry, and in his reign were sown the seeds of death, from which may be traced the ruin of one of the great powers of the earth. We are shown in the small, dark cabinet where he carried on the business of "Most Catholic King," the desk at which he wrote on little scraps of paper—for he had his pet economies, the chair in which he sat, another in which he rested his weary legs when he gave audience to his ministers and foreign ambassadors, and some of the utensils he used. From his dismal sleeping room a door opens into a small chamber which overlooks the high altar of the church. To this he was carried in his last illness and here he died after languishing long with a loathsome disease.

After seeing all worth seeing in the interior and wondering at the mass of chambers, cloisters and courtyards in which a stranger might easily get lost, we went outside on a grand terrace, the whole length of the building which overlooks toward the south formal gardens and fish ponds. The slopes below are well planted, the fine elms having been brought from England. The view extends over the rolling plain, which looks level in the distance, as far as Madrid. We then ascended a neighboring height, one of the spurs of the mountain range, the summit of which are white at this season, to take in the great building at one view. In spite of the defects I have noted above, it is a very impressive pile, being one of the largest of human constructions. The gray-stone village clustered beside it, and climbing by steep streets up the slope above it, contains a population of about 1,500. Pure streams of sparkling water flow impetuously down the ravines which seam the mountains, making the fields below fresh and verdant.

The profits of the United States leather trade are said to be $1,000,000 a month.

Electrical Treatment

A. NORMAN, ESQ.

Dear Sir:—We think we ought to acknowledge in some way that may become public, the very great benefit our daughter has derived from the use of your Electro-Curative Belts, and your application of Electricity in the Bath and from Dry Treatment: When we brought her to you she was a picture of unhealthiness, her limbs were shriveled up, and as thin as limbs could be; she had no strength even to play with other children, in fact she was dying of consumption. Besides this, there was a hard lump on her spine at the base of her neck, which caused her neck to be so stiff she could not move her head. Although it is only three months since we brought her to you she is sound and well.

POND'S EXTRACT

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 29, 1894.
I have used "Pond's Extract" for many years and always insist upon my patients getting "Pond's," not the ordinary Extract, which is often a very poor article. W. K. BROWN, M. D.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 9, 1895.
I use Pond's Extract a great deal in my practice. I think it very valuable in all venous enlargements. J. L. BRADFORD, M. D.

SANTA BARBARA, CAL., Nov. 27, 1894.
I have been using Pond's Extract in my practice for twenty years. I frequently have the experience you mention of drug-gists insisting that you can put up as good as yours. I don't believe it. I use Pond's Extract a great deal as an antiseptic in combination with glycerine and carbolic acid. I think it far superior to any antiseptic known. F. G. FLOURNOY, M. D.

COLUMBIA, PA., Jan. 18, 1895.
I have been a constant user of Pond's Extract since 1852, and do not expect to discontinue it while I live. S. ARMOR, M. D.

CHELSEA, MASS., Nov. 8, 1894.
I have made diseases of the skin a specialty for thirty years, and am free to say I know of no remedy that has given me such perfect satisfaction as Pond's Extract in cases for which it is recommended. G. W. BARCOCK, M. D.

ASTHMA'S INSTITUTE, Buffalo, N. Y., Dec. 8, 1894.
I know Pond's Extract to be a valuable remedy, and shall continue its use whenever the opportunity offers. GEO. H. CALKINS, M. D.

NEWARK, N. J., Dec. 13, 1894.
I am pleased with the purity and strength of Pond's Extract. J. L. DURVEY, M. D.

POND'S EXTRACT is used by the leading physicians and principal hospitals of America and Europe.

PEACE REIGNS.

have a meeting of all the taxpayers tomorrow here at Brook's, where a provisional council of seven shall be elected, this temporary re-organization to be subject to the approval of the authorities.

TODAY'S MEETING.

Still they will in all probability attend tomorrow's meeting, upon which depends the outcome of the present demonstration. Should it terminate in an arrangement whereby arrears will be paid and guarantees given for settlement of all costs, the volunteers will probably on Tuesday morning be chorusing "Home, Sweet Home," with the same hearty chorus in which they are at this moment singing "Tenting Tonight" by their blazing camp fire, amid the echoing hills.

OFF TO THE FRONT.

DEPARTURE OF OTTAWA'S FIGHTERS FOR THE SCENE OF THE TROUBLE.

A ready response was made on Saturday by the members of the 43rd Battalion, P. L. D. G. and Ottawa Field Battery to the call to arms for the purpose of assisting in the enforcement of the civil law in Lower Township. Uniforms were promptly donned, and early in the evening a large number of soldiers were lined up in the drill hall, ready to volunteer their services, each man being anxious to be among the chosen number. About 100 members of the 43rd Battalion were on hand, while the other corps called upon were largely represented.

THE ORDERS.

The official orders issued by the commander of the district, read as follows: Orders by Lt. Col. Hon. M. Aylmer, commanding military district No. 4, on the occasion of being called upon to assist the civil authorities in the township of Lower, county of Ottawa, E. C.

Twenty-one N. C. O's and men and 21 horses of the P. L. Dragon Guards with 40 rounds of ball ammunition per man. One major, two subalterns, one medical officer and one veterinary surgeon, one trumpeter and 21 N. C. O's and men with 25 horses of the No. 3 Field Battery, with 40 rounds of ammunition per man.

One Lieut. Col. two captains, four subalterns, one quartermaster and 60 N. C. O's and men, with three baggages and horses, of the 43rd Battalion, 0 and 0 Rifles, with 70 rounds of ball ammunition per man.

The above will embark at the Orleans Valley Railway station at Ottawa at 8.30 a.m., on Sunday, the 17th inst., and proceed to Lower.

A COUNCIL OF SETTLEMENT.

Father Blondin promised his co-operation and so the meeting of tomorrow is regarded as a meeting of settlement, which may avert further conflict. The delinquents and kickers will be given a chance to pay up and avoid seizure. The people of North Lowe, who have never refused to pay their taxes, will be present by invitation, if they come at all. Their position is that they have never been formally served with notices of their present judgment indebtedness, and that so soon as such notice is served upon them they will immediately pay. There can be no seizure in this case, the present fuss arising altogether over the wrong-headedness of the settlers of Stag Creek or South Lowe. Indeed, at the meeting Saturday night of some sixty Patrons of Industry in North Lowe, only one raised his voice against paying his taxes upon the first demand.

COST $200 A DAY.

AND THE COUNTY OF OTTAWA MUST FOOT THE BILL.

The military authorities had under consideration on Saturday the regulation presented by Justices of the Peace of Ottawa County, asking for a detachment of militia to be detailed to assist the civil power in collecting the arrears of taxes owing by the settlers of Lower Township. The law provided that when the militia are called out in aid of the civil power, the expense of maintenance, transport, etc., of the troops must be borne by the municipality invoking the assistance, which, in this case, will be the County of Ottawa. Before taking any action on the request, Col. Aylmer, commanding this district, sent for County Solicitor Major, and asked him whether the county officials understood they would be responsible for the cost of the proposed expedition, which would reach at least $200 a day. Mr. Major admitted the County's responsibility, and pressed for assistance from the Department. Thereupon, the requisition having been found perfectly regular, the detail to the force was issued.

IT IS ALL OVER.

FIXED BAYONETS AS A CONVINCING ARGUMENT HAVE THE DESIRED EFFECT.

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 18.—The rebellion among the Township of Lowe's taxpayers is at an end. This morning at 10 o'clock the delinquents were on hand early to pay back taxes, and the Ottawa county treasurer is handling the money as fast as he knows how, so that the presence of the troops had the desired effect. There is a possibility of a few kickers refusing, but should they resist seizure they will be arrested on the spot. It is not expected the farmers of that district will ever fall in arrears again.

OVER $1,000 IN THE SAFE.

But the Burglars Were Scared Off and Did Not Reach It.

SPECIAL TO THE TIMES.
COMBER, Ont., Nov. 18.—Burglars entered C. Watson's banking office on Saturday night by cutting the glass in the door and removing the fastenings. They had commenced to drill the door of the safe but did not finish it, having evidently been frightened off. There was over $1,000 in the safe.

Hall Caine and Holmes Meet Weep.
PETERBOROUGH, Nov. 16.—Hall Caine has paid a visit to Murderer Holmes in Moyamensing prison. Conversation had been continued but a few minutes when both burst into tears and separated. Caine wishes it to be well understood that he has no sympathy whatever for Holmes and would not even raise a finger to save him.

WILDCATS CAPTURED.

An East Luther Farmer Traps Two Fine Specimens in the Great Marsh.

Wildcats have been creating havoc for some months past in the vicinity of the great marsh in East Luther, says the Orangeville Advertiser. The depredations of two of them were very suddenly stopped one night recently, when a neighboring farmer placed a couple of traps on the carcass of a dead horse, and some hours later found them occupied by two large wildcats, a male and a female. The male was of extraordinary size, measuring about 5 1/2 feet from tip to tip, but was so ferocious that he could not be taken alive. The other was secured in a box, and was uninjured, except where the jaws of the trap had closed on her leg.

A Colossal Bottle.

At the Bordeaux exhibition which will be opened shortly, will be seen the largest bottle ever made. It will be no less than 86 metres, or nearly 115 feet high, and it will represent a bottle of tonic bitters. To the Bordeaux exhibition it will be what the Eiffel Tower was to the Paris Exhibition of 1889. The bottle will be in the centre of the grounds, and people will be admitted to the interior. Two enormous floors will give access to the ground floor, where there will be a large refreshment room. Leading to the first, second and third floors will be two spacious staircases, each of 100 steps. They will end about half-way up, after which there is to be a winding staircase leading to the neck of the bottle, at the top of which there will be a terrace, with room for thirty-five people upon it, whence a fine view of the exhibition grounds and the city will be obtained. The whole will be surrounded by a terrace in the shape of a cork, which will afford a shelter from the sun or rain.

An Inviting Prospect.

The Landlady—Yes, I have a piano in the house, but it won't be no worry to you. The New Boarder—Oh, I don't expect to be worried by music. I am fond of it. The L.—Yes, but some people are such poor players that they do aggravate one. The N. B.—That's true. The L.—But my daughter won't trouble you that way; she can't play any yet; she's only learnin' and all she does is practice. —Boston Courier.

He Was All Right.

Ann Cynthia (as her husband and neighbor go into the door)—That's just one reason I hate to bring Josiah to town to visit any of his nephews. The very first night they allers take him out to see the sights of the city. Her City Niece—Oh, don't worry, Aunt; he'll be all right. Ann Cynthia—Yes, but he allers has to bring his nephews home in a carriage.

THIRTEEN WERE KILLED.

A Cleveland Street Car Dashes Through the Open Viaduct Draw.

Special to the Times.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 18.—At 7.35 Saturday evening a car of the Cedar and Jennings line of the Consolidated service, plunged through the open draw of the Central viaduct, stone and iron bridge and fell 120 feet into the Cuyahoga river. Fifteen passengers were on board, and these of the dead are identified.

Miss Martha Saurenhelm, and Mrs. John Saurenhelm, her sister in law, of No. 151 Merchant avenue; John Hoffman, the conductor, and Curt Lephebus, a 16 year old boy who had a ticket in his pocket from London, Canada, to Victoria, B. C.; Beattie Davis, a school teacher of Noyce street, 19 years old; Henry W. Meeklenburg, tailor, 58 Mary street, 33 years old; J. V. Foster, clerk of the Root & McBride Co., 51 Mentor avenue, aged 25; Jas. McLaughlin, printer, 77 Trowbridge ave., aged 35; Jas. Ferguson, Mrs. A. W. Hoffman and son, Harvey G. Hoffman, ten years old, 138 Pearl street; Mrs. Staudt, 21 years old, nurse in Northern Ohio Insane Asylum; Mrs. Brown, 10 Thurman street, 35 years old.

HOW IT HAPPENED.

Why the conductor and his motorman did not notice the red danger lights is not known. The car was on the down grade to the draw when the motorman discovered the danger, and desperately tried to brake. They were going at good speed and he could not stop the car on the greasy rails. When he realized it he leaped from the platform and ran down the viaduct to Central street, where he found the car on the edge of the abutment and breaking the tow line between a tug and schooner, for the passage of which the draw was open. A fire boat, six ambulances, six dead wagons and a squad of police were on hand and the work of recovery began.

At an early hour yesterday morning Augustus Rogers, the motorman, was arrested at his home and brought to the Central station, where he was questioned by the corner and police. He was released on $5,000 bail.

OWEN SOUND'S SENSATION.

Post Mortem on the Remains of the Barnardo Boy at Big Bay.

Special to the Times.

OWEN SOUND, Nov. 18.—The body of the Barnardo Boy, Green was examined Saturday and a post mortem showed that there was no organic disease and the organs were all perfectly sound and healthy. The brain was normal, the stomach empty and the body very emaciated, with several sores on it. A large number of witnesses have been subpoenaed for the investigation, but every one expresses wonder that the neighbors of Miss Findlay never complained of such dreadful cruelty, as it is alleged, has been going on for months. Miss Findlay has always borne a good character, and immediately came and surrendered to the police when she heard she was wanted.

Nervous Prostration

It is now a well established fact in medical science that nervousness is due to impure blood. Therefore the true way to cure nervousness is by purifying and enriching the blood. T. Hood's Sarsaparilla is Hood's Sarsaparilla. Read this letter:

"For the last two years I have been a great sufferer with nervous prostration and palpitation of the heart. I was weak in my limbs and had smothered sensations. At last my physician advised me to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, which I did, and I am happy to say that I am now strong and well. I am still using Hood's Sarsaparilla and would not be without it. I recommend it to all who are suffering with nervous prostration and palpitation of the heart." MRS. DALTON, 56 Alice St., Toronto, Ontario. Get Hood's, because

PETERBOROUGH, NOVEMBER 17 1895.

PRINCIPLE NOT PARTY.

That Ontario sympathizes with Manitoba in her struggle for equal rights no one can have the slightest doubt. So convinced of this are the members of the Dominion government that every effort is being put forth to misrepresent Manitoba's position. It is now being widely circulated that though Premier Greenway is apparently so firm in his refusal to make concessions to the minority, he would soon waver were Mr. Laurier placed in power. In other words it is asserted that with Manitoba government the school question is not a matter of principle but of party. It does not require much observation nor much argument to meet such a charge as this.

In the first place it may be remarked that it is not Mr. Greenway and his associates in office alone who are fighting this question. It is the people of Manitoba as represented in the local government. And when it is hinted that Mr. Greenway is ready to change his policy as soon as there is a change in the administration at Ottawa, it is implied that the people of Manitoba are ready at his beck and nod to change their opinions. We agree with the Winnipeg Tribune that any one who knows the people of Manitoba will perceive the absurdity of such a charge. They are not accustomed like many in the east to follow the dictates of their political leaders, they dictate to them. The line of action is not determined by the government for the people, but by the people for the government. The reason why Mr. Greenway has such unanimous support in Manitoba to-day is because he so faithfully carries out the ideas of the electors, and when Manitobans are so unanimous in their opinion on the school question—an opinion founded on experience and in a deep-seated sense of justice—it is idle to talk of a change of front. Mr. Greenway, no matter how much he might desire it, and we are quite sure he does not desire it, could not change without sounding his own political death-knell. Those who are Liberal in Dominion politics, as well as those who are Conservative, would be a unit in demanding his instant dismissal. For the people of Manitoba feel that there is a great principle at stake, and that principle is more to them a thousand times over than the warfare of any political party.

The Tribune puts it strongly when it says: "More than this. It is probably the case that, apart from the conviction that the Dominion government is so hopelessly wrong on the school question, so outrageously mistaken in its trade policy, and so notoriously corrupt in the administration of affairs, a majority of the people of Manitoba may have a strong conservative bias. If both parties in the Dominion had equally strong claims for support on this province, it is more than likely that the Conservatives would elect a majority of the representatives to the Dominion house. How unlikely it is then, that they would suffer the premier of the province and his associates to play into the hands of the Liberal party."

No! the people of Manitoba in this question, and for that matter, in nearly every question, have learned that the only true mode of action is to put principle before party. Mr. Greenway's policy to-day is his policy for all time, because it is the policy of the people. We shall listen to reason, we shall follow justice, but we shall not be coerced nor bribed, the winds shall change front, even if the winds should blow from a different quarter."

NORTH ONTARIO.

The Dominion Government has chosen North Ontario, which the late member, Mr. Madill, carried with increasing majorities in '87 and '91, as the first field upon which to do battle in the series of skirmishes that must precede the session. If the purpose of the Ministry is to test Ontario opinion on the Manitoba School question, it has selected the best of the three constituencies available for such an object. Under normal conditions the Conservative candidate would be fairly safe there. Ontario was "gerrymandered" so as to create a Liberal hive in the west riding, for which Mr. J. D.

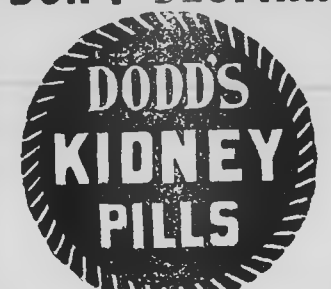

If stories are true, Count Castellane, who married Anna Gould, is disposing of the Gould millions at a very astonishing rate. Vanity Fair prints the statement from Paris that the Count was one of the heavy losers on the Bourse. How much money he speculated into other people's hands is, of course, unknown, but the total is estimated at from $5,000,000 to $15,000,000. There is likely to be some exaggeration in these figures, but the fact remains that the Count evidently has been speculating heavily and that he has made no fortunate strikes. New-York papers say that the gossip at the Waldorf and St. James hotels involves rumors of other extravagances by Count Castellane, among which the spending of $1,000,000 on bric-a-brac is given as a leading example.

Some women who secure husbands through matrimonial agencies are disappointed in the men. An Indiana woman objected to the flat in which the man took her to live. Hereafter male applicants will be required to place plans of their houses on file in the matrimonial bureau.

If the royal milkmaid Princess Maud of Wales, will take pains to leave one of her own hairs in each ball of butter she makes, she can get a fancy price for her work. Special guarantees should be given, however, of the genuineness of the hair. Even a British public would kick on getting false royal hair in its butter.

Edgar sits; and the Conservatives major, ity in the north riding at the last election was 254. Yet this majority is not large enough to permit any important "slump" from the Government candidate, because of his stand on the Manitoba school question. Nothing could be more unfortunate than that such an issue should play a part in a bye-election in Ontario; but so long as Premier Greenway declines to pay any heed to the decision of the Privy Council, it is difficult to see how the question can be kept out of eastern politics.

.. ASSURANCE COMPANY OF CANADA ..

The Rev. J. L. Murray, of Kincardine, Ontario, assured in the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada, in December, 1874, under Policy No. 1406, on the Twenty Year Endowment plan, paying an annual premium of $60.00 for ten years. He paid into the Company in all $600. In December, 1894, his Endowment matured, and he received a cheque from the Company for $1,364.70, being a return of all the premiums paid, and in addition, $665.70. That is to say Mr. Murray got back all the money he invested, with about 4% PER CENT. COMPOUND INTEREST, and had his life assured for $1,000 for twenty years free of charge.

It is needless to say that Mr. Murray was much pleased. You may gather that fact from the perusal of his letter here to appended. QUERY—How many of the people of Peterborough invest their money to better advantage?

KINCARDINE, Jan. 6th, 1895.

The Sun Life Assurance Co. of Canada, Montreal.

GENTLEMEN,—I beg to acknowledge the receipt of your cheque in full settlement of claim under my Ten Payment Twenty Year Endowment policy, No. 1406, and I desire to express my satisfaction with the result of my investment. I paid to the Company an annual premium of $60.00 for ten years, making a total of $600, for which I now receive a cheque for $1,364.70, being a return of all I have paid the Company, and in addition, $665.70, besides having had my life assured for $1,000 during the twenty years. This I consider very good indeed, and I have pleasure in giving my testimonial to that effect.

STORIES OF MONTE CARLO.

Some of Them True, Many False, But All Highly Interesting.

But who should this be, slipping some ood vermouth at the marble table but an old friend whom I will call Mr. Spectator? He lives at Monte Carlo; he has passed a score of seasons here; he has plenty of money; he goes to the Casino every day and every evening, and he never pays a cent. It is his occupation in life to be an observer of things and to mark the ways of man and womankind. In the summer he will mark them at Aix-les-Bains, at Lausanne, or at Trouville. He knows everything about what is going on just now at "Monty," what Russian princess pawned her diamonds last week, and what Cuban sugar planter did not die of apoplexy at the Hotel Carnarole but poisoned himself with prussic acid. "He was a fool, sir," quoth Mr. Spectator, "Why didn't he make his declaration? They know well enough that he had lost 200,000 francs in the course of ten days. They would have paid his traveling and hotel expenses back to Paris, or back to Brazil for the matter of that. He was a fool, sir!"

Mr. Spectator went on to explain that when a cleaned-out player made a candid admission of his impuency to the administration gave him a sum of money sufficient to defray his journey by railway to the place whence he came and his incidental expenses en route. He mentioned one case in which a whole family of five persons were allowed fifteen louis apiece to take them from Monte Carlo to London, the sole condition attached to the largesse being that the recipient should not re-enter the Casino unless he or she recouped the Administration for their outlay. In the case which he cited, one of the party, a lady, who had not gone farther than Nice, received some weeks afterwards a handsome remittance from England. She went back blithely to "Monty," repaid the fifteen louis, re-entered the Casino, backing the house dealer, not forgetting some £200. "You are not to believe," added Mr. Spectator, "a title of the sensational stories printed about ruined gamblers hanging themselves to trees in the gardens, or blowing out their brains in the reading-room." The majority of these canards are set on foot by the score French newspapers which have not been subventioned or bribed by the Administration to puff Monte Carlo.

One of the pleasant characteristics of my friend Mr. Spectator is that every time you meet him he has a fresh story to tell you about an infallible system for winning at roulette, and this time he regaled me with a succinct narrative of what I may call the "Wellington boot system." Capt. Backum had played for many years a large number of systems, and by the time he was five-and-forty had played away a handsome fortune. He always thought of himself as a winner. He always wore Wellington boots. His capital was just five louis. This he changed into five-franc pieces, and he never staked more than one piece at a time, and if he won he withdrew his stakes after the third coup. His winnings he carefully placed in a side pocket, and when he had won four pieces he changed them into a louis and slipped the coin into one of his boots. He played for seven consecutive hours before his stock capital was exhausted. Then he returned to Nice, somewhat heavy of step, and drawing off his boots, found that he had won a hundred louis. "This was two years ago," continued Mr. Spectator, "and only last week I found Backum at a third class hotel at Nice. He was in a dressing gown and slippers, and looking by no means cheerful. 'How about the Wellington boot system?' I asked. 'Utter collapse,' he replied. 'Confounded run of bad luck.' 'And the boots?' I went on. 'The boots?' he replied. 'I pawned them yesterday afternoon.'"

So this is "Monty" in full swing; "Monty," with its ups and downs, its ceaseless whirl of rackets and dissonance. There is no rest at Monte Carlo. When you are tired of play there are dramatic performances; there are concerts; there is a pigeon shooting; and in the spring and summer there is plenty of yachting. But all these are only side issues. The Grand Trunkline of Monte Carlo leads to the Temple of Mammon. It is crowded night and day by people lusting for money which they have not earned, and it is the Road to Ruin.

Bishop Taylor's Work in Africa.
In an interview with Bishop Taylor recently about his work in Africa he said that the results were fairly satisfactory. It is believed to be an absolute essential that the people accept the Christian religion.

"King Hedge's case is an example," said the Bishop. "He had been fairly well educated years ago; had lived among the whites on the west coast. He was, in a sense, civilized; but he was no Christian. Well, he went back to his little tribe, threw away his clothes and wore the single garment of his tribe. He took seven wives, and in all ways became a savage."

Recently he became converted, put away all his wives but one, dressed like a white man, and a good all his influence to help the missionaries."

"Which wife did he keep, Bishop?" I asked. "The first one, or the last one?"

"He kept the one that was—the one that was most suitable. Each of them had her home, and was comfortably situated. Most of them had children. He selected the one that had no children, that seemed to care most for him, that was most attentive. He called all his people together and told them he had accepted Christ's laws. One of those laws was that a man could have but one wife. He said—'I have seven wives. Which of them shall I keep?'

"And it is a country of unmeasured, perhaps immeasurable, wealth," said the Bishop. "The soil will produce marvellously. The temperature is from sixty to ninety degrees the year round. There is no winter. It is a land of iron. There is much coal."

But in all this his interest is only incidental. The man's heart and soul are in the missionary work, and his whole church watches and applauds him and responds abundant faith in his wisdom.

No Doctors' Bills in Sweden.
Swedish doctors send no bills to their patients. What you shall pay your physician is left entirely to your own choice. The rich pay him liberally, whether they have need of his services or not. If he has been once retained by them. The poor pay him a small sum and the very poor pay him nothing. Yet he visits the poor as faithfully as the rich. On the last day of the year you put into an envelope addressed to your physician a sum of money you think not only sufficient to compensate him, but in accordance with your own position in life, and enjoying your card with the money send the envelope by a servant to your doctor.

Electrical Treatment:

A. NORMAN, ESQ.

210 Cowan Ave., Toronto.

Dear Sir:—We think we ought to acknowledge in some way that may become public, the very great benefit our daughter has derived from the use of your Electro-Curative Belts, and your application of Electricity in the Bath and from Dry Treatment. When we brought her to you she was a picture of unhealthiness, her limbs were shriveled up, and as thin as limbs could be; she had no strength even to play with other children, in fact she was dying of consumption. Besides this, there was a hard lump on her spine at the base of her neck, which caused her neck to be so stiff she could not move her head. Although it is only three months since we brought her to you she is sound and well.

DEATH OF SARAH JANE.

DID HER TWO BROTHERS AID HER TO SUICIDE.

A Revolting Story that Comes from Moosomin, N.W.T.—The Tragedy in the Home of the Thompson Family—Verdict of the Coroner's Jury.

Special to The Times.

MOOSOMIN, N.W.T., Nov. 19.—The coroner's proceedings in the investigation into the death of Sara Jane Thompson have been concluded, the following verdict being rendered: "That Sarah Jane Thompson came to her death from strychnine poison administered in a manner unknown but from the evidence we are of the opinion that the said poison was administered with the connivance of her brothers, Charles Albert and Henry Thompson. The jury deem it their duty to say the contradictory evidence leads to the conclusion that the family connections connived to defeat the ends of justice." As a result of this decision, the Crown has taken the case up and the two brothers were immediately arrested on a charge of murder.

The death occurred on Monday, October 21st, and the N.W.M.P. here were informed by one of the family of the occurrence and of their suspicions that the woman had committed suicide. Sergeant McIntyre immediately proceeded to the farm of the Thompsons, and placed a constable in charge until the coroner could be advised. An investigation being thought necessary to clear the matter up, Coroner Rutledge empaneled a jury with the above result. The matter is by no means cleared, however, the evidence given at the inquest being very contradictory, leading the jury to believe that some of it was intended to defeat the ends of justice. The body was found in a small place about five feet square in the house which was intended for a bedroom, and the only article of any importance found was a cup. A post-mortem examination was made, resulting in finding that the woman was about to become a mother, and that she had died by poisoning. Some of the members of the family are considered to be demerited. This, no doubt, is one reason why the evidence given at the inquest was so unsatisfactory.

The preliminary trial of the prisoners is in progress before Inspector Macdonnell, the charge being changed from murder to suicide.

WILL COST $6,000.

The Lower Taxpayers will settle up—A Court Approved.

Special to The Times.

LOWE, Que., Nov. 19.—The Lieutenant-Governor has ratified the appointment of the new township council elected yesterday. The troops will probably be withdrawn on Wednesday after costing the township some $6,000. This is more than the gross amount of all the taxes for which the township has been liable since its formation. A proclamation of the Lieutenant-Governor has been issued to the effect that those who took part in the affray with the constables need not fear criminal proceedings if they pay up their arrears of taxes.

CARDWELL'S FOUR CANDIDATES.

The Government Not Pleased With Willoughby, Will Put up Another.

Special to The Times.

OTTAWA, Nov. 19.—In Cardwell, Willoughby, the Conservative candidate, has declared against remedial legislation. Consequently the Government will, it is understood, bring forward another man in favor of a fair and constitutional settlement of the school question. From present appearances there will be four candidates in the field: Liberal, McCarty, anti-remedial and pro-remedial Conservatives.

KILLED 200 INDIANS.

They Were Caught in a Canyon and Troops Guarded Both Ends.

Special to The Times.

BIGOTA, Co., Nov. 19.—Three weeks ago a small body of soldiers were ambushed and killed by Indians while crossing the department at Cana. General Beyer, immediately sent a large force in pursuit, and the Indians were surprised in a canyon, both ends of which were held by troops, who held in the Indians while others went to the top of the mountains and rolled stones on the Redskins. Those who managed to escape from what they thought an earthquake were shot down in cold blood. It is calculated that 200 Indians were killed not a solitary one escaping death.

IS THE SULTAN DEAD?

A FLYING ROLLER ACCUSED

Purified Blood

Saved an operation in the following case. Hood's Sarsaparilla cures when all others fail. It makes pure blood.

"A year ago my father, William Thompson, was taken suddenly ill with inflammation of the bladder. He suffered a great deal and was very low for some time. At last the doctor said he would not get well unless an operation was performed. At this time we read about Hood's Sarsaparilla and decided to try it. Before he used half a bottle his appetite had come back to him, whereas before he could eat but little. When he had taken three bottles of the medicine he was as well as ever." FRANCIS J. As a result of the railroad accident at the Lake bridge on the night of Thursday Oct. 10th, a claim for $1,000 damages has been made by Mr. A. A. Marks, traveler for J. D. King & Co., wholesale boot and shoe dealers, Kingston. Mr. Marks was in the baggage car which went over the abutment and he was in a precarious position and escaped through one of the windows after receiving wounds on the face and body. He was confined to his room at the Oriental for a few days. The accident also resulted in the loss of his samples which were very valuable.

Fire and Burglars in Stirling.

About 10.15 Monday night, the manse, occupied by Rev. J. M. Gray, Stirling, was discovered to be on fire, and an alarm was at once given. The fire was caused by the explosion of a lamp in the cellar. By the efforts of those present it was confined to the cellar although they had an hour and a half of hard work. The house was badly damaged and a splendid library, valued at $1,200, was partially destroyed. The furniture was not burned to a great extent, but was badly smoked by rough handling. Messrs. Gray and H. Holdrick were overcome by smoke, while endeavoring to save the books, and had to be carried out. The damage to the building is fully covered by the insurance, but there is only a small amount on the contents. On Saturday night about midnight, Mr. S. Holden awoke and discovered a burglar in his room. The thief decamped when he found that his presence was known. Nothing was missed.

A Coon in a Tree.

About dusk last evening a number of youths congregated around a hickory nut tree, Sherbrooke street. They said they heard a coon whistling. As people passed they asked the cause of the racket, and they were told about the coon. In a short time a good sized crowd in front of the tree. One young man who is counted a great sport was the first to discover the coon. He saw it humped up behind a limb about 20 feet from the ground. Then there were sticks, stones, clubs, etc., thrown at it, and all the while the tree kept barking, but strange as it may the coon did not move. Then a man was seen approaching rapidly with a double barreled shot gun. A good aim was taken on Mr. Coon, but when the smoke had cleared away Mr. Coon was still on the limb. Then a man came out on top of the tree and found the limb was a knot. The crowd dispersed quicker than when the leader of a German band passes around the hat.

Winter Time Table.

On the main line no alterations are made in the hours of running the trains. On the Northern branch the local train for Collingwood will leave at 1.40 p.m., instead of 10.45 a.m. The train leaving at 9.30 a.m. on the Northern will in future only go as far as Collingwood. On the Southern Division the 3 p.m. express from London, Detroit, and Chicago will leave now at 2.40, the object being to get through twenty minutes earlier. This train will reach London at 6.30 p.m. On the Midland Division the 8.30 a.m. mail will leave at 7.45 a.m., and on the N. & W. Division the 12.30 p.m. Pacific express will leave at 12.05 p.m. The 5.15 p.m. train through to North Bay will in future make close connections for the Soo and Western points. "For a long time I was troubled with rheumatism and sore blood. About a year ago I cut my arm and my blood was in such a condition that the wound would not heal and friends recommended Hood's Sarsaparilla and I used three bottles and I am well. I recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla to all affected as I was." Daniel Robinson, 64 Tremont street, Toronto, Ont.

ST. LUKES' AT HOME.

Miss Symonds Gives an Interesting Talk On Indian Missions.

In spite of the wet weather the school-house of St. Luke's was well filled last night at the "At Home" given under the auspices of the Women's Auxiliary of that church. Miss Symonds spoke of Indian Mission work. Indians were not very industrious, but there was little they could do. They were improving, however. The Government was anxious to induce them to keep cattle. The Home Mission Home was divided into two divisions—one for boys and the other for girls. The children are attractive and docile, and are certainly progressing in civilization despite many discouragements. Whilst the parents are not easily converted to Christianity they are willing that their children should be instructed. Many of the children had been baptized and confirmed and they understood what they were doing when entering Christianity. Miss Symonds' remarks were illustrated by an Indian tape on the stage, with a young lady and gentleman in Indian costume.

An instrumental and vocal program was rendered by Mrs. Peck, Miss Bulleghem, Miss Jackson, and Messrs. Turner, Adams and Rev. Boyne Reed. Refreshments were served during the evening.

GRIFFITH IN FAUST.

Mr. John Griffith appeared as Mephisto in Sir Henry Irving's version of "Faust" in the opera house last night to a large audience. He was supported by a well balanced company and the production was creditable both from a point of acting and stage accessories. The latter were certainly splendid, and Mr. Griffith proved himself to be a finished actor. That the Canadian youth is versatile no one will gainsay; it is only necessary to see his Mephisto to come to this conclusion. He may lack in some ways that Lewis Morrison excels in; but he also excels in some things that Morrison is lacking. The two if moulded in one, would make a perfect Mephisto.

Marguerite in the person of Nadine Winston, was a true materialization of the playwright's dream. In appearance she looks like a pocket edition of Venus, and innocence sets well upon her. As an actress she is powerfully emotional. Miss Winston's Marguerite is quite as good as Mr. Griffith's Mephisto.

"Faust" by Mr. Frank Lyman, was well up to the character. Miss Stevens as Martha assumed that role with credit. The choruses were excellent.

THAT BURGLARY.

The Glass May Have Been Accidentally Broken Say the Police.

The police were firmly of the belief on Monday night that an attempt was made to burglarize Mr. George Cartou's store. They are not yet positive that the breaking of the glass was not done for that purpose. Another theory, however, is that the glass was broken by two or three young men, accidentally. This is probably the true solution of the affair, although at the time everything pointed to a bold attempt at robbery.

There is one thing certain, the door was firmly bolted on the inside and could not have been pushed open. Whoever broke the glass opened the door, but for what purpose is only conjecture.

Mr. Cartou's store was besieged all day yesterday by enquiring citizens who had read of the affair in THE TIMES. People are firmly convinced that if a thing is so it will be in THE TIMES and it is in THE TIMES.

TOWN TOPICS.

The attention of the street inspector is respectfully called to the condition of the sidewalk on the west side of George street, between King street and the bridge. The clay and mud from the sewer excavations cover the boards and the recent rains has converted this stretch of walk into a muddy, slippery and dangerous thoroughfare. The mud could be washed off by a few hours work with a couple of lengths of hose, and especially in its present condition. Besides being very disagreeable to pedestrians, the sidewalk is positively dangerous, and a slip and fall, causing a broken limb, would again plunge the town into another suit for damages.

We have been requested by delegates who attended the annual meeting of the Midland Colts Association to correct the impression created by a statement published in the Examiner last evening. Peterborough's delegates found the Port Hope and Cobourg delegates to be gentlemen and the differences which may exist between the two clubs are not of the nature of the Colts association, and nothing but the best of feeling prevails. Cobourg secured the bonspiel fairly and without taking unfair advantage. The Peterborough representatives withdrew in favor of Cobourg for the divisional bonspiel and the Examiner's idea of a vote being taken was erroneous. The Peterborough Colts would be very sorry to have the impression go abroad that there were any differences between them and any club in the association, as the best of feeling exists. The Peterborough delegates never met with anything but the most courteous treatment from the clubs in the organization. They also expressed themselves as highly delighted with their trip to Belleville and with the entertainment received while there.

A dog created a panic in a drug store a day or two ago, and caused business to be suspended for an hour and a half. It happened this way: A well known lady went along George street on a shopping tour. The animal was of an inquisitive disposition, and, besides, not being able to read, paid no attention to a conspicuous sign which read "Beware of the Dog." She was a consequence, he got a bright red strip along one side, making him look like a sheep that some butcher had marked for the slaughter. As the dog was a great terror to him, and started a great mortification to the lady, and she hurried to the nearest drug store and asked for some spirits of turpentine and a druggist, not knowing what to do, and never dreaming of the consequences to his drug business, readily complied. Then the lady caught the dog, and poured a quantity of turpentine on him, and started to rub off the paint with the sponge. She did not rub long. The instant that the turpentine reached the dog's skin that animal apparently forgot all about his red stripe, and he turned and with a leap made for the door. This unfortunate lady, who was so kind to the animal, man with pain, leaped over a show case and into shelves filled with bottles. He jumped back again and just to show what a big white dog can do when he gets a little more comfortable and he began to exhibit that would have done credit to the trained dogs with a circus. His wild leaps were liberally punctuated by howls and barks and soon a large crowd of curious spectators gathered outside the store, thinking that a mad dog was running amok. The lady tried to pacify the beast but her only reward was a bite on one of her fingers. She then saw the dog break bottle after bottle and a valuable article after another, he became desperate and rushed for the door to let the animal out. The lady strenuously objected, but the dog was so wild that she was afraid to make an attempt on him.

Seeing that the animal could not be got out of the store and that he was foaming at the mouth, the druggist remembered that sweet oil was an antidote for the effects of turpentine and suggested that he try that as a remedy. Sweet oil was got but no one would venture to try to hold the dog which by this time evidently thought that there was no land that is hotter than this. So the druggist, posting himself at a point of vantage behind the counter began to throw the sweet oil at the dog. Sometimes the oil struck the dog and more frequently it missed him. After a half hour of this sort of battle enough oil was gotten on the animal to make him feel a little more comfortable and he began to quiet down. At last he got so tractable that the lady was enabled to take him home. But the streak of red paint was still on his face and the drug store and suspended business for an hour and a half.

TO HAVE THE BLOCK SYSTEM

Introduced on the Grand Trunk Railway To-Day.

When the introduction of the new timetable the telegraphic "block system" of train despatching will also come into force on the Grand Trunk. The new system of special rules prepared by the general superintendent, James Stephenson, will govern the system. No train or light engine shall leave or pass a telegraph station until the preceding passenger train or train carrying passengers has arrived at and departed from the telegraph station next in advance. Except in the case of a light engine or a train carrying passengers, the telegraph station, the said passenger train or train carrying passengers, has departed from. In case of emergency, such as a wire being interrupted, report of arrival may be obtained from the despatcher, and must be written on the clearance order to be issued in such cases to trains which may be held for this report. Or when a special order is given by the train despatcher, who has the only issue such an order in the event of an accident, or other emergency—the despatcher issuing such special order will be held responsible for advising agents, operators, and all concerned.

When the telegraph is interrupted and not working, the following interval must be maintained:

(a) Between passenger trains, or trains carrying passengers, twenty minutes.

(b) Between all other trains, and light engines, following passenger trains, or trains carrying passengers, thirty minutes.

The agent or operator in such instances must note on clearance order "wires in trouble."

An inferior class train or light engine must not proceed in advance of a passenger engine without orders from the superintendent, through the train despatcher, unless it can reach the next telegraph station in advance before the passenger train is due to leave the station the inferior class train is departing from.

The signals at telegraph stations must be, immediately a passenger train or train carrying passengers leaves or passes through, set at danger, and must not be changed until the arrival of the said passenger train or train carrying passengers at the telegraph station next in advance.

It is reported by the agent or operator on duty at the station as provided in special rule No. 1.

When freight trains haul passenger cars "deadhead" such cars must be placed ahead of the conductor's van; when the passenger cars carry passengers they must be placed in rear of conductor's van on rear of train.

THAT BONSPIEL.

Editor Morning Times.

DEAR SIR,—Why does the Examiner delight in throwing mud at our neighboring towns? In last night's edition that paper had to go out of its way to say something mean about the sporting element of Cobourg and Port Hope. Any man with a grain of common sense knows that in proportion to population each of those towns is a better place for sport than this town is—in fact one of them, at all events (although one third the size) is twice the town for sports that Peterborough is. To make the matter worse, the Examiner is away off on his facts. He says that Cobourg and Port Hope combined to get the colts' bonspiel played at the Cobourg rink, when the truth of the matter is there was no vote—and our delegates agreed, to play at Cobourg in order to help a junior club go through its first year. The slur was bad enough enough but the misrepresentation is worse. Yours truly, A CURLEW.

Weak Links.

When the kidneys are weak, or overworked, various kinds of ailments are sure to slip past them. Sickiness of some kind is sure to result. The kidneys are filters and their work is to keep poisons out of the circulation. The sickness will depend on the nature of the poison—it may be Malaria or Typhoid poison—or something else.

People with weak kidneys can escape effects by aiding these organs by kidney treatment.

People are coming to understand this truth. It explains why Dodd's Kidney Pills though only a kidney medicine set people right, and they get well.

It is all because they get straight to the cause which shows itself first in the weak link.

When you are sick use Dodd's Kidney Pills for they always cure.

The Times.

PETERBOROUGH, NOVEMBER 21, 1895.

A "society note in a Spartanburg, Pennsylvania, newspaper tells of a girl of that town who recently split a cord of wood in less than an hour. The information is added that she does not split wood for a living either.

H. B. Martin, the head of a prominent firm of brokers in San Antonio, has been sent to jail on a charge of offering a bribe to Congressman Paschal, Crain and Sayers, to whom he wrote offering to divide commissions with them if they would secure legislation by congress favorable to a proposed line of railroad from San Antonio, in which he was interested.

A Baltimore barber who has an expensive music box in his shop confided to a reporter that it was done as much for his own profit as for the entertainment of his patrons. He says that the quick, lively tunes inspire his men to work faster, and when the shop is full and business is brisk the call of "Next!" comes with greater frequency to the time of jigs, reels and quicksteps than before the music box was set up.

Chicago is still ahead in rapid building. The eighteen stories of the Fisher building at Dearborn and Van Buren streets were recently built up to a height of 235 feet in twenty-five days, or nearly ten feet a day. Thirteen and a half stories were built in fourteen days. The new building is taller than any other in the city except the Masonic temple, and the two are likely to stand in their present supremacy, for the council has passed an ordinance limiting the height of skyscrapers.

The people of Philadelphia don't like the Union Traction company, which owns all the street railroads in Philadelphia. It is proposed to increase the license fee for every car from $50 to $100, and impose a fine of $10 for cars that carry more than a stated number of cars in the city is 2,000, the income to the city would be increased by $100,000. The change of fare from 5 cents to 8 cents, when a transfer is given, has caused a popular outcry, and many people are walking to show their displeasure.

An American paper says that the Prince of Wales spends over £300 a year on cigars alone. This is, of course, absurd, says the London Tid-Bits. As a matter of fact his royal highness buys comparatively few cigars himself. He has no need to do so. Both the Emperors of Austria and the Czar of Russia make it a practice each Christmas to send cabinets of the very choicest Havanas to Marlborough House, and the collection of weeds maturing there is quite sufficient to stock any tobaccoist's shop.

The under-water section of the Blackwell tunnel under the Thames has just been finished, the occasion being celebrated by a lunch in the tunnel itself, to which 2,000 persons sat down. The tunnel connects Greenwich on the south side of the river with Poplar on the north, and is just over a mile in length. Three thousand nine hundred and fifty-four feet had to be driven by compressed air. Of this 1,200 feet on the north banks remains to be done, so that the tunnel will not be open for traffic till the spring of 1897. It was begun in March, 1892. While driving the shield under the river bed, at one time only five feet two inches of gravel intervened between the top of the tunnel and the water, and loads of clay were dumped into the river to prevent the water from bursting through. The diameter of the tunnel is 27 feet, six-feet more than that of the St. Clair tunnel, hitherto the largest ever built.

Isabella Bird Bishop is a very efficient woman. She is regarded as one of the most valuable members of the Royal Geographical Society. Being skilful both as a photographer and a descriptive writer, she has sent home to England from the Orient much novel and interesting material from remote regions of China, Thibet and Persia. She was one of the first women to see the Coreans face to face, and several times she has narrowly escaped death among savage Asian tribes, but as she is a physician, with some knowledge of the occult and understanding of how to deal with the superstitions, she has always avoided disaster.

Some queer weapons with which a Georgia company, from Screven, was armed at the beginning of the rebellion have just been discovered. Governor Brown of Georgia, ordered a lot of pikes for Georgia soldiers, and these gave the idea for the weapons fashioned for the Screven company. They were made by a blacksmith. The weapon was practically a bowie knife, almost a foot long, set in a handle a little more than a foot in length. Attached to the handle was a piece of very strong elastic eight or ten feet long. The idea was that the weapon could be hurled at an opponent and would rebound into the hands of the owner. It could thus be used several times, and at long range. The blades were made from long files, and were ground to a long, sharp point. How effective the odd weapons proved is not stated.

The Chicago Journal has recently completed a census of that city which is different from all other censuses in its plan of classification of nationalities, and is of interest for that reason. It classifies as Germans all those born in this country of German parents, as well as those born in Germany. Proceeding on this line, it announces that the German population of the Chicago is 400,000—nearly a fourth of the whole population, and greater by 75,000 than the population strictly classified as American. In addition, there are 250,000 people of Irish nativity or parentage, 125,000 Poles, from 85,000 to 100,000 Swedes, 75,000 Bohemians, 65,000 Norwegians, 55,000 Canadians, 45,000 English, 40,000 Russian Jews, all of which have lived within the last fifteen years; 40,000 Scotch, 35,000 Danes, 30,000 each of German Jews, Italians, and negroes; 20,000 each of French Canadians and Dutch; 8,000 or 10,000 each of French and Welsh, 6,000 Swiss, 5,000 Australians and Hungarians, 3,000 Belgians, 2,000 Greeks, 1,500 Chinese, 1,000 Spanish, and 3,000 of other nationalities. Counting as Americans all those born in this country the total would be about a million. The Journal claims that the present population of Chicago is over 1,700,000.

He paid into the Company in all $699. In December, 1894, his Endowment matured, and he received a cheque from the Company for $1,364.70, being a return of all the premiums paid, and in addition, $665.70. That is to say Mr. Murray got back all the money he invested, with about 4% PER CENT. COMPOUND INTEREST, and had his life assured for $1,000 for twenty years free of charge.

It is needless to say that Mr. Murray was much pleased. You may gather that fact from the personal of his letter here to appended. QUERY—How many of the people of Peterborough invest their money to better advantage?

KINCARDINE, Jan. 6th, 1895.

The Sun Life Assurance Co. of Canada, Montreal.

GENTLEMEN,—I beg to acknowledge the receipt of your cheque in full settlement of claim under my Ten Payment Twenty Year Endowment policy, No. 1406, and I desire to express my satisfaction with the result of my investment. I paid to the Company an annual premium of $69.90 for ten years, making a total of $699, for which I now receive a cheque for $1,364.70, being a return of all I have paid the Company, and in addition, $665.70, besides having had my life assured for $1,000 during the twenty years. This I consider very good indeed, and I have pleasure in giving my testimonial to that effect.

Yours sincerely, (Signed,) REV. J. L. MURRAY.

Novelties in Short Fur Capes

The prevailing styles in Fur Capes worn in all the continental cities of Europe are short and very full, reaching barely to the waist. Many styles of short Collarettes are also worn and look very stylish over heavy winter costumes. We are showing quite a variety of these in all the most fashionable furs. Some are trimmed on the collar and down the front with Black Thibet, and others with Alaska Sable, which is very effective, and the prices are very reasonable, costing from $25 to $75, according to length.

Long Capes

For cold weather there is nothing more comfortable than a long Fur Cape. Those we have in Seal Persian Lamb, Sable, Mink, Beaver, Greenland Seal, and Grey Lamb, and all fashionable kinds at less than you can buy anywhere else.

EXPENSES OF A DINING CAR.

Costly Service Maintained For the Convenience of Travelers.

A modern dining car of the most approved pattern costs $15,000 to build. Next come the kitchen utensils, the table furniture, the silverware and linen, averaging about $8,000 worth to a car. Each car must have a steward, who usually gets $100 a month, and a head cook, who values himself at $75 a month. There must also be one or two assistant cooks and three or four waiters. Three hundred dollars a month is the very smallest outlay for wages, while the cost of raw food material, breaking of dishes and the board of employees is about $8,000 per month additional. An average five days' run costs very nearly $600 for food and service, so that it would take 40 persons at every meal on the run to pay the daily expenses without allowing anything for interest on the investment or for wear and tear on the furnishings. The kitchen of a dining car contains every convenience except room. There is a range capable of doing all the boiling, broiling, baking and stewing for hundreds of people, yet occupying comparatively no space at all. There is a board for the carver, a bin and table for the baker and a sink for the dishwasher, with shelves and imperishable supplies, all in an area of 5 by 12 feet at most. Every inch of space is carefully utilized. Under the car is the cellar or refrigerator, where loaves, beef, mutton, poultry, milk, butter and other perishable supplies are kept.

The steward, who is in charge of all this, must be a good guesser. To be sure, the dining car is run on the principle that no money will be made anyway; that one road must run it because a competing road does; that the traveler must therefore have the best in the market for a fair price, and that it is better to throw away unused and spoiled material at the end of a trip than to run out of some necessary on the way. Yet I imagine that the steward who has the lowest average of wasted food stands highest in his employer's regard. The first thing he has to do is to make out the bills of fare for the trip. These must be approved by the head of the commissary department. The chef buys the necessary supplies, but the steward has to turn in an inventory of them at the starting point, and also a statement of what has been used en route and what is left at the end of the run. There is no method of estimating the exact number of meals that will be served during the run, particularly if it is a short one. Suppose it is to be made from Washington to New York. Individual methods of economy are very different. While some prefer to pay $1.25 for the extra comfort of a seat in a parlor car, there are others who think the common coach good enough and prefer to spend their dollar in the dining car. Again, there are some who frequent both parlor and dining, and others who go for neither. For a longer journey every berth in the sleeper may be occupied, and yet the dining car may be practically tenanted, or the sleeper may be nearly empty and the diner full of people from the day coach, or it may be crowded with the occupants of both, and the steward goes through the train on a tour of inspection or in giving his first call for a meal he must note the number of lunchboxes and guess from the faces and dress of the passengers how many orders he will have. But even his best judgment will be far off of the way, for the lunchbox may be for the next day's light repeat, or some of the best dressed passengers may not have decided whether to patronize the dining car or not.—Kate Field's Washington.

How a Fish Breathes.

The gills of a fish are situated at the back part of the sides of the head and consist of a number of vascular membranes, which are generally arranged in double, fringed rows, attached to the parts by the base only. In some cases these membranes are feather shaped, in others mere folds attached to the sides of the gill cavities. The fish is a cold blooded animal; that is to say, its temperature is seldom more than a degree or two higher than the water in which it lives. This being true, the creature needs but a very small amount of oxygen to keep the blood at a temperature sufficiently high to sustain life. This oxygen is supplied to the blood of the fish by respiring large quantities of water, or rather drinking large quantities of water, and respiring the air separated from it by the gills. This explains why a fish cannot live in a tank of water which has been lifted through the gills time and time again any better than a human being or other animal can in air that has been deprived of all its oxygen by being taken in to lungs and expelled without being aerated. Fish that die in the stale water of aquariums may be properly said to drown, because they perish for want of air, the same thing which occasions death by drowning in man and other lung breathing animals.—St. Louis Republic.

The Order of the Garter.

An evening journal, in a dissertation on the Order of the Garter, states that it consists of 86 ordinary knights and 25 extra knights, which is quite wrong. There is no fixed number of extra knights, who are all royal personages, and there were only six of them when the queen's reign commenced, whereas there are now 33. During the last two financial years £1,230 has been paid by the public to the dean and chapter of Windsor and to the Garter officers in respect of fees and expenses in connection with the creation of three extra knights. In all other countries such persons are made by the new knights themselves, but here the taxpayers find the money, and last year the lord chamberlain received £2,000 to provide and repair insignia of the various orders of knighthood.—London Truth.

Last Letter of Emin Pasha.

Sir William Flower has communicated to the Zoological Society the posthumous tidings of Emin Pasha. This was a letter concerning some zoological specimens which never arrived in England at all, having been lost at the time of Emin's murder. The letter and the journal—principally relating to observations upon birds—which accompanied it, are written in a fine and minute hand, like copper plate engraving. The letter had the additional and melancholy interest of being perhaps the last that Emin Pasha wrote. He was in constant correspondence with the president of the Zoological Society about matters of zoological interest and always wrote in English, of which apparently he knew nothing until he went to Africa.—New York Times.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

DEATH OF SARAH JANF.

DID HER TWO BROTHERS AID HER TO SUICIDE.

A Revolting Story that Comes from Moosemin, N.W.T.—The Tragedy in the Home of the Thompson Family—Verdict of the Coroner's Jury.

Special to The Times.

MOOSEMIN, N. W. T., Nov. 19.—The coroner's proceedings in the case of the death of Sarah Jane Thompson have been concluded, the following verdict being rendered: "That Sarah Jane Thompson came to her death from strychnine poison administered in a manner unknown to the evidence we are of the opinion that the said poison was administered with the connivance of her brothers, Charles Albert and Henry Thompson. The jury deem it their duty to say the contradictory evidence leads to the conclusion that the family connections connived to defeat the ends of justice." As a result of this decision, the Crown has taken the case up and the two brothers were immediately arrested on a charge of murder.

The death occurred on Monday, October 21st, and the N. W. M. P. here were informed by one of the family of the occurrence and the two brothers, Sergeant Melville immediately proceeded to the farm of the Thompsons, and placed a constable in charge until the coroner could be advised. An investigation being thought necessary to clear the matter up, Coroner Rutledge empaneled a jury with the above result. The matter is by no means cleared however, the evidence given at the inquest being very contradictory, leading the jury to believe that some of it was intended to defeat the ends of justice. The body was found in a small place about five feet square in the house which was intended for a bedroom, and the only article of any importance found was a cup. A post-mortem examination was made, resulting in finding that the woman was about to become a mother, and that she had died by poisoning. Some of the members of the family are considered to be demented. This no doubt is one reason why the evidence given at the inquest was so unsatisfactory.

The preliminary trial of the prisoners is in progress before Inspector Macdonell, the charge being changed from murder to suicide.

WILL COST $6,000.

The Low Taxpayers will Settle up—A Council Approved of.

Special to The Times.

LOWE, Que., Nov. 19.—The Lieutenant-Governor has ratified the appointment of the new township council elected yesterday. The troops will probably be withdrawn on Wednesday after costing the township some $6,000. This is more than the gross amount of all the taxes for which the township has been liable since its formation. A proclamation has been issued by the County Solicitor Major to the effect that those who took part in the affray with the constables need not fear criminal proceedings if they pay up their arrears of taxes.

CARDWELL'S FOUR CANDIDATES.

The Government Not Pleased With Willoughby. Will Put up Another.

Special to The Times.

OTTAWA, Nov. 19.—In Cardwell, Willoughby, the Conservative candidate, has declared against remedial legislation. Consequently the Government will put up with the old one. The Liberal, McCord, has declared in favor of a fair and constitutional settlement of the school question. From present appearances there will be four candidates in the election: Liberal, McCord; Conservative, Cardwell; and two others.

KILLED 200 INDIANS.

They Were Caught in a Canyon and Troops Guarded Both Ends.

Special to The Times.

BROOKA, Co., Nov. 19.—Three weeks ago a small body of soldiers were sent to the department at Caena. General Heya, immediately sent a large force in pursuit, and the Indians were surprised in a canyon, both ends of which were held by troops who held in the Indians while others rolled stones on the redskins. Those who managed to escape from the canyon, thought an earthquake were shot down in cold blood. It is calculated that 200 Indians were killed not a solitary one escaping death.

NEW YORK CENTRAL TRAIN WRECK.

Fast Mail Train Thrown Off the Track—One Man Killed, Several Hurt.

Special to The Times.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Nov. 19.—The New York Central fast mail train east, No. 6, was wrecked two miles west of Rome at 4.25 a.m., the fish-plates of a rail having been removed.

The train consisted of four postal cars and three sleepers, and all were derailed, the mail cars being piled upon the engine. The mail on the train is always heavy, one car being used for registered letters alone. Engineer "Nate" Hager was killed and Fireman James Wagner and Postal Clerk Porter and M. J. McCarthy were injured. This is the second attempt within three weeks to wreck the same train near the same spot.

Electrical Treatment

Dear Sir:—We think we ought to acknowledge in some way that may become public, the very great benefit our daughter derived from the use of your Electro-Curette Bells, and your application of Electricity in the Bath and from Dry Treatment: When we brought her to you she was a picture of unhealthiness, her limbs were shrivelled up, and as thin as limbs could be; she had no strength even to play with other children, in fact she was dying of consumption. Besides this, there was a hard lump on her spine at the nape of her neck, which caused her neck to be so stiff she could not move her head, &c. I thought it to only three months since we brought her to you she is sound and as well as ever.

Yours truly,

How Accidents Happen.

As an instance of the simple way in which shooting accidents sometimes happen, a member of a town hunting party related the following: One of the dogs having returned to camp, the man on watch close by him, and fell into a hole, he snapped a tie chain to the animal's collar. While doing so the rifle butt slipped on the icy ground and fell into a little hollow, slowing the muzzle around and setting the trigger free at the same time. The bullet grazed the man's trouser leg and painfully wounded the dog.

PULPIT ADVERTISING.

The C.P.R. has issued a circular prohibiting the posting up of advertisements on the sides of cars by shippers. This great railway, evidently recognizing the newspaper as the proper medium of advertising, has taken a step in the right direction—a step which other railroads and other corporations may well inaugurate.

The newspaper fills an important part in the property of any country, province or town, and depends on its advertising for support. It is the proper medium for advertisements, and those who usurp the rights of the newspaper are liable to prosecution. Other concerns are protected by law. The newspaper stands on its merits.

The pulpit should also recognise this fact and refuse to make the sanctuary an advertising medium. Pulpit advertising is too common and it is growing.

THANKSGIVING DAY.

At 11 o'clock this morning a union service will be held in the George street Methodist church. A sermon appropriate to the day will be preached by the Rev. J. J. Rao.

THE ACT OF A HERO.

A Lady Saved From Probable Death by a Brave Conductor.

A grateful old lady, whose motherly face beamed with good nature and kindness, called at THE TRINITY office yesterday afternoon and requested that we publish mention of an heroic act which had been done in her behalf.

It appears that she was walking on the C.P.R. tracks west of the station. At this point there are three tracks, and the lady was walking on the centre one. An engine was approaching some freight cars and was coming to a stop. The engine came along on the third track and the lady immediately stepped to the outside track and just as she did so the freight car switched off on to it and bore down upon her.

The lady was so confused that she stood still. A panic overcame her and she could not move. She felt that her last days were numbered. Conductor W. Mitchell witnessed the confusion of the lady and jumping from the car, seized her round the waist and dragged her off the track, just as the car flew by.

It was a noble act, and one that the lady will never forget.

THE C. T. A. CONCERT.

The First Concert Under these Auspices a Success.

The City Teachers' Association held their first concert in connection with their convention at the opera house last night. The event had been advertised to come off in the Y. M. C. A. hall, but owing to the large number of tickets sold it was feared that its seating capacity would not be adequate to receive the large number of people fore decided to hold the concert in the opera house instead. A large and appreciative audience was present, comprised mainly of the school children, came off in the Y. M. C. A. hall, but owing to the large number of tickets sold it was feared that its seating capacity would not be adequate to receive the large number of people fore decided to hold the concert in the opera house instead.

A pleasing and unlooked-for event was the introduction of little Aggie Patterson, whose rendition of two pretty little recitations was enthusiastically received.

The Kindergarten class looked exceedingly neat and pretty in their tastefully prepared attire for the occasion and delivered their numbers with the pluck and spirit of little heroes. They were accorded deservedly warm and demonstrative reception and reflect great credit upon Miss Warner, their teacher.

Mr. J. Miller's cornet solo was exceptionally good and caught the house. Mr. J. J. Miller, Inspector of Model Schools, delivered an exceptionally appropriate and instructive address, entitled "Home Preparation for School and After Life," in which he treated the best methods of preparing children from their infancy for school, and after that for their battle with the world. His address, which was morally and theologically instructive, was enthusiastically received.

Rev. Father Casey delivered a brief address in which he concurred with Mr. Miller's remarks, and treated that the parents would be benefitted by the lecture. In conclusion the reverend gentleman moved, seconded by Mr. Coyle Brown, a vote of thanks to Mr. Tilley, which was unanimously accorded him.

An Impromptu Entertainment.

After escorting the Lindsay Oddfellows to the hall on George street last night, the Fire Brigade Band adjourned to the Palace Restaurant, where a hastily prepared supper was served by the genial and well known caterer of that institution, Jimmy Blaine. The boys are loud in their praise of the accommodating propriety of "Jimmy," and declare that the excellence of the spread prepared for them reflects great credit upon his management, especially as he had no previous notification of the event. During the evening several charming vocal solos were rendered by Mr. Theo. Dunn and talented recitations by Mr. McKay, both of which were of an exceptionally pleasing nature.

THE STREET GRADING.

Agreement Reached at a Special Meeting of the Council Yesterday.

The town council met in special session yesterday morning to arrange an agreement between the town and the Street Railways Company as to raising the grade on George street between Perry and Dalhousie streets. The mayor presided and the following councillors were present: Bred, Deane, Mason, Stone, Cobb, Mills, Denne, Best and Cahill.

The proposition of the railway company was that the town pay for the loading and spreading of the heavy gravel on street and roadbed, about 2,400 yards, and the company would furnish the cars to haul it, if the town would raise the grade of about 700 feet of the roadbed. This proposition embodied in the following recommendation of the Street and Bridge Committee, was carried:

GENTLEMEN.—Your Street and Bridge Committee beg leave to report that after consultation with the street railway management they find that a change will be necessary in the arrangement proposed for raising the grade in portions of George street. They recommend that upon the Street Railway Company furnishing cars, laying the spur to the gravel pit, and hauling the gravel to the site of the work, the town required being 2,400 yards, the town purchase the gravel, fill the cars and spread the gravel on the street and roadbed, about 2,400 yards, and the company would furnish the cars to haul it, if the town would raise the grade of about 700 feet of the roadbed. ## TALE OF THE DEAD.

The Fourteenth Day of the Crown's Case Against the Hyams.

SURGEONS AT THE TRIAL.

CLINICAL LECTURES WITH SKULLS AS ACCESSORIES—NOTHING SENSATIONAL YET BROUGHT FORWARD.

Special to The Times.

TORONTO, Nov. 20.—His Lordship explained to the jury at the trial of the Hyams twins this morning that although Thanksgiving Day was a holiday, the court did not pay attention to holidays when matters of importance were engaged. However, it was thought best to leave it with the jury to decide whether they would prefer to go on with the trial or observe the holiday.

“Bear in mind,” added His Lordship, “that it is the duty of all citizens to observe the holiday whenever possible.”

Foreman Holland, after consultation with his fellow jurors announced that they preferred to go on.

And the court will sit tomorrow.

ADMIT THE SWINDLING IN ORDER TO SHUT OUT EVIDENCE AS TO FORGERY.

After a consultation of an hour and a half between counsel a compromise was arranged by which the evidence tendered by the Crown that Harry Hyams had forged the names of four parties to notes made by Martha Wells was shut out.

Mr. Oiler announced: The evidence of Mr. Ames, the expert on hand writing, and one or two other witnesses and of Mr. Smokes, now under consideration of your Lordship was with a view of showing the amount of money the proceeds of the insurance which had come into possession of the prisoners. In presenting this he would necessarily have to bring out some collateral facts which, while perhaps not strictly relevant to the case, would necessarily come up. Having regard thereto and to what is fair and proper on the part of the Crown, I have after discussion with your Lordship in the presence of counsel for the prisoners arrived at the conclusion that I should accept certain admissions which the prisoners, through their counsel, are willing to make in order to avoid the necessity of calling these various witnesses, thus putting the matter in a more simple form to the court and jury. The result of checking over the various vouchers and bank accounts show that prior to the marriage of the prisoner, H. P. Hyams, with Martha Wells the sum of $8,500 was received and not accounted for. Nineteen hundred dollars of this sum went to pay the joint debt of both prisoners, viz., the chattel mortgage of Dr. McPherson. This money was the proceeds of the insurance in Martha Wells hands. After the marriage the prisoner received in large sums $14,300, the last large amount being represented by a draft for $7,954, produced by Mr. Rice, manager of the Imperial Bank. Apparently after that sum only one hundred and thirty dollars was received by H. P. Hyams from his wife. The total sum, apart from small checks, not in the whole aggregating a very large sum amount to $14,300, of which some $3,100 came directly into Dallas Hyams hands.

Mr. Lount agreed to the statement. It shows that of the total $23,000 received by Martha Wells as the proceeds of the insurance she only had the use of less than $1,500, the prisoners receiving $23,800 and Mrs. Aylesworth $4,750.

SOME EXPERIMENTS. Detective Cuddy, who investigated the occurrence in January, 1893, testified that he called on Harry Hyams on the 23rd at his office to make enquiries. Prisoner said he did not know much about the affair. Cuddy then asked the address of Martha Wells and was told 213 Mutual street. He proceeded direct to the house and when he got there found the prisoner ahead of him. Cuddy testified that it would require 15 minutes to walk from 213 Mutual street to the Colborne street warehouse. Witness identified the various exhibits produced taken from the warehouse and the office of the prisoners.

To Mr. Cuddy witness stated that he was directed by Inspector Stark, chief of the detective force, to make enquiries. He reported that no charge was laid against the prisoners then and the matter rested until their arrest in February, 1896.

THE TESTIMONY OF THE DOCTORS. THE CROWN ENTERS UPON A NEW BRANCH OF ITS CASE.

With the calling of Dr. John Caven to the witness stand the Crown entered upon a new branch of its case—the medical testimony. There are twelve surgeons to be examined, and their testimony will last at least two days. Dr. Caven gave a minute description of the numerous fractures on the skull of Willie Wells.

Three points to which the particular attention of the jury were directed were the fractures of the condyles at the base of the skull the complete desarticulation of the left symphyseal arch and the absence of a portion of the right internal angular process. The first and last of these it is contended, were occasioned by the blow which felled Wells and the latter was the result of the blow which occasioned the wound over the left eye of which so many witnesses have spoken.

The main force to produce these injuries had been applied to the right side apparently hinging on the right parietal protuberance or thereabouts. The head must have been resting on the left side on something solid when it received this force on the right side. Probably the greater part of the left side would be in contact with the floor or other substance when the blow struck the right side. The head would be resting on the symphyseal arch as shown by the fracture of the lower jaw.

There was evidence manifest of a secondary line of force. The condition of the face showed this. The one blow does not account for all the injuries to the skull found. The force which broke off the angular process of the right eye, witness thought, was evidence of another line of force. The line of force required to cause this fracture must have been from before backward.

A witness has described the breaking of the right eye of the spectacles and the bending in of those spectacles, a witness also described a piece of glass in the right eye, one or more witnesses have described the right eye driven in; do these facts aid you in arriving at a conclusion as to the line of force? A.—“As to the driving in of the right eye that is a physical impossibility, although it might have the appearance of having been driven in. If the glass were firmly imbedded in the angular process of the eye I would say that some force had been directly applied and driven it in.”

Continuing witness said everything might be accounted for by the second blow with the exception of the breaking of the angular process. The application of a crushing blow from before backward would be the natural inference from the conditions which he found on the head at the point indicated on the right frontal.

THE WOUND OVER THE LEFT EYE. Dr. A. Jukes Johnston swore that there were two lines of force manifest in the fractures in the skull. The main injuries were caused by a blow over the right side while the left side was resting upon some hard substance. The result was a crushing blow from before backward, the fracture of the internal angular process would agree with the latter line of force.

The wound over the left eye of which witness had spoken could not have been produced by anything connected with this skull. There is neither evidence that such a wound broke the skull or that the skull in breaking caused such a wound. The force from the front was backward, upward and inward.

The defence lay great stress on the fact that prior to the Police Court examination the fracture of the internal angular process over the right eye was not noted by any of the surgeons who examined it. The missing piece is about an eighth of an inch wide and quarter of an inch long. It was in this line that the cross-examination of Dr. Caven was conducted. Mr. Johnston failed to get witness to admit, however, that the crushing blow on the right side could have caused the fracture of the internal angular process.

$375,000 PER ANNUM.

How the Imperial Government will Help the New East Atlantic Line.

Special to The Times.

OTTAWA, Nov. 20.—Sir Charles Tupper, the Canadian Commissioner to London, has been assured by Right Hon. Joseph Chamberlain that the Imperial Government will co-operate with the Canadian Government by aiding the proposed fast transatlantic steamship line to the extent of $375,000 per annum. The Imperial Government will require that the vessels shall steam not less than 20 knots an hour, and that tenders be invited for the service. The amount offered by the Imperial Government will supplement the $750,000 offered by Canada, making a total subsidy of $1,125,000. It is not unlikely that some of the companies now possessing 20-knot vessels may withdraw their ships from their present route and tender for the Canadian service, in which case the vessels would be on the route next summer.

GREAT LAKE STORM.

OLD BOREAS COMMENCES TO BLOW AND VESSELS ARE IN DANGER.

Schooners Are Ashore—Two Vessels in Distress Near Point Edward—Tugs Go to Their Assistance—A Howling Gale.

Special to The Times.

LEVELAND, Ohio, Nov. 20.—A snow storm, accompanied by a fierce north-westerly gale, has prevailed on Lake Erie since midnight, causing such a tremendous sea that very few vessels are attempting to enter or leave the harbor. It is believed, however, that a number of boats were caught out in the gale.

The bark collided with the British ship Condor and it is now known that not only was the Brom Carlo sunk, but that only four of her nineteen men were saved. The officers and fifteen sailors sank with their ship.

STEAMERS FLOATED.

SANDY HOOK, Nov. 20.—The Long Branch life saving station reports that the steamer Iravaddy, which went ashore at Asbury Park on Saturday, was floated this morning. The steamer Manitoba, which went ashore near Beach Haven, N. J., on Monday, was also floated.

THE PACIFIC CABLE.

Chamberlain Encourages the Scheme—A Conference to Be Held.

Special to The Times.

LONDON, Nov. 20.—Right Hon. Joseph Chamberlain met the representative of Canada, New Zealand, Australia and South Africa in a conference upon the Pacific cable scheme. Mr. Chamberlain said he would co-operate with the colonies in the Imperial project. He was satisfied that the cable would prove remunerative. The colonial Governments have been invited to appoint delegates, two from Canada, two from Australia to form a commission with two British delegates to draw up a final scheme. Sandford Fleming and Sir Charles Tupper will probably be the Canadian representatives. South Australia demands an indemnity on account of existing lines as a condition of its support.

Hooper Not to Be Pardoned.

OTTAWA, Nov. 20.—J. R. Hooper, formerly of Port Hope and Ottawa, who is serving a 20 years' term in St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary for attempting to murder his wife will not be pardoned. After entering into all the facts, His Excellency does not see any reason either for ordering a new trial or for interfering with the sentence.

To Proceed Against Peacock.

QUEBEC, Nov. 20.—It is announced that the prosecution by the Government against Mr. Ernest Peacock for the recovery by the province of $100,000 so often referred to in connection with the Bala des Chaleurs Railway affair is to be renewed and Mr. Drouin, the Government lawyer in the matter states that the action is returnable on the 23rd November.

JAILED AND BEATEN.

Rev. Mr. Martin, a Canadian Missionary, Ill-Treated in Armenia.

HE IS A NATIVE OF P.E.I.

AND HAS BEEN A MISSIONARY IN ARMENIA FOR UPWARDS OF THIRTY YEARS—NOTHING TO INDICATE HOW SERIOUSLY INJURED.

Special to The Times.

ONDON, Nov. 20.—A despatch to the Globe from Constantinople published this afternoon confirms the report of the ill-treatment which the Canadian missionary the Rev. Mr. Martin, has been subjected to upon the part of the Turkish adding that he was beaten and afterwards imprisoned for 16 hours at Tekkah near Hadjin in the Province of Adana, in the heart of the Taurus Mountains. There is nothing, however, in the more recent despatches to indicate that Mr. Martin is fatally or permanently injured. Rev. John Campbell Martin is a Presbyterian in faith, and a member of the American Board. He is a native of Heatherdale, P.E.I., and is about 35 years of age. He has been a missionary in Armenia for over three years.

THE SITUATION EASIER.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 20.—The attitude of the Sultan has undergone a decided change since the other fleets began to join the British fleet in the naval demonstration at Salones Bay. There is no doubt that the pressure brought to bear upon the Sultan has been strong enough to make him take personal charge of the work of reform in Armenia, and it is now hoped that there will be no further bloodshed. There is no longer any talk of the armed intervention of the Powers in the Turkish Empire and if any display of force is necessary upon the part of Europe it might be in the direction of supporting the authority of the Sultan, as Great Britain, Russia and France are extremely desirous that order should promptly be restored through Asia Minor.

TURKEY'S LONDON AGENT IS DEAD.

LONDON, Nov. 20.—The death of Rustem Pasha, the Turkish ambassador to London which occurred early this morning had been anticipated for some time. His demise is generally regretted in official circles as his upright conduct and generous disposition were appreciated by all.

THE SULTAN TO SALISBURY.

He Promises to Carry out the Reforms—Turkish Officials no Good.

Special to The Times.

LONDON, Nov. 20.—At the annual conference of the National Union of Conservative Associations at Brighton, Lord Salisbury stated that the Sultan of Turkey Abdul Hamid, had written him asking him to make a statement bearing upon his (Lord Salisbury's) Guildhall speech. In that his Lordship said that he had but little hope that the promised reforms in Armenia would ever be carried out. In his letter the Sultan said that such a statement has given him such pain, and the reforms have been decided upon and will be carried out promptly. Instructions to all his ministers have been issued, and the Sultan would see that they were carried out.

Lord Salisbury extolled Rustem Pasha, the dying Turkish ambassador at London, and stated that if the men of his type had been in charge of Armenia the trouble would not have occurred.

CAUGHT BY THE HOIST.

The Serious Accident That Befel J. W. Hockins of London.

Special to The Times.

LONDON, Oct. 20.—At the London Furniture Co.'s factory yesterday afternoon Joseph W. Hockins, 555 William street, went to the elevator shaft and looked down to see where the hoist was, not noticing that it was descending from the flat above. In an instant the heavy elevator was upon him, wedging his head between a cross beam and the hoist floor. When he was released it was found that his face was terribly crushed and his skull and upper jaw fractured. He can hardly recover.

This afternoon the militia are breaking camp preparatory to returning to Ottawa by special train in the evening.

Both Riders Were to Blame.

TORONTO, Nov. 20.—Judge Morson has given a decision which is of more than usual interest to bicyclists. John Cole, returning from Woodbridge Fair on October 16, on his wheel collided with another wheelman named Arthur A. Greene, on Dundas street. Both were on the devil's strip. Cole, relying on the rule, well recognized among reputable riders, that those wheeling east or south had the right of way, sued Greene for $50, the damage alleged to have been received in the crash. The judge took no stock in the rule of the road but both parties lost and gave judgment against the plaintiff. Hop riders may now smash away with impunity.

A Wild Man of the Mountains.

BUTTE, Mont., Nov. 20.—Pettigill, the wild man of the Wise River Mountains has been found dead on his mountain retreat. Pettigill came to Montana during the war period of the war and nothing has ever been learned regarding his previous life. Pettigill had knowledge of a fabulously rich gold vein, but he never disclosed its location, though he gave to a party of hunters some quartz that assayed $50,000 a ton.

A Fire at Pembroke.

TRAGEDY IN AUSTRALIA.

A Bank Manager Who Murdered His Wife and Two Children.

Special to The Times.

MELBOURNE, Nov. 20.—A fearful tragedy is reported from Sale, a town of Victoria, where Manager Short, of the Commercial Bank of that place, shot his wife and two children and then killed himself. The children died instantly, and it is believed that Mrs. Short is fatally wounded. It is thought that the reading of the reports of the recent murder of Mrs. Arthur Dacre, Sydney, by her husband, who also killed himself, and unbalanced Short's mind.

Find of Silver.

PORT ARTHUR, Nov. 20.—The most wonderful silver discovery of recent years has been made on the north shore of Lake Superior, near the mouth of the Payplatt river, not far from the Indian reservation. The vein is said to be ten feet wide and where stripped it is very rich. The lead is located where no precious metals were supposed to be found, the geological formation being granite.

LOCAL AND DISTRICT HAPPENINGS OF THE DAY.

Police Court Notes.

Walter Harrison, who was arrested under a bed in a livery stable a few nights ago on the charge of stealing oats from a Farmer Eli Stamlin, of Otonabee, was found guilty Wednesday morning by the magistrates, but was allowed to go on suspended sentence upon payment of $20.25 costs. J. Graham who was Harrison's companion in the deal, was sent to goal for ten days.

Fire and Burglars in Stirling.

About 10.15 Monday night, the manse, occupied by Rev. J. M. Gray, Stirling, was discovered to be on fire. An alarm was at once given. The fire was caused by the explosion of a lamp in the cellar. By the efforts of those present it was confined to the cellar although there had been a half a hard work. The house was badly damaged and a splendid library, valued at $1,200, was partially destroyed. The furniture was not burned to a great extent, but was badly smoked by rough handling. Messrs. Gray and H. Boldrick were overcome by smoke, while endeavoring to save the books, and had to be carried out. The damage to the building is fully covered by insurance, but there is only a small amount on the contents. On Saturday night about midnight, Mr. S. Holden awoke and discovered a burglar in his room. The thief fled, and he found that his presence was known. Nothing was missed.

An Impromptu Entertainment.

After escorting the Lindsay O'Fallons to the hall on George street Wednesday, the Fire Brigade Band adjourned to the Palace Restaurant, where a hastily prepared supper was served by the genial and well-known caterer of that institution, Jimmy Blaine. The boys are loud in their praise of the accommodating propriety of "Jimmy," and declare that the excellent spread prepared for them reflects great credit upon his management, especially as he had no previous notification of the event. During the evening several charming vocal solos were rendered by Mr. Thos. Dunn and talented recitations by Mr. McKay, both of which were of an exceptionally pleasing nature.

A Coon in a Tree.

About dusk Tuesday night a number of youths congregated around a hickory nut tree, Sherbrooke street. They said they heard a coon whistling. As people passed they asked the cause of the racket, and they were told about the coon. In a short time a good sized crowd in front of the tree. One young man who is counted a great sport was the first to discover the coon. He saw it bunched up behind a limb about 20 feet from the ground. Then there were bricks, stones, clubs, etc., thrown at it, and all the while the tree kept barking, but strange to say the coon did not move. Then a man was seen approaching rapidly with a double barreled shotgun. A good aim was taken, and the coon fell. When the smoke had cleared away Mr. Coon was still on the limb. Then a young lad was sent up the tree and found the limb was a knot. The crowd dispersed quicker than when the leader and a German band passed around the hat.

Winter Time Table.

The usual winter time table of the Grand Trunk Railway went into effect Tuesday, the changes, however, not being of a very radical nature. On the main line no alterations are made in the hours of running the trains. On the Northern branch, the local train for Collingwood will leave at 1.40 p.m., instead of 10.45 a.m. The train leaving at 8.20 a.m. on the Northern will in future only reach Collingwood. On the Southern Division the 3 p.m. express from London, Detroit and Chicago will leave now at 2.40, the object being to get through twenty minutes earlier. This train will reach London at 8.30 p.m. On the Midland Division the 8.20 a.m. mail will leave at 7.45 a.m., and on the N. & W. #### The Firemen's Ball a Failure.

The annual ball, under the auspices of the Fire Brigade, announced to have been held in the market hall Wednesday unfortunately proved to be a failure. Elaborate preparations had been made for an enjoyable evening; the hall was exceedingly tastefully decorated with flags and bunting by Mr. A. Kingscote, a good orchestra was in attendance, and a most tempting sumptuous supper had been provided by Mr. Wm. McCallum, but the guests failed to arrive upon the scene. At 9.45 only two or three couples had put in an appearance and between eleven and twelve the total attendance numbered but eleven couples in all. The boys then gave the thing up in disgust and adjourned to McCallum's restaurant, spread themselves over the three large tables prepared for the expected guests and consoled themselves with the tempting viands placed before them. It is unfortunate that this affair was not more liberally patronized, for the firemen are credited with furnishing a first class ball in every respect and the patronage of the annually recurring event is one of the very few opportunities our citizens have of showing their appreciation of the services rendered by the boys in their frequent fights against the devouring flames of devastating fires. The failure of this affair is undoubtedly due to the fact that the firemen did not judiciously advertise it and that the footstep of the lovers of the light fantastic mandered in the direction of the dance given under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society.

Blood was Impure.

"For a long time I was troubled with scrofula and impure blood. About a year ago I cut my arm and my blood was in such a condition that the wound would not heal and friends recommended Hood's Sarsaparilla and I used three bottles and I am well. I recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla to all affected as I was. Daniel Robinson, 533 Trevelyan street, Toronto, Ont.

THE C. T. A. CONCERT.

The First Concert Under these Auspices a Success.

The City Teachers' Association held their first concert in connection with their convention at the opera house Wednesday. The event had been advertised to come off in the Y. M. C. A. hall, but owing to the large number of tickets sold it was feared that its seating capacity would not be adequate to the attendance; it was therefore decided to hold the concert in the opera house instead. A large and appreciative audience was present, comprised mainly of the school children and their parents, and one and all expressed their satisfaction at the entertainment furnished.

Mr. Peter Hamilton presided over the following program which was exceedingly well rendered:

1. Kindergarten Song "Summer, Autumn and Winter," Miss Warner's class
2. Solo, Miss F. Hall
3. Kindergarten Class "Slumber Song"
4. Lecture, Mr. Tilley, I.M.S. Subject "Home Preparation for School and After Life."
5. Recitation, Aggie Patterson
6. Cornet Solo, Mr. J. Miller
7. "God Save the Queen"

Miss Vina Belleghem not being present to fill her number Miss Florence Hall rendered a solo in her place, which met with the deserved approbation of the audience. A pleasing and unlooked-for event was the introduction of little Aggie Patterson, whose rendition of two pretty little songs was enthusiastically received. The Kindergarten class looked exceedingly neat and pretty in their tastefully prepared attire for the occasion and delivered their numbers with the pluck and spirit of little heroes. They were accorded deservedly warm and demonstrative reception and reflect great credit upon Miss Warner, their teacher. Mr. J. Miller's cornet solo was exceptionally good and caught the house.

Mr. J. J. Tilley, Inspector of Model Schools, delivered an exceptionally appropriate and instructive address, entitled "Home Preparation for School and After Life" in which he treated of the best methods of preparing children from their infancy for school, and after that for their battle with the world. His address, which was moral and theological in its nature, was enthusiastically received.

Rev. Father Casey delivered a brief address in which he concurred with Mr. Tilley's remarks, and trusted the parents would be benefited by the lecture. In conclusion the reverend gentleman moved, seconded by Mr. J. Coyle Brown, a vote of thanks to Mr. Tilley, which was unanimously accorded him.

THE ACT OF A HERO.

A Lady Saved From Probable Death by a Brave Conductor.

A grateful old lady, whose motherly face beamed with good nature and kindness, called at THE TIMES office Wednesday afternoon and requested that we publish an account of an heroic act which had been done in her behalf.

It appears that she was walking on the C.P.R. tracks west of the station. At this point there are three tracks, and the lady was walking on the centre one. An engine was switching some freight cars and was coming towards her. The engine came along on the third track and the lady immediately stepped to the outside track and just as she did so the freight cars switched off on to it and bore down upon her.

The lady was so confused that she stood still. A panic overcame her and she could not move. She felt that her last days were numbered. Conductor W. Mitchell witnessed the confusion of the lady and immediately stepped to the track, seized her waist and dragged her off the track, just as the car flew by.

It was a noble act, and one that the lady will never forget.

ST. LUKES' AT HOME.

Miss Symonds Gives an Interesting Talk On Indian Missions.

In spite of the wet weather the school-house of St. Luke's was well filled Tuesday night, at the "At Home" given under the auspices of the Women's Auxiliary of that church. Miss Symonds spoke of Indian Mission work. Indians were not very industrious, but there was little they could do. They were improving, however, and were certain to progress in civilization despite many discouragements. Whilst the parents are not easily converted to christianity, they are willing to accept of it. Many of the children had been baptized and confirmed and they understand what they are doing when entering Christianity. Miss Symonds' remarks were illustrated by an Indian tape on the stage, with a young lady and gentleman in Indian costume.

An instrumental and vocal program was rendered by Mrs. Peck, Miss Belleghem, Miss Jackson, and Messrs. Turner, Adams and Rev. Boyne Reed. Refreshments were served during the evening.

He Claims $1,000.

As a result of the railroad accident at the Locks bridge on the night of Thursday Oct. 10th, a claim for $1,000 damages has been made by Mr. A. A. Marks, traveler for J. D. King & Co., wholesale boot and shoe dealers, Toronto, against the Grand Trunk Railway. Mr. Marks was in the baggage car which went over the abutment and he was in a precarious position and escaped through one of the windows after receiving wounds on the face and body. He was confined to his room at the Oriental for a few days. The accident also resulted in the loss of his samples which were very valuable.

TO HAVE THE BLOCK SYSTEM

Introduced on the Grand Trunk Railway To-Day.

When the introduction of the new timetable the telegraphic "block system" of train despatching will also come into force on the Grand Trunk. This is only one special feature prepared by the general superintendent, James Stephenson, will govern the system.

No train or light engine shall leave or pass a telegraph station until the proceeding passenger train or train carrying passengers has arrived at and departed from the telegraph station next in advance. (except at terminals when arrival will suffice.) and the same has been reported by regular telegraph message, signed by the agent or operator on duty at the telegraph station, next in advance to the agent or operator at the station, the said passenger train or train carrying passengers, has departed from. In case of emergency, such as wires being interrupted, report of arrival may be written on special order, and must be written on the clearance order to be issued in such cases to trains which may be held for this report. Or when a special order is given by the train despatcher, who will issue such an order in the event of an accident, or other emergency—the despatcher issuing such special order will be held responsible for advising agents, operators, and all concerned.

When the telegraph is interrupted and not working, the following interval must be maintained:

- (a) Between passenger trains, or trains carrying passengers, twenty minutes.
- (b) Between all other trains, and light engines, following passenger trains, or trains carrying passengers, thirty minutes.

The agent or operator in such instances must note on clearance order "wires in trouble."

An inferior class train or light engine must not proceed in advance of a passenger engine without orders from the superintendent, through the next despatcher, unless it can reach the next telegraph station in advance before the passenger train is due to leave the station the inferior class train is departing from.

The signals at telegraph stations must be, immediately a passenger train or train carrying passengers, or light engine passes through, set at danger, and must not be changed until the arrival of the said passenger train or train carrying passengers at the telegraph station next in advance, or by the agent or operator on duty at the station as provided in special rule No. 1.

When freight trains haul passenger cars "deadhead" such cars must be placed ahead of the conductor's van; when the passenger cars carry passengers they must be placed in rear of conductor's van on rear of train.

THAT BURGLARY.

The Glass May Have Been Accidentally Broken Say the Police.

The police were firmly of the belief on Monday night that an attempt was made to burglarize Mr. George Cartons' store. They are not yet positive that the breaking of the glass was an accident, but for that purpose. Another theory, however, is that the glass was broken by two or three young men, accidentally. This is probably the true solution of the affair, although at the time the evening paper pointed to a bold attempt at robbery.

There is one thing certain, the door was firmly bolted on the inside and could not have been pushed open. Whoever broke the glass opened the door, but for what purpose is only conjecture.

Mr. Cartons' store was besieged all day yesterday by enquiring citizens who had heard of the affair in THE TIMES. People are firmly convinced that if a thing is so it will be in THE TIMES and if it is in THE TIMES it is so.

THE STREET GRADING.

Agreement Reached at a Special Meeting of the Council Wednesday.

The town council met in special session Wednesday morning to arrange an agreement between the town and the Street Railway Company as to raising the grade on George street between Perry and Dalhousie streets. The mayor presided and the following councillors were present: Brady, Coburn, Denne, Best and Cahill.

The proposition of the railway company was that the town pay for the loading and spreading of the necessary gravel on street and roadbed, about 2,400 yards, and the company would furnish the cars to haul it, if the town would raise the grade of about 700 feet of their roadbed. This proposition embodied in the following recommendation of the Street and Bridge Committee, was carried:

GENTLEMEN,—Your Street and Bridge Committee beg leave to report that after consultation with the street railway management they find that a change will be necessary in the arrangement proposed for raising the grade in portions of George street. The Street Railway Company furnishing cars, laying the spur to the gravel pit and hauling the gravel to where it is required the limit required being 2,400 yards, the town purchasing the gravel, fill the cars and spread the gravel on the street and road bed, and the town shall tramp the earth under the street railway ties.

All of which is respectfully submitted, HENRY BEST, Chairman.

Councillor Best also moved the following resolution which was carried: That the Street and Bridge Committee be authorized to enter into an informal discussion, moved, seconded by Councillor Denne,—That the bridge over the creek on George street be constructed 20 feet in length and 60 feet wide, and that the contract for the superstructure be given to the Central Bridge and Engineering Company, to be constructed according to a plan submitted by the company, and that the company give a guarantee that it will be of sufficient strength for the street railway and other traffic, at a cost not to exceed $800. Also that the Sewerage Committee be authorized to contract for the steel pipe to connect Nos. 2 and 3 sections of the sewer.

Councillor Best in introducing another question stated that the Central Bridge Works agreed to erect the superstructure of the new bridge on George street at a cost of $600, providing the length was reduced from 25 to 20 feet and they be permitted to put four heavy girders instead of eight lighter ones. They furthermore agreed to paint the bridge and construct a sidewalk for foot passengers supported on cantilevers. The reason advancing this offer was the fact that the company had the necessary girders already in stock suitable for the work.

The following resolution was then passed moved by Councillors Best and Denne, as amended:—That the bridge over the creek on George street be constructed of 20 feet length and 60 feet width and that the contract for the superstructure be given to the Central Bridge and Engineering Co., to be constructed according to a plan submitted by the company and the company give a guarantee that it will be of sufficient strength for the street railway and other traffic, at a cost not to exceed $600; also, that the Sewerage Committee be authorized to contract for the steel pipe to connect Nos. 2 and 3 sections of the sewer.

THE FIRST WEDDING

Solemnized in St. John's South Ward Mission Wednesday.

The marriage of Miss Martha Newall to Mr. W. Green, the general foreman of the Geo. Matthews Co.'s packing house was solemnized in St. John's South Ward Mission Wednesday afternoon at four o'clock. The Rev. C. Smith, curate of the Mission, officiated. The bride was prettily attired in a dress of cream cashmere, trimmed with Irish lace and white roses, and a handsome veil. Miss H. Crowe, who attended the bride, wore a steel grey dress, with light grey trimmings, and carried a bouquet of pink and white roses. Mr. George Hiscord acted as best man.

After the ceremony the guests adjourned to the newly-furnished house of the happy pair on Townsend street, where a sumptuous repast was partaken of.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Green are the happy recipients of numerous presents, including a handsome plush parlor suite from the employees of the packing house, which substantially testify to the esteem in which the bridegroom is held by the hands over whom he has charge.

The newly married couple also enjoy the honor of being principals in the first wedding that has taken place in the South Ward Mission, and are therefore entitled to a handsome family Bible offered by the Women's Auxiliary for the first solemnization of this nature in the Mission.

Shot Decoy Ducks.

Recently two young sportsmen went on a hunting tour. They landed on a point in Rice Lake and as soon as they got located they saw what they supposed was a flock of wild ducks. It was, however, a decoy. Each man had a double barreled gun loaded. They levelled at their target, took good aim and fired away. They did not kill anything and the ducks saved their skins. It is reported by the agent or operator on duty at the station as provided in special rule No. 1.

Further investigation revealed the fact that they had labored under a delusion. The flock consisted of decoy ducks, and the owner will ask damages because they were marked by shot and powder.

OUR ELIGIBLE BACHELORS

ANOTHER BATCH OF FIRESIDE ORNAMENTS WITHOUT FRIENDS.

Men of Position and Wealth Who So Far Have Refused to Take Upon Themselves a Most Important Duty—A List of Good "Catchers."

Everybody is on the qui vive this week to see THE SATURDAY TIMES' list of eligible bachelors. There will be a rush for the paper this morning. The young men are having any amount of fun, and the young ladies are evincing great interest. Names of prominent bachelors have been sent in by the dozens, with the request: "Do put Mr. So-and-So in the list please." Many of these have been sent in by young ladies who, no doubt, are becoming tired waiting to hear the old, old story, and take this means of administering a gentle hint. The eligible bachelors' list has proven a success. It was not the intention of THE SATURDAY TIMES to continue it with this frequency, but the public and popular demand must be regarded. There are some choice "catchers" in the appended list, and any number left over for future publication. Every bachelor in town will be exposed, and none need try to escape.

Henry, Thomas—25 years of age; $5,000. He is with Henry Bros., grocers. He looks younger than 25 but isn't. Mr. Henry is a very nice young man and would make a good hubby if not left too long. His present peculiarity is bashfulness, but a clever wife would soon take that out of him. Report says he is a considerable reader of a night hawk. He is an ardent reader of the New York World, especially the Woman's Page, which is a good sign.

Morrow, Fred—23 years of age; $5,000. Mr. Morrow is a son of the County Registrar. He is a very estimable young man, full of admirable traits, and would make some girl happy if he would marry. But he has never been seen in the company of any lady, and it is feared he will soon become a hard shell if he doesn't change his ways.

Might, Fred—27 years of age; $500. He is quite a ladies' man, especially milliners. He is well liked, a good clerk, and would make a fair-to-middling husband.

Martin, Harry—29 years of age; $5,000. Mr. Martin is foreman of the Review bindery. He is a most estimable young man and would make some nice girl a good husband. He is very popular, is a Y.M.C.A. worker and possesses all the necessary qualifications to befit him for the responsible duties of married life.

Fisk, H. O.—32 years of age; $5,000. Mr. Fisk is superintendent of the Light and Power Company. He is very fond of camping, and it is said as a result of a few weeks' outing at Stoney Lake last summer, he is mortgaged. We hope it is so. Mr. Fisk would make a corking good hubby and he should lose no time in getting hitched.

Snowden, Herbert—26 years of age; $10,000. He is the son of the proprietor of the Snowden House and is a capital fellow when you get acquainted. Mr. Snowden is intensely popular. He has a great fondness for the ladies and no fears are entertained but he will select some particular one, before many moons. He is a great hunter and many deer have fallen beneath his unerring aim.

Thompson, Wm.—24 years of age; $5,000. Billy is older than he looks and we may be out in his age given above, but his rating is all right. Mr. Thompson is with Cox & Davis. He is a capital fellow every inch of him. It is rumored that he has tender leanings toward Toronto, but that doesn't reconcile with the fact that he attends all the Lakefield carnivals. However, between the two, he is sure to be nabbed soon.

Miller, J. N.—35 years of age; $4,000. Here is a hustler. Mr. Miller is the Canadian agent for the Chickering Piano Company and travels from Atlantic to Pacific. He is without a partner to share his joys, but his friends are expecting him to take a tumble as he seems to be doing considerable business at Campbellford.

Davidson, Geo.—27 years of age; $5,000. A perfect type of man. Mr. Davidson is well known around town and is friendly with the ladies and his joining the rank of the bachelors in the near future may be expected. We are in receipt of a letter from a Winnipeg lady asking us to publish his rating.

Green, Frank—33 years of age; $1,000. Here is a gentleman badly in need of a wife. He has a house on Dublin street which report says is furnished. He is quite a musician playing the slide trombone in the orchestra. Mr. Green is reported to have a tender leaning towards Bridgworth. The only fault he has that he goes to bed late and rises too early (?).

White, Gus—24 years of age; $5,000. Gus is a son of Mr. Robt. White, proprietor of the White House. He is very fond of fast horses and cuts quite a dash sometimes. He is a good fellow and a good catch.

Brien, Wm.—36 years of age; $2,000. This popular member of the fire brigade is a beauty. He is tall and handsome and divides his time equally between the ladies and his beard. He has a handsome mustache. It is said Billy has interests in Port Hope. This is confidentially. He would be mortally offended were it mentioned in his presence.

Wright, Charles E.—30 years of age; $3,000. Careful enquiry has revealed the sad fact that Mr. Wright, who is lumber inspector for the Dickinson Company, is a confirmed woman hater. It is the duty of some fascinating young miss to overcome his prejudice and marry him forthwith. It would be a victory for the sex and a good thing for the subject of this sketch.

Atrial, T. P.—56 years of age, without a doubt; $100,000. Here is a confirmed bachelor, long since passed into that stage of the disease known as the "hard shell." Mr. Atrial is a famous currier, and is a distinguished figure on the rink during the winter months. It will be hard to break him of this almost nightly pastime. He is the owner of a very nice residence and is one of the best matches in the populous midland district.

Corkery, Peter—31 years of age (looks like 18); $5,000. For a number of years Mr. Corkery has been with the business concern of Mr. H. LeBruin. He affects a partiality for music and his rendering of "Martial Lays" is said to be particularly pathetic. There are several bets among the boys that Mr. Corkery will be married when the June roses bloom again.

Cahill, Joseph—35 years old; $5,000. Mr. Cahill is with the Peterborough Hardware Company. He is included in this list, not on account of his age, but because he started in early, and is a bachelor in experience. Being popular, kindly of manner and very looking, Mr. Cahill is respectfully submitted as a desirable match.

Billet, Thomas—33 years old; $10,000. Here is a very popular, steady and reputable young man. Mr. Billet takes keen delight in curling, and is an adept and very skillful with the "stones." He is extremely good looking has a distinguished bearing and is one of the most courteous of the staff of the Bank of Commerce.

Elliott, David—26 years of age (you would not think it); $10,000. Now here is a prize. He is a very industrious young gentleman, holding a very responsible position in the Canadian General Electric Company's works. He is also a firm believer in true amateur sport and it is only necessary to mention the fact of his holding high positions in no less than 11 of our amateur organizations to show the esteem in which he is held where known. He should make a model husband.

Clynton, Harold—23 years; $10,000. Here is one of Peterborough's most estimable young men. He has been filling the position of secretary of the Peterborough Carbon and Porcelain Co. for some time and has developed good business qualities. Reports about his going to turn a Benedict have been frequent but he is shy of the ladies. He ought to be landed soon.

Mr. J. H. Davies and his assistant took a cold bath in the river, attempting to ford it with a team and wagon they got into deep water and were thoroughly soaked.

A good number took part in the shooting match for turkeys organized by A. J. Kidd but the cold wind prevailing was in favor of the proprietors of the turkeys and no very large bags were made.

In the evening the ladies of the Methodist church took possession of the town hall and served a sumptuous repast to all comers. The supper was followed by a meeting in the council chamber where a varied program was enjoyed.

A very interesting missionary lecture was delivered in the Baptist church on Wednesday evening on the subject of "John Chinaman at Home."

The proprietors of the electric light plant are putting in new power and when the work is completed no doubt they will be able to improve the quality of the light supplied, which at present is not satisfactory.

W. Dunford will again manage the rink this season. Some structural alterations now being made will add to the comfort of those who patronize it.

The managers of the Methodist church entertainment on Thanksgiving Day are much annoyed at the conduct of some parties who made their way into the hall at night and demolished the remains of the supper which had been looked up for removal the following morning.

A coach dog (black and white) wall marked answers to the name of "Silver." Information that will lead to his recovery left at the Palace Grocery or THE TIMES office, will be appreciated, and a liberal reward will be paid.

Accidental Death. At the coroner's inquest to enquire into the death of James Brown, of Hastings, on Wednesday, heard the evidence, and Mr. F. D. Kerr appeared for the Crown. The jury brought in a verdict of accidental death.

A Caution to Farmers. Farmers should be careful in feeding potatoes and cabbages to their stock, as there are numerous reports of loss of cattle to the true feeding of potatoes. When the price dropped below 30 cents many farmers refused to sell them and instead fed them to their cows and hogs. It is estimated that upwards of $1,000 worth of stock has died from this cause in Franklin county alone within two weeks.

Horses Wanted. Mr. W. J. Pearson, the genial horse buyer, of Montreal, is prepared to pay the highest prices for horses of every description. He is billed as follows: White's Hotel, Peterborough, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday, November 27th, 29th and 30th; Crocker's Hotel, Millbrook, Thursday, November 28th. Farmers having horses to dispose of cannot do better than await the arrival of Mr. Pearson, whose prices exceed those of any other horse buyer in the Dominion.

Course reserve seats tickets $1.25, single reserved seats 20 cents; back seats, 35 cents. Plan now open at Salsbury's.

The Hunters Return. The back woods are now deserted by hunters and the crack of the rifles and the baying of hounds will be heard no more until next November. All the parties from this place had exceedingly good luck. R. C. C. Strickland's party of 10, Gordon Grylls party of 7, Casement-Fraser party of 15, Strickland and Canoe Co. 10, Payne-Henderson party of 9, and L. Steele's party of 9. All parties had a good time and experienced fine weather during the hunt. Go where you will you will perhaps see two or three of the hunters talking and comparing notes about the time they had hunting.

Purified Blood

Saved an operation in the following case. Hood's Sarsaparilla cures when all others fail. It makes pure blood.

"A year ago my father, William Thompson, was taken suddenly ill with inflammation of the bladder. He suffered a great deal and was very low for some time. At last the doctor said he would not get well unless an operation was performed. At this time we read about Hood's Sarsaparilla and decided to try it. Before he used it a bottle his appetite had come back to him, whereas before he could eat but little. When he had taken three bottles of the medicine he was as well as ever." FRANCIS J. THOMPSON, Peninsula Lake, Ontario.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is the Only True Blood Purifier

Prominently in the public eye today. Hood's Pills cure all liver, bile, blood, headache, etc.

Moose Slaughtered. Reports intimate that Indians have been killing deer and selling them to the shanties, the moose have been slaughtered in considerable numbers in the far back townships, and that men living in the north have been nearly all the year with roasts of moose, which do not give tongue loudly and are therefore hard to detect.

A Warning to Councils. The case just decided at Kingston should be a warning to municipal councils in the matter of keeping the main road passable. The stage driver in a certain direction from that city last winter noticed the council of a township that he could not get through their road, but they paid no attention to his notice. He there fore employed men to do the work as often as necessary, and presented his bill of costs to "their honorable body." This also was treated with contempt, but finally they by order of the court, cashed up with a pile of costs.

A Literary Treat. Mr. Albert H. Perry, of Detroit, who appears in the lecture room of George street Methodist church, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society, on Monday evening next, comes with the highest credentials. He appeared in Toronto on Thursday evening before a crowded house and was most enthusiastically received. The Toronto powers speak in the most glowing terms of his rendition of selections from Dickens, Shakespeare and other standard authors. The society is to be congratulated on securing the services of this very talented elocutionist, said by many to be equal to S. J. Smith Russell.

Peterborough Defeated. On Thanksgiving day Trinity University team defeated the Peterborough Rugby team by 24 points to 7. The Globe says of the game: On the Trinity lawn Thursday afternoon the college fifteen defeated Peterborough in an exceedingly well played match by 24 points to 7. The Trinity team had several of the Lornes on and their passing and combination playing was too much for Peterborough, who were evidently lacking in experience. The bitter cold affected the play to a considerable extent, numbing the hands of the players and causing much fumbling. In the first half Peterborough's half back and though they did not hold their own they kept the Trinity score down to 12 while they notched 7 points. Trinity scored a touch without a try and two converted tries, making 12 points. Peterborough scored a rouse and goal. Leveaux scored their try by a beautiful run. He played by far the best game for the visitors. He kicked and ran well. In the second half, Trinity had things all their own way, scoring a touch in goal, 3 rouses and 3 tries and bringing their final score up to 24 points. Bain, the Trinity quarter, was always on the ball and his passing was very accurate. Tremayne, Chadwick and Reid made several effective rushes.

Kicked by a Horse. About eleven o'clock Thursday night before retiring, Mrs. Emmons, Mrs. Blackburn and other members of the family, of Concession, went to the stable to see if the horse was all right. Mrs. Emmons went into the stall to give the animal a pail of water, when he viciously attacked her. The unfortunate lady was knocked down and the infuriated animal trampled and struck her with its front feet. The lady managed to crawl under the manger, and then the horse attempted to bite her. A gentleman who lives near by came in and managed to quiet the beast and get Mrs. Emmons from her perilous position. She was carried to the house and Dr. Sprague was immediately summoned. It was found she had a deep cut on her face near the ear, her breast is cut and torn, one of her knees badly injured and swollen twice its natural size and she is also injured internally. The doctor does not think there are any bones broken. Her clothes were torn to shreds and her escape from death is miraculous. What the outcome of her injuries will be hard to say at present, but she will be confined to the house for some weeks.

LOCAL AND DISTRICT HAPPENINGS OF THE DAY.

Arrested at Warsaw.
Alexander Ferguson of Warsaw, was arrested on Saturday on the charge of stealing wood from Chas. Calder, of Warsaw. Constable Moore arrested Ferguson at Lakeland, for Ferguson says he bought the wood from a man named Gallagher. He was allowed out on bail.

Largest of the Year.
Saturday's market, despite the drizzling weather, was the largest of the season, so reports Market Clerk Green. Produce and poultry was always brought up at good prices, except butter which took a decline. There was a lively competition in pork selling. A large Thanksgiving market is anticipated on Wednesday. Tuesday will be a live stock day as usual.

Lindsay Hockeyists Organize.
At an enthusiastic meeting of hockey players in Lindsay a strong club was organized with the following officers: President, J. G. Edwards; President, V. H. Simpson; Secretary, R. Richards; Treasurer, F. Kennedy; Hon. member, Geo. Kemp; S. Hulme, F. Shannon, Phil Kennedy. It is probable that the club will seek admission to the league.

Decks and Bookcases.
A large assortment of secretaries and bookcases. A splendid line of all racks, no end of parlor furniture, the latest line of bedroom furniture ever offered. See our pictures—cheaper than ever. The balance of our stock of window shades will be cleared out at cost. All the cheaper lines always in stock. Bedsteads, good chairs, 35c. Springs, mattresses, pillows, etc. A. Government Appointments.
The following appointments have been made recently by the Local Government: Joseph G. Oudham, of Niagara Falls, to be clerk of the Fourth Division Court of Holland, in place of John A. Orchard; Edward J. James, of Caledonia, to be bailiff of the First Division Court of Aldamand, in place of Daniel T. Hind; Edward J. James, of Caledonia, to be bailiff of the First Division Court of Lambton, in place of Robert Miller, resigned.

Death of Mrs. Matchett.
The death of Mrs. Margaret Matchett, widow of the late Alexander Matchett, occurred Friday at the family residence, 18, Con. St., Otonabee, in her 82nd year. The deceased had a large number of friends, having lived in Otonabee for many years. She was the daughter of the late William Stewart, of Otonabee, one of the settlers in the town of Otonabee, who was followed by a son and then a daughter. The snow fell to the depth of three feet on Saturday and the ground was not seen since. People had not taken up their potatoes in some instances they were dug in good condition the following spring. People are not hankering after a return of the good old fashioned winters of this section to any very great extent.

Winters Long Ago.
Speaking of the change that has taken place in the length and severity of the winters in this part of the country, a subscriber informed a Times reporter that 44 years ago there was an exceptionally severe winter in this section. On the 28th of October of the year a heavy rain storm followed by a blizzard, and then snow. The snow fell to the depth of three feet on Saturday and the ground was not seen since. People had not taken up their potatoes in some instances they were dug in good condition the following spring. People are not hankering after a return of the good old fashioned winters of this section to any very great extent.

They Do Not Speak Now.
A near-sighted young man in town recently made a serious blunder which broke his engagement with his best girl. The young lady's family employs a servant, who unfortunately looks like the thoughtless and being aware of the fact endeavor to pass like her mistress as much as possible. When the young man rang the door bell he servant admitted him and mistaking her for the object of his affection he embraced Biddy, much to the disgust of his fiancée, who was watching the proceedings. When he had discovered his mistake he was too far gone to explain, and the lady would give him no chance to explain. Now they don't speak to each other and the servant is paying daily visits to an employment agency in search of a situation.

A Canadian Puma.
Mr. A. E. Kennedy, foreman carpenter at the day to have a case built for the accommodation of a puma, that had just arrived from British Columbia. It is a cub that was caught on the island of Vancouver and arrived here in good order and very much alive as Mr. Kennedy discovered when transferring the varmint to his new abode. The puma, cougar, catamount or panther is one of the largest of the American Felidae, rivalled only by the jaguar. It is sometimes called the American lion, though it is allied more to the leopard. The fur is thick and close and of a reddish brown lighter on the sides, and white on the breast. It has a rather unpleasant penchant for gore and sneaking up a tree to drop down on the back of a person's neck is a little practical joke much affected by this amiable animal. It is said to be easily tamed, and when tame a very gentle creature, purring like a cat, and showing equal love of attention. Mr. Kennedy is of opinion that the latter assertion is all fudge, at any rate his taste for putting gentle creatures does not run in the direction of young pumas with claws like patent bay forks.

Thanksgiving Commemorations.
Why is a wealthy lady of fashion like a Thanksgiving turkey? Because she must have a dressing maid (made).
What flower make a nice pickle for a Thanksgiving dinner? Cauliflowers.
When is an owl like a Thanksgiving turkey? When it is stuffed.

What part of a Constantinople house is generally seen upon a Thanksgiving dinner table? A Turk key.
Why is a new dress in the hands of a dressmaker like a Thanksgiving turkey? Because it must be cut and basted.
When is a turkey like rich embroidery? When it is a gobbler (gobblin).

Blood was Impure.
"For a long time I was troubled with scrofula and impure blood. About a year ago I lost my arm and my blood was in such a condition that the wound would not heal and friends recommended Hood's Sarsaparilla and I used three bottles and I am well. I recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla to all affected as I was." Daniel Robinson, 834 Trevelyan street, Toronto, Ont.

HOOD'S PILLS cure biliousness.

To Plunder the Store of Mr. George Carton Monday Night.

A WINDOW WAS BROKEN

AND THE WOULD-BE BURGLARS OPENED THE DOOR—THE POLICE FRUSTRATE THE BOLD ATTEMPT—A CLUE.

A bold attempt to rob the wholesale grocery store of Mr. George Carton was frustrated Monday night by the vigilance of the police.

Between 11 and 12 o'clock people living in the neighborhood heard a loud crash of breaking glass, but paid no attention to it. Later on the police discovered that a large plate glass on the Charlotte side of the store had been broken in, and the burglars had effected an opening through this entrance and opened the door on Charlotte street. The alarm was given by a George street merchant. The police immediately responded and made a thorough search of Mr. Carton's premises. The thieves, however, were not in the store, but were waiting on the outside until the coast was clear.

Mr. Carton was sent for and informed of the evident attempt to rob him. He stated that the door had been securely locked last evening. The police kept a sharp lookout during the balance of the night and this morning, but the would-be burglars did not make an appearance.

For some days a suspicious gang of men of the tramp species have been hanging around the town. The police believe they are the guilty parties, and arrests may follow today.

The attempt to rob Mr. Carton's store was evidently the work of tramps. On Saturday and Sunday nights no less than eleven tramps were sheltered at the police station. There are a great many of the tramp genus hanging around the town. Last night's attempt at robbery may be well attributed to them.

FORESTERS ARE HOT

Over the Way Oronhyatekha et al Are Engineering a Concert.

The criticism of members in the ranks, which has enlarged somewhat freely on the extravagance of the Executive Council of the Independent Order of Foresters, has been revived by the recent action of that body in engaging a number of expensive artists for a concert in Massey hall tomorrow evening, says the Toronto News. The representatives of subordinate courts are extremely disgruntled over the affair and have no hesitation in speaking their minds freely upon the matter.

The story is that the Supreme officers put their heads together some three weeks ago and decided to have a grand concert which should tickle the musical tastes of the National Fraternal Congress, which is to assemble here this week. It was presumed that all the members of the congress had music in their souls, and after hearing such artists as Lachapelle and Vincent Hotel, and J. R. Thomson, would be inclined to look kindly upon Forester candidates for office in the National Fraternal Congress.

The Supreme officers, with Oronhyatekha and McGillivray at their head, engaged the talent, originally, it is said, for $200. Subsequently the contract was modified to read $300 and a percentage of the gross receipts. This by no means represented the whole outlay, for under the contract the Independent Order of Foresters assumed all expenses such as advertising, rent of hall, etc. The total expenditure for the little musical evening, say the Foresters, will be nothing short of six hundred dollars.

Having engaged the artists and signed the contract, the Supreme Executive body called a meeting and appointed a committee to take charge of the concert and push it along in the subordinate lodges. The scheme was received coldly by the representatives and no doubt their efforts were lukewarm. Although this meeting was called ten days ago, the efforts of the Foresters seem not to have been successful.

For on Saturday a circular was sent out by the Supreme body to the 1,500 Foresters in Toronto soliciting their attendance and enclosing complimentary tickets, which were also sent to the members of the National Fraternal Congress. Foresters all over the country are figuring the matter out. In the city the members have some cause for their indignation in the form of complimentary tickets, but in the country, where the tickets failed to circulate, there is nothing to prevent free discussion. The members fail to see what profit can accrue to the Forester body as a whole by paying out $300 from the general fund for a concert which only interest a small portion.

Dr. Oronhyatekha, it is said is a candidate for the presidency of the National Fraternal Congress and thirty members, who shudder as they mention his $10,000 salary as supreme head of the order, object strongly to $300 extra expense to gratify his thirst for office in other societies.

HER NECK WAS BROKEN.

Mrs. Blanchard was Frightened Because Her Husband Speeded His Horse.

A despatch from Belleville says Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Blanchard, of the Indian reserve at Trenbears, were driving home along the Kingston road Saturday evening. Mr. Blanchard was speeding his team with another man, when Mrs. Blanchard, becoming frightened, seized one of the reins, causing the animals to go into a ditch. The vehicle struck a large stone and the force threw Mrs. Blanchard out. One of the wheels passed over her head, breaking her neck, causing instant death. The deceased was 45 years of age, and was a daughter of Chief Brant, of the reserve. In addition to her husband she leaves a daughter 15 years of age.

CAUGHT IN THE ACT.

between Antrim and Smith streets, armed herself with a revolver on Friday night, and followed her husband to a house on Edinburgh street. He entered the house and she followed a few minutes later, to find him in company with another woman. When thus caught, Mr. Meharry resorted to tears, but they didn't plaze on his strong minded wife. She told him she had caught him this time, and then went outside to get a witness to the fact. Mr. Meharry objected to a third party witnessing his discomfiture and proceeded to leave the house. He reached the sidewalk and tried to pass his wife, but she drew out the revolver and pulled the trigger. Meharry was not struck by the bullet, but he was by his wife's contorted manner and so he did just as she said. Mrs. Meharry only fired off the revolver to scare her husband, so she says.

The other woman in the case was Agnes Murray. Agnes is a recent importation, but just where she hails from is not known. She told one person she came from Cobourg and another from Owen Sound. Mrs. Meharry got onto the racket through a photograph which Meharry had in his possession and also by remarks he let drop from time to time. She disguised herself on Friday night and played the role of a detective with great success.

Meharry has shown every sign of repentance, and his wife has forgiven him and they are once more happy. It is not likely the police will do anything in the matter.

Another team who have exhibited considerable ability to push a wheel "built for two" are Willie McIntosh and Sam Gibbons. They rode together at Peterborough and 19 hours, beating the best time will belong the honor of making a new set of tandem figures.

The New York horse show closed in a blaze of glory on Saturday. The attendance has broken all records, and the receipts are far ahead of any previous year.

R. D. Blakelee, the long distance bicycle rider, arrived at San Francisco at midnight having covered the entire distance between Chicago and San Francisco in 17 days and 19 hours, beating the best previous record by 23 hours.

POGUE IN COURT.
This Time He is Called Upon to Pay an Old Fine.

In the police court Monday morning Charles Pogue and F. Eastland were charged with disorderly conduct. The scene of the occurrence was the Little Windsor Hotel, and it was proven that Pogue used very insulting language to Eastland on Thursday night. Both men were found guilty and fined $5 each. In February last Pogue was fined $5 and cost for fighting. He did not pay the fine and a distress warrant was issued but it returned and a warrant of commitment followed. The Magistrate allowed Pogue to go with fines from the latter that he would keep quiet in the future. This warrant of commitment was in the Magistrate's desk Monday morning, as the Magistrate told Pogue that he would bring the paper into use should he transgress again. As a result Pogue had to pay the old fine amounting with costs to $10. Pogue paid both fines, $20.00, and Eastland settled his account also.

HAVE YOU HEARD THEM BEFORE

A Peterborough man calls his wife Misery because she likes company.

It is hard to believe that a man is telling the truth when you know you would lie where you in his place.

"A word to the wise is sufficient."
Is a maxim we frequently heard;
And now what we want is a maxim
To tell us just what is that word.

"Augh-Waugh!"
It was the baby. He had repeated the remark thirty times in the last hour.

Mr. Newleigh's hair, such as it was, stood on end.

"Glow awah worldfog diwaugh!" added the baby, while people living across the street got up and closed their windows.

Mr. Newleigh ground his teeth. "To think," he groaned, burying his face in the pillows, "that I should live to be the father of a railway porter!"

The Frame Of An Unknown Man Found Near Omeme.

NOT IDENTIFIED YET.

SOME MONTHS AGO AN INDIAN MYSTERIOUSLY DISAPPEARED—IS THIS THE REMAINS—DR. GILES' OPINION.

The quaint little village of Omeme is greatly excited. Many people residing within the corporate limit of that town believe that evidences of a foul murder have been brought to light, and consequently excitement runs rife.

The cause of this stirring up of the village is due to a discovery made on Saturday by George English, a resident of Omeme, who while hunting on the shores of Lake Kookawong, discovered a skeleton in the water.

The body, or rather the framework of bones of what had once been the body of a man about five feet six or eight inches in height, was found lying in the water by English on Saturday afternoon. Coroner Giles examined the body, and was of the opinion it had been in the water for several months, as it was almost entirely denuded of clothing, and they appeared to be of the material and once the color of the uniforms worn by the regular army soldiers. A regulation United States army button was still clinging to one of the shreds of clothing. French toed buttoned boots were still upon the feet.

The dead man's identity is not likely soon to be cleared up, as no other clue could be discovered. Coroner Giles had the remains viewed by residents along the shore who could be formed into a jury, if it was later deemed necessary, and dispensed with an inquest for the present at least. The body will be buried today.

The only solution to the mystery is this: On inquiry it was found that in June last a Frenchman employed by Mr. Oglestone suddenly disappeared, his empty boat being found, and there is no doubt that the remains are his. Dr. Giles, the coroner, has not called an inquest.

TWO BURNED TO DEATH.

A Fatal Fire at Rathburn, on the Central Ontario Railway.

A despatch from Marmora says: The hotel belonging to Wm. Stanlick, of Rathburn was consumed by fire about midnight. Two persons, whose names have not been learned, were burned to death, and Mr. Stanlick and his wife barely escaped the same fate. Seven hundred dollars in cash, beside the building and contents, were consumed. The loss was partially covered by insurance. Rathburn is a village on the Central Ontario railway.

Dear Sir:—We think we ought to acknowledge in some way that may become public, the very great benefit our daughter has derived from the use of your Electro-Curative Belts, and your application of Electricity in the Bath and from Dry Treatment: When we brought her to you she was a picture of unhealthiness, her limbs were shriveled up, and as thin as limbs could be; she had no strength even to play with other children, in fact she was dying of consumption. Besides this, there was a hard lump on her spine at the nape of her neck, which caused her neck to be so stiff she could not move her head. Although it is only three months since we brought her to you she is sound and well.

THE TRIAL CONTINUES

An Effort Will Be Made to Secure Mrs. Hyams' Testimony.

SHE IS AT PRESENT ILL.

THE JURY VERY MUCH REFRESHED AFTER THEIR SUNDAY REST — THE ADMISSION OF SMOKE'S EVIDENCE DISCUSSED.

Special to The Times.

TORONTO, Nov. 18.—When the trial of the two brothers who are on trial for the murder of Willie Wells entered the court on this the 18th day of their trial they were dressed with scrupulous neatness as if a careful housewife had starched their linen and brushed the dust from their clothes. If they felt the shadow of the gallows resting on them they did not show it. The jury also looked considerably refreshed after their Sunday rest. As Justice Ferguson remarked on Saturday they are "settling used to the trial" now, and are expected to stand without much strain the next fortnight or three weeks which the case will last.

It is not probable that any further attempts will be made to continue the sessions after 5 o'clock. Four efforts in this direction on as many days last week proved abortive. First the Judge had an engagement that particular night, then the court reporter's eyes went back on him. Next a jurymen was taken sick, finally the witness who was required had some home in the belief that five o'clock was the hour of adjournment. "The clock seems to run down at 5 o'clock," remarked his Lordship, and everybody laughed, including the prisoners.

THAT MURDERER SIGNATURE. As soon as the court opened his Lordship said he would like to know about that last alleged exhibit, the signature of Mr. McPherson.

Mr. Oiler replied that he did not put it in as an exhibit. He simply identified the piece of paper that was all.

CLIENT AND SOLICITOR. Then Mr. Oiler spoke with reference to the admissibility of the testimony of Burrier S. C. Smoke, the solicitor of Martha Wells.

Mr. Smoke explained, when called on Saturday, it will be recollected, that Mrs. Hyams had requested him not to give evidence at this trial. Prior to the first trial she had written him waiving her privilege as a client and granting him permission to testify. This he did, Mr. Oiler claimed that the waiving of the privilege in writing did away with the privilege for all time. The fact of the client going into the box and testifying also did away with the privilege of her solicitor for ever. He cited the case of McKisney vs. The Grand Street Railway Company in support of his contention, and handed to his Lordship the letter written by Mrs. Hyams prior to the last trial granting Mr. Smoke permission to appear as a witness.

WANTS AN AUTHORITY. "I may say, Mr. Oiler," said his Lordship, "unless you cite an authority to me where I am bound to do it, I will not grant permission for Mr. Smoke to testify. Or rather I should say if there is a case cited which is analogous on all points, even in a foreign jurisdiction, I would take it as a guide."

Mr. Oiler, after explaining that there was no Canadian or English precedent, cited cases in the New York and the Nevada courts.

His Lordship—"You are asking for something which has never before been done in the realm so far known."

Then Mr. Oiler explained that while he claimed that the privilege was waived still his contention was that the evidence which it was proposed to bring out by Mr. Smoke's testimony was not privileged at all. What is in dispute is the law is a private communication between solicitor and client. The communication he proposed to put in as a communication made by prisoner to a solicitor of whom he was not a client.

"Then," said his Lordship, "if you claim it was not privileged, what is the use of raising the question of privilege at all, then?"

Mr. Oiler explained that he took the broad ground that if there was any privilege it was waived by the letter, and his second contention was that it was not privileged.

Mr. Oiler then proceeded to give his Lordship a synopsis of the evidence proposed to be introduced.

Counsel for defence objected unless the jury retired.

HIS LORDSHIP'S STRONG REMARKS. Then his Lordship made this remark: "I am very strongly of the opinion that the Crown should make out its case against these men without straining after evidence which rests on doubtful ground."

After further argument, his Lordship said he would read the evidence and give his decision later, but his mind at present was against receiving evidence resulting from the consequences of a communication which would not itself be receivable.

"When this case is done," added his Lordship, "there will be no necessity of rulings by any judge. There will be no points left."

MRS. HYAMS TOO ILL. WHY HARRY'S WIFE CANNOT TESTIFY AT THIS TRIAL.

Then Dr. Temple was put in the box, and testified that Mrs. Martha Hyams, formerly Martha Wells, was in his private hospital.

Mr. Oiler—"Is she in a state of health to enable her to come to this court to be examined and cross examined?" A—"I think not."

"Is that condition of affairs likely to last some time or will she be able to attend at a late date during this trial?" A—"I think not."

Then Mr. Oiler said that he proposed to make application at a later date for the admission of Mrs. Hyams' evidence given at the first trial.

Counsel for the defence called incredulously.

"At the previous trial, not at the Police Court?" asked his Lordship.

"Yes," replied Mr. Oiler.

"Have you any more points lying away anywhere?" asked his Lordship, smiling.

"Yes, your Lordship, a few more" said the Crown counsel.

"Well, I guess I'll have to get somebody to do the ruling," said his Lordship.

Mr. Oiler—"I have to present them, your Lordship, I have to give the case as it arises. It is not my choice."

PLACING THE INSURANCE. HOW THE $30,000 POLICY CAME TO BE TAKEN OUT.

George Grundy, general agent of the New York Life Insurance Co. in 1861, identified the application and policy for $30,000 placed in his company on Willie Wells' life, and the receipts given by Martha Wells on March 8, for the cheque for $28,880 covering the $1,000 and $28,000 policies on Wells' life, less the first years premiums.

Mr. Oiler—"With Wells' age at 22, when the policy was taken and Harry Hyams age 18 what would be the difference on the annual premium?"

THE EXPLANATION. The explanation made by Wells by the twins was that Willie, being younger, the premiums would be much less than on Harry, hence their willingness to pay Wells $2,300 for the loan of his life for five years. Mr. Oiler proposed to show by the witness just how much less the premium would be.

Defence again objected to the question being answered and another discussion ensued ending as usual in the favor of the defence and the question went unanswered.

There were representations made at the time the insurance was placed that Dallas had $30,000 insurance in the New York Life Co. "Is that correct?" Mr. Oiler asked the witness.

But this time the Crown scored, and Mr. Grundy said that Dallas had but $5,000 and this was only taken out on August 30, 1862, six weeks previously. On December 3, 1862, continued the witness, Dallas made an application for $30,000, and on January 7, 1863, he made another application, which was received January 24, for $25,000. Still another for $10,000 is dated July 21, 1864. All the policies, totalling $50,000, were made payable to Clara, wife of Dallas Hyams.

Witness replied that he could not speak authoritatively, and this question will be put to another witness later on.

Mr. Oiler—"What is the expectation of life at 27?" asked Mr. Oiler.

Mr. Lount objected, and the question remained unanswered.

HE CANVASED WELLS. Then the defence took Mr. Grundy in hand. Witness said he canvased Wells independently of the prisoners in 1862 and obtained from him the first risk of $1,000. In August he again saw Wells several times with respect to additional insurance. Neither of the prisoners ever spoke to him about placing the $30,000 on Wells' life subsequently. When he went to 11 King street west to place the premium Aylesworth said "what will you give me for a $30,000 risk?"

Grundy replied "Oh, 10 per cent."

There's your man," said Aylesworth, pointing to Wells.

Grundy there and then filled up the application. The general manager having questioned the ability of the deceased to carry so large a policy, witness saw Wells and the latter assured him that he could carry the policy, that things were not always as they appeared, that he had a farm at Pickering and was in receipt of an income from a small estate left by his father in Somersetshire, England. After these enquiries the policy was issued. The whole transaction was conducted with Wells and Aylesworth and without any reference to the Hyamses whatever.

Grundy represented to Wells that if he continued to pay on his $30,000 policy for 20 years he would get $40,000, and the company's estimate of profits or if he allowed the policy to remain after the 20 years he could take out a policy for $117,000, payable at death, or could take out an annuity of $3,160 per year.

Then as a result of Mr. Johnston's cross-examination, Mr. Oiler attempted to get in the question previously ruled out as to the natural duration of the life of a risk of 22 years of age.

WAS THE ENQUIRY PERTINENT? Once more a lively argument ensued.

"Do you owe the Hyams any money, Mr. Grundy?" suddenly asked Mr. Oiler.

Then all six of the defence counsel jumped to their feet in protestation.

Mr. Oiler claimed he had a right to ask the question. He proposed to ask this witness if he got any money from the prisoners since the putting on of this insurance. "I propose to show," said the counsel, "that this witness has been utilized by the defence. I propose to show that he is a hostile witness, as is my right."

Continuing, he said witness had been put in by the defence to prove other matters not necessarily arising from the direct examination, and he proposed to show that Grundy is interested in making a statement to the defence.

Mr. Johnston denied that he had gone into anything not covered by the examination in chief.

After further argument Mr. Oiler interposed witness as to the value of the policy at the expiration of five years with a view of showing that the surrender value of the policy was not worth the $2,500 which Harry Hyams agreed to pay Willie Wells for the loan of his life for that period.

The sudden falling of a spectator in a fit brought the court to an adjournment at 1.25 without the question being answered.

OWN SOUND'S SENSATION. Post Mortem on the Remains of the Barnardo Boy at Big Bay.

Special to The Times.

OWN SOUND, Nov. 18.—The body of the Barnardo Boy Green was exhumed Saturday and a post mortem showed that there was no organic disease and the organs were all perfectly sound and healthy. The brain was normal, the stomach empty and the body very emaciated, with several sores on it.

A large number of witnesses have been subpoenaed for the investigation, but every one expresses wonder that the neighbors of Miss Findlay never complained if such dreadful cruelty, as is alleged, has been going on for months. Miss Findlay has always borne a good character, and immediately came and surrendered to the police when she heard she was wanted.

OVER $1,000 IN THE SAFE. But the Burglars Were Scared Off and Did Not Reach It.

Special to The Times.

COMBER, Ont., Nov. 18.—Burglars entered C. W. Watson's banking office on Saturday night by cutting the glass in the door and removing the fastenings. They had commenced to drill the door of the safe but did not finish it, having evidently been frightened off. There was over $1,000 in the safe.

PEACE REIGNS.

The Land-Holders of Lowe Will Pay Their Taxes At Once.

MILITIA ON THE SCENE.

THE OTTAWA SOGER BOYS ON THE SPOT — 'TENTING TONIGHT' — WASTES THE STAG CREEK HEARD.

Special to The Times.

OWE, Que., Nov. 17. The arrival at noon today of the body of militia from Ottawa lent the first real aspect of seriousness to the whole business of tax gathering under duress.

The military attempt made by the county officials on Thursday, the retreat and subsequent inaction of Friday and Saturday so detracted from the seriousness of the situation in the eyes of the St. Charles delinquents that the advent of the military is rendered doubly impressive.

THE TROOPS ARRIVE. The train bearing the troops arrived at noon, having taken nearly three hours to make the journey, for during the latter part of the run precautions were taken befitting a descent upon hostile territory.

During Saturday stories were bandied about of plans to demolish the barracks and dynamite the bridges along the route, but it is doubtful if these were even seriously meant; there was certainly no basis for their circulation. As a matter of fact, the unexpected arrival of the troops and the delinquents and their chief concern seemed to be for a settlement.

OFFERS OF SETTLEMENT. Several deputations have arrived at the police headquarters during the afternoon of Saturday. There were old heads with them whose counsel had evidently brought about the disposition to capitulate. But their notions of what constituted a fair arrangement were such as could not be entertained. The best that they suggested was that all arrears should be wiped out, and they henceforth would pay the taxes regularly. This they seemed to have performed without fail. County Treasurer Desjardins could listen to no such proposition, and all went home disappointed, but with no threat of retaliation or determination to resist.

THE FORCE. The force consists of 75 picked men from the 43rd Rifle, 23 from the Ottawa Field Battery and 20 from the Princess Louise Dragoon Guards. Lieut.-Col. the Hon. M. Aylmer commands the contingent, and Capt. Rogers, 43rd, is Acting Brigade Adjutant. The staff officers are Lieut. Col. MacDonald, supply officer; Capt. Sutherland, brigade quartermaster; Lt. Col. Wright commands the infantry, his officers are Lieut. Col. Boyd and Major MacBlair in command of the mounted men. Dragoons and Battery who are divided into "A" and "B" troops, under Lieut. Eaton and Col. Klock.

THE BOYS IN CAMP. The camp ground, a level bit of stubble ground on Oscar Brook's farm, adjoining the police headquarters at the Brook's hotel, was reached by a detour of nearly two miles as the station in situated some distance back from the high road crossing. For a "composite" force the men performed the work of debarkation and bivouac in remarkably short time. By 10 o'clock the camp ground presented quite an orderly appearance. Thirty snow white pyramids dotted the clayey field, its sticky surface appearing uncomfortably to the boots of the officers and men as they bustled about camp organization, and the collection of fire branches wherewith to make their bivouac tenable for the night.

A RAIN SHOWER. It was rather a dreary prospect through for a stiff shower of rain soon drenched the newly-staked canvas, and obliged the workers to don their great coats. Later in the evening it cleared up to the intense relief of the soldiers. To the newspaper reporters, and the whistle of the camp the process was one of evident interest. The spirit prevailing the demonstration seemed to have a reassuring effect upon these well paid soldiers. It particularly remarked the satisfaction which lighted the countenance of the proprietor of the field as Lt.-Col. Aylmer cautioned an officer to see that his men were not unnecessarily digging such unnecessary deep trenches and spilling the field. The commanding officer was sufficient of a farmer to note that the field had been seeded down to grass and that the camp was all in order, tents well littered, blankets unstrapped and a savory bouillon stewing over a fire of pine knots. The forethought of Supply Officer Col. MacDonald had provided liberally for the men and their mounts while tent-pitching was still in progress.

DRUMMING UP THE TAXPAYERS. A double rig was despatched up country under escort of a dozen mounted artillery men. In the wagon were Rev. Father Foley of Farrelton, to whose parish belongs the Stag Creek delinquents, or kickers, as they are now called, the men who have practically brought all the business of the county to a standstill. The other occupants of the rig were County Solicitor Major, Sgt. Patry, of the police, and Magistrate Wm. Farrell. The latter and the priest had been despatched by the county to convene a gathering of all the taxpayers of the township and endeavor to avert further trouble; in other words, to effect an honorable capitulation. The party named accordingly repaired to the North Lowe church to enlist the sympathies of Rev. Father Blondin, the idea being to have a meeting of all the taxpayers tomorrow here at Brook's, whereas a provincial council of seven shall be elected, this temporary re-organization to be subject to the approval of the authorities.

TODAY'S MEETING. Still they will in all probability attend tomorrow's meeting, upon which depends the outcome of the present demonstration. Should it terminate in an arrangement whereby arrears will be paid and guarantees given for settlement of all costs, the volunteers will probably on Tuesday morning be chorusing "Home, Sweet Home."

with the same hearty chorus in which they are at this moment singing "Testing Tonight" by their blaring camp fire, amid the echoing hills.

OFF TO THE FRONT. DEPARTURE OF OTTAWA'S FIGHTERS FOR THE SCENE OF THE TROUBLE.

A ready response was made on Saturday by the members of the 43rd Battalion, P. L. D. G. and Ottawa Field Battery to the call to arms for the purpose of assisting in the enforcement of the civil law in Lowe Township. Uniforms were promptly donned, and early in the evening a large number of soldiers were lined up in the drill hall, ready to volunteer their services, each man being anxious to be among the chosen number. About 100 members of the 43rd Battalion were on hand, while the other corps called upon were largely represented.

THE ORDERS. The official orders issued by the commander of the district, read as follows: Orders by Lt. Col. Hon. M. Aylmer, commanding military district No. 4, on the occasion of being called upon to assist the civil authorities in the township of Lowe, county of Ottawa, P.Q.

Twenty-one N.C.O.s and men and 21 horses of the P.L. Dragoon Guards with 40 rounds of ball ammunition per man. One major, two subalterns, one medical officer and one veterinary surgeon, one trumpeter and 21 N.C.O.s and men with 25 horses of the No. 3 Field Battery, with 40 rounds of ammunition per man.

One Lieut. Col. two captains, four subalterns, one quartermaster and 60 N.C.O.s and men, with three buglers, and horses, of the 43rd Battalion, O and C Rifles, with 70 rounds of ball ammunition per man.

The above will entrain at the Gatineau Valley Railway station at Ottawa at 3.30 am., on Sunday, the 17th inst., and proceed to Lowe.

A COUNCIL OF SETTLEMENT. Father Blondin promised his co-operation and so the meeting of tomorrow is regarded as a meeting of settlement, which may avert further conflict. The delinquents and kickers will be given a chance to pay up justice and the people of North Lowe, who have never refused to pay their taxes, will be present by invitation, if they come at all. Their position is that they have been formally served with notices of their present judgment indebtedness, and that so soon as such notice is served upon them they will immediately pay. There can be no seizure in this case, the present fuss arising altogether over the wrongheadedness of the settlers of Stag Creek or South Lowe. Indeed, at the meeting Saturday night of some of the leaders of industry in North Lowe, only one raised his voice against paying his taxes upon the first demand.

COST $200 A DAY. AND THE COUNTY OF OTTAWA WENT FOOT THE BILL.

The military authorities had under consideration on Saturday the requisition presented by an arrangement of the Peace of Ottawa County, asking for a detachment of militia to be detailed to assist the civil power in collecting the arrears of taxes owing by the settlers of Lowe Township. The law provided that when the militia are called out in aid of the civil power, the expense of maintenance, transport, etc., of the troops must be borne by the municipality invoking the assistance, which, in this case, will be the County of Ottawa.

Before taking any action upon the requisition, Col. Aylmer, commanding this district, sent for County Solicitor Major, and asked him whether the county officials understood they would be responsible for the cost of the proposed expedition, which would reach at least $200 a day. Mr. Major admitted the County's responsibility, and pressed for assistance from the Department. Thereupon, the requisition having been found perfectly regular, the detail to the force was issued.

IT IS ALL OVER. FIXED PAYMENTS AS A CONVINCING ARGUMENT HAVE THE DESIRED EFFECT.

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 18.—The rebellion among the Township of Lowe's taxpayers is at an end. By 10 o'clock this morning the delinquents were on hand early to pay back taxes, and the Ottawa county treasurer is handling the money as fast as he can. He has asked the presence of the troops had the desired effect. There is a possibility of a few kickers refusing, but should they resist seizure they will be arrested on the spot. It is not expected the farmers of that district will ever fall in arrears again.

EXPENSES OF A DINING CAR.

Costly Service Maintained For the Convenience of Travelers.

A modern dining car of the most approved pattern costs $15,000 to build. Next come the kitchen utensils, the table furniture, the silverware and linen, averaging about $8,000 worth to a car. Each car must have a steward, who usually gets $100 a month, and a head cook, who values himself at $75 a month. There must also be one or two assistant cooks and three or four waiters. Three hundred dollars a month is the very smallest outlay for wages, while the cost of raw food material, breaking of dishes and the board of employees is about $8,000 per month additional. An average five days' run costs very nearly $200 for food and service, so that it would take 40 persons at every meal on the run to pay the daily expenses without allowing anything for interest on the investment or for wear and tear on the furnishings. The kitchen of a dining car contains every conceivable strong room. There is a range capable of doing all the boiling, broiling, baking and stewing for hundreds of people, yet occupying comparatively no space at all. There is a board for the carver, a bin and table for the baker and a sink for the dishwasher, with shelves and impenetrable supplies, all in an area of 5 by 15 feet. Most of every inch of space is carefully utilized. Under the car is the collar or refrigerator, where ice, beef, mutton, poultry, milk, butter and other perishable supplies are kept.

The steward, who is in charge of all this, must be a good general. To be sure, the dining car is run on the principle that no money will be made anyway; that one road must run it because a competing road does; that the traveler must therefore have the best in the market for a fair price, and that it is better to throw away unused and spoiling material at the end of a trip than to run out of some necessary on the way. Yet I imagine that the steward who has the lowest average of wasted food stands highest in his employer's regard. The first thing he has to do is to make out the bill of fare for the trip. These must be approved by the head of the commissary department. The chef buys the necessary supplies, but the steward has to turn in an inventory of them at the starting point, and also a statement of what has been used en route and what is left at the end of the run. There is no method of estimating the exact cost of meals that will need to be served during the run, particularly if it be a short one. Suppose it is to be made from Washington to New York. Individual methods of economy are very different. While some prefer to pay $1.25 for the extra comfort of a seat in a parlor car, there are others who think the common coach good enough and prefer to spend their dollar in the dining car. Again, there are some who frequent both parlor and diner, and others who care for neither. For a longer journey every berth in the sleeper may be occupied, and yet the dining car may be practically tenanted, or the sleeper may be nearly empty and the diner full of people from the day coach, or it may be crowded with the occupants of both. As the steward goes through the train on a tour of inspection or in giving his first call for a meal he must note the number of luncheoners and guess from the faces and dress of the passengers how many orders he will have. But even his best judgment will be far out of the way, for the luncheon may be for the next day's light repast, or some of the best dressed passengers may not have decided whether to patronize the dining car or not.—Kate Field's Washington.

How a Fish Breathes.

The gills of a fish are situated at the back part of the sides of the head and consist of a number of vascular membranes, which are generally arranged in double, fringed rows, attached to the parts by the base only. In some cases the membranes are feather shaped, in others mere folds attached to the sides of the gill cavities. The fish is a cold blooded animal—that is to say, its temperature is seldom more than a degree or two higher than the water in which it lives. This being true, the creature needs but a very small amount of oxygen to keep the blood at a temperature sufficiently high to sustain life. This oxygen is supplied to the blood of the fish by respiring large quantities of water, or rather drinking large quantities of water, and respiring the air separated from it by the gills. This explains why a fish cannot live in a tank of water which has been airtight through the gills time and time again any better than a human being or other animal can in air that has been deprived of all its oxygen by being taken to lungs and expelled without being aerated. Fish that die in the stale water of aquariums may be properly said to drown, because they perish for want of air, the same thing which occasions death by drowning in man and other lung-breathing animals.—St. Louis Republic.

The Order of the Garter.

An evening journal, in a dissertation on the Order of the Garter, states that it consists of 85 ordinary knights and 85 extra knights, which is quite wrong. There is no fixed number of extra knights, who are all royal personages, and there were only six of them when the queen's reign commenced, whereas there are now 33. During the last two financial years £1,300 has been paid by the public to the dean and chapter of Windsor and to the Garter officers in respect of fees and expenses in connection with the creation of three extra knights. In all other countries such payments are made by the new knights themselves, but here the taxpayers find the money, and last year the lord chamberlain received £2,800 to provide and repair insignia of the various orders of knighthood.—London Truth.

Last Letter of Emin Pasha.

Sir William Flower has communicated to the Zoological society some posthumous tidings of Emin Pasha. This was a letter which never arrived in England at all, having been lost at the time of Emin's murder. The letter and the journal—principally relating to observations upon birds—which accompanied it were written in a fine and minute hand, like copper-plate engraving. The letter had the additional and melancholy interest of being perhaps the last that Emin Pasha wrote. He was in constant correspondence with the president of the Zoological society about matters of zoological interest and always wrote in English, of which apparently he knew nothing until he went to Africa.—New York Times.

Little Ethel—I guess she likes cold weather 'cause w'en she breathes on her spectacles they gets wet enough to wipe.—Good News.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

IS IT MURDER?

THE BODY OF JAS. BROWN FOUND AT LAST.

He Disappeared From Hastings Several Weeks Ago—His Body Hauled out of the Trent River—Some Talk of Foul Play.

As published in THE TIMES two weeks ago, a man named John Brown, who resided two miles south of Hastings, mysteriously disappeared on the night of October 28th, while under the influence of liquor.

The unfortunate man had been in the habit of absenting himself from home for two weeks at a time, therefore, when he did not arrive home on the night in question his wife felt no uneasiness about him, but on the second day of his disappearance some talk of foul play was circulated and suspicion being thus aroused, a search was instituted in the neighborhood of the bridge in Percy township, which he had been seen crossing at 12 o'clock on the night of October 28th. On no trace of the missing man being found by the following Sunday, the interest of the general public was aroused and organized parties searched the mill pond and every inch of ground between the deceased's home and Hastings but without success.

A so-called second-sight woman, living near the village of Marmora, was consulted and she asserted that the body of Brown would be undoubtedly found lying in the woods, directing the searchers by the nearest minute details of the spot at which the missing man would be located. The prophetess, however, proved to be at fault, and she joined in the search which was diligently continued all through Sunday and Monday, but still no trace of the missing man could be discovered.

On Tuesday morning at ten o'clock, while some saw logs were being removed from the Trent river by Fowd's mill hands, the body was dislodged from amongst the logs in which it had become entangled. Coroner McNeill, of Cobourg, was immediately summoned and he considered the suspicious of foul play sufficient to warrant him in holding an inquest; he therefore empaneled a jury and proceeded with the investigation.

Mr. Frank Kerr, of Peterborough, will conduct the case for the Crown; he left for Hastings yesterday morning.

Weak Links.

When the kidneys are weak, or overworked, various kinds of ailments are sure to slip past them.

Sickness of some kind is sure to result. The kidneys are filters and their work is to keep poisons out of the circulation. The sickness will depend on the nature of the poison—it may be Malaria or Typhoid fever, or something else.

People with weak kidneys can escape effects by aiding these organs by kidney treatment.

People are coming to understand this truth. It explains why Dodd's Kidney Pills though only a kidney medicine set people right, and they set well.

It is all because they go straight to the cause which shows itself first in the weak link.

When you are sick use Dodd's Kidney Pills for they always cure.

WITH THE ODDFELLOWS.

Otonabee Lodge I. O. O. F. Visited by Their Lindsay Brethren.

The Otonabee Lodge I. O. O. F. were visited by their Lindsay brethren last night, and also several of the fraternity from Manilla. The visiting members were met by the 5th Battalion Band at the Grand Trunk station, where they arrived in a special coach at 8:30. They were escorted along Charlotte street and up George to the handsome Oddfellows' hall, the procession headed by the band playing in their customary excellent style.

The lodge was formally opened at 9 o'clock by the Otonabee officers, after which the lodge was placed in the hands of the Lindsay brethren, with D. Chambers, N.G., in the chair, and R. S. Johnston officiating as vice, and W. R. Wilkes in the P. G. chair. On the officers vacating their seats the degree team exemplified the initiatory degree in a strikingly impressive manner, such as has never before been witnessed in Peterborough. The team was in charge of Capt. J. A. McGary, P.G.'s of Lindsay, G. C. Reid, P.G. of Little Britain Lodge and A. Reid, P.G. of Bobcaygeon lodge.

The efforts of the visitors were enthusiastically received by the Peterborough and Otonabee lodges, several P. G.'s of which delivered short and appropriate speeches of an exceedingly complimentary nature to their Lindsay brethren.

At the close of the lodge the company adjourned to the large and commodious dining hall, where an oyster supper was served by Mr. W. J. Watt, a member of Otonabee lodge. After supper toasts and songs were indulged in till the early hours of the morning, when the members dispersed, the guests highly delighted with their reception, and the entertainers loud in their praise of the exceptional exemplification of the initiatory degree to which they had been treated.

INDIAN GAMBLERS.

ALWAYS READY TO RISK THEIR ALL IN A GAME OF CHANCE.

Sometimes Whole Villages Are Imported by a Stroke of Bad Luck—They Rely Upon Chance and Their Ability to Cheat—They Are Good Losers.

As eagerly as a duck flops into the water does an Indian jump into a game of chance. Unbendingly he believes in luck and perhaps the natural devilry of the race makes Indians inveterate gamblers. There is nothing in an Indian's possession that he will not readily wager on a game of chance. Nearly every noble red man is the possessor of an individual charm or fetich which enables him to do things that other Indians cannot do. This fetich is of value exclusively to the owner, and according to their belief would be of no use or advantage to any other Indian. No person besides the possessor knows what the fetich is and were it to become known it would immediately lose its power for good. No Indian will knowingly steal another Indian's fetich. Such theft vitiates the power of the thief's fetich and casts over him a hoodoo.

Having full faith in the ability of his charm to bring luck to him, the Indian never fails to place the stands in the balance when there is a bet on. If he loses, he takes it philosophically and attributes his bad luck to the greater power of his adversary's charm. If he wins, he has added faith in the power of his own charm. Indians have been known to wager all immediately possessors for good. No Indian will knowingly steal another Indian's fetich. Such theft vitiates the power of the thief's fetich and casts over him a hoodoo.

Gambling is not a secret vice among the Indians. It is indulged in by all the members of the tribe, and the more expert the gambler the more the tribe esteem him. To have the fame of being a successful gambler causes an Indian to look up to almost as much as if he were a successful warrior. There is no fear of shocking the morals of even the highest chief by proposing a game with him—in fact, the invitation is given him. One point of advantage held by the red man over his white brother is in the fact that when he loses everything he possesses he is not much poorer than he was before, and he can readily recoup himself by making a raid upon some unfortunate white settler or upon a weaker tribe. The white man may commit suicide, but the Indian simply looks for a victim and seldom fails to find him.

Before the government tightened the moral lines on the Indians professional Indian gamblers were plentiful. Of late years their number has decreased rapidly. The most famous Indian gambler of today is Quelpah, a Comanche. His game is monte. He is about 30 years old, tall and straight, with a thin, narrow face. His eyes are sunken like those of a consumptive. He never smiles and seldom speaks. Like all Indian gamblers, his dress is rich in bright colors. He usually rides a white pony and is attended by two Apache Indians, both famous for deeds of prowess. He travels from village to village and from tribe to tribe. Everywhere he is well known. When his approach is made known, the Indians wait for him to appear, saving their money to play with him, for it is an Indian maxim that "in the game of Quelpah the play is honest, and the stakes are what you please."

Quelpah once appeared at the Cash creek village. He rode into the village shortly before sundown. One of his companions spread a bright red blanket on the ground. Quelpah knelt before it. As he settled down on his haunches and brought forth a new deck of Mexican money cards, the blanket was surrounded by Indians crouching three and four deep. And behind them stood other Indians eager for an opportunity to play. The long, lean fingers of Quelpah shuffled the cards with marvelous rapidity. The interest in the game waxed as the light waned. Candles were produced as night fell and were fastened in sharp pointed green twigs stuck in the ground.

By their flickering light Quelpah could be seen paying his losses and pocketing his gains. He was both dealer and banker. Behind him on his right and on his left crouched his two Apache fellows. As dawn was breaking Quelpah looked about him. He had stripped all save two Indians. One of them was a heavy winner. Laying down $100 for each of them to cover, Quelpah announced that it was his last bet. The cards fell were thrown and the dice were thrown. Indians laid on the wares. The dealer won. Quelpah pocketed his money. The village, save for the two Indians, was penniless.

Squaws also are inveterate gamblers. It is a common sight to see a dozen squaws, young and old, their papposes around an old shovel, busy over a 10 cent game of monte. Their play is persistent, and many of them are marvelously clever gamblers. But they seldom have money of their own sufficient to play for high stakes.

The peculiarity of Indian gambling games is their intricacy. In several tribes the writer has seen Indians playing games with sticks and stones for hours at a time. Notwithstanding the closest attention he has been unable to discover the system used, nor has he ever met a white man who could explain the game. There are several games of this kind, and among the Pacific coast tribes they are common.

In addition to his faith in his charm the Indian places great dependence on his ability to cheat. To the best cheat as accorded the highest honors when gambling is indulged in. There is never a thought of getting angry over deft tricks or unfair methods so long as the perpetrator is not caught in the act. If he is caught, he refunds his gains and is laughed at for clumsiness.

Since playing cards have become common, games taught by the whites and Mexicans are generally the favorites among the red men. Monte is played for large amounts. Sometimes an Indian with hundreds of dollars will become impoverished in a single evening by trying his luck against a skillful player. An especially deft monte dealer, more skillful even than Quelpah, has been known to go from tribe to tribe in the mountains of New Mexico and return home loaded down with his winnings. Many Mexican gamblers devote almost their entire time to traveling among the various tribes in the Sierras. They win large sums, but lose them again in Mexican cities.—Fort Hill (O. T.) Cor. New York Sun.

THAT SHOOTING AFFAIR.

How the Rumor of a Murder at Norwood Originated.

It was rumored around town on Thursday that a man had been murdered at Norwood by shooting. No particulars of the alleged affair could be gleaned, and in consequence there was much conjecture and speculation until investigation proved the rumor groundless.

The story was started by two impecunious young men in this way. There was a ball held in Hastings on Wednesday night, and they wanted to attend, but lacked the money to pay for a rig. They decided to secure a rig on credit if they could and went to a certain livery stable for that purpose. The proprietor was loathe to hire out his horses for such a journey unless the cash was forthcoming.

Then one of the young men stated that a murder had been committed at Norwood, and he had been sworn in as a constable and was going down to arrest the murderer. This brilliant invention won the proprietor over, and the young men secured the rig.

It didn't take the story long to circulate throughout the town, but very few knew how it originated.

A PRESENTATION.

A Newly Wedded Pair Handsomely Remembered By Friends.

On Thanksgiving night the employees of the George Matthews Packing Co. repaired to the residence of their foreman, Mr. Wm. Green, and presented that gentleman and Mrs. Green with a handsome parlor suite and the following address:

"Dear Sir,—Assembled as we are tonight at your kind invitation, we, your fellow employees of the Geo. Matthews Co., take this opportunity of congratulating you upon the happy event of your marriage and express our best wishes that you and your estimable wife will live long and happy lives.

"And we would remind you that ever since you entered the service of the company, some 12 years ago, you have continuously held and merited our esteem, confidence and good will, and in your capacity of foreman you have ever displayed such knowledge of your work and judgment in performing it, that our duties have been made a pleasure.

"We will ask you to kindly accept this parlor suite as a slight token of the respect and high esteem in which you are held by the employees of the Geo. Matthews Co., and to yourself and Mrs. Green we again extend our very best wishes for a happy and prosperous life.

"Signed on behalf of the employees of the company."

The address was read by Mr. Jackson, and Mr. Green made a happy reply. The evening was most enjoyably spent.

DEATH OF A YOUNG MAN.

One of the Defence Players on the Athletic Lacrosse Team Dead.

At six o'clock yesterday morning the death took place of Mr. Thomas McMahon, son of Mr. John McMahon, Lake street. "Tom," as he was familiarly known among his circle of friends, was an employee of the Canadian Electric Company. He was one of the leading members of the Athletic lacrosse team and was always a hard worker on the field. His illness was caused by hemorrhage of the lungs and his end came unexpectedly, as he was in better health Thursday than for some time. "Tom" was a popular young man. He was of a retiring disposition and was a good hearted fellow. The funeral will take place on Sunday afternoon at 1.30 o'clock to the R. C. cemetery. The employees of the Canadian General Electric Works and the Athletic lacrosse club will attend in a body.

ROLLAS IS A FRAUD.

He is Heading East and May Strike Peterborough.

A few days ago a tall looking individual who called himself "Prof. Rollas," the funniest clown on earth, late of Bell's Bros. circus, distributed to pupils of several city schools handbills announcing that he would furnish an entertainment in Dominion Hall, Queen and Dundas streets, Toronto, at 2.30 on Thanksgiving Day. There were to be 1,000 laughs in 100 minutes; each pupil was to receive a toy or some candy; there was to be a grand pie-eating contest, and the admission was to be 5 and 10 cents. The hour came, the hall was filled and the "professor" announced that the Prof. and Judy show had unexpectedly failed to appear. He would go out to see about it. He went and never returned. The fact dawned on the crowd that they had been swindled, and they gradually left the hall, sadder but wiser. Rollas is heading east and may reach Peterborough.

RICHARDSON RECOMMENDED.

He Will Be the Next Janitor for the Town Buildings.

The Committee on Appointments of the town council met last night and recommended that Isaac Richardson be appointed janitor of the municipal buildings.

A number of applications were considered and that of Mr. Richardson met with the approval of the committee. There is not likely to be any opposition to the appointment.

THE CONVENTION CLOSES.

An Address and Entertainment Last Night—Friday's Session.

The first annual convention of the City Teachers' Association was brought to a successful close by an entertainment last evening in the Y.M.C.A. hall. Mr. J. Coyle Brown, I.P.S., occupied the chair and on the platform were noticed Revs. J. C. Davidson, Symonds, and Mr. J. J. Tilley, Inspector of Model Schools. The spacious hall was packed with a large and attentive audience, which was delighted with the evening's entertainment.

The following was the program presented:

Music.....Y.M.C.A. Quartett
Recitation.....Master Blackwell
Instrumental Duet.....Misses E. Hall and E. Wrighton.
Lecture.....Rev. Mr. Symonds
Subject—"Cheap Literature."
Vocal Solo.....Miss Jones
Recitation.....Miss Patterson
Vocal Solo.....Miss F. Hall
Quartett.....Y.M.C.A.

The lecture by Rev. Mr. Symonds on "Cheap Literature" was a scholarly effort. He dwelt on the importance of cultivating a taste for good literature and of avoiding the cheap and trashy class of literature so abundant everywhere in the present day. At the close of Rev. Mr. Symonds' address, a hearty vote of thanks was tendered him as well as to all those who contributed to the success of the evening's entertainment.

FRIDAY'S SESSION.

The convention was opened on Friday morning for business in the Cent. school by Inspector Wherry. Public School Inspector J. Coyle Brown addressed the teachers on the proper method of teaching reading, a most important subject.

Inspector of Model Schools J. J. Tilley spoke on the "Analysis of Methods," and in the afternoon he conducted reading with classes. Mr. Keogh addressed the convention on the subject of Entrance Composition, and then followed the question drawer, an instructive and interesting feature.

Broke His Collar Bone.

Mr. James Curran, an old Peterborough boy, who has many friends in town, met with a painful accident on Tuesday. He was sawing down a tree when part of the top fell, striking him on the back of the neck and breaking his collar bone. He was taken to Sudbury hospital, and is recovering.

How the Day Passed.

Thanksgiving Day has come and gone. In Peterborough it passed very quietly. There were services in the George street Methodist church in the morning and the congregation was large. The dinner held in the Charlotte street Methodist church in the evening was a success. There were a few entertainments in various parts of the town.

CARTOON COMMENT.

The cartoon depicts a ratepayer reduced to poverty on account of excessive taxation. Every month the Council is beset with tales of poverty from people who are not able to pay their taxes. The situation is not overdrawn. Why should Peterborough with her high assessment levy a tax rate as high as Toronto—a city with miles of paved streets, civic water works and millions invested in public buildings—Can Peterborough show anything for the money spent each year? Ours may well be called a wealthy town. With no expenditure for paved streets or public buildings any town can bask in the weird rays of false prosperity.

A Feline Incident.

An amusing incident occurred in a downtown office Friday morning. The obliging lady typewriter went to her employment early, wearing a neat up-to-date fall hat, which was crowned by a beautiful blue bird with outstretched wings and which she laid carefully on the table. Now in this office there is housed a magnificent Maltese cat that is a general favorite with the staff. On Thursday poor puss underwent the purifying effect of a long continued fast, no one visited the office, and as a natural consequence she was anxiously awaiting breakfast on this particular morning. When the hat was placed on the table puss was attracted by the beautiful plumage of the supposed blue bird and taking it for the real thing crouched for the fatal spring and went for that bird "tooth and nail." It only took about a minute until the floor was strewn with fall millinery and feathers galore and poor pussy finding out the deceitful imposition walked off in utter disgust.

Hard of Hearing.

There's a young man who goes into society—really good society—here, who is decidedly hard of hearing. He won't admit, though, and never asks to have anything said to him repeated. This is the latest story they tell of him. He went to call on Miss B. one evening last week. "Is Miss B. at home?" he asked of the maid who answered the bell. "Yes, sir," she replied, rather softly. "Oh, I'm so sorry," he said, and giving her his card he walked away.

A Painful Accident.

On Wednesday evening Mr. John Sawers, grocer of 308 Charlotte street met with rather a painful accident. He was rolling a barrel of herring, preparatory to closing up when his foot slipped, the sidewalk being covered with ice, and he fell heavily upon the iron step of his store receiving a severe cut on the cheek bone, and several bruises.

DROPPED 100 FEET.

A TERRIBLE ACCIDENT TO AN OLD RESIDENT.

In the Performance of His Duty He Slipped and Dropped One Hundred Feet—Discovered by His Fellow Employees.

A most terrible fatality occurred at the pork packing establishment yesterday evening just before the six o'clock whistle blew. The employees were preparing to go home when they were startled by an agonising scream and a terrible jar which shook the buildings to the very foundations.

The screams proceeded from the north-eastern portion of the building and a dozen or so employees rushed to the scene, when they were horrified to find that a Mr. Chas. Hamm, an old employee, had dropped 100 feet. The poor unfortunate man was emitting heart-rending groans and the task of removing him was an exceedingly painful one. It was several hours before he was able to speak of the affair but the following particulars were gleaned last night from the relatives of the suffering man.

Mr. Hamm was on the third floor checking a large consignment of meat which was being prepared for shipment. He was assisted by two other of the employees who were trundling various boxes and barrels of meat to the elevator door from which they were loaded to the delivery wagons below. As each box or barrel was sent down Mr. Hamm checked it off on a list, and about 10 minutes to six the job was completed and the two men who were smelling him went to the first floor. Mr. Hamm wished to compare the list he had taken with the order for the goods, and in doing so he ascertained that one barrel of meat had been left out. He looked around and discovered it behind some other goods, where it had evidently been overlooked. Not wishing to call his assistants back to perform such a trifling task, he essayed to roll the barrel to the elevator hoist and lower it himself.

That is how the accident happened. Mr. Hamm dropped the barrel which contained the 100 feet. They had been pickled in white wine vinegar and were a choice lot of pig's feet. Mr. Hamm is recovering as well as can be expected under the circumstances.

Gratefully Acknowledged.

My DEAR Mr. DENNISTOWN,—Will you please say to the Children's Guild of St. John's north ward mission church, what a pleasure it gives me to see such deep interest in the church funds as has been shown by their handsome contribution of $20 to that most important fund, the widows and orphans fund. I shall especially mention it to the Bishop and to the W.O. fund committee.

Very truly yours,

THE WEIGHT CAME OF AT LEAST, A DEFENCE WITNESS SWEARS THAT IT DID.

The Expert Medical Evidence All in at Last—J. H. McMillan Tells a Nice Story that is Contradicted by the Casings of the Weight Shaft Shown in Court, Special to The Times.

TORONTO, Nov. 23.—Four men who had at various times in the year 1902 been called upon in the discharge of their daily duties, entered the witness box at the Hyatt trial Saturday and swore on behalf of the defence that the elevator which the defence alleged was responsible for the death of Willie Wells, was of antiquated design, loose construction, constantly out of repair and dangerous to use. Three of these witnesses were new discoveries, but their testimony added little strength to the case for the prisoners. The jurymen at times found a good deal of amusement in the cross examination of the witnesses by Mr. Oiler. It is thought that the hearing of evidence will be concluded Wednesday noon.

DR. POWELL AGAIN ON THE STAND.
The examination in chief of Dr. Powell was continued with the opening of the court Saturday morning. The doctor reaffirmed his opinions as to the probable cause of the injuries to the skull. A 24th weight falling from a distance of 20 feet upon a recumbent head would pulverize it.

In cross examination, the witness said he could see nothing in the skull inconsistent with a man being knocked down and his head being pounded with the weight or other heavy instrument. If a second blow was applied while the head was recumbent, followed by the use of force as the blow which preceded it.

DR. ADAM LYNDE FOLLOWED WITH EVIDENCE of much the same character. If a stooping body was struck by a falling weight with sufficient force to produce laceration, it would fall in a heap, covering a greater area than that represented in the stooping position.

During the cross examination of the witness in which Mr. Oiler led him into many contradictions, His Lordship found it necessary on two occasions to request Mr. Johnston and Mr. Lount to be sworn in to the examination to prevent without repeated and unnecessary interruptions.

When questioned closely by Mr. Oiler, and his attention drawn to statements made by himself at the last trial, Dr. Lynde qualified to some extent his theory as to the body falling in a heap and occupying the space represented by perpendicular lines drawn from the point of impact when in a stooping position. The tendency, he admitted, would be to protect the body towards the west, and somewhat out of the line of gravity.

A HOSPITAL SURGEON'S VIEW.
Dr. Peters of the General Hospital surgical staff agreed with the other defence experts as to the probable cause of the fractures, but thought the effect upon a body of a weight striking the head when the Johnstonian position was very infrequent. The friction of the feet on the floor of the body and the direction of the momentum of the weight were conditions which it would be necessary to take into account.

At the close of the testimony of Dr. Peters, Mr. Johnston stated to the court that they had other medical witnesses ready to testify, but as the Crown had withdrawn some of its experts, the defence would not burden the court with further testimony of his nature.

A WITNESS WHO OT RATTLED.
Charles Shipp, 51 George Street, stated that at one time he was in the employ of Lurie & Graham. He began work with them in September, 1891, and worked with them until they removed from the warehouse. His work gave him occasion to use the hoist a great deal, in moving paper and other material. The hoist was in good condition and would frequently lodge against the floors as he went up and down and would not always answer the brake. He had also noticed that the weight box was splintered. A rattling sometimes heard in the weight box freed swing in the box.

When Mr. Oiler rose to cross-examine the witness developed a great degree of nervousness. At the outset he became so confused in his defence. The efforts of His Lordship and Mr. Oiler to straighten him out only confused him the more. "I think the jury can locate you," remarked Mr. Oiler after several ineffectual attempts on the part of the witness to obtain his place. The case, he said, did not catch on as it went up, only when it was descending.

THE WEIGHT WOULD STICK CONDITIONALLY.
Thomas Brinsmead, proof reader, employed with Lurie & Graham for 10 or 12 years, said the weight of the hoist was in the Colborne street warehouse, and he got caught at the ground. He had known it to stick a number of times. At the time they were moving it did not catch because he had understood it had been fixed. During the last month it did not catch once in the knowledge of the witness. At one time when the rope became entangled with the pulleys at the top of the shaft, it was found necessary to take the weight off the hook. To accomplish this, a hammer was used to get the hook out of the eye. The hammer was also used in putting the pulleys back to its place.

In cross examination the witness said that trouble arose with the cage, only when it was overloaded. He changed the weight as described to Mr. Lount, unaided. The cage, he said, did not catch when it was removed he did not know of the weight never caused it to come off.

ELEVATOR ALWAYS DID ITS WORK WELL.
Thomas Chamberlain, now employed with Lurie & Graham, worked with Lurie & Graham for some months in 1892 in the Colborne street warehouse, said they always had a little difficulty with the elevator, which caught at each shaft where the floor projected into the shaft. The brake was rather poor one, not being strong enough to hold the cage when a load was being carried. Generally speaking, he thought that while care should be answered for which it was intended.

To Mr. Oiler Chamberlain said that the elevator was almost continuously in motion and did its work.

SWORE THE WEIGHT CAME OFF.

J. L. McMillan, now resident in Welland, formerly employed with Lurie & Graham, was the next witness. His duties during the time of his employment in the Colborne street warehouse kept him in the basement almost all the time. He used the elevator frequently, and found it to be a rickety, unsafe concern. It wobbled about a great deal in the shaft as it passed up and down. The weight shaft originally ran to the basement floor. On occasions the weight caught on level with the ground floor, within the knowledge of the witness about a dozen times. The witness removed the casing at the ground floor to ascertain the cause of the obstruction. He saw a piece of floor projecting into the weight shaft, but thought it was too much trouble to remove it, and put the casing back to its place again. The weight came off at one time, while the cage was at the top flat, but how it came loose, the witness did not know. He replaced the hook with comparative ease.

In cross examination, the witness said he did not tell any person about the weight coming off the hook. He had no recollection of any further block. During the testimony the witness worked in the warehouse the elevator was used at least 600 times, but the cage itself was out of good working order very frequently.

A BOARD THAT COULDN'T BE REMOVED.
Turning to the occasion on which the witness removed the casing of the weight shaft at the office floor, he said to Mr. Oiler that he used a hammer and chisel in removing the board. Detective Curry walked into the jury room and returned with the boards which constituted the sides of the weight shaft. The witness was taken somewhat by surprise when asked to point out his chisel marks on the board he had removed. McMillan made a half-hearted pretence to look for the chisel marks, which, as was expected, were not there. His confusion was still further increased when it was pointed out that the board could not have been removed, as it extended below the floor.

From a projection of 2 1/2 inches, suggested to Mr. Lount, the witness said the board was about 1/2 inch, and then could not swear as to which side it was on.

GUARDSHIPS TO PROTECT. MORE GUNBOATS CRUISING IN THE BOSPHORUS.

The Sultan Prevailed Upon to Allow an Extra one for Each of the Powers—Russia's Vessels Being Prepared. Special to The Times.

ONDON, Nov. 23.—The Daily News reports that Lord Salisbury has urged the Sultan to promise the protection of the Bosphorus to the Russian fleet. The Sultan has agreed to do so, and has ordered the Russian fleet to be ready to sail at any moment.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 23.—Rumors of fresh troubles have reached here from San Francisco, a despatch from the Black Sea. The population there is almost entirely composed of Turks, and the few Armenians there are certain to fare badly if an uprising has really taken place.

Probably the most serious feature of the situation at present is the one resulting from the demand which the representatives of Great Britain, Russia, Italy and Austria made to the Sultan for firmness in allowing the passage through the Dardanelles to this city of a second despatch of the Russian fleet. It was first believed that there would be no difficulty in persuading the Sultan to grant the necessary permission for the passage of the fleet. The four small warships, but it is now intimated that the Sultan may decline to grant these demands of the powers. Should this really happen, the situation will again become most strained. It is hoped, however, that Abdul Hamid will be persuaded to listen to reason, and that it may not become necessary to adopt stern measures.

SOFIA, Nov. 21.—Advises from Constantinople say that the Sultan has consented to allow the passage in through the Dardanelles of a second guardship for each power in accordance with requests from Austria, Italy, Russian and British representatives.

A special from Vienna says information received from the Austro-Hungarian part of the Armenian revolutionary committees are endeavoring to provoke further massacres in order to bring about the armed intervention of the powers. The Sultan receives many threatening letters.

The object now desired by the Sultan is to float a large loan abroad as there is a serious want of money.

The rough and ready manner of Sir Philip Currie has not made a favorable impression here.

The German Emperor has expressed his belief that peace will be maintained.

BELL'S LITTLE OUTING.

A Luncheon Who Went for a Walk and Ran Away From His Guards.
Special to The Times.

MONTREAL, Nov. 23.—A man named Bell, a well known baseball player, formerly of the Montreal team, has been confined in the St. Mary's Hospital for the past three weeks. Yesterday, accompanied by two guards, he was allowed out for a walk and he slipped the guards and started on a run for the city. The guards were left far behind. A search was made for him but he could not be found. He boarded the C.P.R. western train at Montreal Junction at 10:30 and went as far as Smith's Falls, where he was put off and sent back to Montreal. The guards met him at the station. He merely laughed at them and said he had a good time.

A Check to the Enterprise.
LONDON, Nov. 23.—The British steamship companies have decided to withdraw their license from persons and societies engaged in the business of sending farming pupils abroad, thereby preventing such persons and societies from acting as booking agents.

Barnard's Canoe.
KINGSTON, Nov. 23.—Mr. E. W. Folger, says that "Barnard's" Barnard, "Barnard's" was born at Eagle Creek near Parham, on the line of the Kingston and Pembroke railway, where he has a brother now residing.

IS B. F. PIETZEL ALIVE? TWO STREET CAR EMPLOYEES SAY THEY SAW HIM RECENTLY.

Holmes' Attorney Shoemaker Hears Some Awarward Testimony and is in a Very Tryling Position Now—Scenes in the Court. Special to The Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. Nov. 23.—The argument for a new trial in the case of the convicted murderer, B. F. Pietzel, was heard this morning in the Criminal Court, before Judge Arnold, who tried the case. Judge Wilson and Judge Thayer, the president judge of the court.

Holmes was brought from prison to court. The week of confinement since his conviction has added to the emaciation that was so marked when he was in court before. He has also lost the easy look of confidence he wore during his trial, and, although he was composed, his anxiety was plainly visible.

Mr. Shoemaker, one of Holmes' counsel, presented an affidavit from prison to court. The week of confinement since his conviction has added to the emaciation that was so marked when he was in court before. He has also lost the easy look of confidence he wore during his trial, and, although he was composed, his anxiety was plainly visible.

Mr. Shoemaker called a private detective named Sauter to the stand. The detective testified that Shoemaker weeks ago had written out the affidavit, and given him $30 to pay someone to swear to it.

Detective Geyer was then called and he testified that Sauter had shown him the affidavit before it was signed.

Then a woman was called to the stand who said she was the "Blanche Hannigan" who signed the affidavit. She swore that she knew nothing about the statement in the affidavit. Her name appeared in the affidavit as the matron of the 4th police district. It was at the suggestion of Detective Geyer that she went with Sauter to Shoemaker and impersonated "Blanche Hannigan."

Shoemaker gave her $20 and took her before a notary public and she swore to the statement.

AN EXCITING SCENE.
Shoemaker excitedly interposed as Mr. Geyer was about to read the affidavit. Mr. Rotan endeavored to keep him silent, while Sauter stated that Blanche Hannigan was not known and had not been prepared. Holmes sat in the box and sneered at his counsel, and Shoemaker finally leaped to his feet and excitedly asked permission to refute these charges.

Judge Thayer replied that an opportunity would be afforded him at the proper time and place, and the attorney continued:

"I am sure I can show my innocence of anything reflecting upon me as a member of this bar. This is a trap—a damnable trap, set by the District Attorney, to destroy the humblest member of this bar. I appeal to the court to grant me time to defend myself. I appeal to the members of the press to withhold all that has been said against me in this court today until I have had an opportunity to clear myself of this charge."

"Under the present condition of affairs," said Judge Thayer, "I think you will find safety in silence. Mr. Graham announced that no shadow of blame is to be attached to Mr. Rotan, and the members of the court expressed their appreciation of the fact. Mr. Rotan then proceeded to argue for a new trial, and on the part of the court, I have no objection to the fact. Judge Arnold adding some remarks.

MR. SHOEMAKER ARRESTED.
At the conclusion of the argument Judge Thayer, speaking for the court, said, "I would give the case their grave consideration. Then turning to Mr. Shoemaker, the judge said: 'I regret that I have now a very disagreeable duty to perform towards you, a member of this bar and attorney of this court. In view of the developments of this morning, and the testimony of the witnesses whom you have heard concerning the use you attempted to make of the affidavit you procured, the court feels it to be its duty, no other path being left open, to hold you in $1,800 bail to answer to the charge of subornation of perjury, and in default of bail to stand committed.'"

"The bail is here, your honor," said the accused attorney.

The court was then adjourned, and bail was entered at a side bar, Milton Jackson, Shoemaker's father-in-law, becoming the bondsman.

SAYS HE SAW PIETZEL.
James McNeary, conductor on car 676, of the Third street electric line, has sprung a new sensation in the Holmes case by stating that B. F. Pietzel is alive, and that he recently talked with him on his car. Mr. McNeary claims there could be no mistake, as he worked the number ten car, and knows the peculiarities of his voice. According to McNeary, Pietzel boarded his car a few days previous to Holmes' trial. Pietzel's beard had grown around the greater part of his face, so that he was completely disguised. When addressed, however, he admitted his identity, and asked as a friend that McNeary keep silence, as he was on his way to Philadelphia, but McNeary called him Motorman Letterman, and he, too, claims that he had a conversation with Pietzel, who took a transfer to the Cottage Grove line.

PIETZEL IN PHILADELPHIA.
Mr. Robert Corbett, who has been following the case for months in behalf of the Farmers' and Mechanics' National Bank, of Fort Worth, Texas, claims he has also seen Pietzel. He never believed that Pietzel was dead," he declared to a daily News reporter this morning, "for the following reasons: First, when I was searching the cattle months ago, the man who resembled the man seen by the motorman and conductor, and who, I then thought, was Pietzel, found me in the building looking over some papers. He asked me if I had seen a tool-chest. I told him there was one in the front room. He said that one was not his, that he had left it in the room where I was engaged. I asked him who he was. He said Mr. Pietzel, and when I asked him his name, he said, 'After thinking a moment, 'Anderson' and left. Secondly, I learned that Mrs. Pietzel was stopping at 6235 May street, and sent over to ask her if she ever sent for the tool chest. Both she and her daughter Deena declared they had not, and I also discovered that Mrs. Pietzel is wavering

The Times.

PETERBOROUGH, NOVEMBER 25, 1895.

The Christmas Number Of Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly.

The Christmas number of FRANK LESLIE'S POPULAR MONTHLY is already out, and will hardly be surpassed in richness and beauty of pictorial illustration, or in reasonable variety of literary contents, by anything that may follow during the holiday season. The opening article, upon "Heroines and Heroine Worship," affords a vehicle for nearly a score of exquisite reproductions from the old and modern master-painters. A similar opportunity is found in the intensely poetic story, by A. Cressy Morrison, of "The Man who Resembled Christ," which in addition is illustrated with some original drawings of rare delicacy. In "The City of Dordrecht," George C. Haite fairly revels in the picturesque, giving us eight of his loveliest aquarelles. The great literary feature of the number is Tolstoy's latest story, "Master and Man," specially translated from the Russian for FRANK LESLIE'S POPULAR MONTHLY, and illustrated by Fogarty. A charming novelty is "A Daughter of the Samurai," by Teichi Yamagata, being an up-to-date Japanese love story written in English by a Japanese author. Amongst other contributions deserving special mention are "Heroines of Chivalry," by Mrs. Frank Leslie; "Literary Boston," by Lilian Whiting; "The St. Nicholas Society," by Will P. Pond; "How the Wives Joined the Four Hundred," by A. Oakley Hall; and "A Legend of Jeanne d'Arc," the latter being a poem by Francois Coppee.

ELEVATED FREIGHT MOTORS.

A novel application of the trolley device to the work of transporting freight is discussed by Mr. John Brisben Walker in the November number of the Cosmopolitan says the Ottawa Journal. The system, which is estimated to cost at most $1,000 per mile, would consist of a double line of poles from fifteen to eighteen feet in height, carrying a wrought iron rail. On this would run small corrugated iron cars three or four feet in diameter and fifteen or twenty feet in length, and of light and cheap construction. The advantages of such a scheme would lie in the easy regulation of grades, and the small cost of building, maintenance, and operation. While its limitations would clearly prevent its taking the place of great trunk lines of railway, possibly a net work of short lines on the trolley plan covering the country might serve as valuable feeders to the railways. A mode of carriage somewhat resembling the one proposed has been used successfully for the carriage of ores in mining districts, where the heavy gradients put ordinary rail or tram ways out of question. However, the plan is open to the serious objection that it does not appear suited to passenger traffic or the carriage of the more bulky and heavy freight. A road to be best adapted for local purpose must be a general utility one, and capable of handling every kind of business that offers.

Agnosticism is alleged to prevail to a great extent among the undergraduates of Oxford and Cambridge. Several causes for this assigned by Rev. Anthony C. Deane in an essay in the Nineteenth Century magazine, and is rather striking to find among these the enforcement of two regulations intended to have the opposite effect. One is the examination on Paley's "Evidences of Christianity," and the other the compulsory attendance at chapel. Some of our Canadian colleges have been characterized as "god-houses" because students were left free to attend devotions or not at their discretion. According to this English testimony, however, it would appear that the cause of Christianity is quite as safe where young men are allowed perfect freedom of choice of action in religious matters.

FAIR FIGHTING GROUND

We agree with the Toronto Telegram that North Ontario is a constituency which offers Patrons, Conservatives and Liberals a particularly fair chance to try their strength.

North Ontario takes its Conservative character from the overwhelming strength of the Orangemen in the Township of Brock. Outside of Brock Township, North Ontario is Liberal by more than one hundred. Frank Madill voted against the disallowance of the Jesuits Estates Act, and was elected in 1891 by a majority of 254. He polled in Brock Township 646 votes to 266 polled for A. P. Cockburn.

Then, there is a Catholic vote in the Townships of Mara and Rama, and, as F. J. Gillespie, the Liberal candidate, is a Roman Catholic, there is little chance that the Catholic vote will go to a Conservative candidate as it did in Haldimand.

Finally, North Ontario is an agricultural constituency. The 600 votes east in the villages of Cannington, Beaverton and Bracebridge are not 20 per cent, of the total vote.

If the Patrons cannot win in North Ontario they cannot win anywhere.

If the alleged agricultural dissatisfaction with the Government's trade policy does not give victory to the Grits in North Ontario, Mr. Laurier has cause to be disappointed.

And if the Orangemen of Brock Township accept a candidate who passively approves of the remedial order, Sir Mackenzie Bowell may understand that the Orangemen of Ontario will stand by him no matter what he does to Manitoba.

"SUN" LIFE

.. ASSURANCE COMPANY OF CANADA ..

The Rev. J. L. Murray, of Kincardine, Ontario, assured in the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada, in December, 1874, under Policy No. 1406, on the Twenty Year Endowment plan, paying an annual premium of $69.00 for ten years. He paid into the Company in all $699. In December, 1894, his Endowment matured, and he received a cheque from the Company for $1,364.70, being a return of all the premiums paid, and in addition, $665.70. That is to say Mr. Murray got back all the money he invested, with about 4 1/2 PER CENT. COMPOUND INTEREST, and had his life assured for $1,000 for twenty years free of charge.

It is needless to say that Mr. Murray was much pleased. You may gather that fact from the perusal of his letter here to appended. QUERY—How many of the people of Peterborough invest their money to better advantage?

KINCARDINE, Jan. 6th, 1895.

The Sun Life Assurance Co. of Canada, Montreal.

GENTLEMEN,—I beg to acknowledge the receipt of your cheque in full settlement of claim under my Ten Payment Twenty Year Endowment policy, No. 1406, and I desire to express my satisfaction with the result of my investment. I paid to the Company an annual premium of $69.00 for ten years, making a total of $690, for which I now receive a cheque for $1,364.70, being a return of all I have paid the Company, and in addition, $665.70, besides having had my life assured for $1,000 during the twenty years. This I consider very good indeed, and I have pleasure in giving it in evidence to that effect.

Yours sincerely,

SELF-SACRIFICE.

The Mother's Conception of Her Duty Was Clear and Her Purpose Firm.

Miss Stella Delaney was lost in thought. This is a warning against venturing into unfamiliar territory. To do Stella justice, it must be said that she seldom wandered in thoughtless fields. But the present was an extraordinary occasion.

Mr. Archibald Vandermillion had asked her to become Mrs. Archibald Vandermillion, and he must have meant it, for he committed his proposal to writing and availed himself of the postal facilities in transmitting it. Mr. Vandermillion was not by nature a courageous man. He had not the nerve to propose verbally. That is why he sent a letter.

Like the dutiful daughter that she was, Stella Delaney laid the letter in her mamma's lap and asked the maternal advice. Mrs. Delaney read it carefully and then said:

"I don't think Archibald Vandermillion would suit you at all for a husband."

"Why, mamma?"

"Well, in the first place, he is old enough to be your father."

"But, mamma, girls often marry elderly men, especially if they don't show their age particularly."

"But this is precisely what Mr. Archibald Vandermillion does. He shows every day of his age. Then, again, he has led a very wild life for at least thirty years. Think of that. He was sowing wild oats fully ten years before you were born. An inexperienced girl like you could do nothing whatever in managing a man like that. He has had his own way all his life, without the least restraint from a judicious wife, and it is very strange that he should think of giving up his bachelor freedom."

"But, mamma—"

"Hear me out, Stella, love. Not for all his vast wealth, nor for the elegant establishment he could give you, would I commit my delicate daughter of nineteen years to the care of such a man as Archibald Vandermillion. I should be an unnatural mother even to think of such a sacrifice for a moment. The sort of wife he needs is one who can curb his unbridled inclinations and habits, and transform him into a useful member of society. For these reasons, Stella dear, I have resolved to marry him myself."

With the virtue of self-sacrifice upon her noble features, Mrs. Delaney swept out of the room, leaving her daughter lost in deep thought, as before remarked.—Harper's Bazar.

A Mind-Cure

An attack of hiccoughs had considerably aggravated Mr. Twiller's natural irritability.

"Can't ye do something to help me out of this?" he asked indignantly. "D'ye want to see me hiccough myself out of existence? I s'pose ye think it would be funny to think of my wrestling with a hiccough and a pair of wings and the hiccoughs all at once, don't ye? I s'pose ye"—but here another spasm caught him.

"What can I do?" he asked pleadingly.

"I can't hold your breath for you and count nine, you know."

"No. But you can scare me, can't ye? Ye can holler 'Boo!' in my ear when I'm not expecting it, or something like that."

"Mr. Twiller," she answered hesitatingly, "I am surprised at you. The idea of my engaging in any such nonsense is sufficiently absurd to be worthy of you. I have something more important than 'boo' to say to you."

"Eh?"

"I will have to have a new wrap this winter."

"What's that?"

"And, while it is a little more expensive to start with, I have decided that sealskin will be the most economical in the end. So to-morrow you can give me a check."

"Mary—are you insane? What does this mean?"

She looked at him in silence for a moment and then said,

"Your hiccoughs are gone, aren't they, dear?"

"Why—er—yes come to think of it, I believe they are."

"I thought," she said, "that if anything would scare you that would."

The Spring Poet's Dilemma.

The poet sang a song of spring of zephyrs sweet and vernal, of groves that ring and brooks that sing and melodies eternal. He sang of grasses growing lush, of groves by birds invaded—then through two feet of flowing slush across the street he waded.

He sang of deep, umbrageous grots and odoriferous zephyrs, of shady spots and flower-plots and sweet and lowing heifers. He sang of flower-burdened beech and sweet mollious glens, and then went out and froze his knees—but that was another story.

The poet sang a song of spring and ode of rhythmic daintiness, of groves that ring and birds that sing and all that friend of business. He sang of showers and brooks and flowers, this wrapt poetic wizard, then roamed around for thirteen hours lost in a snowy blizzard.

He sang of daisied upland slopes and woods of glorious greenery, and trotted out all kinds of tropes to decorate his song. He sang how a willows fly and dip, told how the groves were ringing—and then went out and caught the grip and discontinued singing.—New York World.

PETERBOROUGH, NOVEMBER 25 1895

IS B. F. PIETZEL ALIVE?

In her belief in the identification of Pietzel and begins to hope that the children are living but for her husband, she does not care whether he is living or dead. I believe that if Holmes is not granted a new trial Pietzel will declare himself to the Governor of Pennsylvania when all other means are exhausted, and Isaac R. Hitt, Jr., and myself both have his address in Philadelphia. Minnie Williams is stopping at the same place under the name of Mrs. E. M. Gardner, while Pietzel is known as C. D. Hall.

THE CAPTAIN DROWNED

But His Crew Were Rescued After a Battle With the Waves.

Special to The Times. SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 23.—The coasting steamer Sandwich, a comparatively new steamer in the coastwise trade, is ashore on Umpqua Bar, one half mile south of the channel. Captain K. K. Wiant, one of the oldest and best known captains and seamen of this section was swept into the sea by the tremendous breakers and was drowned.

The balance of the crew, nine in number, and one passenger were saved from the stranded vessel after a desperate struggle with the waves. The U.S. life saving service performed the rescue and by means of a life car hauled the survivors ashore exhausted and nearly dead. Captain Wiant's body has been recovered.

THE DEAD RAISED UP.

A Former Resident Thought to be Dying of Bright's Disease—Cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Special to The Times. LESTOWEL, Nov. 23.—A despatch reaching here relating to the recovery in Neepawa, Man., of Mrs. T. H. McKee formerly living here was a surprise to her friends and acquaintances. It was met by doubt, however, until confirmed by a reply from Neepawa. Her case was well known here as this lady was treated by several of the local doctors for Bright's disease and her friends thought, as did her physicians, that her case was hopeless, and it was as a last resort that she left here to try climatic change. That Mrs. McKee was cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills in a few weeks, speaks volumes in their favor.

A Fire at Neepawa.

HEMPHILL, Nov. 23.—Fire yesterday destroyed the house occupied by W. C. Hemphill and owned by Mrs. John Sipes. The contents were saved. Both house and contents were insured.

Special to The Times. BUFFALO, Nov. 23.—Frank Queen, of St. Thomas, Ont., son of the proprietor of the Queen hotel in that town, was arraigned in the police court this morning on a warrant charging him with non-support of his wife.

A romance was thereby disclosed. Two years ago he came here to live and wooed and won a fourteen year old girl named Jenny McKnight, whose parents objected to her marrying Queen because of her youth. Accordingly, at Jenny's suggestion, the two eloped to St. Thomas and were there married. For ten months or more, according to the bride's story, they lived happily together and then the girl-wife says she was forced to do kitchen work in the hotel and was abused by her husband.

She ran away from him and came to her parents in Buffalo and Frank followed. She refused to live in Canada again and Frank at her suggestion hired a house at the foot of Michigan street and began work in the elevator as a scupper. Of late he has been out of work and Jenny was obliged to return to the parental roof. Saved an operation in the following case. Hood's Sarsaparilla cures when all others fail. It makes pure blood.

"A year ago my father, William Thompson, was taken suddenly ill with inflammation of the bladder. He suffered a great deal and was very low for some time. At last the doctor said he would not get well unless an operation was performed. At this time we read about Hood's Sarsaparilla and decided to try it. Before he used half a bottle his appetite had come back to him, whereas before he could eat but little. When he had taken three bottles of the medicine he was as well as ever." FRANCIS J. ### A NEW REPUBLIC.

The Cuban rebels seem as far as ever from being beaten. An immense army has been sent from Spain to subdue them, but it seems to have made very little impression on them. We are told that the rebels are nothing but the riff-raff of the population of the Island and that its respectable inhabitants are either loyal to Spain or favorers of an autonomy such as obtains in Canada. This they expect to get from Spain by peaceable and constitutional agitation. The autonomists are, however, heard of only now and then, but the rebels are always in evidence. They have found time during the present campaign to draw up a declaration of independence. It was agreed upon and promulgated on by the Constituent Assembly at Jimaguayu on the 16th of September, 1895, and signed by the delegates—representatives of the Cuban people. It declares the separation of Cuba from the Spanish monarchy and its constitution as a free and independent state under the name of Republic de Cuba. There has been a good deal of talk about formally recognizing this republic by Americans and others, but no Government has yet done so. If the rebels hold out much longer and make anything like headway against the Spanish army the recognition of the Republic of Cuba by the United States and the South and Central American Republics will be one of the first fruits of success.

TAKING THE OATH.

The form in which the oath is administered in Canadian and British courts says the Hamilton Herald, is a common subject of criticism and ridicule, since it has been clearly shown over and over again that the people who want to lie are not kept from it by kissing a greasy, dirty and unsanitary bible. But this form of taking the oath is a thing of beauty and a joy forever, when compared with one taken in the Court of General Sessions in New York this week.

A Chinaman named Chu Fong and eight of his associates in the Chinese Concert Company were charged with violating the Sunday law in giving a theatrical performance, and the Chinese witnesses were called upon to take the oath as the would in the Flowery Kingdom. The performance was highly interesting.

As each witness was called he sank on his knees and made a low obeisance. Then he arose and an attendant handed him a keen-bladed knife, which he grasped in his right hand. A live chicken was taken from a box and the witness seized it by the neck. As he did this, the oath was administered. This witness first declared that he would relate all and everything he knew of the matter at issue; that he would make no mental reservations; that he would favor neither one side nor the other, and that, if he failed either in omission or commission, he prayed that he might never prosper in his undertakings; that he might suffer grievous illness and pain, and, finally, that he might meet the fate that he was about to meet out to the chicken he held in his hand. With this the witness lifted the knife, and, shifting his grip from the neck to the feet of the chicken, struck off its head. We may have some odd customs in some ways, but it is only when we see what the Chinese are doing that we realize what hopeless and absolute freaks there are in the world.

OAK HALL.

In the Hyman trial, at Toronto, the results is likely to turn on the jury's appreciation of doctors' testimony, which is all based on theory, and about as contradictory as it can be. Recent experience in murder trials has not been calculated to raise the public's belief in the exactness of medical science. It is very liable to create an impression that a doctor is like a lawyer, in his readiness to find proof to help the side that first retains him.

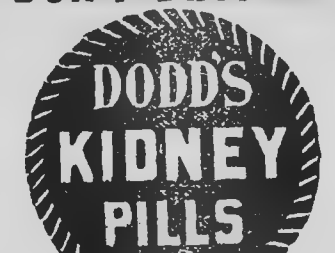

A deputation has been at Ottawa, appealing for a Government grant of $225,000 for an air line railway from Toronto to Collingwood. There are already two lines of rail communication between Toronto and Collingwood, which is a fair allowance for connecting a town of about 5,000 inhabitants with even a big city, less than a hundred miles away. They must like their railroads close together in the West.

Mr. Eugene Debs has served his term of imprisonment and been applauded on his exit by his admirers of the American Railroad Union and other labor organizations. They evidently think, that in Mr. Debs' case, imprisonment was no disgrace. It is likely to be a good while, however, before they undertake to stop, by force, the operation of another railway. In the fight between Mr. Debs and the law, it was fairly well established that the convenience of the whole public is of greater consequence than the desires of a little portion of it.

A conference, at Vienna, between the British Minister to Turkey, the Italian Ambassador to Austria, and the Austrian Foreign Minister, is said to have created a much more hopeful feeling in Vienna as to the outcome of the situation in the East. The telegrams, however, continue to report massacres of Asiatic Christians by the Sultan's soldiers and subjects. The optimism of the situation does not extend, as yet, at any rate, to the persecuted Armenians. There seem to be too many diplomatic cooks, with too diverse ideas as to how the broth should be made, stirring in the Turkish pot, for a proper result to be quickly attained.

President Cleveland is said to contemplate sending to Congress, when it meets next month, a short message, dealing only with the finances. When he was President before he acted in a like manner, and devoted a message to the advocacy of free wool. Congress would not give the country free wool, and, in the succeeding election, Mr. Cleveland was defeated. The rebuff was only temporary, for now he is President again, and free wool is an established feature of the tariff. His record on the wool issue will not detract, therefore, from the force of his message on the money question.

"SUN" LIFE

.. ASSURANCE COMPANY OF CANADA ..

The Rev. J. L. Murray, of Kincardine, Ontario, assured in the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada, in December, 1874, under Policy No. 1406, on the Twenty Year Endowment plan, paying an annual premium of $69.90 for ten years. He paid into the Company in all $699. In December, 1894, his Endowment matured, and he received a cheque from the Company for $1,364.70, being a return of all the premiums paid, and in addition, $665.70. That is to say Mr. Murray got back all the money he invested, with about 4 1/2 PER CENT. COMPOUND INTEREST, and had his life assured for $1,000 for twenty years free of charge.

It is needless to say that Mr. Murray was much pleased. You may gather that fact from the perusal of his letter here to appended. QUERY.—How many of the people of Peterborough invest their money to better advantage?

N. B.—This is an example of profits paid under our Five Year Distribution plan. The results under our Reserve Dividend (or Semi-Tontine) policies may reasonably be expected to greatly exceed that realized under the above plan.

KINCARDINE, Jan. 6th, 1895.

The Sun Life Assurance Co. of Canada, Montreal.

GENTLEMEN,—I beg to acknowledge the receipt of your cheque in full settlement of claim under my Ten Payment Twenty Year Endowment policy, No. 1406, and I desire to express my satisfaction with the result of my investment. I paid to the Company an annual premium of $69.90 for ten years, making a total of $699, for which I now receive a cheque for $1,364.70, being a return of all I have paid the Company, and in addition, $665.70, besides having had my life assured for $1,000 during the twenty years. This I consider very good, indeed, and I have pleasure in giving my testimonials to that effect.

Yours sincerely, (Signed,) REV. J. L. MURRAY.

PUFF AND POMPADOUR.

OLD-TIME COIFFURES WHICH ARE TO BE WORN THIS SEASON.

The Hair Must Match the Gown—Some Striking and Original Designs Sent From Paris to Adorn the Summer Girl.

The coiffure of the up-to-date woman is ever changing. She must vary it to suit the fashion of her gown.

There will be many striking changes in the coiffures of the coming season.

To harmonize with the flaring skirts and bouffant sleeves, a coiffure has been designed which only beautiful women should wear. The hair is waved, parted in the middle and then arranged in two fluffy puffs at each side. These wholly cover the ears and are held in place by little puff combs like those our grandmothers wore. The puffs produce a very broad effect, but they are as trying as they are fashionable.

Maidens with plump cheeks and round faces are shown another new coiffure which also conceals the ears. With this style wide, undulating waves take the place of puffs. The hair is parted in the middle and drawn severely down over the ears, showing the waves much pulled out. The hair is then twisted in a soft coil at the middle of the back of the head, where all fashionable coils are now supposed to be. If both of these new coiffures are adopted by the summer girl she will be a most uncomfortable young person.

It is rumored that the severe little part must go. Simplicity and demureness are out of fashion, and the coquettish 'Clay Fitzgerald bang' is coming in. This consists of three little curls which bob on the forehead yet make no pretense of hiding it from view. The hair is parted, one little curl falls on the middle of the forehead and another on each side of the temples. Almost every type of face is improved by a curly bang. It softens the lines of the face and adds much to the effect of hats and bonnets. Montagues, which are a part of many of the new coiffures, are really forerunners of the broad fluffy bang. At present it is a mooted question as to whether the bang or the part shall reign.

The pompadour has suddenly sprung into favor. Parisian women have adopted it, and now girls with low foreheads are following the fashion. The hair is waved and drawn straight back from the forehead. The style is severe, but cool and sensible for summer days. Blondes are out of fashion. Black hair is the vogue. Titian red is permissible, but glossy blue-black is most in favor. Such a quantity of hair is worn that headcases are inevitable. The English bun is a new coiffure, which requires much hair. It consists of three puffs arranged crosswise at the back of the head. The bow-knot is another popular coiffure, which is heavy, though fashionable. It may be worn when the hair is dressed high or low. When high the loops of the bow stand up some distance from the head and have a large Spanish comb for a background. The bow-knot arranged for a low coiffure shows the two loops pinned close to the head just above the centre in the back. The ends of the bow are coiled together, terminating at the neck in two ringlets. This is an extremely novel and very popular arrangement.

The Psyche knot is no more. Long effects are the vogue, and ringlets are everywhere. Clusters of them are caught at the back of the head, and they bob behind the ears and over the foreheads. All hair is waved, and the wave is noticeably large and undulating. The general effect of the new coiffures is one of studied carelessness. But the initiated are not deceived by this seeming simplicity. They realize that it requires a course of training and more patience than the average woman possesses to arrange the fashionable coiffure of to-day.

Combs, pins and hair ornaments of all descriptions are worn. As many as twelve hairpins and combs have been seen in the newest coiffures.

For Summer Hats.

There is not a superabundance of ribbon on the summer hats; but where it is used, the wider numbers, from four to eight inches in width, are oftentimes seen. Narrower ribbon is somewhat used, and velvet about an inch wide is favored for the leading ribbon is taffeta, which comes in all shades, with designs of flowers, chins and plain, plaids, checks, etc. There is also much double-faced satin ribbon in use, and gros-grain is by no means out of style. Very remarkable ribbons are shown in a four-faced variety, in which a double-faced weave is laid over a double-faced weave, generally of glass texture, a satin weave with lace striping, and a satin weave relieved with velvet blossoms in Dresden china design.

It is pleasant to learn that higher crowns are now permissible. The old 'jam-pot' and 'stovepipe' shades are being reproduced, and even more pointed Mother Goose models are seen. A mitigated Director shape with a very decided crown is advocated by some milliners, but does not seem to have won the favor of the Parisian public.

One noticeable peculiarity of this season is the extensive use of flowers, more particularly of those which have a greenish tinge, such as Gladiolus, rose, double poppies, peonies and lilies of the valley. There is also quite a large quantity of white ribbon and white ostrich feathers on summer hats. White corn-flowers also are seen, as well as those of their proper color, blue, and in various shades of magenta and mauve. They are made of thin silk, and very large.

The round waist is still seen in toilettes of every description and for all possible occasions. But it is the base of all women who are not tall and slender, as the effect is to shorten the waist; but there are plenty of pretty models that have the round waist, so that short, stout women can look as well and as stylish as the rest.

CHILDREN'S COLUMN.

"THE LOVELY CHILDREN."

Story of the Painting of One of Sir John Lawrence's Famous Pictures.

The delightful study of children which has been christened "Nature" and engraved under various other titles must be considered Sir Thomas Lawrence's masterpiece in this direction. The painter himself held that his forte must be justified by this and three or four works of similar quality. The pronouncements of those who have written upon the artist and his work point to the same conclusion.

alone, and beyond the testimony of literary and artistic criticism there stands the evidence of the engraver's art to prove that the reproduction of no picture of childhood has probably ever reached the popularity attained by "The Lovely Children," "Nature," "The Daughters of Mr. Charles B. Calmady," "The Calmady Children," or whatever title this work has appeared under.

J. C. Lewis who was evidently a friend of the family, had often assured Mrs. Calmady, the wife of Captain Calmady of Woodstock, near Alfreton, that her children, "see their loveliness as babes should see into beauty of a more advanced childhood," would be admirable subjects, and that if Lawrence were to come they would be glad to paint them on any terms. The opportunity—a lucky one for all concerned—occurred. Sir Thomas saw the children in July, 1822. This must have been at the painting room in Russell square.

"Captured" by the loveliness of the children, he asked a price lower than his current fee, which would have been 800 guineas. "I suppose," said Mrs. Calmady, "I must still have looked despairingly, for he immediately added, without any saying a word, 'Well, we must say £150 for merely the two little heads in a circle, and some fifty—and finish at once.'"

The next morning the sittings commenced with great and pleasant. During the process of the painting we find the artist deeply interested and showing himself the sympathetic friend of childhood. He was already so enthusiastic over his work that he continually assured the happy parents "it would be the best piece of the kind he ever painted." He retained the children the entire day, kept them entertained with stories, fed them himself, and when, by food and sport refreshed, they were again placed in the "stretcher's chair," and the portraits proceeded with, Lawrence seemed to be rivaling Reynolds, as far as adorning his aptitude for making friends with youth. The children brought his humor, played with him as in a bonnie nursery, and as one long sitting the little chestnut, with her fair, rosy cheeks, relieved her own curl and supplied him with a fund of laughter by her nursery tales of "Dance Wiggins" and "Field Mice and Raspberry Cream."

As another sitting, after Lawrence had had Miss Emily Calmady's shoe often taken off and had attempted to establish her playful attitude and expressions, he could not help exclaiming, "How disconcerting it is, when we have nature before us, to see how far—with our best efforts and all our study—how very far short we fall of her!"

The little anecdotes concerning the progress of the Calmady picture, including how Sir Thomas was, with his servant, found, instead of painting, washing the face of one of the fair infants, who had got at the artist's palette and palette and bedaubed her countenance grotesquely, represent Lawrence in a familiar light.

A Spider at Home.

The invitations sent out to a child's party had each in the corner a golden web, in the center of which was entangled a brown spider. They were invitations to "a spider at home," an English substitute for a Jack Horner pie, or, it might be, for a Christmas tree. On their arrival at the house of their hosts, the little guests were shown into a good sized room, where an immense glittering spider seemed to have spun a web that stretched across the room. The web was composed of many webs, each started from a spider in the center and extended to many nubs and projections, where each one terminated in a little wooden window. After choosing a window each child followed its wanderings to the spider in which it terminated. Inside these spider webs were concealed small gifts. Instead of spiders, beetles or other insects might be used. A variety of insects for each a party could be found at the large Japanese stores or could be fashioned at his very own expense.

White cotton threads could be used, a much prettier effect would be gained by using black cord—like that used by confectioners for tying boxes of bonbons—Kansas City Times.

BELL'S LITTLE OUTING.
A Lunatic who Went for a Walk and Ran Away From His Guards.

Special to The Times.
MONTREAL, Nov. 21.—A man named Bell, a well known baseball player, formerly of London, Ont., has been confined in the Northern Lunatic Asylum for the past three weeks. Yesterday, accompanied by two guards, he was allowed out for a walk. He slipped the guards, and started on a run. The guards were left far behind. A search was made for him but he could not be found. He boarded the O.P.R. western train at Montreal station at 10:30 and went on to Smith's Falls, where he was put off and sent back to Montreal. The guards met him at the station. He merely laughed at them and said he had a good time.

MANITOBA WON'T YIELD.

It is barely possible says the Hamilton Spectator, that the Ottawa Citizen, when it took upon itself to intimate that, if Manitoba refuses to obey the proposed Stat of the Dominion government ordering the establishment of separate schools in that province, the law will be enforced by means of bayonets in the hands of Canadian volunteers, thought that that threat might possibly frighten Manitoba into meek compliance with the tyrannical measure proposed. If the citizen entertained any such thought it may put it carefully away. Manitoba cannot be coerced. Sir John Macdonald said, "We cannot check Manitoba," and it is as true to-day as it was when uttered. An article in a recent number of the Winnipeg Tribune—the organ of the Greenway government—shows what Manitoba thinks of coercion. Here is an extract:

There are cases in which compromise is wise and justifiable there are cases in which it is dishonorable and unjust. There are times when one may yield a point and still maintain his honor and his self-respect, and there are times when the slightest variation from the straight path of duty would brand one as a coward and a traitor. We have in Manitoba reached just that point when it is necessary for us to decide whether we shall be loyal to truth and justice, or whether we shall forsake principle for the sake of a temporary peace with a part of our population. * * * But this we can assure him, that the people of Manitoba and therefore the government of Manitoba, have come to a decision on this question. They have done that which is right, and legislated in such a manner that enduring peace will follow their efforts, and they will stand by their decision to the end. What care we for the Dominion government and its remedial legislation? Ours it is to do our duty, and fear not Manitobans are not cowards. They can not be intimidated by any such cowardly utterances as those of our weathercock contemporary. "Compromise or burst," says the Week—or is it Principal Grant? "Compromise or lose control," says the Free Press. Well, we may burst, or burst, if the term is preferable, and the Dominion government may step in between us and the control of our schools, but one thing is certain, we shall have the courage of our convictions. We have stood out even justice to all, and we shall stand the consequence, and if the Dominion government dares to act, it alone will be responsible for the chaos that may follow.

The Turkish national debts is now about $500,000,000. No wonder the man is sick.

The most interesting student in the University of Kansas is Martin Van Buren Stevens, who is seventy years old. He expects to be graduated in the spring, after which he will take up the profession of law.

Congressman Oley, of Lynchburg, Virginia, is to introduce in the next house a bill providing for an annual appropriation of 5 per cent of $27,000,000, the amount of abandoned Confederate property covered into the United States treasury during the war and reclaimed, to be distributed among the Southern States for the care of defendant ex-Confederate soldiers and their families.

Henry Claws is reported as saying, apropos of the Kaffir gold speculation in England, that he expected very soon a big clamp in the price of bicycles, which had been kept up at a fictitious value by "the bicycle craze." He figures that the American people have invested $200,000,000 in them the last four years, and that competition will soon make it impossible for manufacturers to sell at $100 what it costs about $27 to make.

It is cheering to learn that British capital by the millions is pouring into British Columbia to develop the mining and other resources of that province. And the best of it is that the capitalists are pretty certain to get a good return for the capital invested. The day is near when Canada will be regarded as one of the safest fields in the world for the investment of capital.

Seattle which is now a thriving city of something like 60,000 inhabitants with all the modern improvements and with great plans for reclaiming land and improving the water supply, was settled forty-four years ago last week. Twenty-four persons made the settlement, twelve of whom were children. They built log houses, and it was several years before the place began to grow, and its real importance dates back only a few years from the present time. The town was named for an old Indian chief, whose decrepit daughter, Princess Auxeline, is still to be seen on the streets.

A new idea is to be tried in the town of Flint, Michigan, beginning to-day. It has been evolved by the Prohibitionists and is in brief to set up a count r attraction to the saloons on Saturday afternoon, when the farmers and traders come into town. For this purpose a church is to be opened and music and hot coffee furnished. The people of the church will be present to welcome visitors. Smoking will be allowed and an attempt made to give visitors all the opportunities for enjoyment they can find in a saloon, except intoxicating liquors. The saloon keepers are said to be considerably alarmed at the competition.

There are some queer things in Mexico. For instance, the Mexican Herald says: The latest and most ingenious application of the lottery principle is that devised by some of the reverend clergy, who have introduced the scheme of selling to the faithful tickets at 10 cents each in a lottery that has some marvellous prizes, nothing less than masses for the souls of the dead. In one church the other day 7,000 tickets were sold at 10 cents each, netting $700. The prizes are four principal ones and there were twenty minor ones. The first prize was thirty masses, which the lucky winner could apply to the extraction from purgatorial torment of some relative, or lacking that, of some friend.

"SUN" LIFE

.. ASSURANCE COMPANY OF CANADA ..

The Rev. J. L. Murray, of Kincardine, Ontario, assured in the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada, in December, 1874, under Policy No. 1406, on the Twenty Year Endowment plan, paying an annual premium of $69.00 for ten years. He paid into the Company in all $699. In December, 1894, his Endowment matured, and he received a cheque from the Company for $1,364.70, being a return of all the premiums paid, and in addition, $665.70. That is to say Mr. Murray got back all the money he invested, with about 4 1/2 PER CENT. COMPOUND INTEREST, and had his life assured for $1,000 for twenty years free of charge.

It is needless to say that Mr. Murray was much pleased. You may gather that fact from the perusal of his letter here to appended. QUERY.—How many of the people of Peterborough invest their money to better advantage? N. B.—This is an example of profits paid under our Five Year Distribution plan. The results under our Reserve Dividend (or Semi-Tontine) policies may reasonably be expected to greatly exceed that realized under the above plan.

KINCARDINE, Jan. 6th, 1895.

The Sun Life Assurance Co. of Canada, Montreal.

GENTLEMEN,—I beg to acknowledge the receipt of your cheque in full settlement of claim under my Ten Payment Twenty Year Endowment policy, No. 1406, and I desire to express my satisfaction with the result of my investment. I paid to the Company an annual premium of $69.00 for ten years, making a total of $690, for which I now receive a cheque for $1,364.70, being a return of all I have paid the Company, and in addition, $665.70, besides having had my life assured for $1,000 during the twenty years. This I consider very good indeed, and I have pleasure in giving my testimony to that effect.

(Signed,) REV. J. L. MURRAY.

BICYCLE LEGGINGS.

A NECESSARY PART OF EVERY FAIR
WHEELWOMAN'S COSTUME.

Designers Racking Their Brains for New Ideas—The Very Swell Thing is a Laced Affair That is Made to Fit Like a Glove.

Bicycle leggings, gaiters, boots and shoes of special design are shown in the shoe stores and department stores in great variety. The fashionable makers of custom shoes find an incidental boom in their business directly connected with the bicycle craze, and some of their finest and costliest work is in the line of laced or buttoned leggings and boots of extra length in the legs.

Designers in shoe factories are racking their brains for new ideas in leggings and boots. The latter come in all shades of russet and tan. They are made with an extra long top, reaching to the center of the calf. They come in laces, and different from the ladies' hunting boot, or boot for mountain wear, in that for bicycle use the sole must be single, thin and flexible.

Comfortable as such a boot is, it is in no such favor among the fair cyclists as leggings worn with approved bicycle shoes. The latter come in two styles, Oxford tie and plain front lace reaching just above the ankle. The soles are thin and the heel is low and flat. The Oxford tie are made up in dongola, patent leather, tan, russet calf and canvas. The regulation bicycle shoe, laced to support the ankle, is made in dongola calf and canvas. Rubber or leather soles are optional, but rubber is no longer considered the best.

MADE TO ORDER. LADIES' CORDUROY. proper thing. The rat-trap pedals make the rubber soles unnecessary. The legging is a necessity with either style of these shoes, and it is in their construction that the designers of footwear have given to the trade their best efforts.

One window shows over sixty styles of leggings. They are made up to button and to lace and to lace with button effect, and comprise ooze calf in the undress-ed or suede style and in all the rich tan tints, russet, white, red and brown Russian calf; enamelled calf in black, red and russet; dongola kid, kangaroo kid, corduroy in gray, black, blue and purple;
canvases in a variety of shades and heavy cloth especially woven for this purpose in every color likely to be worn in the construction of bicycling costumes. Blues and grays predominate, and it is possible to match any of the prevailing shades of outgoing cloth in any of the big retail stores.

Tan leggings are, however, supposed to go well with any costume. The laced pattern worn by the ladies of the Lyceum company during the long run of "The Amazon" is much affected. They are made of either ooze calf or russet leather, of russet color, velvety and rich in appearance, and must fit like a glove from ankle to knee. To do this and not interfere with the free motion of the limb is a triumph of the cordwainer's art. The LADIES' TOURING BOOT. IN LEATHER OR CLOTH. greatest care must be taken in the cutting out of leggings of this class. A slight mistake in measurement or cutting will ruin them in the eyes of the fastidious customer.

Men are not overgiven to wearing leggings as part of a bicycle costume, preferring to show their manly limbs through the medium of plaid golf stockings. The bicycle legging for a woman is a simple affair, closely resembling the riding legging in appearance. The bicycle legging, however, is not held to the limb by a strap under the foot, but rests lightly on the top of the foot. They are really intended as a protection in long journeys, and in the store are shown only in cor-dunoy, canvas and leather. The low quarter dongola kid or canvas shoe of Oxford tie pattern, with an especially stout flat heel, and with a leather sole, is the correct thing in men's bicycle shoes.

THE SKELETON OF AN AVERAGE WHALE
WEIGHTS TWENTY-FIVE TONS.
The newest thing out in London's world of swindlers is a hand-painted shirt front.
A Dundee, Scotland, man is working on a dying machine that is built on the bicycle plan.

Five cent telegrams will be tried in Italy. The government is also trying to have the tariff with other European countries reduced.

Here is a curious state of facts revealed in a New York court record: A man who testifies in court that he made a fortune from the manufacture of religious and other tracts is suing another in court for diverting a portion of it, with which they were to speculate in whisky on joint account.

WORTH FINDING.
Two men recently found in a Mississippi river sander a bulk of a wrecked steamer containing 100 barrels of whisky.
It had been ripening since before de war,
and was in fine fettle.

Two boys in Muskegon, Mich., recently found $304 in gold under an old pine stump, and the town is in high hopes of becoming a summer resort.

Years ago a queer old fellow in Powderly, Texas, borrowed an iron kettle of a neighbor. Soon after, he died in his house. There were many searches for the kettle, which was at last found, with $2-100 in it.

In some old buildings at Jay Bridge,
Me., was found $2,200 in government bonds but a little time ago.

who are the exceptions proving the rule, adds anything of particular value to one's possessions. The only good thing to be said for it is that it occupies the feminine mind.—Pittsburg Post.

A Model Nursery.

A model nursery in a house where money is not plenty has been brought about by study, ingenuity and a little effort. The walls are papered in a plain paper of a light cream, with a frieze and dado rail. For the dado, since the expensive tiles or hard wood was out of the question, a dado of gay cretonne was managed. The cretonne was hung by brass rings, small ones, just inside the dado rail, and has the merit that it can be easily taken down and laundered. For the frieze there is the jolliest sort of a Noah's ark procession, extending all around the room in delightful confusion. This was produced by pasting the animal figures on a strip of pale blue paper, the animals, ready to cut out, being got from a kindergarten supply shop. At the windows are short little muslin curtains that easily draw back, and running all the way from one to the other of the windows is a big, broad box sofa, or couch. This is covered with corduroy, and every child in the family considers it the finest piece of furniture in the house. The seat cushions and the receptacle for all house toys and belongings that keep the room in a clutter, and yet must be constantly at hand. The interior is partitioned and a part as a play room, and when the seat is closed, it is the nicest of stretching places, and there are not wanting a goodly supply of pillows, whose stout and inexpensive coverings are warranted to withstand many a friendly fight. There is an open fire in this nursery, well protected by a fender which looks on over the entire opening. The floor is stained and shagreened, and a large cotton rug, which is bright and cheerful, but not expensive, lends a warm and cozy effect. Over the fireplace, from mantel to frieze, is smooth dull red paper, and against this background has been prettily arranged various implements of childish sport—tennis rackets, a bow and arrow and the like. There is a beautiful dollhouse, or so its little owners think, made from a pair of boxes and gradually fitted up by many contriving hands. The nursery has not grown in a day, but it has kept on acquiring till it is one of the cheeriest and most wholesome of places and the delight of every child who is in it as guest or owner.—New York Letter.

The Lascell Girl.

At Lascell senior third of the girls go in for military drill under the command of a genuine major, who goes out twice a week from Boston for the purpose. The girls are intensely interested in this branch of their athletic education and find the exercises of great value in many ways. All the details of a full regiment are carried out. The manual of arms is performed together with the sword drill. At the annual competitive drill for battalions and individuals there is a lot of enthusiasm on the part of the fair would-be soldiers. The uniform is of navy blue and consists of a skirt reaching to the knees, a Norfolk jacket, velvet cap and gilt trimmings to indicate the rank. Each young woman at Lascell is expected to take two periods of exercise of 40 minutes every day, but it is elective to a great degree, and usually so with the seniors. One period in doors and one out is the rule during the winter months, but for a brief time, spring and autumn, both are out of doors. Once a week the would-be graceful girl dives into the mysteries of nerve training. She also has time for tennis, bowling, bicycling, riding and skating. It is small wonder, therefore, that the figures are so to muscular development and strength just compiled at Lascell are much higher in the senior class than in the school at large. Although corsets are not in the Lascell girl's wardrobe, her gowns have already been fitted over corsets, and the corseting figure is not in evidence, as it is, for instance, at Wellesley and many other girls' colleges. That one believes in physical training is no excuse for an ill fitting gown and a general air of slovenliness. In fact, a petite figure, with a chest well forward and up to a firm and no less elastic muscles, should mark the athletic girl of the period, and not, as is too often the case, and most unfortunately for the cause, the unattractive dress which is "reform" in name only. It is possible the Lascell girl wishes to be graceful and to be in attire as well as strong in limb and muscle.—New York Sun.

The Woman Growing Old.

The woman who keeps the simplicity of her girlhood, writes Julia Ward Howe, is generous impulses and quick sympathies, and who adds to her natural gifts the largeness of study and the crown of experience, is always at her best and never past it.

Good. And Mrs. Howe adds, and what she says is so truthful and entertaining that we are glad to reproduce every word of it.

When the exterior attractions of form and color diminish and depart, as they mostly do, the radiance of our inner illumination will more than compensate their departure, but in order that this should be so her rapid mind equal her intellectual gain. She must be willing to learn not only her own powers, but her own defects also, and to curb the good influences which can help her to escape from the delusions of sense and the fatal tyranny of self consciousness. She must discard the petty measures of vanity and self seeking and learn to love her race, her country, and the humanity which she should help to adorn.

Herein, as we maintain, is the entire philosophy of growing old. The woman growing old, as Mrs. Howe so well puts it, may well learn to love her race, her country and humanity. She may well learn to love all those about her, and if all good women growing old do this the race and the country and humanity will take care of themselves very handsomely. One never grows old who preserves the youthful expectancy and interest and appreciation in the things as well as the persons about her.

This is the dear old soul who is the more lovely if she is a grandmother, as lovely as anything in the world if she is a matron. She compels the admiration and attention of the young; she advises, comforts, encourages, appreciates. In that condition she is at her best. If she keeps so minded, she is always at her best.—Cincinnati Tribune.

The Women of Ushant.

In character the head-dress is more Italian than Breton. The coil is small and square shaped, with a wide flap hanging down behind, and it is white when the wearer considers herself dressed and not in mourning. Bright colors, chiefly scarlet and blue, are often introduced at the side of the head, especially in the case of children, but the strong singularity of the coiffure is the manner in which the hair is

AFLOAT IN THE BAY.

A Body Found at the Foot of Sherbourne street by Thomas Sauter, Special to The Times.

TORONTO, Nov. 25.—At 9 o'clock this morning, Thomas Sauter, who has a boat house at the foot of Sherbourne street, discovered a dead body tumbling about in the murky water of the Police Iron Works slip. The body had evidently drifted in from the eastern gap with the strong wind and current from that direction. Sauter secured the body by means of a boat hook and tied it up to the Police's dock whence it was subsequently removed to the morgue.

The body was in an advanced state of decomposition and had evidently been in the water for a month or over. The hands and exposed portions of the body were bleached and disintegrated by the action of the water and the features almost entirely effaced. The corpse was that of an old man of medium height and average physique, the head and face were covered with bushy grey hair and a beard shaved clear off the chin and lips. The shoulders were somewhat stooped. The body was clothed in a dark overcoat with a velvet collar, black coat and vest, dark gray striped trousers and black shoes. The body is most probably that of Hezekiah Wilcox who disappeared from his home at 110 Adelaide street west just one month ago.

CANADA'S HIGH POSITION

As the Main Highway of the Great British Empire. Special to The Times.

LONDON, Nov. 25.—The Times publishes an article on the Pacific cable and the proposed fast steamship service to Canada direct. It says the success of the movement is largely due to Canada. The Government does not intend to subsidize the Australian Pacific service from Australia to Vancouver. It is also understood that the Government will only subsidize the Atlantic section of the service on condition that better time can be made over the Canadian Pacific railway than can now be made under existing conditions. In both the steamship and the cable schemes the principle is recognized. In order to have British connection exclusively, the line must, in the first instance, be carried westward from the center. By the acceptance of this principle Canada obtains a position she has never occupied before, as the main highway of the British Empire.

BODIES OF MANY STUDENTS.

Found Drowned in the Bosphorus—Work of Turkish Police. Special to The Times.

LONDON, Nov. 25.—A grim story, taken from a private letter from Constantinople, is published, according to which a diver, while recently engaged in assisting all the work of driving pile for a new pier at the Golden Horn, on reaching the sea bottom, was surprised to find himself surrounded by the bodies of a number of men, and, being unable to get up, he remained there until the diver discovered that they were the corpses of students, many of whom were known to him personally. He who was recently elected by the Turkish police and afterwards taken out in boats and dropped in the Bosphorus for taking part in the recent disturbances at Stambul. All the bodies had been recently washed to their feet, which kept them erect. The diver said there were from 10 to 20 bodies in that spot alone.

THE DEAD RAISED UP.

A Former Resident Thought to be Dying of Bright's Disease—Cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills. Special to The Times.

LONDON, Nov. 25.—A despatch reaching here relating to the recovery in Neepawa, Man., of Mrs. E. H. McKee formerly living here, was a surprise to her friends and acquaintances. It was met by doubt, however, until confirmed by a reply from Neepawa. Her case was well known here as this lady was treated by several of the local doctors for Bright's disease and her friends thought, as did her physicians, that her case was hopeless, and it was a last resort that she left here to try diastolic charge. That Mrs. McKee was cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills in a few weeks, speaks volumes in their favor.

ASHANTI PRINCES

Will be Guests of British White Britain. Fight Their Native Land. Special to The Times.

LONDON, Nov. 25.—It is entirely probable that the three Ashanti princes now in England will remain here to watch the issue of the war in their native land. Their position as guests in a country that is making war upon their own people will be anomalous, but not perilous. They are not recognized as envoys, and are safe from arrest if they remain peacefully in England, while they would certainly be taken into custody should they return to the Gold Coast at present on their way home. Their grievance has been aggravated by the fact that King Kibina, of South Africa, has been feted and honored in England, while they have been living in the seclusion of a second-rate boarding house.

SLAUGHTER IN CUBA.

Over Six Hundred Men Killed in a Heavy Battle.

Special to The Times.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—A Cuban messenger, who arrived at the quarters of the Cuban headquarters in this city late this afternoon, direct from the seat of the revolution, reported that on Nov. 19 one of the largest battles fought since the beginning of the present trouble took place. The news has been strictly withheld, not even El Herald, a Madrid newspaper, being allowed to send it out. The battle occurred at Taguasco, a town in the interior of Cuba. The Spanish forces engaged consisted of 10,000 men while the Cubans had but 4,000. The Spanish were led by Generals Vales Luque and Aldave, and General Maximo Gomez led the Cubans. The Cubans had a most favorable position at the foot of a hill. For 36 hours the opposing forces fought but the Spanish were unable to drive the Cubans back. The latter, however, could do no more than hold their own. Finally, just at a critical moment, General Antonio Maceo, of the Cuban army, came rushing in with a force of 3,000 men. With the aid of this reinforcement the Spaniards were quickly routed. The Cubans then advanced toward Trinidad and Cienfuegos. General Aldave is reported to have been killed in the battle and the total number of killed and wounded is placed at 600. General Gomez secured 700 rifles and a large amount of ammunition.

FIVE DEAD MEN FOUND.

Americans Looking for Gold in Mexico Starve in the Sierra Madre Mountains.

Special to The Times.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Nov. 26.—A special despatch received from Matatlan, Mexico, says that the bodies of five men, two of whom were recognized as being Americans, were discovered north-east of that place in a wild section of the Sierra Madre mountains. The bodies were supposed to be those of members of a gold prospecting party. The two Americans were from California, but their names are not known in this country. It is supposed that the party lost their way and died of starvation and exposure.

THE BISHOP TAKES ACTION.

The publication yesterday of the Sutton scandal in which the name of Rev. George Nesbitt, pastor of the Anglican church, figured, caused a sensation in the city where the various parties are so well known.

Rev. Mr. Nesbitt would next year have been entitled to a commendation of 100 years of 1840 as he will then have completed 35 years' service. On Friday last, Dr. Sweetman, Bishop of Toronto, received a letter from him in which he said: "I have become weary and should like to have my allowance granted now instead of next year. I will then go away to some place where I shall be no more seen. The bishop notwithstanding having heard a breath of suspicion against Mr. Nesbitt, felt rather sympathetic towards his subordinate and wrote him a kindly letter telling him not to become despondent but wait for one year."

ART AND LITERATURE IN CANADA.

There are cynics who say that there is no public opinion in Canada, no literature. At a dinner given recently by the publishers of Toronto to Mr. Hall Caine, the great novelist, this question was discussed, and a leading publisher remarked that a literature would never make rapid advance in this country because it is difficult to induce Canadians to read the works of a Canadian author. This statement, however, is not true with regard to Toronto. Saturday Night, which has a large circulation as any newspaper of its class in America. Its Christmas Number, which will be issued Dec. 1, is the eighth in a series of art numbers. It will be accompanied this year by five splendid colored supplements; the largest, a reproduction of a painting by a Canadian artist, done specially for Saturday Night, is 24 x 33 inches in size. Its title is "Champlain the Explorer," and depicts him and a flotilla of war canoes entering the mouth of a river on Lake Huron. The picture has been praised by the Historical Association as the most interesting and artistic attempt ever made to carry us back to the old days when Canada was little more than a geographical term. The other four pictures are done in sixteen colors, and the book itself, consisting of over forty pages, contains the four prize stories in the Saturday Night competition. Following is a list of contents:

First prize, "A Reconnaissance at Fort Ellice," by William Bleasdale Cameron. Illustrations by J. C. Jones.
Second prize, "Bob Shew's Ruby," by W. A. Fraser. Illustrations from photographs.
Third prize, "A Matter of Necessity," by John McCone. Illustrations by F. M. Bell-Sutton.
Fourth prize, "Widow Molony," by J. C. Jones. Illustrations by the author.

"Jim Lacey's Pass," by E. E. Sheppard. Illustrations by G. A. Reid, R.C.A.
"From the Sublimity," by Warren H. Warren. Illustrations by G. A. Reid, R.C.A.
"Nanton's Sister," by Alice Ashworth. Illustrations by G. A. Reid, R.C.A.
"Henderson of Strathgannoch," by Joe Clark. Illustrations by Carl Ahrens, R.C.A., and Beatrice Sullivan.

"So Long," an etching by "Don."
"Hawkie's Dream," (poem), by Alexander McLachlan.
"The Love of the World Detected," (poem), by William Cowper. Illustrations by J. W. Bingham.
"Life of Champlain," by George Stewart, M.A., D.C.L.
"As a Little Child," (poem), by Evelyn Durand.
"A Song," (poem), by Gertrude Barrett.
The price of the number, postpaid to any address, in a pasteboard tube to protect it from damage in the mails, is 50 cents, and in point of literary excellence and the quantity and quality of the supplements it far exceeds anything offered by foreign holiday publications. Mr. James L. Hughes, Inspector of Schools for Toronto, has said that the Champlain picture should be framed and hung in "every schoolroom in Canada," and schoolteachers everywhere should take an interest in bringing it before the public. Teachers and young people can do a good work by sending for a Christmas Number of Saturday Night, and a better work by acting as agent for it and inducing their neighbors to send for it as well. A liberal commission is allowed. Address The Sheppard Publishing Company, Limited, Adelaide Street west, Toronto. The price of the regular edition of Saturday Night, which undoubtedly stands alone as Canada's most interesting and thoroughly high-class illustrated weekly, is $2 per year.

FROM THE QUEEN CITY.

Damage About $12,000.—A Mystery at the Soo

And a Detective is Despatched there—The Fall of a Clergyman.

Special to The Times.

TORONTO, Nov. 26.—There was a $12,000 fire at the Western cattle market this morning. The blaze was discovered by a fireman 5 minutes to 9 and the firemen were on the scene 5 minutes after nine. It took them about two hours to effectually extinguish it.

The fire was not in the cattle market proper but in the annex to the immediate southwest of it. A lofty bridge spans the tracks between the two places, over which the cattle are driven, and at the southern end there are two approaches of steep grade, at right angles to the main structure. Underneath the western of these the fire started. There was kept sawdust and shavings used for "bedding" the cars.

Sparks from the crematory, which is straight south of this place, were blown into the pile and it ignited in an instant.

By the time the firemen arrived the bridge and some seven or eight cattle cars belonging to the C.P.R., which were lying on the siding were wrapped in flames and the blaze was being fanned by a heavy northwest wind. In the course of half an hour the bridge fell in at the angle, thus saving the main structure across the tracks from being burned. After this happened the firemen quickly obtained the mastery.

The seven cars burned were valued at about $1,200 each and were insured for $600 each. The bridge belongs to the city. It will cost some $3,000 or $4,000 to repair the damage.

A shed adjoining the Nelson House on King street east, caught fire this morning at 11.45 but the firemen's quick work prevented what would probably have been a very bad blaze. The damage was slight.

A chimney at 563 Parliament street gave the firemen a run a 9 o'clock.

At one o'clock a house at 124 Bellwoods avenue, occupied by Mr. Billingsby, was damaged to the extent of $300 and the furniture $100 worth. The cause is unknown.

Early this morning a fire broke out in W. McMillen's shanty on Ashbridge sand bar and burned up like a match paper.

A MYSTERY OF THE SOO.
The attorney-general's department has been requested to send one of its inspectors to Sault Ste. Marie to investigate the circumstances in connection with the death of Mrs. Arthur K. Woods, wife of the foreman of the pulp mill. The woman had only arrived from Maryland a few nights before her death.

A report of the evidence taken at an inquest, which was opened, has been forwarded to the Attorney General, who will decide whether or not the victims shall be brought to Toronto for analysis.

THE BISHOP TAKES ACTION.
The publication yesterday of the Sutton scandal in which the name of Rev. George Nesbitt, pastor of the Anglican church, figured, caused a sensation in the city where the various parties are so well known.

The bishop notwithstanding having heard a breath of suspicion against Mr. Nesbitt, felt rather sympathetic towards his subordinate and wrote him a kindly letter telling him not to become despondent but wait for one year."

when in due course he would receive the pension. In view of the facts which have been brought to light with regard to Miss Osborne his Lordship thinks that the clergyman, if he could have secured the allowance a year in advance would have left the country.

Mr. Nesbitt is 60 years of age, and has sons and daughters holding high positions. Churchwardens have power to suspend a clergyman for alleged immoral conduct, and the church officers of Sutton have exercised their right in this respect.

The Bishop last night wrote to Mr. Nesbitt informing him of the charge made against him and asking his intentions. If the minister acknowledges his guilt it will be for his Lordship to pronounce sentence at once, but if he does not do so a trial before the Synod will be necessary before he can be deposed.

In Advanced Years

The strength and pure blood necessary to resist the effects of cold seasons are given by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

THE POLITICAL SITUATION.

The political situation in this Dominion is a peculiar one. It is acknowledged by the politicians of both sides to be difficult and delicate. A crisis is approaching and neither Government nor Opposition is preparing to meet it with a light heart. The Government has a hard task to perform but the reflection that its own task is quite as hard prevents the Opposition from anticipating a triumph if the Administration is not equal to the work it has to do. The country seems to regard the politicians with quiet interest and mild curiosity. The people without evincing any excitement wonder what the next move in the political game will be and how the political parties will get out of the difficulties that embarrass both alike. It is quite evident that the leading men of both parties are nervous and anxious, and the importance of the question at issue and the uncertainty as to what the result will be very effectually keep down any noisy demonstrations of party spirit. Recriminations have almost ceased and very little bragging is heard. Politics have become tame to a very great many. This, we imagine, is because the situation is too serious to permit the men of either party to engage in unseemly wrangling about trifles. Is the quiet that reigns in every part of the Dominion the calm that often precedes the storm?

The Manitoba school question is the cloud that spreads itself over the whole political sky. It is not contemplated with pleasure by either the Conservatives or the Liberals. Both parties see that it cannot be long now before it must burst, and then what will be the consequence? What damage will it do and whom will it hurt? The Government say that they have done all they could do to prevent its doing harm, and Opposition have been dodging about to find a place of shelter so that when it does burst they will be out of harm's way. But they are no at all certain that they will be saved by their agility.

To drop the figure, it is easy to see that men of both parties regard the situation as serious and contemplate the future with uneasiness. As in all other trying times men of weak convictions and faint hearts are beginning to waver and are trying to find a place of safety before the crisis arrives. These men are not confined to one party. There are temporizers and trimmers and skeddaddlers on both sides. These men swell the numbers of a party when it is prosperous and when there is no issue before the country that tries men's souls, but in times of difficulty and danger they are a source of embarrassment and weakness. But we are glad to see that there are resolute men in the country who are not appalled by the appearance of danger, and it is to these men that the country must look to maintain peace and harmony among men of all creeds.

When it was first intimated by the TIMES that the Mason case should be settled out of court by the payment of a couple of hundred dollars to the plaintiff by the town, the suggestion was ignored by the council. In fact certain councilors scouted the idea of a compromise, and declared that the advice of the Corporation Solicitor would be followed every time. The recent call for "five hundred more" by Solicitor Edwards, with hardly a remote prospect of getting a single cent of it back, indicates that the TIMES was right.

PROTECTION IN ENGLAND.

The notion, says the Hamilton Herald, that protection is making headway in England got a nasty black eye last week from Lord Salisbury, who explicitly declared that a tariff for protection in any form is impossible, and otherwise treated the proposals of British protectionists with cool contempt. Of late we have been hearing from one section of the Canadian press that protectionist theories are gaining in favor in England, and oddly enough the statement has been made in a gleeful tone as if the adoption of a protective tariff by the Mother Country would do Canada good instead of grievous harm. Lord Salisbury's recent utterance will knock all that nonsense on the head, however.

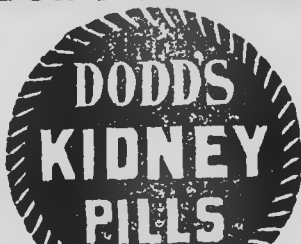

It will also knock on the head the equally nonsensical notions of the Imperial Federationists of whom J. Castell Hopkins, E. E. Sheppard and Colonel G. T. Denison are the illustrious exemplars in Canada. Part of the Imperial Federation programme was an 'imperial trade arrangement by which England and her colonies were to fix a dove-tailed tariff against the rest of the world. Unfortunately for all these big dreams and ambitious schemes, however, Lord Salisbury has declared that protection is not to be thought of so far as Britain is concerned, whatever other countries may see fit to do.

We must all feel sorry for the Canadian statesmen and newspapers which have been squinting at things around the other corner. It is quite likely that the eminent Canadian statesmen and newspapers know a good deal more about Britain's requirements and the courses of policy it ought to pursue than the British people themselves. Unfortunately, however, the British people persist in taking the opposite view, and as they have the say all that can be done is to leave them to their own mistaken devices, and spend an hour or two consoling Castell Hopkins and his attendant satellites, the gifted E. E. Sheppard and Biff Bang Denison.

The National Policy doesn't seem to be cutting much ice in North Ontario; it seems to be the same, old miserable fight between the two political parties for the Catholic vote.
Some people think that rum is a necessary evil, but in the Norwegian town of Haugesund, which has population of 6,200, not a drop of spirituous liquor has been sold for twenty-nine years. Many of the inhabitants have never tasted liquor.

An interesting discovery has been made in London. In a pile of papers at the conference office, City road, many unpublished hymns and poems in Charles Wesley's handwriting have been found. Many of the poems are political and relate to the American Revolution.

BICYCLE LEGGINGS.

A NECESSARY PART OF EVERY FAIR WHEELWOMAN'S COSTUME.

Designers Racking Their Brains for New Ideas—The Very Swell Thing is a Laced Affair That is Made to Fit Like a Glove.

Bicycle leggings, gaiters, boots and shoes of special design are shown in the shoe stores and department stores in great variety. The fashionable makers of custom shoes find an incidental boom in their business directly connected with the bicycle craze, and some of their finest and costliest work is in the line of laced or buttoned leggings and boots of extra length in the legs.

Designers in shoe factories are racking their brains for new ideas in leggings and boots. The latter come in all shades of russet and tan. They are made with an extra long top, reaching to the center of the calf. They come in laces, and differ only from the ladies' hunting boot, or boot for mountain wear, in that for bicycle use the sole must be single, thin and flexible.

Comfortable as such a boot is, it is in no such favor among the fair cyclists as leggings worn with approved bicycle shoes. The latter come in two styles, Oxford ties and plain front lace reaching just above the ankle. The soles are thin and the heel is low and flat. The Oxford ties are made up in dongs, patent leather, or tan, russet calf and canvas. The regulation bicycle shoe, laced to support the ankle, is made in dongs, calf and canvas. Rubber or leather soles are optional, but rubber is no longer considered the proper thing. The rat-trap pedals make the rubber soles unnecessary. The leggings are a necessity with either style of these shoes, and it is in their construction that the designers of footwear have given to the trade their best efforts.

One window shows over sixty styles of leggings. They are made up to button and to lace and to lace with button effect, and comprise ooze calf in the undressed or suede style and in all the rich tan tints, russet, white, red and brown Russian calf; enameled calf in black, red and russet; dongs, kid, kangaroo kid, corduroy in gray, black, blue and purple; canvas in a variety of shades and heavy cloth especially woven for this purpose in every color likely to be worn in the construction of bicycling costumes. Blues and grays predominate, and it is possible to match any of the prevailing shades of outing cloth in any of the big retail stores.

Tan leggings are, however, supposed to go well with any costume. The laced pattern worn by the ladies of the Lyceum company during the long run of "The Amazons" is much affected. They are made of either ooze calf or russet leather, of russet color, velvety and rich in appearance, and must fit like a glove from ankle to knee. To do this and not interfere with the free motion of the limb is a triumph of the cordwainer's art. The greatest care must be taken in the cutting out of leggings of this class. A slight mistake in measurement or cutting will ruin them in the eyes of the fastidious customer.

Men are not overgiven to wearing leggings as part of a bicycle costume, preferring to show their manly limbs through the medium of plaid golf stockings. The bicycle legging for men is a simple affair, closely resembling the riding legging in appearance. The bicycle legging, however, is not held to the limb by a strap under the foot, but rests lightly on the top of the foot. They are really intended as a protection in long journeys, and in the stores are shown only in corduroy, canvas and leather. The low quarter dongs, kid or canvas shoe of Oxford tie pattern, with an especially stout flat heel, and with a leather sole, is the correct thing for men's bicycle shoes.

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

The skeleton alone of an average whale weighs twenty-five tons.

The newest thing out in London's world of swiftness is a hand-painted shirt front.

A Dundee, Scotland, man is working on a sewing machine that is built on the bicycle plan.

Five cith telegrams will be tried in Italy. The government is also trying to have the tariff with other European countries reduced.

Here is a curious state of facts revealed in a New York court record: A man who testifies in court that he made a fortune from the manufacture of religious and other tracts is suing another in court for diverting a portion of it, with which they were to speculate in whisky on joint account.

WORTH FINDING.

Two men recently found in a Mississippi river another half of a stranded steamer containing 100 barrels of whisky. It had been ripening since built to sink, and was in fine fettle.

Two boys in Muskegon, Mich., recently found $500 in gold under an old pine stump in the town is in high hopes of becoming stupider.

Ten years ago a queer old fellow in Kentucky, James, happened on a trove of gold in his house. There were many barrels of the stuff, which was at last found, with $1,000 in it.

In some old buildings at Jay Bridge, Me., was found $2,500 in government bonds but a little time ago.

Dear Sir:—We think we ought to acknowledge in some way that may become public, the very great benefit our daughter has derived from the use of your Electro-Curative Belt, and your application of Electricity in the Bath and from Dry Treatment. When we brought her to you she was a picture of unhealthiness, her limbs were shriveled up, and as thin as limbs could be; she had no strength even to play with other children, in fact she was dying of consumption. Besides this, there was a hard lump on her spine at the nape of her neck, which caused her neck to be so stiff she could not move her head. Although it is only three months since we brought her to you she is sound and well.

A Model Nursery.
A model nursery in a house where money is not plenty has been brought about by study, ingenuity and a little effort. The walls are papered in a plain paper of a light cream, with a frieze and dado rail. For the dado, since the expensive tiles or hard wood was out of the question, a dado of gay cretonne was managed. The cretonne was hung by brass rings, small ones, just inside the dado rail, and has the merit that it can be easily taken down and laundered. For the frieze there is the jolliest sort of a Noah's ark procession, extending all around the room in delightful confusion. This was produced by pasting the animal figures on a strip of pale blue paper muslin, the animals, ready to cut out, being got from a kindergarten supply shop. At the windows are short little muslin curtains that easily draw back, and running all the way from one to the other of the windows is a big, broad box sofa, or couch. This is covered with corduroy, and every child in the family considers it the finest piece of furniture in the house. The seat raises and is the receptacle for all loose toys and belongings that keep the room in a clutter, and yet must be constantly at hand. The interior is partitioned and a part assigned to each child. When the seat is closed, it is the place of stretching places, and there are not wanting a goodly supply of pillows, whose stout and inexpensive coverings are warranted to withstand many a friendly fight. There is an open fire in this nursery, well provided by a fender which looks on over the entire opening. The floor is stained and shellacked, and a large cotton rug, which is bright and cheerful, but not expensive, lends a warm and cozy effect. Over the fireplace, from mantle to frieze, is a smooth dull red paper, and against this background have been prettily arranged various implements of childish sport—tennis rackets, a bow and arrow and the like. There is a beautiful doll-house, or so its little owners think, made from a pair of boxes and gradually fitted up by many contributing hands. The nursery has not grown in a day, but it has kept on acquiring till it is one of the cheeriest and most wholesome of places and the delight of every child who is in as a guest or owner.—New York Letter.

The Lasell Girl.
At Lasell seminary two-thirds of the girls go in for military drill under the command of a genuine major, who goes out twice a week from Boston for the purpose. The girls are intensely interested in this branch of their athletic education and find the exercises of great value in many ways. All the details of a full regiment are carried out. The manual of arms is performed together with the sword drill. At the annual competitive drill for battalions and individuals there is a lot of enthusiasm on the part of the fair to be soldiers. The uniform is of navy blue and consists of a skirt reaching to the boot tops, a Norfolk jacket, cadet cap and gill trimmings to indicate the rank. Each young woman at Lasell is expected to take two periods of exercises of 45 minutes every day, but it is elective to a great degree, and wholly so with the seniors. One period in doors and one out is the rule during the winter months, but for a brief time, spring and autumn, both are out of doors. Once a week the would be graceful girl dives into the mysteries of nerve training. She also has time for tennis, bowling, bicycling, riding and skating. It is small wonder, therefore, that the averages as to muscular development and strength just compiled at Lasell are much higher in the senior class than in the school at large.
Although corsets are not in the Lasell girl's wardrobe, her gowns have evidently been fitted over corsets, and the corsetless figure is not in evidence, as it is, for instance, at Wellesley and many other girls' colleges. That one believes in physical training is no excuse for an ill fitting gown and a general air of slovenliness. In fact, a svelte figure, with a chest held well forward and up by a firm and no less elastic muscles, should mark the athletic girl of the period, and not, as is too often the case, and most unfortunately for the cause, the unattractive dress which is "reform" in name only. It is possible the Lasell girl wishes to be graceful and aesthetically in attire as well as strong in limb and muscle.—New York Sun.

The Woman Growing Old.
The woman who keeps the simplicity of her girlhood, writes Julia Ward Howe, its generous impulses and quick sympathies, and who adds to her natural gifts the enlargement of study and the crown of experience, is always at her best and never past it.
Good. And Mrs. Howe adds, and what she says is so truthful and entertaining that we are glad to reproduce every word of it:
"When the exterior attractions of form and color diminish and depart, as they mostly do, the radiance of our inner illumination will more than compensate their departure, but in order that this should be so her moral must equal her intellectual gain. She must be willing to learn not only her own powers, but her own defects also, and to court the good influences which can help her to escape from the delusions of sense and the fatal tyranny of self-consciousness. She must discard the petty measures of vanity and self seeking and learn to love her race, her country and the humanity which she should help to adorn."
Herein, as we maintain, is the entire philosophy of growing old.

The woman growing old, as Mrs. Howe so well puts it, may well learn to love her race, her country and humanity. She may well learn to love all those about her, and if all good women growing old do this the race and the country and humanity will take care of themselves very handsomely. One never grows old who preserves the youthful expectancy and interest and appreciation in the things as well as the persons about her.
This is the dear old soul who is the more lovely if she is a grandmother as loving as anything in the world if she is a matron. She compels the admiration and attention of the young; she advises, comforts, encourages, appreciates. In that condition she is at her best. If she keeps so minded, she is always at her best.—Cincinnati Tribune.

The Women of Utah.
In character the headstrong is more Italian than Breton. The self is small and square shaped, with a wide, deep hanging down behind, and it is white when the wearer considers herself dressed and not in mourning. Bright colors, chiefly scarlet and blue, are often introduced at the side of the head, especially in the case of children, but the strong staidness of the feature is the manner in which the hair is

SLAUGHTER IN CUBA.

Over Six Hundred Men Killed in a Heavy Battle.

Special to The Times.

New York, Nov. 28.—A Cuban messenger, who arrived at the quarters of the Cuban headquarters in this city late this afternoon, direct from the seat of the revolution, reported that on Nov. 19 one of the largest battles fought since the beginning of the present trouble took place. The news has been strictly withheld, not even El Heraldo, a Madrid newspaper, being allowed to send it out. The battle occurred at Taguasco, a town in the interior of Cuba. The Spanish forces engaged consisted of 10,000 men while the Cubans had but 4,000. The Spanish were led by Generals Vales, Luque and Aldave, and General Maximo Gomez led the Cubans. The Cubans had a most favorable position at the foot of a hill. For 36 hours the opposing forces fought but the Spanish were unable to drive the Cubans back. The latter, however, could do no more than hold their own. Finally, just at a critical moment, General Antonio Maceo, of the Cuban army, came rushing in with a force of 3,500 men. With this reinforcement the Spaniards were quickly routed. The Cubans then advanced toward Trinidad and Cienfuegos. General Aldave is reported to have been killed in the battle and the total number killed and wounded is placed at 800. General Gomez secured 700 rifles and a large amount of ammunition.

FIVE DEAD MEN FOUND.

Americans Looking for Gold in Mexico Starve in the Sierra Madre Mountains.

Special to The Times.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 28.—A special despatch received from Mazatlan, Mexico, says that the bodies of five men, two of whom were recognized as being Americans, were discovered north-east of that place in a wild section of the Sierra Madre mountains. The bodies were supposed to be those of members of a gold prospecting party. The two Americans were from California but their names are not known in Mazatlan. It is supposed that the party lost their way and died of starvation and exposure.

THE DEAD RAISED UP.

A Former Resident Thought to be Dying of Bright's Disease—Cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Special to The Times.

LISTOWEL, Nov. 28.—A despatch reaching here relating to the recovery in Neepawa, Man., of Mrs. T. H. McKee formerly living here was a surprise to her friends and acquaintances. It was met by doubt, however, until confirmed by a reply from Neepawa. Her case was well known here as this lady was treated by several of the local doctors for Bright's disease and her friends thought, as did her physicians, that her case was hopeless, and it was as a last resort that she left her home to climate change. That Mrs. McKee was cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills in a few weeks, speaks volumes in their favor.

TWENTY-THREE MONTHS.

A Dishonest Ticket Agent Brought to Quick Justice.

Special to The Times.

MONTREAL, Nov. 28.—This morning before Judge Dugas J. H. Fortier was convicted and sentenced to twenty-three months in jail, at hard labor, on a charge laid by the Canadian Pacific Railway Co. of having while acting as ticket clerk at Sharnot Lake station, Ont., stolen certain tickets and by forced signatures and bogus stamps, procured from a local dealer in this city, made same good to travel upon from St. Phillippe De Laprarie, Que., to Paynesville, Minnesota and return. Upon committing the offence, Fortier, who is a married man hailing from St. Scholastique, fled to St. Paul, accompanied by a young unmarried woman of this place. The case was put in the hands of a special officer, who in a few days very cleverly located Fortier in Winnipeg where he was arrested. Officer and prisoner arrived here late last night and early this morning the case was disposed of as above.

This is the third conviction the Canadian Pacific Railway Co. has obtained against dishonest employees within a month.

After referring to the counsel engaged in the case, and pointing out that the strongest effort that could be made by the Crown had been used to bring home guilt to the prisoners, he claimed that the defence had not the case to go to the jury.

The witnesses for the defence, respectable men, had been attacked on personal grounds for the purpose of ascertaining if there were not some men in the crowd who were not to be trusted.

The character of the witnesses remains unimpaired and unimpeachable notwithstanding the great evidence of force that was put forward by the Crown.

The Crown witnesses produced the slightest taint that can in any way discredit their testimony.

If this defence was a trumped-up affair, it would be a defence of perjury.

The whole of the time which has elapsed since the last trial the Crown has had to go into the lanes and byways and hidden paths of these witnesses, to go into the inner circle of their lives, to tell us what they were doing and what they were saying.

And yet they have not been able to impeach a solitary witness. There were certain defects of memory, it is true, but that does not denote perjury.

JOHNSTON PLEADS FOR THE HYAMS.

His Masterly Address to the Jury-- A Summing Up of the Evidence.

THE end of the evidence for the Crown and for the defence, a stage in the most remarkable trial which perhaps has ever taken place in the Province of Ontario, perhaps in the Dominion of Canada, remarkable by reason of many things, and I shall deal with some of those in detail as I go on; remarkable by reason of the great effort that has been made to prove the guilt of the accused; remarkable by reason of the number of witnesses and the minute manner in which they have been examined for the defence; and above all, a trial that has been before a jury in this court house by reason of the manifest contradictions of the Crown witnesses upon most important points; remarkable because of the numberless suspicions that have been endeavored to be cast upon these prisoners by the Crown by the evidence that has been adduced; remarkable, I say, in that the defence has been able to meet and clear away, to a great extent, at any rate, the suspicions that have been brought against these prisoners.

THE end of the evidence for the Crown and for the defence, a stage in the most remarkable trial which perhaps has ever taken place in the Province of Ontario, perhaps in the Dominion of Canada, remarkable by reason of many things, and I shall deal with some of those in detail as I go on; remarkable by reason of the great effort that has been made to prove the guilt of the accused; remarkable by reason of the number of witnesses and the minute manner in which they have been examined for the defence; and above all, a trial that has been before a jury in this court house by reason of the manifest contradictions of the Crown witnesses upon most important points; remarkable because of the numberless suspicions that have been endeavored to be cast upon these prisoners by the Crown by the evidence that has been adduced; remarkable, I say, in that the defence has been able to meet and clear away, to a great extent, at any rate, the suspicions that have been brought against these prisoners.

NOT LIARS NOR PERJURERS.

After referring to the counsel engaged in the case, and pointing out that the strongest effort that could be made by the Crown had been used to bring home guilt to the prisoners, he claimed that the defence had not the case to go to the jury.

The witnesses for the defence, respectable men, had been attacked on personal grounds for the purpose of ascertaining if there were not some men in the crowd who were not to be trusted.

The character of the witnesses remains unimpaired and unimpeachable notwithstanding the great evidence of force that was put forward by the Crown.

The Crown witnesses produced the slightest taint that can in any way discredit their testimony.

If this defence was a trumped-up affair, it would be a defence of perjury.

and perjury, there would have been a different result from an investigation into the character and stories of these witnesses.

The whole of the time which has elapsed since the last trial the Crown has had to go into the lanes and byways and hidden paths of these witnesses, to go into the inner circle of their lives, to tell us what they were doing and what they were saying.

And yet they have not been able to impeach a solitary witness. There were certain defects of memory, it is true, but that does not denote perjury.

MUNICIPAL MATTERS.

It is time that the ratepayers were bestirring themselves in selecting candidates for next year's council. What we require most of all in the council, is a class of men who will not be led by every Tom, Dick or Harry with an axe to grind. We fail to see why the corporation should not be managed with the prudence that a man conducts his private business. The fact is we should during the coming year, use the pruning knife freely in reducing our civic expenses. Our law and our police costs too much, while the street improvement have not been conducted as they should have been. Frequently timber that should be classed as third rate cull, has been used, with the result that it has to be replaced with other timber in a year or two. The habit of increasing salaries of corporation servants every now and then, for no earthly reason except that the official has a "pull" with the council in some way, is destitute of rhyme or reason. Men who would be glad to earn five or six hundred dollars, suddenly, when they become servants of the people, discover that they are poorly paid with twice this yearly salary. It is all very well to point to the rate and say "we are not taxed as heavily as our neighbours." But first take a house, for instance, that rents for $10 a month, and compare it with a similar building with similar rent in any of the neighboring towns, and note the result. You will find in nine cases out of ten that the tax here are very much higher. Of course, we admit, that it is worth more to live in a live place like Peterborough with its many advantages, than in any of the other towns or cities in the province, but because we are happily situated in respect to being the headquarters of the great and only Lime Juice Club, and by reason of the progressive spirit of our people, there is no reason why we should be taxed to death. Let us, therefore, unite in selecting a council for 1907 who will see that our debts are paid and our business conducted for very much less money than it now takes.

The December Number of the Delineator is called The Christmas Number and is filled with holiday good things. The exposition of Winter styles is complete, and the Season's Millinery is attractively presented. There is a special holiday article on Dolls and their dressing, and another on Novel Home-Made Christmas Gifts, a theme pleasantly supplemented by the conclusion of Tillie Roome Littell's account or how to make Crepe Paper Brownies, and by a chatty glance at current novelties in Around The Tea Table. Mrs. Roger A. Pryor delightfully chaperones her readers to Society Breakfasts Luncheons and Suppers. The practical side of the Christmas Dinner has an exposition all its own, while the Christmas Turkey itself figures in an amusing sketch of Cabin Life in the South, by Lucia M. Robbins. Henry C. Wood tells how some bright young people of the Blue Grass Region celebrated Christmas at "Happy Valley," and a helpful article on Carving completes the tribute to the day. Henry C. Lahee of the New England Conservatory of Music, gives experienced advice on Piano Tuning as an Occupation for Women. Harriet Keith Forbes treats of Burnt Work Upon Ivory, while Sara Miller Kirby concludes the present series of papers on Kindergarten Work, the great success of which has caused a supplementary series of three to be arranged for. Floral Work for the Month, a look into the Newest Books and a review of novelties in Knitting, Tatting and Lace Making are among the other features.

Subscription price of the Delineator $1.00 per year or 15c per single copy. Address all communications to The Delineator Publishing Co. of Toronto, Limited 33 Richmond St. West, Toronto, Ont.

January 1st is the day for making good resolutions. Sir Mackenzie had better swear off on coercion on that day as Parliament meets on January 2.

Christian Endeavorers to the number of several hundred are to meet for the purpose of praying for the conversion of that hardened old sinner, Bob Ingersoll, who persists in being a thorn in the side of orthodox Christianity whenever he can get enough people together at a dollar a head to fill a hall. Our talented contemporary the Hamilton Herald puts it thusly: "We all know that the prayers of the wicked avail nothing." This will be a good opportunity to see what effect the prayers of the folks who are not wicked will have on this white-haired hunk of iniquity.

Melrose G. V. Gould, of Oshawa, has just completed his 21st year. He has not yet caused much stir in the world; but if his achievements in the future may be measured by what he has done in his childhood and youth, he is likely to become famous. On his twenty-first birthday his mother gave him $100 in gold for having faithfully kept the promise which he gave her when he was a very small boy never to use tobacco or intoxicating liquor in any form. He also received as gifts a family Bible and twenty volumes of history, all of which he read through before he had reached the age of six years. At twelve he had read the whole Bible through six times and the New Testament forty-times, besides committing to memory several complete books of the sacred writings. At twelve years of age in addition to his daily routine of studies, he completed the four-years' Chautauquan course, being the youngest of fifty thousand Chautauquan who had received their diplomas. He is now in his fourth year at Toronto university, has captured two scholarships and has been elected orator of the class of '06 and president of the Political Science association, the latter by acclamation. Precocious children do not always fulfil the promise of their childhood; but young Mr. Gould seems to be able to keep up the pace which he struck so early in life.

.. ASSURANCE COMPANY OF CANADA ..

The Rev. J. L. Murray, of Kincardine, Ontario, assured in the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada, in December, 1874, under Policy No. 1456, on the Twenty Year Endowment plan, paying an annual premium of $60.90 for ten years. He paid into the Company in all $609. In December, 1894, his Endowment matured, and he received a cheque from the Company for $1,364.70, being a return of all the premiums paid, and in addition, $765.70. That is to say Mr. Murray got back all the money he invested, with about 4 1/2 PER CENT. COMPOUND INTEREST, and had his life assured for $1,000 for twenty years free of charge.

It is needless to say that Mr. Murray was much pleased. You may gather that fact from the perusal of his letter here appended. QUERY:—How many of the people of Peterborough invest their money to better advantage?

N. B.—This is an example of profits paid under our Five Year Distribution plan. The results under our Reserve Dividend (or Semi-Tontine) policies may reasonably be expected to greatly exceed that realized under the above plan.

The Sun Life Assurance Co. of Canada, Montreal.

GENTLEMEN,—I beg to acknowledge the receipt of your cheque in full settlement of claim under my Ten Payment Twenty Year Endowment policy, No. 1406, and I desire to express my satisfaction with the result of my investment. I paid to the Company an annual premium of $60.90 for ten years, making a total of $609, for which I now receive a cheque for $1,364.70, being a return of all I have paid the Company, and in addition, $765.70, besides having had my life assured for $1,000 during the twenty years. This I consider very good indeed, and I have pleasure in giving my testimonial to that effect.

WAITING ORDERS IN THE NAVY.

A Species of Suspended Animation That Officers Do Not Like.

When the ordinary citizen meets a naval officer in New York, the former usually has some curiosity as to what ship the man-of-war's man belongs to and is often a little astonished to learn that he belongs to none. The idea that a sailor is always at sea, or just ashore, or about going to sea, is strongly rooted in the public mind, and the landsman is even more astonished to learn that a naval officer may be neither at sea nor on shore duty, but unemployed. There are all sorts of reasons why men should be unemployed, and the record of every commissioned officer shows that a considerable percentage of his time was thus occupied. The naval orders from week to week report this or that officer on leave, with permission to leave the United States, which means nine times out of ten that the officer in question is about to take a vacation in Europe.

Much of every naval officer's time of idleness, however, is involuntary, or at least not directly sought on his part. After every cruise or tour of shore duty an officer usually has a period of waiting orders. This may be with a view to giving him a chance to catch his breath, as the phrase is in the navy, it being supposed that a man's respiration on duty is a bit hurried through the exigencies of the service. Such a time of idleness may endure for ten days or for six weeks or more, but the waiting officer must never be out of reach of orders, and must be ready if need be to start for his new post in 24 hours. He always keeps open his lines of communication with Washington, for a failure to respond promptly to orders may mean a court martial, and will certainly do him harm at the navy department. Few naval officers court a long term on waiting orders, for it means reduced pay and always the haunting sense of responsibility resulting from the necessity of being ready to go at once when the summons comes. No positive engagement can be made 24 hours ahead, and the officer must always keep pretty close to the skirts of civilization and a telegraph office. The department must know of his movements if they carry him far from his recorded address.

Waiting orders are not so frequent or so long enduring as they once were, now that the navy has begun to catch up with the size of the officers' list. But it is not always easy even now to assign a man to new duty. There are occasions, however, when an officer just relieved from a post is seized and packed off to foreign parts in 48 hours. If the need be really pressing, the new assignment is accepted without grumbling, but if it seems to be something short of essential there is likely to follow a cautious protest and a strong effort to escape from it. The trouble at the New York navy yard to find a captain for the ship that was to take Frederick Douglass to Haiti is historic. Mr. Douglass, by the way, was extremely popular in the wardroom of that ship.

There are in the navy, as in the army, men who are able constantly to secure pleasant posts ashore or in or about Washington or New York. There is some bitterness on this score in the navy, though the thing hardly amounts to a scandal.—New York Sun.

A Curious Feat.

A curious feat was one performed by an electrician. He was coming home from South America after assisting in cable laying. The ship called at Lisbon, anchoring at the mouth of the Tagus. On weighing anchor up came a damaged cable on the flukes. The captain was about to cut the cable and run, but the electrician begged for five minutes' delay. It was granted. He took a bearing of the spot, improvised a battery and contrived to speak to the Lisbon office. Aware of the fault, the office was on the alert, and he received its thanks upon his tongue by the taste of the wire whenever the current passed. This ingenious feat probably saved the company several thousand pounds. Repair expeditions are very costly, sometimes amounting to $35,000 and even $40,000. The tiny terebo will bore holes in a cable that costs $15,000 and $20,000 to repair.—London Standard.

High Aerial Navigation.

Beyond 20,000 feet above sea level, the height reached by Glaisher in 1862, man has never been able to navigate the air. Various problems concerning the regions farther away (higher up)—such as temperature, pressure, moisture and composition of the air—have been leading subjects of discussion among the physicists for years. In 1893 M. Hermite adopted the plan of sending up balloons fitted out with self-registering instruments. These balloons have been brought up to what is considered perfection. They are very light, the average capacity being only 150 cubic feet of gas. With these a systematic exploration of the upper regions of the air is being made, and it is said that some of them have attained a height of 20,000 feet.—St. Louis Republic.

RIOTING IN A PRISON.

DESPERATE CONVICTS BRUTALLY ASSAULT OFFICIALS.

Jackson Prison Narrowly Escapes Destruction by Fire—Many Machines Smashed—The Warden Fatally Hurt and Other Officers Injured.

Special to The Times.

ACKSON, Mich., Nov. 27.—One of the most desperate riots ever known among convicts took place at the prison here this morning. Deputy Warden Northrup was struck on the head with a hammer and some other missiles, and is supposed to be fatally hurt. Supt. Coffey, of the new shirt factory, was beaten over the head with a club and pounded to insensibility. Foreman Muller, of the factory, was slugged on the head with what ever the convicts could lay their hands on. After this the enraged demons smashed a number of machines with hammers and iron bars. All this took place while the guards and keepers about the prison were rushing to the assistance of the wounded men. In a few moments the prison force controlled the desperate convicts and those on the entire floor were locked up. There were eight convicts directly engaged in the battle. Of this number Dick Huntley, the Detroit 30 year burglar, and "Curly," the five year man, also from Detroit, and "Lige" Ballard, the fighting "Coot," serving a second sentence, were the ringleaders. Huntley being the man who struck the first blow. The trouble came like a flash and was about a trivial matter. After the deputy was rescued and taken away, the rioters found the keepers coming armed to the scene, and no doubt fearing they would be shot, ceased their murderous efforts and were at once placed in their cells. There are 100 convicts in the shirt factory, but the warden says only eight seemed to have anything to do with the fight. As soon as the fight became general, some convicts threw a lighted match into a greasy cotton waste, and flames sprang up. To add to the horror, one of the convicts turned on all the steam, while another attempted to smash the pipes and let the steam into the room. Prompt action of the officers alone saved a general outbreak. In all there were forty machines smashed to pieces by the eight convicts with iron bars and hammers.

Exposure to cold, damp winds, may result in pneumonia unless the system is kept invigorated with Hood's Sarsaparilla.

THE TIMES BOOKSTORE

The Times

PETERBOROUGH, NOVEMBER 27 1895.

CITY AND COUNTY NEWS

LOCAL AND DISTRICT HAPPENINGS OF THE DAY.

The Weather.

Fresh to strong southwesterly to southerly winds, fair and comparatively mild.

'Prentice Boys' Ball.

The annual ball of the 'Prentice Boys will be held on the evening of Dec. 13.

Will Visit Peterborough.

Canada's great optician and inventor of the Rescherche optometer will visit Peterborough Dec. 2, 3, and 4. Dr. Jebb will be at Clarke & Gibson's jewelry store, where he will examine the eye and sight free. A treatise on the subject also given free.

Concluded Their Session.

The Archdeaconry concluded its session yesterday noon after a successful and beneficial conference. At yesterday's session Rev. H. Symonds read a paper on Christian Education in Public School, which was discussed by the clergymen present.

A Warning to Boys.

It is said that many boys in town carry revolvers and if this is true, it is safe to say the "shooting irons" are loaded. The criminal code in section 105 states that anyone who carries a pistol or a gun is guilty of an offence and liable on summary conviction to penalty not exceeding $30 or not less than $4. Section 106 states that everyone who is guilty of selling an air gun or pistol to minors is liable to a fine not exceeding $50. This should prove a warning to boys and to those who retail these articles.

Nearly a Fatality.

A lady and gentleman had a narrow escape from death in the Grand Central elevator yesterday. Mrs. Brodigan, who has engaged rooms at this hotel, wished to go up the elevator and in the absence of the elevator boy, Mr. J. W. Crosby kindly offered to take her up. They stepped inside the shaft, closed the door and Mr. Crosby pulled on the wires. It appears that the elevator was at the second floor and instead of stepping into it they had entered the empty shaft. When Mr. Crosby pulled the wire it caused the elevator to descend and in a few seconds it was upon them, crushing them to their knees. It was impossible to get out as the door was shut. The screams of the lady hurried Mr. Goble, who was on the second floor, to the shaft. He took in the situation at a glance and stopped the descent of the ponderous elevator in the nick of time. It was a narrow escape and the lady is prostrated from the effects of the terrible shock.

"The Common People."

As Abraham Lincoln called them, do not care to argue about their ailments. What they want is a medicine that will cure them. The simple honest statement: "I know that Hood's Sarsaparilla cured me," is the best argument in favor of this medicine and this is what many thousands voluntarily say.

HOOD'S PILLS are the best after dinner pills, assist digestion, cure headache, etc.

MARSHALL P. WILDER.

He is Undoubtedly the Funniest Entertainer of the Age.

The Opera House was filled last night to its utmost capacity to listen to Marshall P. Wilder. He was assisted by several other artists, who contributed to the excellent program which was given under the auspices of the Charlotte street church. Mr. Wilder is very short, almost a dwarf. His face almost creates a laugh before he says a word. If the selection is to be funny, if serious his face before he begins gives the keynote. He has a wonderful stage presence, his actions and words come as freely as possible. He suggests at times, leaving much to the imagination. He is certainly a wonderful and unique little man and carried his audience last night with him wherever he wished to take them. He gave three selections altogether, each consisting of a series of sketches and stories, funny and serious. He would wander from one to another and from joke to joke, keeping the people in roars of laughter. He had to respond many times to each selection. The Fire Brigade orchestra was present and gave appropriate selections during the evening.

Pills! Pills! Iching Pills.
SYMPTOMS—Moisture; intense itching and stinging; most at night; worse by scratching. If allowed to continue tumors form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and in most cases removes the tumors. At druggists, or by mail for 50 cents. Dr. Swayne & Philadelphia Lyman, Ross & Co. Montreal wholesale agents.

THE BUGGY UPSET.

Occupants Held Captive by the Buggy Top—A Narrow Escape.

Mrs. Hugh Davidson and little boy and girl, of South, had a very narrow escape from serious injury yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Davidson was driving in a covered buggy and was opposite Meldrum & McAllister's mill when the horse took fright at a street car, and tried to run away. In the endeavor to stop the horse, the vehicle was completely overturned into a ditch, and the occupants were held captive by the buggy top. Had the animal continued to run or kicked, serious injury would have been done to the three.

Several persons rushed to the rescue and extricated Mrs. Davidson and the children, and they were taken into the residence of Mr. P. Sullivan. A doctor was summoned and dressed their wounds. Mrs. Davidson sustained a severe gash on the forehead. The little girl was badly injured on the shoulder, while the boy escaped.

STARS AND STRIPES.

A Free Fight at the Veterinary College Over the U. S. Flag.

There was a free fight at the Ontario Veterinary College, Toronto, yesterday morning between the American and Canadian students. It being Thanksgiving Day across the line, the American students, who number 140, as against 21 Canadians, undertook to hoist the Stars and Stripes in the lecture room just after Dr. Smith closed his morning lecture.

A young man named Shaw, who comes from New York State, hung the flag up, but it was soon torn down by a student from Lindsay, who was quickly seized by Shaw. The man from across the line got much the worst of the mix-up, as he was thrown violently against a bench and had his face badly cut.

The others then took a hand in it and was a free fight between the ten Canadians and the 70 Americans. The fight lasted about 20 minutes and many of the combatants were roughly dealt with but the Canadians got away the best of the row. W. W. Richards, a big student from California, who says he was taught how to fight by Jim Corbett, went at Bill Agnew, another big fellow from Huron county and the other students looked on. Agnew gave the Californian a beautiful trouncing, after which the trouble ceased, giving Dr. Duncan a chance to deliver his lecture.

The Deadly Toy Rifle.

In the north ward, the other day the small boy and the deadly "toy" rifle nearly caused a fatal accident. A ball from the weapon crashed through a neighbor's window and lodged in the opposite side of the room, just missing the head of one of the occupants. The rifle was taken from the boy and broken, as supposed, but a day or two later complaint was again made by the residents of the house above mentioned, and a police request made that hostilities cease at once, as they were about tired dodging bullets. It is a great mistake for parents to place firearms of any kind in the hands of their boys. It does not make men out of them one bit sooner, while it causes their neighbors a great deal of anxiety, to say the least.

Wanted a Horse.

Wanted for the winter for his keep, a good horse. Can provide good stabling and guarantee good care. Address box "G," Times Office.

English Hop Ale.

Just received, a brewing of English Hop ale.—W. Croft.

THE TIMES BOOK STORE.

A Handsomely Fitted up and Well-stocked Stationery and Book Store.

For several weeks past carpenters and painters have been at work enlarging, changing, refitting and decorating the first floor of THE TIMES' building, preparatory to the opening of a book and stationery store. This work is completed and the result is certainly most gratifying. Plate glass windows take the place of the old style sash and the exterior of the building is resplendent in new paint. The interior has been handsomely fitted up with all the necessary conveniences for the best display of goods and the comfort of patrons and a complete stock of stationery and other lines incidental to the stationery trade has been put in.

The Opening Day.

The opening day of THE TIMES book store will be on Saturday, Nov. 30, and the public is invited to call in and inspect the splendid stock of stationery, Christmas goods, Japanese goods, fancy goods, books, etc. Remember this, the stock is new. Some lines were imported from the old country and cannot be duplicated outside of the cities. Especial attention was given in the selection of goods for the Christmas trade, and the public will appreciate this fact after an inspection.

Unheard of Prices.

THE TIMES Book Store is not here to fill a long felt want, but it is going to revolutionize the prices of stationery, books and stationery lines in Peterborough. The running of the stationery store in connection with the newspaper business does not entail extra rent, extra light or extra taxes, therefore these expenses will not have to be met by large profits and in consequence we can sell goods cheaper than any bookstore in town and still enjoy a living profit. Call in and examine prices.

The opening day will be tomorrow, Saturday, November 30. The attention of our readers is called to the advertisement on this page.

Smokers Attention.

We wish to draw the attention of all smokers of cigars to our recent direct importation of cigars from Havana, consisting of 10,000 assorted sizes Diaz Garcia, and 15,000 Masual Garcia, assorted sizes, bought at very close prices for cash and are prepared to give the benefit to the citizens of the town. Our cigars at 4 for 25c, 3 for 25c, 10c, straight or 15c, straight are away ahead in quality and size of those offered by other dealers at these prices. Come and see for yourself and be convinced that the best place in town for imported cigars is at Chas. LeGros', 329 George street, Peterborough's only direct importer.

Dr. Ryerson Coming.

Dr. Sterling Ryerson, M.D., C.M., the well known eye, ear and throat specialist, will be at the Grand Central hotel, on Saturday, November 30, for consultation.

OAK HALL.

LITTLE LOCAL LINES.

Items of Interest Intelligently Presented for Busy Readers.

Apparently the farmers of this locality are in no hurry to dispose of their wheat and coarse grain, judging from what is arriving at the grain depots in Peterborough. While the weather remains open, work on the farm will continue, and the grain will be drawn later on.

Isn't it about time to close down the teacher factories for awhile? An advertisement for a teacher the other day brought 135 applications. The province is full of teachers who cannot find schools and the teacher factories are still running at full time.

Horseflesh continues to drop in price. A few days ago a man turned his team to another man to accept as a present. He said he could not afford to feed them and did not like to shoot them.

It has been stated that there is an increasing demand for cheese and the market have a healthy tone. This being the case it may not be unsafe to predict a brisk trade and highest prices next year. Two full moons will come in December. Adventists say this has not occurred since the coming of Christ, 1,895 years ago, and from the coincidence argue his second coming during the approaching holidays.

A number of local sports went out to a turkey shoot at Centerville yesterday.

The Lady True Blues will hold a social in their hall, Simcoe street, on Tuesday evening next.

The days of June are rare and fair. Sometimes without a flaw; November days are much more rare. They're absolutely raw.

FAKIR OR CRAZY.

The Freaks of a Frenchman Who Claimed to be Worth $10,000.

A Frenchman by the name of Felix Massau, visited town some three or four weeks ago, purporting to come from Manitoba, says the Lindsay Watchman. He stated that he had fallen heir to $10,000, and was so pleased to meet persons whom he claimed were near relatives that he was only too anxious to see them all doing well. Among the latter was a widow in very poor circumstances, whom he wished to befriend in his own peculiar way. He proposed purchasing a house, furnishing the same throughout, and let his poor relation live therein until she could again marry, in event of which she was to retain the house and pay a rental of $5 per month. This was highly acceptable and he called on Mr. D. Hallinan, a near neighbor, who had several houses for sale. He inquired the price of one, but finding it so good a bargain he decided to buy two at $2,500. He had the property surveyed, visited the registry office and made a thorough search into the title. He then secured the services of an attorney to prepare the necessary deeds, selected and ordered carpets, stoves, and furniture. The merchants, however, withheld the goods until the cash should be forthcoming. He also let a contract for fencing the same with wire. He lived with his friends as an honored guest for about eight days, and succeeded in borrowing a five dollar gold piece from the widow whose he wished to befriend. Everything looked nice up to the day on which the papers were to be signed and the money handed over for the property. He had carried the little sums as far as it would go, and knowing it, he arose early in the morning, ate an apple, went through the pockets of his friends, folded his tent and like the Arab stole away. For a time nothing was heard of him, but a few days ago he was seen in the vicinity of Lorneville where he was negotiating for the bogus purchase of a farm. This gent should be corralled and given a term in prison or an asylum to enable him to get over his craze for speculation in his mind. Bailiff Atkins was at Kirkfield a few days ago to make a seizure of a farm, and found Massau there, negotiating for purchase of same farm, for his cousin, Mr. F. Massau, of Lindsay. The bailiff supposed it was all right, but upon his return to Lindsay he found out differently.

MR. LOUNT'S ADDRESS.

An Eloquent Appeal For the Life of His Client.

REVIEWING THE CASE.

A STRONG ARGUMENT IN FAVOR OF THE COMPLETE INNOCENCE OF THE HYAMS TWINS.

Special to The Times.

TORONTO, Nov. 29.—When the court resumed this morning the hands of Harry Hyams, although consigned to the mother. And you can depend upon it it remained in their hands with the exception of what was necessary to pay the household expenses. Can you conceive that men will undertake to plot for a life who are not forced to it by necessity, when all the movements and the planning may not consummate in their getting out of a fix?

What reasonable prospect in September when the insurance was placed that he was not the benighted wretch who did the deed? The great question is, did Harry had been broken off frequently before that. There did not appear to be any anxiety on her part to marry him, and you conceive a monster that could have in his heart the killing of a man whose sister he was sincerely in love with?

The claim that Hyams owed Wells $1000 and the latter was pressing for the money and had been promised it on the day he was killed, said Mr. Lount, was met by the evidence of Lane that he had arranged to pay the money to the prisoners the $1000 on Jan. 10.

The story of Aylesworth that he had called on seven persons at the request of the prisoners was characterized as a fabric of falsehoods. The slightest examination of the facts was explained by the fact that Hyams expected to go to Flocking and be absent for a week or two and wanted business attention to be before he went away.

AYLESWORTH AGAIN.
Once more the counsel paid his respects to Aylesworth.

"Who is this man Aylesworth?" he asked. "Look at the record of his life! A gambler, a haunter of pool shops, a keeper of three convenient, comfortable, well-managed rooms in the city which are not necessary to his business or his home comfort, which he sells for a night, and a man who is not a man of business, but a man of pleasure."

EXILES FROM HOME.
The elevator and premises were put in repair for an honest purpose. They went about the work like thorough business men.

Counsel continued: If you believe this for God's sake give them the benefit of doubt. Do not take from them the rights which they have to honest conviction in their own conviction will lead you to that end. Do not deny to them that glorious privilege which we all live under. They may be foreigners in this country; they may be exiles from their homes; but they are not exiles from their lives; but they have suffered sorrow deep, long, harrowing and sufficient to break the heart and will take the life of any human being, and they have undergone suffering which no man can understand. You do not know what it is; you cannot dream of it. Their suffering hours are more than man can depict and I ask you again for their rights. If the proofs I offer are reasonable and satisfactory, give them, oh! give them the benefit of doubt.

Let truth be your anchor, and if you do these men who have passed so many sleepless nights may be many days feel the sun shine on their liberated heads.

The living in the weight shaft in the cellar of the prisoners, the placing of gates on the warehouse—guards against danger, protection against death—was proof that the prisoners were endeavoring to make the elevator safe.

The changing of the weights was referred to as merely the mistaken idea of the prisoners. Could he honestly say that these prisoners did not have a belief that the light weight would be more suitable to operate the cage with a light load? Admitting they were wrong in their theories, is that evidence that they did not have a honest belief in this at the time? They knew nothing of the operations of elevators; perhaps that was the first one with which they were acquainted. And yet these perfectly natural repairs that were made are tortured and construed and bent and twisted to make a case against them.

He claimed that the removal of the platform and the obstruction on the weight shaft proved the innocence of the prisoners. Guilty men would have allowed them to have remained.

AN APOLOGY FOR PROHIBITION.
Counsel expressed regret for occupying so much time.

"Gentlemen, your time is only today and tomorrow, your time ends soon and leads to no bed unless you so far as the occupation of it is concerned. If, however, I do not take up your time or strive to make all plain to you and with every effort make prominent the innocence of these men, it will be done both then and myself great wrong. The time that you lose here might be the eternity of time for these imprisoned men, and I therefore ask your indulgence while I, also, perhaps and with some weariness of detail, bring back to your memories that which during three weeks has been given to you, but must more or less faded away as you became possessed of newer and other evidence. You will bear with me, I know. My life would not be a pleasant one if, after you had had occasion to take this case, by some misfortune of accident or accident you pronounced the fatal word, and my life and your lives would be miserable indeed if either of us thought we had spared a moment of consideration."

the simplest thing would have been to get rid of her altogether by discharging her. Admitting that the mercantile business was not successful and that it was not carried on as other mercantile businesses are, these men know nothing about the means of going to the large expense that the established agencies do, yet they were trying to make a humble beginning and they were honest in that attempt.

BORROWING MONEY.
Another contention of the Crown is that the prisoners were in needy circumstances and were borrowing money at high rates of interest, and were induced to plot this murder to secure money. It is no evidence of crime that these men borrowed money at a high rate of interest; it is due every day. Besides that is the business the prisoners were in—borrowing and loaning money. They knew how to borrow, but did not know how to lend. That was the reason they became financially embarrassed. Besides, the Crown had not shown that they borrowed very extensively, but they have shown that they stood so well that upon their own name and without security money would be advanced to them by men with whom they had dealt.

But counsel claimed they were not needy. Admittedly they had $12,000 worth of furniture in their own name. They were living in comfortable circumstances, pressed by no present need or necessity.

"Look at this list of money coming to them from May, 1888, down to 1894," said Mr. Lount, reading from the express list, sworn to by Clerk Murphy, of the express company. That money came into the hands of Harry Hyams, although counsel signed to the mother. And you can depend upon it it remained in their hands with the exception of what was necessary to pay the household expenses. Can you conceive that men will undertake to plot for a life who are not forced to it by necessity, when all the movements and the planning may not consummate in their getting out of a fix?

PETERBOROUGH, NOVEMBER 27 1895.

CITY AND COUNTY NEWS

LOCAL AND DISTRICT HAPPENINGS OF THE DAY.

Will Visit Peterborough.

Canada's great optician and inventor of the Kachere optometer will visit Peterborough Dec. 2, 3, and 4. Dr. Jebb will be at Clarke & Gibson's jewelry store, where he will examine the eyes and sight of the public. A treatise on the subject also given free.

Wedding Bells.

The marriage of Mr. R. P. McMahon, of Merrickville, and Miss B. A. O'Connell, daughter of Mrs. D. O'Connell, Ashburnham, was solemnized in St. Peter's Cathedral Wednesday morning by Rev. Archdeacon Casey. The lovely married pair left at noon for Montreal.

A Warning to Boys.

It is said that many boys in town carry revolvers and if this is true it is sad to say the "shooting" boys are loaded. The criminal code in section 103 states that anyone who carries a pistol or a gun is guilty of an offence and liable on summary conviction to penalty not exceeding $20 or not less than $5. Section 104 states that everyone who is guilty of selling an air gun or pistol to minors is liable to a fine not exceeding $50. This should prove a warning to boys and to those who retail these articles.

Smokers Attention.

We wish to draw the attention of all smokers of cigars to our recent direct importation of cigars from Havana, consisting of 10,000 assorted sizes Diaz Garcia, and 12,000 Masoud Garcia, assorted sizes, bought at very close prices for cash and are prepared to give the benefit to the citizens of the town. Our cigars at 4 for 25c, 3 for 25c, 1 lb. straight or 1 lb. straight are a way ahead in quality and size of those offered by other dealers at these prices. Come and see for yourself and be convinced that this is the best place in town for imported cigars. At Chas. LeGros, 329 George Street, Peterborough's only direct importer.

The Deadly Toy Rifle.

In the north ward the other day the small boy and the deadly "toy" rifle nearly caused a fatal accident. A ball from the weapon crashed through a neighbor's window and struck the opposite side of the room, just missing the head of one of the occupants. The rifle was taken from the boy and broken, as supposed, but a day or two later the boy again made a visit to the residents of the house above mentioned and a polite request made that hostilities cease at once, as it was almost tired dodging bullets. It is a great mistake for parents to place firearms of any kind in the hands of their boys. It does not make men out of them one bit sooner, while it causes their neighbors a great deal of anxiety, to say the least.

North Hastings Gold.

A Flinton letter in the Tweed News says: "Capt. W. H. Ferguson, of the 1st North Hastings Rifles, has been negotiating with Guinness Bros. for the purchase of their valuable gold mines for some time past, and he paid them several visits on the 7th inst. The Captain is an experienced miner, and had with him some very good shows of gold from these mines. He claims it is one of the richest gold beds on the continent. We wish the Guinness Bros. every success, as they have spent a great deal of time and money in opening up these mines. Captain O'Neill says if they are properly managed they will give employment to 300 men. If so our boys will not have to go to Muskoka to look for employment."

A Narrow Escape.

On Thursday morning last, Mr. Simpson, son of Mrs. John Simpson, of Harvey, was preparing with a friend from North Vernon to go out for a drive in the Grand Hotel dining room and had loaded a shot gun with gunpowder. They were playing a cap on the nippers, and remarked "What if it should go off?" The charge went through the partition, and passed within a few inches of the heads of two young ladies, who were asleep in bed, covering the bed with plaster from the wall. The confusion and fright of all parties was great.

The Charge Dismissed.

Mr. Charles Calder preferred a charge of larceny against Mr. Alex. Ferguson on Friday, before the County Magistrate. Both the parties to the case were from Dumfries, residing near Warsaw, and the story was as follows: A son of Calder's and a young fellow named Gallagher drew a large quantity of wood out of the lake, each furnishing a horse for the purpose and left it to stand in three bays. Calder told his share away and Gallagher sold the remainder to Ferguson. When Ferguson went after the wood he was warned against taking it by the elder Calder, but drew it away, when the younger brought suit against him. The charge of larceny was dismissed but Mr. Ferguson was fined $1.00, without costs, for trespassing.

Nearly a Fatality.

A lady and gentleman had a narrow escape from death in the Grand Hotel elevator Thursday. Mrs. Brodigan, who has engaged rooms at this hotel, wished to go up the elevator and in the absence of the elevator boy, Mr. J. W. Croby, she offered to take her own. They started, side the shaft, closed the door and Mr. Croby pulled on the wires. It appears that the elevator was at the second floor and instead of stepping into it they had entered the empty shaft. When Mr. Croby pulled the wire it caused the elevator to descend and in a few seconds it was upon them, crushing them to their knees. It was impossible to get out as the door was shut. The screams of the lady hurried Mr. Gobel, who was on the second floor, to the shaft. He took in the situation at a glance and stopped the descent of the ponderous elevator in the nick of time. It was a narrow escape and the lady is prostrated from the effects of the terrible shock.

Where Ignorance was Bliss.

On two occasions recently wagon loads of dynamite, on their way from the Tweed factory to the canal works, near Kirkfield, rested over night in town, says the Lindsay Watchman. Each load was composed of a ton of dynamite. The first one remained in a hotel yard, and the second load put up in the night on a vacant lot on Lindsay street, a short distance south of the railway track. Had either of these loads been known of the presence within the limits of the corporation of this large amount of dynamite—sufficient to have blown at least half of the town into the air—the majority of them would scarcely have slept as soundly as they probably did on the two nights in question. The wagon loads were tarpaulin covered, but not labelled. Two men were in charge of each load, and it is safe to conclude that their respective lives were insured. The next time dynamite passes this way the authorities should see that it is left outside the town, according to law.

INHUMAN DEALERS.

Horrible Treatment of Animals in Transit in Railway Cars.

It is a notorious fact that shippers of cattle, sheep, horses, etc., are not possessed of any too tender feelings. They are all in the business for what they can make, and car space is too valuable to allow any sympathetic qualities to dominate them or enter into their work. And so it has come to pass that in many cases the animals, whose unfortunate lot it is to be shipped by rail, are treated in the most cruel manner imaginable. They are packed in like sardines in a box, and except in the case of very valuable animals, no food or water is given them in transit. As a consequence many die on the road.

The shocking cruelty of the shippers and drivers was never so manifest as in the case which was brought to light at the Western Cattle Market by Constable Willis, the officer who attends to the work of the Humane Society. In one car alone were the dead bodies of four poor horses. They had been shipped at Markdale in a car with many others—too many in fact to allow all to live. The shipping bill shows that they left Markdale at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon. They had been gathered from the surrounding country, bought for 75 cents or $1 a piece. They are described by one of the drivers as "naked nukes which farmers have no use for." Since their incarceration in the car they had had no water or hay. Owing to the crowded condition of the cars the tired animals were unable to obtain any rest and even if they were able the filthy state of the flooring would keep them from doing so.

As a result of the horrible close confinement four of the horses died on their arrival at their destination—the cattle market—the balance, with the exception of one sorry looking nag, were driven into the horse corrals, euphemistically called the stock yards. There no food or drink was offered them and the ravenous beasts chewed the posts, the troughs, and the fences in an endeavour to satisfy their great hunger. The solitary live animal in the car with its dead comrades stood motionless at the end, mutely appealing to be taken out and fed. But no such luck was in store for it. It remained there all day Tuesday until the carcasses of the dead horses were removed. It wasn't taken out for any humane idea but the car was needed for another trip and freight had not been paid for another ride for it.

Those who saw this barbarous sight were not mild in their expressions of indignation. They thought it was a crying shame that such shocking inhumanity to animals should be allowed and the Humane Society was entrusted with the task of ferreting out the guilty parties and punishing them. Constable Willis looked into the matter, but nothing definite has been done as yet. It is understood, however, that police proceedings will be taken against some of the offenders.

Habitues of the market say that this is not an isolated case, but a very ordinary occurrence. The horses are bought "applied" all parts of the country and sold here at a small profit to people who feed them to hogs—a matter which the Provincial Board of Health is now investigating.

STARS AND STRIPES.

A Free Fight at the Veterinary College Over the U. S. Flag.

There was a free fight at the Ontario Veterinary College, Toronto, yesterday morning between the Ontario and Canadian students. It being Thanksgiving Day across the line, the American students, who number 140, as against 20 Canadians, undertook to hold the Stars and Stripes in the lecture room just after Dr. Smith closed his morning lecture. A young man named Shaw, who comes from New York State, suggested that it was soon torn down by a student from Lindsay, who was quickly seized by Shaw. The man from across the line got the worst of the mix-up, as he was thrown violently against a bench and had his face badly cut.

The others then took a hand in and it was a free fight between the ten Canadians and the 20 Americans. The fight lasted about 20 minutes and many of the combatants were roughly dealt with but the Canadians got away the best of the fight. W. W. Richardson, his brother, California, who says he was taught how to fight by Jim Corbett, went at Bill Agnew, another big fellow from Huron, and the other students followed suit. Agnew gave the Californian a beautiful trouncing, after which the trouble ceased, giving Dr. Duncan a chance to deliver his lecture.

THE BUGGY UPSET.

Occupants Held Captive by the Buggy Top A Narrow Escape.

Mrs. Hugh Davidson and little boy and girl, of Smith, had a very narrow escape from serious injury Thursday. Mrs. Davidson was driving in a covered buggy and was opposite Melburn & McAllister's mill when the horse took fright at a tree and ran away. In the endeavour to stop the horse the vehicle was completely overturned into a ditch; and the occupants were held captive by the buggy top. Had the animal continued to run or kicked, serious injury would have been done to the three.

Several persons rushed to the rescue and extricated Mrs. Davidson and the children, and they were taken into the residence of Mr. P. Sullivan. A doctor was summoned and dressed their wounds. Mrs. Davidson sustained a severe rash on the forehead. The little girl was slightly injured on the shoulder, while the boy escaped.

LITTLE LOCAL LINES.

Items of Interest Intelligently Presented for Busy Readers.

Apparently the farmers of this locality are in no hurry to dispose of their wheat and corn grain, judging from what is arriving at the grain depot in Peterborough. The weather is so cold that the work on the farm will continue, and the grain will be drawn later on.

Isn't it about time to close down the tanneries for awhile? An advertisement for a tannery in the Peterborough Standard says that the tannery has brought 135 applications. The province is full of teachers who cannot find schools and the tanneries are still running at full time.

Harvest continues to drop in price. A few days ago a man offered his team to another man to accept as a present. He said he could not afford to feed them and did not like to shoot them.

It has been stated that there is an increasing demand for cheese and the markets have a healthy tone. This being the case it may not be unsafe to predict a brisk trade and highest prices next year.

Two full moons will come in December. Astronomers say this has not occurred since the coming of Christ, 1,800 years ago, and from the coincidence argue his second coming during the approaching holidays.

The days of June are rare and fair. Sometimes without a flaw; November days are much more rare. They're absolutely raw.

Files! Files! Icing Files.

THE TIMES BOOK STORE.

A Handsomely Fitted up and Well-stocked Stationery and Book Store.

For several weeks past carpenters and painters have been at work enlarging, changing, refitting and decorating the first floor of THE TIMES' building, preparatory to the opening of a book and stationery store. This work is completed and the result is certainly most gratifying. Plate glass windows take the place of the old style sash and the exterior of the building is resplendent in new paint. The interior has been handsomely fitted up with all the necessary conveniences for the best display of goods and the comfort of patrons, and a complete stock of stationery and other lines incidental to the stationery trade has been put in.

The Opening Day.

The opening day of THE TIMES book store will be on Saturday, Nov. 30, and the public is invited to call in and inspect the splendid stock of stationery. Christmas goods, Japanese goods, fancy goods, books, etc. Remember this, the stock is new. Some lines were imported from the old country and cannot be duplicated outside of the cities. Especial attention was given in the selection of goods for the Christmas trade, and the public will appreciate this fact after an inspection.

Enhanced of Prices.

THE TIMES Book Store is not here to fill a long felt want, but it is going to revolutionize the prices of stationery books and stationery lines in Peterborough. The running of the stationery business does not entail extra rent, extra light or extra taxes, therefore these expenses will not have to be met by large profits and in consequence we can sell goods cheaper than any bookstore in town and still enjoy a living profit. Call in and examine prices.

The opening day will be tomorrow, Saturday, November 30. The attention of our readers is called to the advertisement on this page.

FAKIR OR CRAZY.

The Freaks of a Frenchman Who Claimed to be Worth $10,000.

A Frenchman by the name of Felix Massau, visited town some three or four weeks ago, purporting to come from Montreal, says the Lindsay Watchman. He stated that he had fallen heir to $10,000, and was so pleased to meet persons who he claimed were near relatives that he was only too anxious to see them at doing well. Among the latter was a widow, a very poor circumstance, whom he wished to befriend in his own peculiar way. He proposed purchasing a house, furnishing it, and then offering it for sale at $10,000. He also let a contract for fencing the same, and lived therein until he could again marry, in event of which she was to retain the house and pay a rental of $50 per month. This was highly acceptable and he called on Mr. D. Hallinan, a near neighbor, who had several houses for sale. He inquired the price of one, but finding it too good a bargain he decided to buy two at $2,200. He had the property surveyed, visited the registry office and made a thorough search into the title. He then secured the services of an attorney to prepare the necessary deeds, selected and ordered carpets, stoves, and furniture. The merchants, however, withheld the goods until the cash should be forthcoming. He then secured the services of an attorney to prepare the necessary deeds, selected and ordered carpets, stoves, and furniture. ## The Times.

PETERBOROUGH, NOVEMBER 27, 1895.

MUNICIPAL MATTERS.

It is time that the ratepayers were bettering themselves in selecting candidates for next year's council. What we require most of all in the council, is a class of men who will not be led by every Tom, Dick or Harry with an axe to grind. We fail to see why the corporation affairs should not be managed with the same prudence that a man conducts his private business. The fact is we should during the coming year, use the pruning knife freely in reducing our civic expenses. Our law and our police costs too much, while the street improvement have not been conducted as they should have been. Frequently timber that should be classed as third rate cull, has been used, with the result that it has to be replaced with other timber in a year or two. The habit of increasing salaries of corporation servants every now and then, for no earthly reason except that the official has a "pull" with the council in some way, is destitute of rhyme or reason. Men who would be glad to earn five or six hundred dollars, suddenly, when they become servants of the people, discover that they are poorly paid with twice this yearly salary. It is all very well to point to the rate and say "we are not taxed as heavily as our neighbours." But first take a house, for instance, that rents for $10 a month, and compare it with a similar building with similar rent in any of the neighboring towns, and note the result. You will find in nine cases out of ten, that the tax here are very much higher. Of course, we admit, that it is worth more to live in a live place like Peterborough with its many advantages, than in any of the other towns or cities in the province, but because we are happily situated in respect to being the headquarters of the great and only Lime Juice Club, and by reason of the progressive spirit of our people, there is no reason why we should be taxed to death. Let us, therefore, unite in selecting a council for 1896 who will see that our debts are paid and our business conducted for very much less money than it now takes.

The December Number of the Delineator

Is called The Christmas Number

and is filled with holiday good things. The exposition of Winter styles is complete, and the Season's Millinery is attractively presented. There is a special holiday article on Dolls and their dressing, and another on Novel Home-Made Christmas Gifts, a theme pleasantly supplemented by the conclusion of Tillie Roomie Little's account or how to make Crepe Paper Brownies, and by a chatty glance at current novelties in Around the Tea Table. Mrs. Roger A. Pryor delightfully chaperones her readers to Society Breakfasts Luncheons and Suppers. The practical side of the Christmas Dinner has an exposition all its own, while the Christmas Turkey itself figures in an amusing sketch of Cabin Life in the South, by Lucia M. Robbins. Henry C. Wood tells how some bright young people of the Blue Grass Region celebrated Christmas at "Happy Valley," and a helpful article on Carving completes the tribute to the day. Henry C. Lahee of the New England Conservatory of Music, gives experienced advice on Piano Tuning as an Occupation for Women. Harriet Keith Forbes treats of Burnt Work Upon Ivory, while Sara Miller Kirby concludes the present series of papers on Kindergarten Work, the great success of which has caused a supplementary series of three to be arranged for. Floral Work for the Month, a look into the Newest Books, and a review of novelties in Knitting, Tatting and Lace Making are among the other features.

Subscription price of the Delineator $1.00 per year or 15c per single copy. Address all communications to The Delineator Publishing Co., 170 Nassau Street, New York, N.Y.

LIME JUICE CLUB

REGULAR WEEKLY MEETING OF THE CAHSTE SOCIETY.

The President Gives a Few Words of Advice to a Brother—Narrow Escape From A Heavy Fine—No Swooning Off At New Years.

The Hall of Wisdom was again crowded to the doors last night long before Sir Richard appeared. Bro. Edwards was explaining to Councillor Dawson how he proposes to work the Mason case so as to again appeal it should the decision of the Supreme Court be adverse to the town; Bro. Roszel was telling to Councillor Brady how wickedly the Street Railway Company served him by shutting down for three whole days last week, while Bro. Bob Fife accidentally got a drink of water down the wrong pipe, and four or five members were slapping him on the back. In a brief moment all noise was hushed, and the babel of tongues ceased to clatter as the President's gavel fell with a sharp click on the desk, and the regular meeting of the Lime Juice Club was open for the transaction of business.

THE PRESIDENT SPEAKS.

"Bro. Glucose Smith," said the President, as the sound of the triangle died away, "I am given to understand that you are going away to visit a foreign country?"

"Yes, Sir; I'm going to New York."

"Very well; the change of sights and smells may do you good. I am glad to see you go, but I want to say a few words to you right here and now. It is only the other day that Bro. Walter Phelan and Joseph Cahill took in the sights of the greatest American city, and the words of counsel which I gave them previous to their departure were doubtless the means of bringing them home again, safe and sound. Indeed, to drop into the Peterboro Hardware Company's store where these young brothers are employed and look at them, one would never suspect that they dined for two whole weeks at a New York lunch counter, or travelled up 29 pairs of stairs to their suit of rooms. In the first place, Bro. Smith, don't imagine that the whole of Canada is going to hold it up while you are gone, or be perched on a pedestal of anxiety till you return. Several men of your size can even a steamer for England without soiling the state into confusion. This may be strange to you, but it is nevertheless a fact.

"Secondly, don't go away feeling that you are the sole representative of the country, and that you have the dignity of Great Britain to maintain. If you have any such feelings you won't dare to eat onions or drink buttermilk. Just keep tight down on the ground amongst every day folks, and a fall won't be so apt to break you back.

"Thirdly, don't find fault with the people because their customs and habits differ from ours. It would be quite according to Hoyle for you to go over to New York and claim that all you saw was fifty years behind us Canadians—but don't do it. Not one of them would believe you in the first place, and in the next you might have great trouble in proving your assertions.

"Fourthly, for Heaven's sake don't go to bragging about your native town of Peterborough and its wonderful wealth and enterprise. A good deal of this can be offset by certain facts which we had better keep to ourselves. For instance, our taxes are increasing a good deal faster than our wealth; our own Mason outfall sewer cists are a sinkhole for thousands of dollars, not to speak of other similar law suits which our corporation lawyer is sure to run us into, and besides there ain't a half a dozen officials in the whole town who are clear of suspicion. Just keep your brag to yourself, walk around as a private individual and you'll come home pleased with your trip. That's all Bro. Smith, and the secretary will make you out a card of membership that will pass you into any Methodist prayer meeting that you happen to run across."

A POINT OF ORDER.

"Mr. President," said Bro. Mervin, as he rose up, "I rise to a point of order."

"The point seems to be well taken," replied the President.

"Then, sir, I would inquire why the Lime Juice Club don't take some action on the Armenian question? It is a question which involves the peace of all Europe, and I can't see—"

"No, sir."

"Do you know where it is?"

"N—not exactly, sir."

"Ever seen an Armenian?"

"I don't say that I have."

"Then you sit down! The man who mixes up with all the quarrels in his own neighborhood has got his arms as full as he can hold. You had the narrowest possible escape, Bro. Mervin, of being fined $1.20."

NEVER DONE IT.

A communication from Razor Reynolds, of Port Hope, stated that the members of the branch in that town had been given to understand that Sir Richard had referred to them in a general way as "A horde of people whose chief aim in life was to acquire everything in sight, whose honesty could be bought with a chicken and whose morality could not be found with a spy glass." An indignation meeting had been called, and unless the Lime Juice Club repudiated the sentiment something would be heard of in the vicinity of the Hall of Wisdom with the thuddiest kind of a thud.

"The old saying that nobody should shoot till his gun goes off, applies to this case," said the President. "Not a word against our brethren at Port Hope has ever been uttered in this hall and the people have exerted themselves without reason."

SYMPATHY.

Hon. Duxton De-Cobury, Secretary of the branch in Port Hope, forwarded a letter to the club, in which he stated that the efforts of the branch to excite a healthy ambition in the breasts of the people of that town were meeting with poor reward. The efforts consisted mostly of oyster festivals, at ten cents admission, and the "dodger" announcing the last one also contained the rather emphatic declaration:

"The Hue and Cry that our place of Amusement is not orderly emanates from that element of our people known and branded as Curb Stone Millionaires, who, being too shiftless to make a dollar by the Rules of Business, think it their bounden duty to discourage all other enterprises, and to sling their venomous slander like a vile reptile upon those who are striving to plant and nurture business aspirations in the hearts of the Cobourg people."

On motion of Jaded Jones it was resolved that the branch had the sympathy of the parent club—provided that the oysters weren't sour.

NO SWEARING OFF.

Bro. Frank Fairer secured the floor and said that the time was not far away when all men annually decided to "swear off" from all bad habits, take a vow to save money and keep a diary for next year. He would like to know if the Club had thought of taking any action.

Bro. Tiedup Garley thereupon moved the following resolution:

Resolved, That the Lime Juice Club does not swear off from anything, nor save an extra cent, nor keep any diary, and that the first member who resolves to be any better in 1896 than he was in 1895, be fined fifty dollars, and the cost of a new wood box for his hall.

"Question," was called, and the resolution was adopted and ordered to be spread on the minutes of the meeting.

MUSIC.

The Harmony Club secured the floor and tuned up as follows:

The autumn days are almost gone
The sun is getting low
To my father was a smile
And then begins to blow
About the way he looks
No man was ever sicker
To hear him tell it—one would think
He had no other lover

As election day approaches
A smile is on his face
He takes good care when talking
To avoid the Mason case
He speaks glibly of economy
To find he has none
But still we get it on the neck
With greatly increased taxes

The fact is, brothers, one and all Must open wide their eyes
Expense must be well cut down
If we wish to rise
Ourselves and our families
With these unsightly rhymes:
You shall be paid for it
That you read in THIS MORNING TIMES.

During the excitement which followed Bro. McKay became so excited that he snatched both suspenders square in two, while Bro. Tryell fell over three dogs and a vetch on his way out.

THE CLOSE.

There being no further routine business (a perishable nature on the table, the President said:

"Before going home let me say that would any of the brethren want to see a President previous to his departure from town, they can call at the Times Lookstore, where I intend to spend the day looking over the splendid new stock of Christmas novelties which the publishers of the greatest newspaper in Eastern Ontario has just opened out. In going to our homes let us remember that the man who walks in the middle of the street can't be slugged with a sand-bag from the alley. While we part as friends, and while each member should carry home a fraternal feeling, the person who walks off with my hat will be made to wish he had never been born! We will now adjourn."

Market Reports.

PETERBOROUGH.

The prices in dressed pork, are more encouraging, ranging from $4.50 to $5.50, according to weight and quality.

LIVE STOCK MARKETS.

Nov. 20.—There were about 800 butchers' cattle, 50 calves and 1,800 sheep and lambs offered for sale at the East End Abattoir today. The butchers were present in large numbers, but trade in cattle was rather demoralized, there being a drop in price of fully 10c per lb. below the price paid on Monday. The top prices today did not exceed 30c per lb. and very few sales were made at 30c per lb. pretty good stock sold at from 20c to 30c; common dry cows and thirty young cattle brought from 20c to 25c and the leaner beasts at from 10c to nearly 20c per lb. A company that deals extensively in cheap meats bought several lots of scallawag bovines at from $1 to $1.40 per 100 lbs live weight. Calves were not a good lot and sold at from $3 to $7 each. Old sheep sell at from 20c to 30c per lb. and lambs at from 30c to 35c per lb. Fat hogs are not so plentiful as they have been lately, and sell at a little over 40c per lb.

MARSHALL P. WILDER.

He is Undoubtedly the Funniest Entertainer of the Age.

The Opera House was filled last night to its utmost capacity to listen to Marshall P. Wilder. He was assisted by several other artists, who contributed to the excellent program which was given under the auspices of the Charlotte street church. Mr. Wilder is very short, almost adward. His face almost creates a laugh before he says a word. If the selection is to be funny, if serious his face before he begins gives the keynote. He has a wonderful stage presence, his actions and words come as freely as possible. He suggests at times, leaving much to the imagination. He is certainly a wonderful and unique little man and carried his audience last night with him wherever he wished to take them. He gave three selections altogether, each consisting of a series of sketches and stories, funny and serious. He would wander from one to another and from joke to joke, keeping the people in roars of laughter. He had to respond many times to each selection. The Fire Brigade orchestra was present and gave appropriate selections during the evening.

TRIAL NEARING ITS END.

THE HYAMS WILL KNOW THEIR FATE THIS WEEK.

Witnesses For the Defense Battered by the Crown Prosecutor—Mrs. Dallas Hyams in Court Yesterday. Special to The Times.

TORONTO, Nov. 28.—For the first time since the trial of the Hyams twins opened, Mrs. Dallas Hyams, wife of one of the prisoners, was in the court this morning. As she entered with Attorney Welman she smiled encouragingly at her husband and his brother, and seated herself in the grand jury box, facing the jurors. Her presence had a salutary effect on the twins, who have sat through the three weeks of the trial without being cheered by a solitary friendly face other than that of Expressman Fox and those of the counsel who are striving to save them from the gallows.

Application was made by Mr. Lount for the admission of the evidence of Thos. Blang, taken at Cleveland under compulsion, prior to the last trial. Mr. Oler objected unless affidavits were put in showing that the witness was still without the jurisdiction of the court. This may be done later.

After adjournment yesterday, Joseph Jefferman, a tailor who called at White's tailor shop, the same as did Photographer Neal, about 9 o'clock on the morning of Jan. 16, swore that he saw and spoke to one of the prisoners there.

John Collins, an engineer who had an office on the same flat with prisoners at 11 King street west on Jan. 16, 1893, swore that he saw Dallas on the day that morning about 9 o'clock.

ANOTHER BARBER. Claude Westcott, a barber working on Jordan street on Jan. 16, swore that Dallas Hyams came into his barber shop on that date. The prisoner came into his shop between 8.30 and 8.30 and he worked on Dallas until he had run up an account of 90 cents for a shave, a hair cut, a single and a shampoo and then prisoner told witness to buy a cigar with the remaining 30 cents out of the $1 bill he handed him.

"That's cheaper than my barber charges me," said his Lordship.

To Mr. Oler witness said that Dallas was positively in his shop from 8.20 until 9.20, so that if a man swore that Dallas was at another place between 8.20 and 9.20 he would contradict them and he was prepared to contradict Neal, Collins and Jefferman.

DALTON'S TREACHEROUS MEMORY. "D'Alton McCarthy," called Mr. Lount. D'Alton was working for the Nasmith Co. in the basement adjoining the Hyams warehouse on January 16, 1893. He swore that he saw a hole through the wall and the same depth he saw the two premises. Shortly after 9.30 he heard of the occurrence, sometime before he had heard some one whistling in the Hyams cellar, then he heard a dull sharp thud, followed by what he thought was the cage coming down. Some considerable time afterwards, probably 20 minutes, he heard footsteps on the second floor of the Hyams' premises. Then he heard a shout as of someone calling to another. Three or four minutes afterwards he heard footsteps again on the second floor. This all occurred between 9 o'clock, 20 minutes before nine any way.

To Mr. Oler witness said he had no employment now.

"How much money did you get from the prisoners' counsel?" A. "I did not get as much as I expected. I got $50."

Witness said after he left Nasmith's he went into business for himself and conducted it for 13 months. McCarthy said he assigned shortly before he went away and he went away shortly after he assigned. That as near as he could get at it, he knew of. He admitted finally that he left the country and that he left $9.71 to pay his creditors. He would not swear that he did not leave a shelf full of empty cans.

Asked how it was he remembered the whistling and couldn't remember when he went into business or when he failed witness replied that he had more reasons for remembering the whistling.

When he heard the whistling McCarthy said he was handling potatoes and which were kept in the corner of the cellar.

THE HOLE IN THE WALL. The first witness called this morning was James Rosevear, seatman at Nasmith's on Jan. 15, 1893. He swore that there was a hole in the southeast corner of the basement wall separating Nasmith's from the Hyams cellar.

To Mr. Oler witness said that a person could not get into the cellar through the hole. The hole led into a partition between the floors.

Joseph W. Sheppard, painter, testified that in January, 1904, he painted the front of the Colborne street warehouse, while doing so he got "trapped" in the cellar and had to get out through the hole in the wall into the Nasmith cellar. The value of the testimony was lost, however, when witness admitted that the cellar had been altered throughout, the masons and carpenters having been at work. The hole had been made, as a matter of fact, for a doorway.

Wm. Statton, another painter, corroborated Sheppard.

A NEW WITNESS. Alex. Manson, of 13 Gerrard street west, swore that he was employed as driver for the China Hall in January, 1893. The China Hall premises adjoined those of the Hyams to a brick wall, a brick wall dividing them. He heard of the occurrence of Jan. 16 about an hour and a half before twelve o'clock.

"That would be half-past ten," said his Lordship.

Yes, answered the witness.

Continuing Manson said he happened to go to the back door at Colborne street and saw Expressman Fox and the undertaker's vehicle there.

Both Undertaker Humphrey and his assistant were positively that it was after twelve o'clock when they arrived at the warehouse.

Manson said he recollected the time because he was waiting for orders for delivery.

TWO QUESTIONS SETTLED IT.

Mr. Oler—"Are you prepared to swear as a matter of fact that it was about half past ten when you saw the undertaker's rig?"

Witness—"It was before dinner time."

"And that is as far as you can go?"

"A—Yes, sir."

"That will do," said counsel and Manson stepped down.

Then H. Baylis, who was a shipper at the China Hall the day of the occurrence, was called and said he saw the undertaker's vehicle in front of the Hyams warehouse at 10.15.

To Mr. Oler witness said he did not look at a clock or watch but he went by the time he usually took to do the work in the front of the store, which was usually about two hours. He had thought nothing about seeing the vehicle since, but he was prepared to swear to 10.35 nevertheless. There was a shell in the alley. This was how he knew it was an undertaker's rig.

THE CORONER. Dr. W. H. Atkins, the coroner, who failed to issue a warrant for an inquest into the cause of Willie Wells' death, repeated the story of the day of the occurrence. He received a telephone message from Dr. King informing him of the affair. The message was received during his office hours, which were from 9 to 11. His recollection was that he got the message about 10 o'clock. He went down to the warehouse and found one of the prisoners there which one he could not say. Expressman Fox was also there. The doctor went downstairs and saw a man lying there, the head about a foot or foot and a half from the elevator cage. The head was badly crushed, as if subjected to some lateral pressure. He was told by Hyams that Wells had been working alone in the building and had been injured by the weight. The body looked to him as if it had been moved. The matter appeared to him to be an accident, and he decided not to hold an inquest, as he did not feel that he could make the affidavit required by law. He was in the warehouse more than half an hour altogether.

To Mr. Oler the doctor said he did not remember seeing a buffer block. He wouldn't swear whether or not there were gloves on the body, but he did not remember seeing any. Had there been places on the body he would have seen them. The hook produced, which is admitted to be the hook, witness said was not, to the best of his knowledge and belief, the hook he saw.

"Didn't it occur to you as coroner that if it was an accident somebody should be held accountable for a defective hook or defective weight, that it might be manslaughter?" A. "No, I didn't regard the weight or the hook as defective."

WOULD IT HAVE MADE A DIFFERENCE? "You didn't know that there was a heavy insurance on the young man's life, and that a heavy premium would fall due in a few days?" A. "No."

"Would the knowledge of these facts have made any difference in your opinion as to the necessity of an inquest?" asked Mr. Oler.

Mr. Lount objected, and an argument followed. On His Lordship's ruling the defence scored and the question remained unanswered.

Mr. Oler resumed. "Did you at the warehouse get any clear explanation as to how the affair occurred?" A. "No, there was no clear explanation given, so far as I remember now."

"Did you make any inquiries as to the young man's surroundings, his insurance, etc.?" A. "No, there were no enquiries made."

"Were you told anything as to whether there was any one else in the building at the time of the occurrence?" A. "I would not like to say."

NO MESSAGE FROM FOX.

The doctor said there was but one telephone message received by him on the morning of the occurrence. He was in the office all morning and had the telephone rang he would have heard it. It must be recollected other witnesses swore that they had telephoned the doctor and he was out.

"How often have you seen counsel for defence in connection with the case?" A. "Three times to his house."

"Did you apply to the Attorney-General's Department as a Crown official for leave to give evidence as an expert for the defence?" A. "Yes, I applied."

"After the prisoners were arrested and the body exhumed, did you apply to the Crown officers for leave to hold an inquest?" A. "Yes."

"Will you swear that you had not been in the office of Mr. Horn, solicitor for the defence, before you applied to Mr. Dewar for leave to hold an inquest?" A. "No, I will not."

AN AFFIDAVIT.

The doctor was positive that he made no affidavit in connection with the payment of the insurance money on the life of Willie Wells.

Then Mr. Oler produced an affidavit bearing the doctor's signature, made to the New York Life Insurance Company, certifying that the death of Wells was accidental. The affidavit was sworn to on Jan. 24, eight days after the event.

The doctor admitted that he had made the affidavit. "I had forgotten all about it," he added.

"And then after taking an affidavit of that character you wished to hold an inquest on the body?" A. "No, I didn't say that."

MONEY IN IT FOR DEFENCE.

"Did you ask Dr. Bingham to act as a medical expert for the defence?" A. "No."

"Did you tell him there was money in it for the defence?" A. "Jocularly, I may have said so, but seriously I did not."

"Will you swear that you did not tell Dr. Bingham not to make up his mind as there was money in it for the defence?" A. "No, I did not say that."

"Did you see Dr. Duncan, who is also a coroner?" A. "Yes, I saw him."

"Will you swear that you did not see other doctors and ask them to act for the defence?" A. "No, I didn't ask any man to act for the defence."

"At the last court your answer to that question was, 'Yes, I did.' I will leave you there, doctor," said Mr. Oler.

Then Mr. Johnston sought to show that the telephone message which Fox says he sent and which witness received was sent by mistake to another Dr. Atkins. He pointed out that there were three doctors of this name, the first initial of each being the same and their telephone numbers somewhat similar.

The doctor explained that he consulted the Attorney-General about giving evidence for the defence at the suggestion of Mr. Johnston.

THE ROLERS CAUGHT.

Wm. Donnell and Miss Burns Are Discovered at Uxbridge.

Special to The Times.

TORONTO, Nov. 28.—William Donnell the Sutton widower, and Miss Angeline Burns, who eloped from that village on Sunday, were found at 3 o'clock Monday morning in a hotel at Uxbridge, whither they had driven from Sutton. Donnell, after leaving the girl at Uxbridge on Sunday afternoon, took the rig back to Sutton and then hired a man at Zephyr to drive him to Uxbridge.

The girl's brother and John Doyle, both of Sutton, who had been in pursuit, took Miss Burns home at once, while Donnell returned to Sutton last night.

FOLLOWED HER HUSBAND.

He Cut His Throat and She Ended Her Life by a Rope.

Special to The Times.

ROSA, N. Y., Nov. 28.—George Payne, Jr., found his mother dead yesterday with a rope around her neck, securely tied to the knob of her bedroom door. She had committed suicide as a result of melancholia. Her husband committed suicide on April 23, 1895, by cutting his throat with a razor. He told his wife that he was going to the bedroom to shave. She heard groans, and going to the room found him dying on the bed. Since that time Mrs. Payne had been gloomy, but within a week past she became much brighter, and her family expected to see her old-time cheerfulness return.

SEVENTEEN WOMEN WERE BLOWN ALMOST TO JATONS.

White Emptying Cartridge One Accidentally Exploded With Appalling Results—Forty Persons were Also Seriously Wounded and Some of Them May Die. Special to The Times.

BARCELONA, Nov. 28.—A terrible accident, resulting in a sad loss of life, occurred today at Palma, capital of the island of Mallorca, 130 miles south of this city. Eighty persons, most of them women, were employed in emptying old cartridges outside the walls of the town, when one of the cartridges exploded in some unknown manner. There was a large quantity of powder that had been taken out of cartridges lying about over a large area and this was ignited by the discharge of the cartridges. The bodies of 17 dead have been found, their bodies being blown almost to atoms. Forty persons were seriously wounded and some may die.

TERRIBLE SLAUGHTER.

BARCELONA, Nov. 28.—(Later)—A despatch from Palma states that the loss of life through the explosion was far greater than was stated in the first reports of the accident. It is now known that 27 men and 14 women were instantly killed. Thirty five women and five men were seriously injured, and of this number 20 have since died.

POISON IN THE CAN.

MONTREAL, Nov. 28.—Mrs. C. Roger, of 157 Cadieux street, Mills End, died last evening after partaking of canned salmon. She ate a heavy supper and was taken suddenly and violently ill afterwards. Her husband at once called a doctor, in spite of his efforts the woman died within a short time afterwards. The deceased was twenty four years of age, and leaves four young children. Her husband is in the employ of the Montreal Steam Laundry Co. Coroner McMahon will hold an inquest.

TOOK POISON ON DIED.

TORONTO, Nov. 28.—Thos. Cavanagh, aged about 30, an ex-tender, was taken sick in the bilious room at the Albion Hotel this afternoon with symptoms of strychnine poisoning. A few minutes previously, in the bar room, he had been seen to empty a powder into a drink he had purchased. The ambulance at once conveyed him to St. Michael's Hospital, but he was dead when that institution was reached. Amongst the number is a purchase of a hotel at Lambton Mills, and it is thought that business troubles drove him to take his life. An inquest will be held. The deceased leaves a widow.

SMUGGLERS IN LUCK.

St. John's, Nfld. Nov. 28.—The five publicans charged with complicity in smuggling, and sentenced by Judge Conroy in the lower court, a few days since have had the decision reversed by the Supreme Court. They go free, and will probably get back their licenses, temporarily suspended. Amongst the number is Mr. Tobin, member for Placentia; and as he is the only member in any way involved, the reports that Sir W. Whiteway's followers in the Legislature are mixed up in smuggling drops to the ground. Four others of the publicans, the charges against whom are slightly different, will be regularly tried by the Supreme Court, beginning today.

WIND OVERTURNS A TRAIN.

VENICE, Nov. 28.—A terrible storm is prevailing over the Adriatic. Not a single vessel has left the port for 24 hours. At Fiume a bora is blowing. The wind was so strong that it overturned a freight train. At Trieste more than 20 persons have been injured.

FROM THE QUEEN CITY.

Damage About $12,000—A Mystery at the Soo And a Detective Is Despatched there—The Fall of a Clergyman. Special to The Times.

TORONTO, Nov. 28.—There was a $12,000 fire at the Western cattle market this morning. The blaze was discovered about 5 minutes to 9 and the firemen were on the scene 5 minutes after nine. It took them about two hours to effectually extinguish it.

The fire was not in the cattle market proper but in the annex to the immediate southwest of it. A lofty bridge spans the tracks between the two places, over which the cattle are driven, and at the southern end there are two approaches of steep grade, at right angles to the main structure. Underneath the western of these the fire started. There was kept sawdust and shavings used for "bedding" the cars.

Sparks from the crematory, which is straight south of this place, were blown into the pile and it ignited in an instant.

By the time the fire arrived at the bridge and some seven or eight cattle cars belonging to the C.P.R. which were lying on the siding were wrapped in flames and the blaze was being fanned by a heavy north-west wind. For the course of half an hour the bridge fell in at the angle, thus saving the main structure across the tracks from being burned. After this happened the firemen quickly obtained the mastery.

The seven cars burned were valued at about $1,200 each and were insured for $800 each. The bridge belongs to the city. It will cost some $3,000 or $4,000 to repair the damage.

A shed adjoining the Nelson House on King street east, caught fire this morning at 11.45 but the cause, quick work prevented what would probably have been a very bad blaze. The damage was slight.

A chimney at 563 Parliament street gave the fireman a run a 9 o'clock.

At one o'clock a house at 184 Bellwoods avenue, occupied by Mr. Billingsby, was damaged to the extent of $300 and the furniture $100 worth. The cause is unknown.

This morning fire broke out in W. McMillen's shanty on Ashbridge road and burned up like a match paper.

A MYSTERY OF THE SOO.

The attorney-general's department has been requested to send one of its inspectors to South Bay, Maine to investigate the circumstances in connection with the death of Mrs. Arthur K. Woods, wife of the foreman of the pulp mill. The woman had only arrived from Maryland a few nights before her death.

A report of the evidence taken at an inquest, which was opened, has been forwarded to the Attorney-General, who will decide whether or not the vic-cars shall be brought to Toronto for analysis.

THE BISHOP TAKES ACTION.

The publication yesterday of the Sutton scandal in which the name of Rev. George Nesbitt, pastor of the Anglican church, figured, caused a sensation in the city, where the various parties are so well known.

Rev. Mr. Nesbitt would next year have been entitled to a commutation allowance of $400 a year as he will then have completed 35 years' service.

On Friday last, Dr. Sweetman, Bishop of Toronto, received a letter from him in which he said: "I have become weary and should like to have my allowance granted now instead of next year. I will then go away to some place where I shall be no more seen."

The bishop, not hitherto having heard a breath of suspicion against Mr. Nesbitt, felt rather sympathetic towards his subordinate and wrote him a kindly letter telling him not to become despondent but wait for one year, when in due course he would receive the pension. In view of the facts which have been brought to light with regard to Miss Osborne his Lordship thinks that the clergyman if he could have secured the allowance a year in advance would have left the country.

Mr. Nesbitt is 60 years of age, and has sons and daughters holding high positions. Churchwardens have power to suspend a clergyman for alleged immoral conduct, and the church officers of Sutton have exercised their right in this respect.

The Bishop last night wrote to Mr. Nesbitt informing him of the charge made against him and asking his intentions. If the minister acknowledges his guilt it will be for his Lordship to pronounce sentence at once, but if he does not do so a trial before the Synod will be necessary before he can be deposed.

A. NORMAN, ESQ.

Dear Sir:—We think we ought to acknowledge in some way that may become public, the very great benefit our daughter has derived from the use of your Electro-Curative Belts, and your application of Electricity in the Bath and from Dry Treatment: When we brought her to you she was a picture of unhealthiness, her limbs were shriveled up, and as thin as limbs could be; she had no strength even to play with other children, in fact she was dying of consumption. Besides this, there was a hard lump on her spine at the nape of her neck, which caused her neck to be so stiff she could not move her head. Although it is only three months since we brought her to you she is sound and well.

Ashburnham Council.

There is not likely to be any change in Ashburnham Council next year. With the exception of Councillor Smith, who is yet undecided, the present members will likely run unopposed. Reeve Burnham will not be opposed, it is said, if he will consent to serve the village for another term.

Railway Notes.

The Grand Trunk first bridge, of Belleville, has been awarded first place in the recent competitions. Brockville was given second place.

The adoption of the block system by the G.T.R. is likely to lead to the employment of a large number of extra operators and the raising of a number of small stations to the dignity of telegraph offices.

An Unexcelled Implement.

The Ridgway Pennsylvania Axe (sold at one dollar) turned out so superior in quality last season that we have secured another larger lot for this season. We have not heard of one bad one out of the large number sold. If there are any sold last year that have proved defective in any way we will give two new ones for each. We have never Cross Cut Saws that are unexcelled. George Stethem & Son.

The bride was escorted by the groom's sister, Miss Ellen Murphy, of Ennismore, and Mr. Michael O'Brien attended the groom. The happy couple partook of a sumptuous repast at the American House, and were joined in supper at the American house.

What is in the Wind.

For the past week a couple of G.T.R. civil engineers have been quietly at work surveying the land between the Midland Central fair ground and the outer depot. It is a well known fact that the Grand Trunk authorities have for years wanted to tap Kingston direct instead of by a suburban branch, and the surveyors strengthen the ground for belief that they are seeking to buy in the fair ground whereon to erect passenger and freight depots.

Property holders in the vicinity of the fair ground, who had offered their land for sale, have withdrawn it from the market, and have decided to hold it until they can learn for a certainty what action the railway authorities intend taking. It also leads to the belief that the contemplated removal of the G.T.R. shops, from Brockville and Belleville, will be about three feet off the ground.

The Woes of Travelers.

A deputation of commercial travellers waited on Hon. Richard Harcourt last week and presented a largely signed petition calling attention to the very unsatisfactory and dangerous condition of the sanitary arrangements of the hotels and public houses throughout the country, and suggested the appointment of an inspector. The deputation consisted of E. H. Gray, J. Sargent, H. VanNorman, J. G. Black, John Milgrew, of Toronto; J. Wright and W. G. Reid, of Hamilton; J. M. Dillon, Alfred Robinson, S. Munro, F. J. Conroy, W. J. Craig, A. Neelds, W. H. Oke, of London, and Mayor Little and C. S. Hyman, of London. Mr. T. S. Hobbs, M.P., introduced the deputation, and Mr. Harcourt promised careful consideration.

Our Boating Facilities.

Lindsay Post: With barely sufficient water at hand for the season, it is young men was enthusiastic over the racing and talks of regattas and sculling contests, and illuminated parades in summer, in a way that would lead an unkindling person to imagine that the town is situated on the shore of a fine lake. It has a "little lake," nevertheless, and a fair idea of its dimensions may be gathered from the following significant admission in the Review: It is proposed to form a youth club for the racing of small crafts. Four gentlemen are at work already on their boy yachts, which will be about three feet over all, but will be complete in every detail as to rigging and equipment, while the very best medals will be sought in order to make speed. These boy yacht races have become popular in many large centers, and as it just suits Peterboro's water facilities, it is probable that several more will enter the competition.

SOCIALISM OF TO-DAY.

An Interesting Lecture by J. Hampden Burnham Before the Canadian Institute.

Mr. J. Hampden Burnham, M.A., read a most interesting paper at the Canadian Institute on Saturday night on "The Socialism of To-day." Mr. Burnham began by tracing the rise of what is commonly spoken of as the working class. The serf was to be found in Europe during the early part of the Christian era, then came the free man. They lived on the product of the soil, but chiefly through the decay of the feudal system the laboring class began to swell the population of the towns. Then came in competition and invention, with its impulse to manufacture. Then wage-workers became a distinct class, the capitalist employers, with their greed for profits. This division had gone so far and its evil effects had become so great, that the workingmen were everywhere beginning to cry out about it, and to ask the State to become the sole and only employer, that they may get a fair return for their labor and a more certain employment and subsistence. This State ownership of the means of production and distribution was State socialism.

Men would be paid in labor time notes according to the time spent on their work. But the spirit of socialism was not reconcilable with the system of measuring all work by a uniform measure of time. The plan that was most commendable was the one which would bear the burden of the benefits of which Mr. Burnham detailed at length.

He also spoke at length on the philosophical aspect of the question, taking up some of the various theories of State and individual rights and the distinction between moral and physical rights. In this connection he spoke of the views held by Kant, Hegel, Herbert Spencer, Mill, Ritchie, Goldwin Smith and others. He also spoke favorably of the single tax as tending to pave the way for the return of the labor to the land.

He thought that capital should be treated as labor in a transitional state, and allowed of reducing the two to a uniform basis of comparison.

POLICE COURT NOTES.

Small Boys in Trouble—A Air Gun Incident.

On Saturday morning Mr. Jas. Morency had a window in his residence on King street broken by shot discharged from an air gun used by two boys named Michael Jeffery and Thomas Connors.

The boys were before the magistrate Monday at the police court, but no charge was laid against them. The boys received a warning and were allowed to go. The criminal code in section 105 states that any one who carries a pistol or a gun is guilty of an offence and liable on summary conviction to a penalty not exceeding $25 or not less than $5. Section 106 states that everyone who is guilty of selling an air gun or pistol to minors is liable to a fine not exceeding $50. This should prove a warning to boys and to persons who retail these articles.

A seven year old boy, who is known to be an incorrigible truant, was captured by Officer McGilroy, yesterday morning, after school hours, and after a lively chase he captured the youngster and clapped him into the cage. The boy's mother arrived at the police court at ten o'clock and the Chief went to the cell to take the lad up into the police court, and as there was a boys shooting case coming on, he carried the boy to the court and placed him in the hands of the truant officer. The truant officer caught sight of the weapon and at once jumped to the conclusion that his last hour had come and that he was about to be shot, and he fled. With a shriek he threw himself on the floor and almost went into convulsions in his terror. The united efforts of the Secretary and agent of the Children's Aid Society and the Chief of Police failed to reassure the little fellow and he was left in the cell for fear that he might do himself an injury in his fright. His attendance in Court was insisted upon.

The Magistrate liberated the youngster after Court had adjourned and by the way he scouted off to school. It is evident that the fright did a great deal towards reconciling him to his duties.

INSTITUTE HOCKEYISTS

Organize and will Ask the School Board to Withdraw that Resolution.

The Peterborough Collegiate Institute Hockey Club organized Monday afternoon for the season, with the following officers:

Honorary President—Mr. W. G. Ferguson.

President and Captain—Mr. James Hamilton.

Vice-President—Mr. Garnett Bell.

Secretary—Treasurer, Mr. H. R. Philip.

Committee—Messrs. R. Watt, M. Lewis, M. Hamilton and O. Bradburn.

The club decided to present a petition to the Board of Education, to the effect that they withdraw the resolution passed at a meeting, asking teachers to discountenance matches with outside clubs.

A very few of last year's players compose the team that will go into with this season, but the Collegiate Institute has developed some husky skaters who will no doubt sustain the club's reputation for superiority with the rubber on the ice.

WITH THE SPORTS.

No woman rider, no matter how expert she might be, should ride in a thoroughfare where there is heavy traffic. They used to be much more careful in this respect, but now you see them dodging vehicles in the busiest street, and a fall is almost equivalent to a serious accident. There is a fortune waiting the man who can devise some scheme to put a stop to the cutting of prices. The regular trade discount on wheels averages 45 per cent. The small dealers pledge themselves not to sell below the catalogue price, but competition is so keen that the one can buy a wheel anywhere for one quarter off. The result is that dealers are complaining to the manufacturers against each other all the time. What seems the most probable solution of this problem is that some firm will put a good wheel on the market at such a low price that the big trade discounts will be at an end. The biggest cut has been in the prices charged for sundries. Before the department stores began to sell them there was a profit of 200 per cent., now it is hardly more than 100 per cent. There is a ready-made business. The charges run all the way from 75 cents to $10, a sum which will tempt a wheel that has been struck by anything short of a cyclone.

THE FORTNIGHTLY CLUB.

A MASTERLY PAPER ON CHRISTIAN SOCIALISM BY REV. H. SYMONDS.

Something That All Thinking Men Should Read—The Paper Thoroughly Enjoyed and Intelligently Discussed—What is Christian Socialism.

The meeting held by the Fortnightly Club in the county council chambers Tuesday was very largely attended. The discussion on the paper of the evening was taken part in by a number, as well, and the evening was one of interest and instruction.

The paper on Christian Socialism by Rev. Symonds was a most masterly effort, showing a great study of the subject, and a thorough conception of it. The speaker began by stating that Christian Socialism does not consist of necessity of any ancient and exclusive ownership of the instruments and means of production. The term sprang up in England about the middle of the present century—a tendency rather than a doctrine—a tendency that prevailed in the spheres of both business and religion. Space forbids a thorough report of the excellent paper, but in Rev. Symonds' summing up and conclusions, many valuable information is contained:

1. We have all of us, quite irrespective of birth or wealth station, and without there is a great deal of social distance not only in England or Canada, but throughout the civilized world; we may differ very greatly as to the causes, and as to its remedies, but the distance is a solid fact, which no thoughtful person can afford to disregard.

Next we have seen that Socialism in its modern form is not a new doctrine, but a branch of the vasty greater science of sociology.

5. We have examined the new testament and found that Christianity, too, claims to be primarily a society, universal, unlimited, inclusive of all—to bring all men, through their mutual bonds, to the common Father of our race.

6. Hence Christian Socialism, without committing itself to any theory of state socialism, must yet be profoundly interested in every kind of Social enquiry, etc. And now finally I would like to say one word personally. I feel that very few persons have the right to claim themselves Socialists in the strict sense of the word.

Consider how great are the questions, questions of history, questions of political economy, questions of property, questions of justice, which one ought to grapple with as a socialist.

To be able to give a reason for the faith that is in him, before he can declare himself a Socialist. But I openly confess that I am what I should like everyone to be, a very sympathetic reader, and I do so far as very intelligent permit, observe, of the movements of Socialism and I firmly believe that the contention of Socialists against the present order is much justice, and the underlying principles of their remedy much truth.

But how to apply the principles. There's the rule. It is here as elsewhere to "line upon lines and precept upon precept, here a little and there a little." When I read that in the great city of Glasgow families amounting to the score of five or six are crowded into each family in one room, that is, 150,000 people in all, when I try and picture to myself what it means for five or six people to eat, sleep and breathe in one room, I remember that these are God's children, who being in sties, are of necessity being metamorphosed into pigs, when I know that Glasgow is only a type of many cities, I feel that human vice, or human lustiness cannot be responsible for all this, that there must be either human wrong or human indifference, or human ignorance that has brought this about. I feel that we have scarcely begun as yet to even understand the gospel of Christ, far less to apply it. The wrong is not all on one side, neither is the right. The masses, neither with the rich or the poor.

With the rich or with those who wish to be rich there is still a too great love of money, although the notion that money engenders happiness is every day shattered by atoms against the rocks of experience. It is yet the highest philosophy and the deepest faith of thousands. There are, and are to be, some with men; the love of money is its counterpart with women. Yet simple and plain living and dressing are more conducive to health and happiness than luxurious living.

Amongst the poor or the working class the rock of offence, the stumbling block in the way of progress, is ignorance. All the legislation of the past year has been in favor of the working men. They have great privileges and powers today, but they must realize themselves to the level of their privileges. There are, and are to be, very many whose desire is to "level down." "Level up" is the true motto of democracy, and working man or not, he is a false and spurious democrat, who would wish to see culture or manners degraded.

The isolation of classes (forgive the expression) I know it is offensive to many, but how else can the truth be expressed? It is too great. Wherever men and women have common interests there is a ground of fellowship. There are common interests in every town and on these we should build. There are, and are to be, societies of all kinds with their bonds of union but we want a wider unity than any of these give us—municipal unity, for the Lord our Father, we are all in which we all take a pride. We take a great deal of pains to promote new factories, new industries, more buildings, and it is right that we should. Yet an equal amount of energy expended in the endeavor for step by step to promote the unity and fraternity of the citizens we have, would, I believe, be productive of higher good and indirectly of material resources. We begin with quantity. We should first aim at quality and quantity will follow.

It is a vain ideal for our own Fortnightly Club to entertain the ideal of the service of our town. Every society, every organization, every individual, should remember that service is the very essence of Christianity. For the Lord our Father, we are all amongst you as he that serveth. Just because I am Master, because I am Lord, because I have power, because I am God, therefore I serve, (tho I, your lord and master, have washed one's feet, I ought also to wash one another's feet.) "The Son of Man came not to be ministered unto but to minister." My friends, you shall one day all our hearts, we call Him our example. Let us then go and do likewise.

MILD AND COLD WINTERS.

Editor Morning Times.

DEAR SIR:—First principles: If two dishes of water one hot and the other cold are set out in a room when the temperature is at zero, visible vapors will be seen rising from the hot water and none from the cold water. The evaporation of moisture from bodies is a sensible property of the surrounding air; proof: if a few wet sheets are spread out and hung up in a room the temperature will be lowered several degrees in a few minutes. A considerable amount of vapor escapes from man's and beast's breath in June and July, and but little from the spiral leaves of pine trees; as the sap of them consists mainly of pitch, for this reason the temperature of the air in a maple forest in June is cooler than a pine forest in the same part of the country.

During a very hot summer the waters following such a hot season would become unusually warm, when the air becomes cooler than said waters, copious quantities of vapor will rise in the atmosphere; a cold wave will condense the vapors and visible clouds will be formed. On certain days the sky will be overcast with them. When the atmosphere in a certain locality becomes light enough, shown by barometrical pressure, the vapors will be precipitated in the form of rain or snow.

The summer of 1886, much of the time, was very warm, the rivers and lakes of Canada became unusually warm; now any one who understood the foregoing principles would know that the autumn weather following such a hot season would be cloudy, and that a considerable quantity of rain would fall; he would also draw the inference that the copious evaporation which was formed into clouds would cool the air below the freezing point and the subsequent precipitation of vapor would be in the form of snow. As I knew these principles I wrote an article on them, and sent it to the editor of the Hastings Star because he promised me that he would print said article in his paper, this was about two weeks ago. I closed the article by stating that there would be sleighing in November of this year. According to the principles stated, an abundance of snow will be precipitated in the winter of 1886-8 and at times the cold will be intense, for evaporation not only cools the air, where it takes place, but the vapors are formed into clouds, from which great quantities of snow will be precipitated to the earth. The winter of 1886-6 will be rather more severe than the winter of 1885-5.

The winter following a cool summer will be mild for the waters in the lakes will become very warm, hence much lesser quantity of vapor will rise from them to cool the air and make clouds and snow storms.

COAL PRICES STIFF.

No Probability of a Reduction Taking Place this Winter.

According to the dealer there is no prospect of coal getting any cheaper in Peterborough this winter, although it may be advanced another peg. In support of this view it is pointed out that when the price went up $1.50 a ton in the United States recently, the price here was increased only 75 cents a ton. Because of this the Canadian consumer did not feel the effect of the drop of 30 cents a ton that took place in New York last week, nor is a lower price probable unless the price on the other side falls at least a dollar a ton, which is not at all likely.

It Was Smashed.

Mr. Geo. Humphreys, who was out on Neger's Creek, last week, hunting, met with a misfortune and may think himself lucky he is alive, says the Boboysgon Independent. He and some others were sitting one day a short distance from the tent, and amongst other subjects were discussing the danger of falling trees. Mr. Garner Hunter, was present and being an old woodsman had his eye open for these things, observed that a certain big pine stood looked in a decidedly dangerous condition, and if it fell, would certainly strike the camp. The words had scarcely been spoken when he said, "See, it is moving now, and with that the great stub dropped on the tent, smashing and tearing it to pieces. The campers have to thank their lucky stars that it did not fall at night. The next time they go out they will probably camp in a clearing."

JOHNSTON PLEADS FOR THE HYAMS.

comes here and asks you to convict these men on the evidence he gives you.

WOULD AYLESWORTH HAVE TESTIFIED?

"If Aylesworth had received the $25,000, ay, if he had received the half of it—$12,500—would you have heard of his suspicions when the detectives and the Crown were working the case against his friends and relations?"

To account for the fact that Wells was in receipt of sufficient money to pay the premiums, Mr. Johnston said that Wells may have thought that by husbanding resources, with his weekly wage and a small property he had come into possession of, he could have struggled along with the policy.

Great stress was laid upon the fact that he $3,000 borrowed from the Wells' father, that took like preparation for the killing of Willie Wells in January, 1893, the fact that the prisoners went to Fort Erie to put the young men into a hotel because business here was not paying was varied to, and the changes run on the lines of the trade in the summer of 1892. If they had taken the hotel where the means of killing were? In the event of an accident occurring there, and the insurance being placed, the Crown might as well come here and ask you to believe that these men committed murder. The Crown must prove to your satisfaction that the witness was taken with the express purpose of killing Wells. That part of the foundation stones upon which the whole Crown case rests.

Council reviewed the evidence with reference to the warehouse, pointed out the key frequently had to store goods in connection with their business, and claimed that the necessity existed for the hiring a warehouse—that there was good substantial reason for doing so.

The circumstance that little business was done in the warehouse was dismissed with remark that little warehousing was done at that time—it was the dull months of the year.

THE MERCANTILE AGENCY.
Mr. Johnston devoted some time to a reference to the copying of addresses on directories by deceased and Miss Aylesworth, which the Crown alleged were false. The testimony showed, he claimed, that it was cheaper to have clerks, necessarily employed for other work, to take these copies than to have them typed.

NO CHANGE IN ITS CHARACTER.

Can I put it to you more strongly than that there was no change in the character of the business from long before Wells and Aylesworth came there until long after they left? Speaking as a man of common sense and of some experience in business, to men of common sense and business knowledge, can I put it more strongly than that there was no change in the character of the business from 1881 down to the spring or summer of 1893, after the occurrence took place? There is a point marking the line which divides honesty of intention and villainy or crime.

Admitting that the prisoners borrowed money at high rates of interest, that was a crime. Other people had to do that. These men had $4,000 a year income coming to them without moving a step to you think for a moment that a man of any sense at all, having a competency at the rate of $1,000 assured to him would be the chance of committing a murder?

An uncertainty even had he the inclination? Men who commit murder for money are men in needy straits. A man who commits forgery, he may commit other crimes, he may commit all the crimes on the calendar, but there are few men who commit murder unless they are needy and driven to straits of desperation.

He had $4,000 with no person to keep a wife and aged mother; give him a comfortable furnished house as these men had, and he is likely to plot for months and months to commit a murder with no certainty at the end of his getting the $30,000.

MEMORY EVER DEFECTIVE.

For fifteen minutes counsel dwelt upon the testimony of Miss Lettmer and her husband, before entering the witness box she had read the notes she made when she told her story to Detective Cuddy in order to give the same evidence in court and said: "Would you hang a dozen such testimony, revealing as it does the defectiveness of memory?"

The testimony of the barbers was admitted. Would you, asked Mr. Johnston, believe that these men, who were at the breakfast table contented and happy, go down and chat with their friends, go to the barbers and get shaved and shampooed, and then go down and commit a bloody murder, wearing above all things, a pair of light trousers? After that occurrence, one man going home to a cab, taken by the sight of blood; the other, during his hands in lifting the weight off in head and rushing for a doctor, carrying a street car man to lash up his horses as there was a man injured. That is the character the Crown says these men assumed; that is the character the witnesses say they assumed; that is the character which it is alleged these men assumed; that is the character which the greatest actors of today could not consummate; acting which was never seen upon any stage, if acting it was, do you believe it was the acting of a circus clown?

THE DEAD RAISED UP.

Former Resident Thought to be Dying of Bright's Disease—Cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Special to The Times.

LITTONVILLE, Nov. 25.—A despatch reaching here relating to the recovery in Nepeawa, Man., of Mrs. T. McKee formerly lying here was a surprise to her friends and acquaintances. It was met by doubt, however, until confirmed by a reply from Nepeawa. Her case was well known here as this lady was treated by several of the local doctors for Bright's disease and her friends thought, as did her physicians, that her case was hopeless, and it was as a last resort that she left here to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. In a few weeks, she speaks volumes in their favor.

IS O'BRIEN CRAZY?

He is Under Arrest at Halifax Charged With Burglary.

Special to The Times.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—The wife of John O'Brien, a Brooklyn diver, whose home is at Rockaway avenue and Fulton street, went to Police Headquarters this morning and asked Inspector Mackellar to take steps to bring home her husband, who is under arrest in Halifax, N.S., for supposed burglary. Mrs. O'Brien says he is crazy and had a letter from the family physician supporting this contention.

BOWELL IS WARNED

That He Must Drop the Mad Policy of Trying to Coerce Manitoba.

Special to The Times.

WISSEMER, Nov. 24.—Senator Boulton is publishing today an open letter to Sir Macleod, B.C., protesting in the strongest terms against further pursuance of the mad policy of trying to force remedial legislation upon Manitoba. He warns Bowell that the policy will sap the foundation of the liberties of the Canadian people. Replying to the Premier's contention that the compact of the Confederation must be carried out the Senator declares that the compact has been carried out when an appeal has been laid before the Governor-General-in-Council and referred to Parliament. Mr. Boulton also protests strongly against the continuance of the policy of protection.

HIS WAD WAS SHORT.

When Thomas Kincaid Got Up in a Belleville Hotel.

Special to The Times.

BELLEVILLE, Nov. 24.—Thomas Kincaid, a shantymen, who had $170 in his pocket when he went to bed in a hotel here, last night, found his pile $10 short this morning, and a friend named Alex. Jones, who went to bed with him, missing. It was learned that Jones had bought a ticket for Buffalo and had changed some of the bills that Kincaid had got from the Bank. Jones was arrested at Niagara Falls, and will be taken to Belleville for trial.

ANOTHER LANDSLIDE.

Senator Sandford's Property at Hamilton in Danger.

Special to The Times.

HAMILTON, Nov. 24.—Another big landslide occurred at the Hunter street tunnel for the T. H. & B. Ry. last night in rear of Senator Sandford's greenhouse and stables. It is feared some of Senator Sandford's property will be precipitated into the tunnel and the contents of the stables have been removed. So dangerous have the banks become that the masons refused to work beneath them and expert shorers will be brought here to shore up the slides efficiently.

BOOTH MUST APPEAR.

The Salvation Army Commandant Defendant in a Slander Suit.

Special to The Times.

TORONTO, Nov. 23.—Commandant Herbert Booth, of the Salvation Army, will have to appear and be examined in the libel suit instituted against him by Brigadier de Barret. The latter recently severed his connection with the Salvation Army, and claims that Booth slandered him by remarks which he made and which, it is claimed, injured his character. The latter, therefore, sued Commandant Booth for $10,000 damages. Mr. Booth was called upon to attend for examination, but did not do so. Today Mr. Winchester, Master in Chambers, ordered Commandant Booth to produce documents in connection with the case and give particulars.

Strange Isn't It?

There must be Sunday saloons in Lindsay. A resident writes the following to the Post. If he could mistake his wife for another woman he could just as easily get mixed up on the churches and saloons.

Sir, I live in the north ward, Lindsay. I say this so that everybody may know for certain who I am and my exact location. I went to church Sunday to hear the most popular and eloquent minister in the town—everybody knows to whom I refer. The effect I desire to explain. The sermon was asserting and perfectly correct—so much so that I found myself a changed man, the change I felt was delightful. In this state of mind I returned to my home, to find to my horror that my wife had departed and I, another, was in possession of my happy home. You can imagine my consternation on making this discovery. The strange woman I ordered off, but she refused to go. Then I was about to call in the constable—everything seemed so altered—only strangers in possession. The effect was too much for me, and I learned afterwards I had fainted. During my unconscious hours I dreamed of being in strange lands, amongst peculiar people; all my friends gone. On awaking I was told I had passed a feverish night, that I had talked in my sleep of the new woman and new man. On becoming fully conscious, and seeing my old friends around me, I remembered the church, the minister, the powerful and harmonious sermon and then remembered I had become a changed man—so much so that I did not know, on my return home, my own dear wife. Strange, isn't it—Yours.

The Kilmount Bridge.

The case of the township of Somerville against the counties of Victoria and Peterborough, came on to be heard before Mr. Justice Meredith at the chancery sittings of the high court at Lindsay on Tuesday, 19th. The action was brought by the township of Somerville on a declaration against the counties of Peterborough and Victoria that the latter were bound to maintain the Kilmount bridge, a truss bridge of Victoria, although nominally one of the defendants, so far as contesting the case was concerned sided with the plaintiff.

Considerable evidence was taken on both sides, and after argument by counsel Mr. Justice Meredith reserved judgement. A. B. Aylesworth, Q.C., and McSweeney & Anderson for plaintiff, and Geo. H. Watson, Q.C., and Stratton & Hall, Peterborough, for defendant, the counties of Peterborough, Mr. F. D. Moore, Lindsay, for defendant, the county of Victoria.

Another Big Fire at Detroit.

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 25.—Fire broke out shortly after midnight in a five storey flat building on Cass avenue, near Colonel's street. A large number of people were sleeping in the structure, but all escaped in safety. The building, which is badly gutted, is owned by J. S. Bisler & Co., and cost $45,000.

Mrs. Shortis Living in the Goal.

BEAUMONT, Nov. 23.—Mrs. Shortis is remaining here, waiting anxiously the decision of the Minister of Justice about her son. She has taken rooms at the jail, to be nearer to and constantly with her son until his death, if he is to be hanged.

A deputation has been at Ottawa, appealing for a Government grant of $25,000 for an air line railway from Toronto to Collingwood. There are already two lines of rail communication between Toronto and Collingwood, which is a far allowance for connecting a town of about 5,000 inhabitants with even a big city, less than a hundred miles away. They must like their railroads close together in the West.

THE ARMY.

Proclaiming Full and Free Salvation to All.

A SOLDIER TELLS NOW SHE WAS SAVED.

She Says: "I thank God for the Wonders Paine's Celery Compound Accomplished for me."

General Booth and his vast army of Salvationists are now a mighty power in every quarter of the globe. Their drums, their shouting, their songs and prayers are stirring up the cold, callous, indifferent and wicked in every country under Heaven, and they are accomplishing a work that unto the shame the united efforts of all our Christian churches.

The members of the Salvation Army endure trials, hardships and persecutions as did the valiant apostle Paul in his time. Many of these faithful Salvationist labor on from day to day, suffering from thorns in the flesh, no doubt of a like character to that endured by the great preacher to Gentiles; but a merciful and wise Ruler has, through science, provided for His afflicted and diseased servants.

Mrs. H. Harbour, of Winnipeg, Man., a faithful veteran of the great Salvation Army, was for a time obliged to give up active work owing to the agonies and sufferings of heart disease, kidney trouble and general weakness.

Knowing well that her great work demanded a strong and vigorous body, she wisely determined to use Paine's Celery Compound, after hearing what it had done for the tens of thousands in Canada. The results were surprising to herself as well as to her brother and sister soldiers.

Mrs. Harbour's experiences with Paine's Celery Compound induced hundreds of other Salvationists to seek a new physical life from the same great medicine.

Reader, this same wonderful Paine's Celery Compound would do a like work for you, if you are ailing and suffering. Your friends and neighbors have tested it, and it has made them well and strong, after they failed with the common medicines of the day.

Mrs. Harbour writes as follows, with the view of benefiting all sick people:—"It is with great pleasure that I write to thank you for your wonderful medicine, Paine's Celery Compound. Some time ago I was very sick and happened to see one of your publications, in which I read of others being cured. I concluded to try Paine's Celery Compound myself, and I now thank God for the wonders it accomplished for me. I was suffering from heart disease, kidney trouble and general weakness; and some days was not able to stand without experiencing great pain; my appetite was also very poor. Since I used the Compound I am able to get about the house and work, and can now eat anything put before me.

"I trust my testimony may lead many to try your valuable remedy."

Henry Clews is reported as saying, apropos of the Kaffir gold speculation in England, that he expected very soon a big slump in the price of bicycles, which had been kept up at a fictitious value by "the bicycle craze." He figures that the American people have invested $200,000,000 in them the last four years, and that competition will soon make it impossible for manufacturers to sell at $100 what it costs about $27 to make.

A DOLL'S HOUSE.

Those who failed to attend the opera house last night when the famous drama "A Doll's House" by the Norwegian dramatist, Henrik Ibsen, was produced by Miss Julia Stuart and her associates, undoubtedly missed the best dramatic play ever put on the opera house boards in this town. Ibsen, as a dramatist, is not familiar to all theatre-goers but that he is a dramatist, and a thinker and philosopher as well, was clearly demonstrated last night by the subtlety of the lines and the deepness of the meaning which they are intended to convey to an intelligent audience, for none but an intelligent audience need hope to grasp all that the play teaches. On the other hand in the actors who assume the characters of the cast devotes a great deal, for anything but an intelligent interpretation of the parts would tend to frustrate the great dramatist's conceptions.

The opera house has had upon its stage no attraction more worthy of the success it has attained than the Julia Stuart company in Ibsen's "A Doll's House." There is much more in it than can be attributable to whatever curiosity may be excited by the name of the great Norwegian drama-list. The success is fairly and fully earned by the ability and individuality of the actress and her company. It is not too high praise to say of them that never have Peterborough audiences had the opportunity of seeing a play presented in so thoroughly satisfactory a manner. Miss Stuart's rendition of the classic role of Nora is marked by perfect naturalness in its earliest events by excellent acting when she is forced to make merry to divert her husband's attention and finally when she awakens in her doll's house there is not lacking the power and breadth of feeling which in these last moments of the play must ripen the fruit of playwright's purposes. Much of the success of the performance is due to Mr. Charles Hager's conception of the role of Torvald Holmer, while Miss Amy Thomas as Mrs. Sneider, and Mr. H. O. Meach as Dr. Rank, each contributed to the all-round excellence of the cast.

Appropos of this introduction of Ibsenism the report is current that Dr. Ibsen is to have a monument erected in his honor during his lifetime. It is to be by a well-known sculptor, Herr Stephan Sinding, and will stand in front of the Royal Theatre at Christiania, Norway.

The Weather.

Probe.—Mostly cloudy and mild today, with showers; then colder, with light local snowfalls.

The Foresters' Ball.

The wet weather had a dampening effect upon the Foresters' ball, held in their hall on Simcoe street last night.

Peterborough's 18 Years Ago.

Mr. Chas. Hager, who is connected with the Julia Stuart Company, played in Peterborough 18 years ago. He says he cannot recognize any parts of the town as he saw it in those days. The change has been wonderful.

St. Andrew's Day.

This is St. Andrew's Day, and in the heart of every Scotchman will throb a patriotic feeling. Tomorrow Rev. Mr. Williams will preach the annual sermon to the St. Andrew's Society, and on Monday night the Scotchmen will eat haggis at the Hoffman House—the annual dinner.

Five Bags of Flour.

Officer McGlady found five bags of flour in front of Walton's store on Water street last night, which had been left out at closing up time. The flour was arrested and taken to the police station.

A Girl Paper Seller.

A little girl, black eyed and bright looking but not very well dressed, and apparently 9 or 10 years of age, could be seen on George street yesterday selling the daily papers. The child attracted a great deal of attention and soon disposed of her stock of papers.

A Novel Entertainment.

An entertainment in aid of the poor fund of St. John's church will take place in the hall adjoining the opera house, on Tuesday evening, Dec. 3rd. A number of interesting tableaux will be presented, together with a choice selection of music. Admission 15 cents.

Additional local matter on the fifth page.

BROKE HIS NOSE.

A Coupling Pin Strikes a Citizen in the Face.

Mr. Robert Henderson, of McDonell street, had a very narrow escape from death yesterday. Mr. Henderson was handling some cars at Meldrum and McAllister's siding. He was standing on the track while a coupling was being made. The cars came together and caused the coupling pin to fly out. It struck Mr. Henderson in the face with great violence, breaking his nose and inflicting a severe scalp wound. Medical aid was summoned, and the injured man was conveyed to his home. The doctor in attendance stated that had the blow been a little higher up, it would have caused instant death. Mr. Henderson is doing as well as can be expected.

A CRUEL JOKE.

It Caused Young Shamble to Fall and Break His Wrist.

Some young men have created a gymnasium on King street, and yesterday afternoon young Fred Shamble, of Hubbard street, was practising on a trapeze.

He had been on the bar for some time and wanted to get down, but a companion who was present, thought to have some fun by keeping Shamble from alighting. Although Shamble entreated to be let come down, his "funny" friend would not allow him.

Shamble hung on to the bar until he became exhausted and fell to the floor. He fell on his left arm and broke his wrist.

Dr. Pigeon attended to the wrist and set the broken bones. The injury was most painful.

LOST A FINGER

Another Painful Accident at the Canadian General Electric Works.

John Cooper, of Bellair street, a young lad in the employ of the Electric Works, lost the index finger of his left hand yesterday.

He was operating a beading machine and accidentally let his finger be carried under the knife.

Cooper formerly operated a punching machine, but fearing an accident some day, changed to a beader. Dr. King dressed the injured hand.

A DEADLOCK.

No Agreement Reached With the Ashburnham Council.

The Fire, Water and Light Committee met the Ashburnham council last night and tried to come to an agreement re the debt for fire protection.

The town figured up that the village owed $300. The village representatives insisted that there was nothing due the town.

Finally the village representatives offered to pay $300 for a clean receipt. The committee refused the offer, and matters came to a deadlock.

INS AND OUTS.

If employees keep on losing fingers and thumbs at the Canadian General Electric Works, that firm will soon be able to add a boneyard to its other departments.

Some councillors will be given a notice of "motion" on election day.

Additional local matter on the fifth page.

The club is in a flourishing condition with a membership of twenty-five.

Our splendid new stock of books, stationery, fancy goods, etc., has been arranged, and THE TIMES bookstore will be open to the public today. We invite the public to inspect the stock and examine prices.

COUNCIL COMMITTEES.

Preparing for the Regular Council Meeting—Minor Matters.

At the Fire, Water and Light Committee meeting last night it was recommended that the fire hall drivers work and drive their teams alternate days.

The Property Committee took up the communication of Mr. Dickson re parks. After discussion it was decided to see Mr. Dickson before taking action.

The Finance Committee considered accounts and routine business.

The Council will meet in regular monthly session on Monday night.

CARTOON COMMENT.

Our cartoonist this week depicts the Town Solicitor in the act of applying at the golden gates for admission. He carries with him rolls of evidence and bags of money and his mission is to appeal the Mason case to the heavenly court, having failed on this mundane sphere to secure a favorable decision for the town. The imagination of our cartoonist takes an absurd flight, but in dealing with an absurd matter, he strikes the keynote of the situation, showing the futility of the numerous and costly appeals in the Mason case.

DECEMBER

hat I accuse him of saying anything vilfully wrong, but after that lapse of ime he might state innocently what is of so

"Is there a discrepancy in the evidence, and if so, how much? One man might know just how it occurred and address the jury throughout; another man equally honest, might not have the firmness to do that, but seeing he stood in a position whereby he might be accused, might, through weakness, commence to patch up a little and still be as honest as the other man.

THE JURY IN RELATION TO MERCY.
 "The case is not a very extended one although the evidence is very long. I think now, gentlemen, I will intrust the case to you. You are to say whether these prisoners are guilty or innocent. First, has the Crown given evidence enough to show beyond a reasonable doubt they are guilty. If you find it that is not so; if it is not proved beyond reasonable doubt by the Crown; then you are to find them innocent; you have nothing to do with mercy; mercy is a prerogative of the Crown; the Crown exercises mercy when it sees fit; you have nothing whatever to do with that; nor are you to be influenced in any degree by statements made by counsel for the Crown—that if you find the prisoners guilty the matter will be brought before the Government of the country—do not look upon that as a second trial or anything of the kind; do your duty like men; take hold of the whole matter. The responsibility rests with you; under the provisions of our law, you are the sworn judges to try this case; you are to find the issue upon the evidence; you cannot get around your duty. You are not to try it any less on account of the remark made that it will be submitted to the Government. Give the prisoners fair play on the evidence, but give them no more.

HIS LORDSHIP'S CONCLUDING REMARKS.

"If you are satisfied that the prisoners are guilty beyond a reasonable doubt, find men guilty like men without regard to consequences. If you are in doubt, if you are left in hesitation, if there is a reasonable doubt in any of the ways I have mentioned, then find the prisoners not guilty. You are on the one hand called upon by a community to exercise the functions of your office properly and to see that no accused person who is guilty escapes punishment. On the other hand, gentlemen, you are to see that the sanctity of the law be not misapplied and that capital or other punishment be not inflicted upon any except those who are guilty. I do not know, gentlemen, that I can say anything more to you in this case. I have perhaps very feebly done the duty that fell upon me, perhaps I ought to have gone through the evidence on a wider range, but for my own part I do not see I could do any good by so doing, but I will leave you with what I have said, with one thing more—a proposition that may seem inherent in criminal justice—that it is better that very many persons who are guilty escape, than that one innocent person should suffer. Now, gentlemen, I leave the case in your hands.

AMERICAN RAILWAYS.

At the close of last year, according to the report of the Inter-State Commerce Commission, which has just been issued, there was a total length of 178,708 miles of railways in the United States. The increase during 1894—2247 miles, amounting to 1.27 per cent.—was less than for any previous year, due to the depressing effects of the panic and the general industrial disturbance of the country. Of the 192 railroad's new hands of receivers, all but 66 were placed there last year. The gross income from the operations of the twelve months was $1,073,000,000, and the operating expenses were $731,000,000. The latter item showed a decrease of $51,000,000 from the previous year, but unfortunately the falling off in gross earnings nearly trebled these figures. About the only gratifying feature of the report is that, coincident with a reduction of earnings, there was a marked decrease in the number of injuries and fatalities both to employees and passengers.

The newspapers are having a good deal to say these days about the situation in Turkey. It looks pretty much as if it will not be very long before one man will be out of a situation in Turkey.

The oddest man in the world might be hard to locate but for his sudden appearance in a Chicago Court. He appears to owe some one $147, and has called upon the Circuit court to tell him who the some one is.

Clarke Wallace says that the great issue in North Ontario is not the Manitoba schools but the Government's tariff policy. The Hamilton Herald says that it is something new to find Brother Wallace posing as a humorist.

Very soon every man and woman who has a few dollars to spare will own a bicycle. Very soon horseless vehicles will be crowding city streets and running along the country roads. And very soon, it may be, considering whether it's worth while to continue the running of cars on week days, not to mention Sundays.

LAKEFIELD.

SCHOOL BOARD—At a special meeting of the School Board the engagements of the Principal and two of the teachers were renewed, while resignations from two other teachers were accepted. The caretakers were reappointed for the coming year.

THE DAM—Good progress has been made with the coffer dam in the river here, but the leakage through the lock will necessitate the employment of two large steam pumps to enable the work of blasting to proceed satisfactorily.

SKATING—The cold dip provided sufficient ice for skating purposes on the marsh west of the village, and a great many took advantage of it.

THE TREMONT HOUSE—The Tremont House is to have a new lessee in the person of Mr. F. G. Gaham, lately of Peterboro', and at present manager of the boarding house at the canal works near Nassau. Mr. Gaham takes possession the middle of December.

CHEAPE HORSE FLESH—One of our hotel men recently acquired a horse at a low figure. The animal was trespassing on his premises and was stabled and duly fed for a couple of days when the owner happened along and was presented with a bill for $1.50; this he declined to pay, and suggested that the hotelman should keep the horse as compensation.

LETTER—Last week's issue of the "N. W." contains an indignant letter from the Lakefield Board regarding the charges of the "N. W." for the use of the water remains shut off from the city.

Seldom does a case of such vast importance as the South-side sewer litigation in Chicago get into the courts. There are 54 lawyers engaged on one side, Robert T. Lincoln being at the head of them. Property valued at $30,000,000 is involved. It extends from the south branch of the Chicago River to the town of Jefferson, 11½ miles.

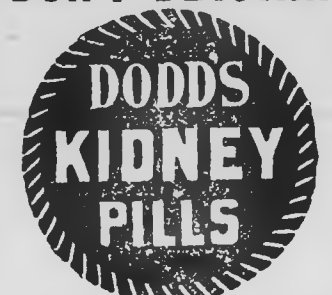

A simple device for preventing the taking of poison by mistake when a bottle is picked up hastily, or in the dark has been invented at Philadelphia. It looks like any other bottle, but when one pulls out the cork and tips the bottle nothing flows. The only way to get at the contents is to unscrew the top, as the cork is merely a "dummy." It seems that this should work.

The Japs will have to be dealt with. They propose to manufacture good bicycles and sell them in the United States and Canada for $12 a piece. If they can do that, they can beat any country in the world in manufactures. Cheap labor is the secret of their ability to this. According to free trade ideas the people of other countries who are engaged in manufacturing industries should either come down to the level of the Japs in the matter of wages or else stop the attempt to compete with them and "go on the land."

The inmates of some of the country institutions in Michigan are living high these days, feasting on venison to their heart's content. The Game law in that State provides that the license issued to a hunter shall have attached to it as many coupons as he is permitted to kill deer, and a coupon must be attached to every deer carcass. When the officers find a carcass without a tag it is seized and sent to the country institutions or distributed among the poor of the nearest city. The slaughter of game in the State this year is lamentably great, and the seizures of untaxed venison by law officers have been numerous.

There has been computed, on the basis of the latest scientific and statistical sources accessible, a table of the distribution of the people of the globe according to their religions. The population of the earth is estimated at 1,500,000,000, distributed as follows: Europe, 381,200,000; Africa, 127,000,000; Asia, 854,000,000; Australia, 4,730,000 Americans, 133,370,000; total, 1,500,000,000. The leading religions are represented by the following figures: Protestant Christians, 200,000,000; Roman Catholic Christians, 195,000,000; Greek Catholic Christians, 105,000,000; total Christians, 500,000,000. Jews, 8,000,000; Mohammedans, 180,000,000; Heathens, 812,000,000; total non-Christians, 1,000,000,000.

A JAPANESE HOME.

LIFE OF THE PEOPLE DESCRIBED BY A NATIVE YOUNG LADY.

How the Houses are Constructed—Interior—Decorations—Walls, Floors and Furniture—How They Keep Warm—Kitchens and Cooking.

So much is said nowadays in the world's press about our people's warlike spirit and exploits, writes a Japanese young lady educated in Europe to a friend, that you, my sisters in the west, may perhaps like to have a true description of our home and the peaceful pursuits of our life amid the family circle.

People say our dwellings are like the Swiss chalet in outward appearance. Possibly so, if the latter is built of wood, with three substantial walls and an overhanging roof covered with tiles. The hanging side is always open and has only sliding doors, consisting of thin wooden frames covered over with white paper, called "shoji," to shut out the wind and cold. Along this side of the house there is a highly polished wooden veranda, and as it is every mistress's aim to keep the veranda bright and spotless as possible it is wiped over with a cloth many times a day.

At night heavy wooden shutters are put up, which are fastened on the inside by means of a hook and ring. In front of the house we have a small sliding door of lattice work. When any one wishes to enter, he stands outside and calls out, "O tano moshi masu" (I beg for honorable admittance) and then waits until some one answers from the inside, "Donata sama?" meaning who may it honorably be. The visitor thereupon gives his name and is admitted through the little door.

In the interior there are rarely any walls, the rooms being partitioned off by means of sliding doors called "karakami." These differ from the "shoji," or white paper walls, which lead to the veranda, in generally being covered with thick painted paper, silk or other materials. Instead of a door handle, we have pretty little bronze indentations on either side of the "karakami." The floors of the rooms are covered with beautiful white mats, made of many layers of rice straw fastened together, on the top of which the fine white matting is placed. The whole is 2 or 3 inches thick and is generally bound round with black glazed cotton cloth. As these mats are always made 8 feet long by 8 feet wide, the size of a room is determined by the number of mats it contains. There is no furniture in a Japanese house. Chairs are unnecessary, for everybody sits on the floor in a kneeling position, with the feet crossed underneath him. Soft silk or crape cushions filled with cotton wadding are strewn around the rooms and are always offered to a guest, but not used in a general way. At mealtimes small tables are brought in for each member of the family, on which are placed the dishes containing each one's portion of the dinner, the soup bowl, rice cup and chopsticks.

As a rule, the foreigner will find none of the many things considered indispensable for a western home to make it attractive. The sole decorations are found on one side, where a dais is raised four to five inches from the ground and made of pretty polished wood, supported by pillars of pine or cherry tree. Upon this are placed quaint curio or vases of flowers and suspended on the wall over it a silk picture called a "kakeemono." These pictures are changed according to the season or special occasion. In November, for instance, a "kakeemono" with the picture of a chrysanthemum will be hung up, in March one representing a branch of cherry blossoms, others for any particular function, as funerals or weddings.

The raised dais, or "tokonoma," is the only place where we put our pretty ornaments, and then only one at a time, so that none of the beauty of the article may be lost by close connection with other things. Perhaps this is the reason why foreigners call out about our rooms being so bare and comfortless. So they are to any one accustomed to move about in an apartment filled with a variety of things. The same simplicity of decoration is observed in every Japanese house, whether the owner be as rich as Czar or as poor as the poorest of church mouse.

As our houses are built of such light materials, we find it very difficult to keep out the cold during the months of November, December, January and February. Besides this we have no means of heating our rooms, and even if we had the wind would still penetrate through the paper "shoji." The only way we do keep warm is by wearing many thickly wadded "kimono" dresses and holding our hands over the "hibachi" brazier, containing pieces of burning charcoal. We are not, however, quite so destitute of all comforts as the foreigner thinks.

The "kotatsu" combines warmth and comfort. For this purpose a square of matting is taken out, and a good sized brazier, filled with charcoal and protected by a kind of wooden cage, is set in the hole. Over this is thrown one of the wadded quilts. Each member sits on a small cushion, places his feet against the brazier and covers himself with the quilt. When the whole family is thus gathered round the "kotatsu," many are the tales of the great deeds of warriors of bygone ages, of fearful ghosts and monsters and such like subjects, which are told for the amusement of old and young. Here all meet together and rest from labor. The father has returned from business, the mother from her household work, and the children have finished their daily tasks, and all are free to enjoy a quiet hour.

From the sitting and reception rooms we go into the kitchen. Its floors are made of polished boards and are so constructed that they can be taken up at will. As the whole house is raised some 20 to 30 inches from the ground, the space between the floor and the ground is used to store away charcoal and other things. In the middle of the kitchen a square charcoal brazier is set into the floor, and much of the cooking is done over its fire, but the most important utensil is the "kama," or large iron boiler, in which the rice is boiled. It is placed in a stand made of clay. Wood is generally burned in the clay stand, or "betsu," as it is inexpensive and gives an even heat. The art of boiling rice is brought to great perfection in Japan, and in most houses a servant is kept who attends exclusively to the preparing of that article of food.

Tables and chairs are conspicuous by their absence in our kitchen. In place of the former we use small boards, raised on two legs, called "matsuta," upon which we lay up our vegetables, "okoko" (pickles) and other things, and the latter are not necessary, as every one sits on the floor.—Baltimore Sun.

Dear Sir:—We think we ought to acknowledge in some way that may become public, the very great benefit our daughter has derived from the use of your Electro-Curative Belts, and your application of Electricity in the Bath and from Dry Treatment: When we brought her to you she was a picture of unhealthiness, her limbs were shrivelled up, and as thin as limbs could be; she had no strength even to play with other children, in fact she was dying of consumption. Besides this, there was a hard lump on her spine at the nape of her neck, which caused her neck to be so stiff she could not move her head. Although it is only three months since we brought her to you she is sound and well.

FORMATION OF COAL

In Some Places the Perfect Form of the Decayed Trees Have Been Found.

The formation of coal, according to Dr. H. M. Green, is a gradual process, and is due to the solar orb bringing forth, millions of years ago, when it was larger and hotter than to-day, a wonderfully luxuriant vegetation, including plants of strange kinds, mosses as large as forest trees, and ferns thirty feet in height, growing up richly from the clayey soil and forming dense jungles in the vast marshes, the latter covering great areas of the earth's surface; these ferns, mosses, and the leaves, branches, and trunks of trees in time falling and decaying where they grew, only to render the soil more fertile and the next growth more luxuriant—year after year, century after century, this process of growth and decay going on, until the beds of vegetable matter thus deposited became of great thickness; the earth's body, however, still continued to shrink, in consequence of which her crust at times contracted and fell in, the land then sinking throughout vast areas, the beds of vegetable matter being covered and the water sweeping again over the great marshes. Sand and mud and gravel were laid down anew over the deposits, and the clayey soil from which the next rich growth would spring was spread out on the surface, this process being repeated again and again, as often, indeed, as seems of coal in any coal bed.

In this way, according to Dr. Green, the conditions for the formation of coal were made complete, atmospheric air being entirely excluded while the vegetable beds underwent the processes of decomposition, so that in some beds of coal whole trees have been found, with roots, branches, leaves and seeds complete, and all converted into the same kind of coal as that by which they were surrounded.

LINCOLN'S COUSIN A PAUPER.

Remembers the Martyred President, and Proves His Family Relationship.

The discovery has been made that John Lincoln, eighty-six years old, a cousin of ex-President Abraham Lincoln, is in the almshouse at Heading, Pa. His features much resemble those of the martyred president. His mind has given way, and his answers to questions are very childish. He is a son of Thomas Lincoln, a wealthy farmer and hotel keeper, who died in 1859. John inherited $30,000, and in his time was regarded as a great sport. His money went rapidly, and he was finally compelled, through family estrangements, to go to the county almshouse. His wife, Mrs. Annie Lincoln, died at her home in Exeter a few years ago, and the circumstance recalled the fact that the husband still lived and was a ward of the county. During the war John Lincoln made a trip to Washington and called on the president, and the two cousins had quite a lengthy chat, during which their relationship was fully established.

Two Colossal Children.

The quaint little town of St. Nicholas, in East Flanders, boasts the possession of two children of such extraordinary abnormal growth as to put completely in the shade all similar infant prodigies of the past or present. These Brabantian youngsters are boy and girl. The elder, Master Clement Suedt, is fifteen years of age and weighs no less than 400 pounds; the circumference of his body is six feet six inches; he measures thirty-six inches around the leg and twenty-eight inches around the arm. His sister, Bertha, is eight years old, and turns the scale at 294 pounds. In spite of their dimensions their activity is remarkable, for they trip and skip about with all the agility of other children of an equal age. It is an astonishing sight to see these infant mountaineers romping about in the country lanes with other children of the village. One would imagine them to be the offspring of a race of giants, so high do they tower over the heads of their little playfellows. Their appearance is interesting, both having extremely handsome and regular features. Bertha, like other girls of tender years, delights in nursing a doll, which seems ludicrously out of place and proportion in the arms of the young giantess. The couple are attracting the attention of the country around, and on fine days crowds of people flock into the quiet little town in order to catch a glimpse of these colossal children.

Mexico's Varied Climate.

For variety of climate New Mexico is said to lead the other territories of the Union. This is due in part to her extent from north to south, covering as it does seven degrees of latitude. More still is perhaps due to differences in altitude, which, within her borders, ranges from 4,000 to 10,000 feet. Conditions of aridity and rarefaction and highly electrical conditions of the atmosphere dependent upon altitude increase the diversity beyond the mere question of cold and heat. In establishing an arbor day for the territory the legislature at first selected two days, one for the northern and the other for the southern half of New Mexico, but these proved insufficient to meet the conditions of climate to all localities. So the designation of the day in each county is now left with the county school superintendent, who is supposed to fix it at the best season for tree planting in his locality.

Simple Cure for Lockjaw.

A writer in Clark's Horse Review gives his experience in curing lockjaw, which he says: "If a nail is picked up, get it out, of course, as soon as possible; then get a half pail of hot water—as hot as the horse can possibly stand it—pour in plenty of vinegar and also plenty of salt. This is all, only it must be so hot that as first when you put the horse's foot in it he will pull the foot out of the water; put it again; and hold the foot in steadily. Hold it in an hour or longer and repeat it again after two hours. Do this at least four times or more the first day and repeat the process next day. In nine cases out of ten it will save the horse. It has been tried on man, and I used it myself on my own horse. Some one may say that this remedy is no good, but if I had a valuable horse it is the remedy I would try. Nothing will kill the poison quicker if taken in time."

These are Chinese Maxims.

When the sword is rusty, the plough bright, the prisons empty, the granaries full, the steps of the temples worn down and those of the law courts grass grown, when doctors go afoot, the bakers on horseback, and the men of letters drive in their own carriages, the empire is well governed.—M. Arlequin.

Modern Buildings.

"How was it the building fell down with a crash?" "One of the bricklayers took a pinch of snuff, contrary to strict orders; he was compelled to sneeze and the mischief was done!"—Dorland.

SULTAN LOSES HIS HEAD.

A BRITISH GUNBOAT HEADING FOR THE DARDANELLES AND A CRISIS AT HAND.

Turkey's Incompetent Ruler Has a Row with His Prime Minister—Britain's Ambassador is Firm.

Special to the Times.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 29.—The political situation has again reached a most critical stage here, and it is believed either the Sultan or the British Ambassador, Sir Philip Currie, must give in within the next 24 hours or trouble will follow.

Abdul Hamid has completely lapsed into lethargy, not a sign remaining of the energy which resulted from the assembling of the fleets of the powers as a preliminary to the naval demonstration which may now be said to be taking place at Salonica and Smyrna.

The Sultan, who is only more thoroughly under the influence of the palace party, led by Izzet Bey, still declines to grant the firmans applied for by the representatives of Great Britain, Russia, Italy and Austria for the passage of extra gunships through the straits of the Dardanelles. This is the more extraordinary as on Tuesday last Tewfik Pasha, the Turkish Minister of Foreign Affairs, personally assured Sir Philip Currie that the Porte had determined to grant immediately and permission required. It would thus seem that while the Turkish Government are apparently in favor of granting the firmans, the "palace" party, valets, priests, chamberlains and others, who are the real advisers of Abdul Hamid, are opposed to it as calculated to lower the dignity of the Sultan.

On the other hand, the Mussulmans are growing uneasy, as it is being pointed out that the advent of the extra gunships would be nothing less than a warlike demonstration before Constantinople. This is a dangerous feature of the affair and is adding to the anxiety felt on all sides.

In spite of the threatened storm, however, the Sultan persists in his refusal to issue the firmans, and has again made a fencing party to the British Ambassador's latest representations on this subject.

THE BRITISH GUNBOAT DRYAD.

But Sir Philip Currie, when assured by Tewfik Pasha that the firmans would be forthcoming, promptly telegraphed to the admiral in command of the British Mediterranean squadron instructing him to despatch a gunboat to the Dardanelles to be used in the Rhoeporus as an extra gunship at the disposal of the British Embassy. As a result, the twin screw torpedo gunboat Dryad, 1,070 tons, carrying four 7-inch quick-firing and four 6-pounder quick-firing guns, was dispatched to the Dardanelles and is expected to arrive at Chanakkale today and pass right on to the Rhoeporus. But permission to pass the Straits of the Dardanelles has been given, in spite of the assurance of Tewfik Pasha, thus putting Sir Philip Currie in a somewhat embarrassing position, from which he must either retire by ordering away the Dryad or by insisting that she be allowed to pass.

The Sultan is shown to be in a state of the greatest agitation at the news that the extra British gunboat is heading for the Dardanelles, the strength of the Turkish armaments given the British ambassador by the Minister for Foreign Affairs, and consequently the position of Tewfik Pasha is not a pleasant one. The latter was tried for at midnight, and an exciting interview took place between the minister and the Sultan, during which the latter bitterly and tearfully reproached Tewfik Pasha for his action in the matter. The Pasha tried to justify himself by recalling that the granting of the firmans had been agreed upon in substance, and that he so, as in duty bound, informed Sir Philip Currie when the ambassador sent an urgent message asking for a prompt reply to several communications on the subject. The Sultan insisted that it was impossible to issue the firmans, it was contrary to the constitution, and that the measures taken by the Government to maintain order, and not to hamper the authorities by making a demerit likely to undo all the good he, Abdul Hamid, was endeavoring to do.

TIREDBY BEING TRIFFLED WITH.

The Sultan then sent Tewfik Pasha to Sir Philip Currie with instructions to do everything possible to induce the Ambassador to condescend his order for the gunboat. Sir Philip Currie, however, refused to do so, saying that he was tired of being trifled with, and reminded his visitor that Great Britain was acting entirely within her treaty rights and upon assurance of a responsible member of the Turkish Government that the Porte had decided to grant permission for boats to pass the Dardanelles. Tewfik Pasha returned to the palace in a very unenviable frame of mind and announced the failure of his mission to the Sultan. The latter is said to have been frantic with rage and drove Tewfik from his presence with fierce revellings.

The President of the State Council, Said Pasha, formerly Vizier and now Minister of the Interior, has been summoned to the apartments of the Sultan after 1.30 a.m. Abdul Hamid eagerly besought him to go immediately to the British ambassador and spare no effort to induce him to order the recall of the Dryad. The entreaties of Said Pasha seem to have had weight with the ambassador, for he finally consented to place the whole matter at that late hour once more before his Government and await further instructions although he is understood to have carte blanche as to what steps he thinks it necessary to take in treating with the Sultan. The British ambassador is awaiting a reply from London and the Turkish officials believe the Marquis of Salisbury siding upon the understanding that nothing is to be done to hinder the efforts of the Sultan in the work of maintaining order, may instruct Sir Philip to send the Dryad away from the Dardanelles.

COMPLETELY LOST HIS HEAD.

Abdul Hamid appears to have completely lost his head; the public service is entirely disorganized, the Cabinet Ministers are being sent for at all hours of the day and night and may be sent to be almost constant attendance at the Yildiz Kiosk. Everybody appears to be anxious and worried, the Ambassadors being as tired as everybody else.

POND'S EXTRACT

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 29, 1894.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 9, 1895.
I use Pond's Extract a great deal in my practice. I think it very valuable in all venous enlargements. J. L. BRADFORD, M. D.

I have been a constant user of Pond's Extract since 1853, and do not expect to discontinue it while I live. S. AMOR, M. D.

CHILMARK, MASS., Nov. 8, 1894.
I have made diseases of the skin a specialty for thirty years, and am free to say I know of no remedy that has given me such perfect satisfaction as Pond's Extract in cases for which it is recommended. G. W. BARCOCK, M. D.

ASTHMA'S INSTITUTE, Buffalo, N.Y., Dec. 8, 1894.
I know Pond's Extract to be a valuable remedy, and shall continue its use whenever the opportunity offers. GEO. H. CALKINS, M. D.

Purified Blood

Saved an operation in the following case. Hood's Sarsaparilla cures when all others fail. It makes pure blood.

"A year ago my father, William Thompson, was taken suddenly ill with inflammation of the bladder. He suffered a great deal and was very low for some time. At last the doctor said he would not get well unless an operation was performed. At this time we read about Hood's Sarsaparilla and decided to try it. Before he used half a bottle his appetite had come back to him, whereas before he could eat but little. When he had taken three bottles of the medicine he was as well as ever." FRANCIS J. The fight will doubtless be a long one, and the outcome will be watched with interest by residents of the county generally.

Keep Enemies Out.

All diseases that linger and finally kill are the effects of bad blood. The blood must be kept perfectly pure. That is what the kidneys are for. They have everything to do in filtering out the poisons.

This process of filtration may be interrupted by a cold. If there is any lack of good kidney work, in cold, or perhaps over eating or over drinking.

Nearly every acute ailment starts with a cold. So do the diseases that finally kill. The thing is to arrest the cold. This brings us to the question—What is the best treatment for a cold? Experience teaches us, from the universal success of Dodd's Kidney Pills in all the forms in which derangements of the kidneys show themselves that there is no treatment known to man anywhere equal to Dodd's Kidney Pills.

ST. ANDREW'S SOCIETY.

THE ANNUAL SERMON DELIVERED TO ITS MEMBERS.

Rev. McWilliams Preaches on the Life of Andrew, His Mission and His Virtues—A Life Well Worth of Emulation.

St. Andrew's church was crowded to the doors last night when Rev. A. McWilliams preached the annual sermon to the members of St. Andrew's Society. The Scotchmen were in attendance in goodly number, and the sermon was eloquent, instructive and impressive. The pastor of St. Andrew's preached as follows:

John, 1:14, 15. "He (Andrew) first findeth his own brother Simon, and saith unto him, we have found the Messiah which is being interpreted the Christ. And he brought him to Jesus."

ANDREW.

Jesus having returned from the temptation is again in the Jordan where John is baptizing. He is passing through the multitude, John sees him and pointing him out to two of his disciples, exclaims, "Behold the lamb of God." The disciples, who were once followers of John, are now followers of Jesus. Jesus turns around and asks them, "What seek ye?" The reply is, "Rabbi, where dwellest thou?" He comes, and says, the master. They come, and abide with him that night. Now one of the two was Andrew. Morning dawns. His soul is all aglow with a divine life and light, because of the night with the saviour. He rushes off to his master Simon, and meeting him, exclaims, "We have found the Messiah," and he brought his brother to Jesus. He brought him to Jesus, and he brought him to Jesus. He brought him to Jesus, and he brought him to Jesus.

"We have found the Messiah," and he brought his brother to Jesus. He brought him to Jesus, and he brought him to Jesus. He brought him to Jesus, and he brought him to Jesus. He brought him to Jesus, and he brought him to Jesus.

It is, find Christ first ourselves. It was only when Andrew had himself found the Messiah that he became a missionary. He was able to say, "We have found the Messiah." This was the spring of his missionary work. Andrew came, saw and dwelt with Jesus. That night, as he abode with the Messiah, his sins were blotted out, his soul received a new life—the life of the Holy Spirit who crucified the old nature, filled his soul with new power, new desires, new emotions—with peace, joy, hope, love of God and man, yet with a yearning desire that others might see, know and experience what he did.

This finding of the Messiah, this receiving in his own soul a new life which produced new desires was the beginning of Andrew's missionary effort. It was then, under the impulse of this new life that he rushed out to seek his brother Simon that he might bring him to Christ.

So it has ever been, is true today, the fountain of all missionary effort. It is, first to Christ yourself, behold Him as the Messiah, the Son of God, our righteousness, redemption, sanctification, Saviour, defence, Friend and Lord. Let Him fill your soul with the new divine life that will implant in the soul new desires, new emotions—peace, joy, hope, love for universal man that yearns as did the very heart of Christ for man's salvation. It is this yearning love, implanted in the soul by the Holy Spirit when we come to Christ by faith, that impels the Christian to deeds of daring and devotion that others may be brought to Jesus. The foundation of all missionary activity is, come first to Christ yourself. We must be able to say as did Andrew, "We have found the Messiah." Now, just exactly how, or by what truths Andrew was led to see Him as the Messiah, we do not know. The sacred volume is silent. Methinks, however, that during that ever memorable night on which I am sure neither the Master nor Andrew slept much, Andrew would question Him about what John the Baptist said, "Behold the Lamb of God." This would pave the way, this would be the seed, a sermon in which He would reveal to Andrew that he was the Messiah, the Son of God, the Lamb of God, the great sacrifice that was to make atonement for sin and that all who believed in Him would be saved. This He would reveal from Moses and the Prophets. As the Saviour preaches and Andrew listens, the Holy Spirit is working mightily in Andrew's soul, enlightening him to see the Messiah as the Son of God and Saviour of the world, leading him to faith in the Messiah, and as his souls turns to Him in faith, the Holy Spirit implants in his heart the new, the divine life, and Andrew becomes a child of God. "Old things have passed away, all things have become new," no longer in the kingdom of Satan, no longer under the power of condemnation and a slave of fear, no, his sins are blotted out, he is a citizen in the kingdom of Christ, he is spiritual, a son, an heir of eternal glory. O, it is too much for Andrew. He cannot contain himself. He yearns to bring Simon to the same Jesus, he leaps up, rushes out to find his brother Simon that he may tell him all about it and bring him to the same Lord. "He first findeth his own brother Simon, and brought him to Jesus. Then, Andrew becomes the first Home Missionary in the Christian Church. It is quite impossible to say who was the first foreign missionary. Peter preached to Cornelius and Philip to Eusebius and soon Paul was chosen to be the apostle to the Gentiles. But these were not the first to carry the Gospel to foreign lands. No, no doubt, was done by many of the converts on the day of Pentecost. Among the 3,000 who believed were people of every nation. These returned to their distant homes in foreign lands and there told the glad tidings they heard at Jerusalem. These were the first foreign missionaries, and this no doubt was the origin of the church at home, for these were believers there before any of the apostles ever reached it. Thus, it is quite impossible to say who was the first foreign missionary in the Christian church, but we are not in doubt as to who was the first to bring the glad news to draw enjoy this honorable distinction. One of the two first converts of Christ's Ministry, he at once goes out and brings his own brother Simon to Jesus. But I am not led to my second thought, namely, THE DESIGN OF ANDREW'S MISSION TO HIS BROTHER.

It was, as my text so explicitly states, "to bring his brother to Jesus." The design of his mission to his brother was not to tell him all he now knew of the Messiah the night they had spent together in some unknown home—the wonderful conversation engaged in—his own experience, etc. No, it was not to tell him all this, however interesting such a message would have been. The object of Andrew's mission was higher, nobler, it was to bring his brother to Jesus. Nothing less would now satisfy him. He had a great desire to see his brother Simon, and his joy in the joy of Salvation and whose soul yearned that others should experience that joy too. Therefore all else was merely a means to an end, namely, to induce him to come and see the same Messiah. Here we all learn a most important lesson from Andrew—pastor, Sunday school teachers, parents, all Christian workers, have a great desire to see their brethren, and their joy in the joy of Salvation and whose soul yearned that others should experience that joy too. ### A DEAD ISSUE.

If we are to judge from the speech of Clarke Wallace at Bracebridge the other night the election in North Ontario is to be fought out on the Meredith policy on which the last Provincial contest was conducted, viz., opposition to the extension of Separate schools in Ontario. The Toronto News says that the Controller of Customs reminded his Bracebridge audience that Major McGillivray was loyal to that policy, that he had even stumped the country on it and much more to the same effect, all the time holding up Sir Oliver Mowat to the scorn of his hearers for having in various ways acceded to the wishes of the hierarchy. Mr. Meredith's was a very proper and Protestant policy in the Provincial contest, but that question was settled for a year or two at least, and the matter that is now engaging the attention of the Dominion is whether Separate schools shall be established in Manitoba by Federal enactment, and against the wish of the people. That is the issue and it cannot be obscured by holding up the figure of Sir Oliver Mowat, nor by lauding the candidate for having supported Mr. Meredith. The fact that he stood beside the Chief Justice in that contest is only an additional reason why he should pledge himself to stand by Manitoba now.

Willoughby elected—that is the question that concerns the conservative electors of Cardwell, whose candidate he is.

Lewis Bates is the wealthiest colored man in Chicago. He is worth $500,000, and made his money in the express business and by shrewd real estate investments. Other wealthy colored people of Chicago are Mrs. John Jones, worth $300,000; G. H. Smiley, worth $200,000; Daniel and Andrew Scott, worth together about $175,000; J. W. E. Thomas worth $75,000; the Rev. Dr. James M. Townsend, worth $50,000; Mr. Daniel H. Williams, worth $45,000. There are about twenty other colored men in the city worth from $5,000 to $25,000.

Some light is thrown on the practical working of woman suffrage in Colorado by a letter sent from Denver to a resident of Worcester. The writer says: I thought until this election it would be a good thing, but I do not think decent women in Denver will ever go to the polls again. Why! the political horses ran the women from what they call "the Row" just like sheep, and shamed every decent woman in the city, and the worst of it was that the same women voted of course against their own sex and for all the "bums" on the ticket. My wife says she never will vote again, except to repeal the woman suffrage act.

Business is business. It is related that a country parson in England wrote to Barrey Barnato in London, asking for relief from embarrassment on account of an over-indulgence in Kaffirs. "My aim," he wrote, "has always been investing, not speculation. When your bank came out I regarded its shares as an investment, and purchased 400 of them at £4, sinking my little all in them, and a good deal more. They have now fallen to £2, and I am undone. I cannot face my parish as a bankrupt, and what am I to do? I throw myself upon your mercy." Mr. Barnato was deeply moved by the appeal, and replied that he would buy back the shares at £4. On receipt of this reply the guileless parson wired to his brokers to "buy 400 shares of Barnato bank stock at £2 and send them round to Barnato Bros., who will give you £4 for them."

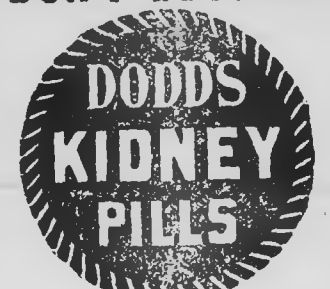

It has been discovered that Senator Chandler weighs only 115 pounds. The little fellow was out of his class when he challenged John Bull to fight. John's a heavyweight.

Should the Christian powers enter Constantinople their entry would be a historic incident unsurpassed in interest by any other that ever occurred. It is nearly 450 years since the Turk took the city by storm, and they have held it amid all the vicissitudes of war and of fortune. It is possible that, after the lapse of centuries, CONSTANTINE XIII. may have a Christian successor and that the Church of St. Sophia may be restored to Christendom. But the changes that might follow the entry of the Christian powers into the great city which, in the procession of the ages, has been known as Byzantium, Constantinople, and Stamboul, are unimaginable.

The French government has just obtained from the Shah of Persia the most valuable archaeological concession ever granted. It gets for the nominal sum of $10,000 the privilege, to the exclusion of other European powers, of making searches for antiquities throughout Persia. Several great cities of the Bible lie buried in the sandy wastes of Iran, and the explorations of Dr. Dieulafoy at Shushan have brought an underground wonderland to light in a state almost as realistic as Pompeii and of far higher antiquity. The colored bricks of Artaxerxes' palace, with life-sized reliefs of archers of the different races of Asia and Africa, at Paris, were unearthed at Shushan, but they are only a small sample of what is still below ground.

A real wild West carnival in the heart of what is left of the wild West itself, is planned to be held in Arizona next February. It is to be in or near Phoenix. Representatives of every Indian tribe in Arizona, and of most tribes in the Southwest, are to be present, and, because of the proximity of the exhibition to their native haunts, they will be able to show almost the real thing in Indian life and ways. Then, the whole country roundabout it covered with cattle ranges and there are many hundreds of cowboys in every way representative of their class, who will be able to be present, not alone as exhibits, but as spectators. The projectors think the show will be a big success.

The Inevitable Fall

Now by stream, through field and forest
Nature throws a sombre pall;
Talisman of fading glory—
Even pride must have a fall.
Now the overcoat-less duds
Scans announcements, one and all,
That tell where those useful garments
May be purchased cheap this Fall—
And that puts in mind, right there; stop that idling, drop directly, from prosy "poetry" into profitable prose. Overcoats and Suitings in latest designs can be "purchased cheap this Fall"

THE MODERN WOMAN.

Oh, she can write a poem,
And she can make a stew,
Can play on the piano,
And also bake and brew.
She reads a little Latin,
And also studies Greek,
Can rock the baby's cradle,
And nurse the sick and weak.
Can give her husband counsel,
Put trimmings on a hat,
Deliver an oration,
Or work a bordered mat.
She entertains right royally,
Reads law a little, Greek,
Pshaw! Tell of something, can you,
A woman cannot do?

AN APRIL FOOL.

"I feel like doing something outrageous, Jack."
"Worse than usual, Jill?"
"Very far above and beyond anything I've ever done."
"May the saints preserve me!" and she shivered between them.
"Jill drew the vase of jonquils over to her side of the table, and began tearing the pretty yellow blossoms to pieces."
"Jack caught the fair, destructive fingers in his own."
"You are bent on mischief, Jill. I fear we shall both come to grief, as did our namesakes before us, unless you leave off your bad habits!"

"When we are sober, married people, Jack, living out at Elmwood, I shall be a model of sedate propriety, but now I'm hungering and thirsting for fun."
"Then somebody will suffer. I fear me you are a bloodthirsty little vixen."
"I'm afraid so, Jack. Do you know what I am thinking of now?"
"No, Jill; they say there is honor among thieves. Perhaps if I join you in carrying out your deep and dark plans I may escape the misery that I fear you are hoping to bring upon me."
"And you'll really help me? Jack, you are the joy of my life!" Jill pushed the jonquils away, and turned a bright face up to her sweetheart's.

"Uncle Bert is away now," she went on, "and it's the time for our fun. Only two days before April first! Come, Jack, we must settle on something."

"It was nearly sundown when Jack went home. He met little Miss Bessie on her way from a school. She was a dainty little body, well into the thirties, but fair and pretty still."

"I am so surprised," she said, "I've just had a note asking me to play the wedding march at your uncle's wedding!"

"Then it is true!"
"Why, yes. The note is signed, 'Committee of arrangements.' That is queer, but then, your uncles queer."

"Very. You will play?"
"To be sure. There! The note is gone."

"A whiff of wind snatched it from her hand, and away it went across streets and gardens, to flutter down at the door of the village gossip, and to help very materially in carrying out the plans of Jack and Jill."

Little Miss Bessie trudged on. She lived with her sister in the country, and taught music at the academy in the village. She was smiling as she passed Elmwood. It's master was no longer a young man, and his aversion to marriage was well known.

"I would as soon have thought of being asked to play at the wedding of the man in the moon!" Miss Bessie said aloud.

"Did you speak to me, ma'am?"
"Mr. Grimes! Why, sir, I thought you were in the city! Oh, I beg your pardon! Can you forgive that thoughtless remark?"

"I don't see how it concerns me, ma'am, if some man is fool enough to marry."

"But you are the man, sir!" honest little Miss Bessie exclaimed.

"I?" Uncle Bert's face grew redder.

"Certainly, sir. Have I not just been asked to play the wedding march at your wedding?"

"And when, pray, am I to be married?"

"On Wednesday night, sir."

"I think you are a fool, ma'am."

"I am, indeed, else why do I stop here?" She lifted her little head and started on.

"Pray, don't take offense, where none is intended. Wait and tell me what you know about this matter."

Miss Bessie turned back.

"Will you come in and help me to find out who has done this?"

Miss Bessie went in. They talked until Mrs. Bessie, the very respectable housekeeper, came in to say that tea was ready.

After some pressing, Miss Bessie went out to tea with them, and, upon its being explained to her that Mrs. Bessie had cut her finger while slicing the tongue, Miss Bessie consented to pour out the tea.

Uncle Bert felt unusually happy. It had been long since any woman had taken part in his plans, and Miss Bessie had been so interested in trying to help him.

It was cozy and pleasant to have her sit there in Mrs. Bessie's place and chat and drink tea. He felt very lonely when she was gone. On the table he found a queer little object. It was made of morocco, and "musique" was stamped on it. He touched it with one finger, then he took it up. A faint, sweet odor arose from it and a cluster of withered violets fell out on the floor. Uncle Bert picked them all up, stooping stiffly, and then putting them in an engine when he straightened again.

It had been long since he had held a flower in his hand. The violets carried him back over the years, and he was not used to unraveling. He went back to his boyhood, and he thought of the mother who had died before he had learned to show her worth. He remembered that she held violets in her hand the last time he saw her.

Tears came to eyes that were strangers to them, and Uncle Bert put the flowers down to blow his nose. Mrs. Bessie heard the blast, and said to the stable boy that she believed "that poor lone man was settin' out for a right colic."

Uncle Bert had strange dreams that night; very strange dreams for an old man who had never loved a woman even in his youth, and who hated what he called the "whole capoodle" of them now; very strange dreams for a man who means to die and leave his wealth and his home to his nephew and niece.

When he awoke the sun was shining in his face. After breakfast he saw a trim little figure coming up the walk, and his very strange old heart stirred about in a peculiar way.

"I left my music, or I lost it. Thank you; I'm so glad to get it."

Little Miss Bessie almost hugged the roll in her joy.

"I'll find out all I can to-day, and tell you. I think some one has been planning a very big April fool for the whole town. I've think of the girls deceiving the church, and the congregation and preacher 'kidding'!" and in spite of her duty to Uncle Bert, little Miss Bessie's brown eyes twinkled, and her cheeks dimpled.

Uncle Bert cleared his throat. "It's a bad joke," he said.

"Yes, and a cruel one."

37TH ANNUAL DINNER

OF ST. ANDREW'S SOCIETY AT THE HUFFMAN HOUSE.

A Splendid Collation and a Very Intellectual Toast List—An Evening of Pleasure and Enjoyment.

St. Andrew's Society's annual dinner, held in the spacious dining room of the Huffman House last night, was one of the greatest successes of all the 37 dinners given by this society since its inception 37 years ago. The attendance in the first place was good, the weather was cool and crisp, and the hospitality shown by Mrs. Huffman was both generous and magnificent.

The dining room, with the tables set down the centre with flags and elegantly decorated with sprigs of evergreen, and the walls were ornamented with the antlers of deer. The soft glow of the electric lights combined with these decorations produced a beautiful effect. The banquet table, itself, was set in perfect taste, and very magnificent, yet not in the least gaudy, and the table d'écrit, the centre of the entire length was in perfect harmony with the whole and quite as magnificent and pleasing. As to the cuisine, it was the height of elaboration as will be seen by a glance at the menu.

At 8 o'clock, the members of the society, seated themselves around the festive board, and the feast of things material began. At the proper moment the haggis was announced, and the triumphant march of the national dish from the mysterious regions of culinary art to the spot presided over by President (Dr.) Bell, began. Mr. Miller led the pipes, and the haggis was many complimentary remarks were made to the excellent and artistic manner in which the dinner had been prepared and served. At the plate of each guest was provided a "Scotch bonnet," and sprig of heather tied with the bright tartan.

The waitresses wore Scotch plaid and Scotch plaid ribbons.

During the evening, Dr. Jobb, of Orillia, favored with banjo selections, and songs were rendered by Messrs. Melrose and McKenzie.

Mr. Wm. Telford, brother of the departed bard, sent his compliments to the society and highly entertaining address, which was read by Mr. Cameron.

ODDFELLOWS CELEBRATE

Their 13th Anniversary as a Lodge—A Splendid Entertainment.

Otonabee Lodge, L.O.O.F., celebrated its 13th anniversary last night by holding a concert. The program was rendered by the well known Van Amburg Family and was as excellent as it was varied.

The lodge rooms were crowded to the doors and those present were well entertained.

Fast Grand Master Bell delivered an address in which he referred to the financial standing of the Order through the American continent. The sum of $3,000,000, he said, was paid out annually for the relief of the distressed.

A vote of thanks was tendered the Van Amburg Family for the excellent program. Afterwards dancing was indulged in and the evening ended very pleasantly.

HOOPER SENDS HIS DENIAL.

Says He Has Not Been Refused a New Trial.

The Ottawa Free Press says: Another communication has been received from John R. Hooper, who is in St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary. Like others sent out by him it shows that he is still full of hope of obtaining a new trial and ultimately his liberty. Today's letter reads as follows:

ST. VINCENT DE PAUL, Nov. 30. Many thanks for your goodness. The telegram sent out that I had been "refused" a new trial are not correct. I have now the report that the department of justice does not want to interfere in the matter of a new trial, leaving it solely to the province. I am now getting all my new evidence, certain, strong, and satisfactory.

Placing them in the proper channels, through the trial judge to the Quebec attorney general. Kindly let my petition know that my petition ran up close on four thousand names, including twenty clergymen. I have the best hopes that when my new evidence is reviewed that I will get the new trial. Respectfully,

J. R. Hooper.

P.S.—My new evidence has not been considered as yet by anyone for a new trial.

A SUSPICIOUS CASE.

Was John Jones of New-tonville Murdered for His Money?

THE BODY EXHUMED.

HE LEFT AN ESTATE WORTH $22,000 AND HIS BROTHER BENEFITED BY HIS DEATH.

Special to The Times.

John Jones, a farmer of the Township of Clarke, died at the residence of his brother Henry Jones, on the 24th of September, in the 47th year of his age. He was attended by Dr. Aldrich, who gave a certificate that his death resulted from inflammation of the lungs and typhoid fever. The deceased left an estate valued at $22,000, and by will left the entire property to his brother, Thos. Jones and his family, Hamilton Tp., and appointed Dr. Aldrich his sole executor. Shortly after Mr. Jones' death complaint was made to the County Crown Attorney, John Kerr, C. C., regarding the circumstances of his death, and Dr. Corbett, of Port Hope, was consequently instructed to hold an inquest.

The coroner's inquest was held in New-tonville last week, Dr. R. A. Corbett presiding. John Kerr, C. C., appeared for the Crown, and Mr. Henry White watched the case for the estate.

Dr. R. T. Corbett, of Port Hope, and Dr. Douglas, of Cobourg, were appointed to make a post-mortem examination of the body of the deceased Mr. Jones. Dr. A. Waters, Powers, and Glenesha were present at the post-mortem on behalf of Dr. Aldrich.

Dr. R. T. Corbett, of Port Hope, presided at the inquest. He was never without a message to Dr. Hillard, of Bowmanville, the night previous to Mr. Jones' death, but that he could not get to Bowmanville over the wire. He had asked Newcastle and Toronto to try and get him without success.

Dr. J. Jones, operator at Newtonville, said that he had for two hours to send a message to Dr. Hillard, of Bowmanville, on the night previous to the death of Mr. Jones but he could not possibly get Bowmanville.

Mr. Carl Kent, operator at Bowmanville, testified that their office was never without an operator and that their connections were all right and there was no reason why a message from Newtonville would not be heard.

William Wittaker was the next witness but he could not throw much light on the subject.

Robert Knox, Clerk of the Township of Clarke, produced a doctor's certificate, signed by Dr. Aldrich, which said the deceased had died from inflammation of the lungs and typhoid fever.

Col. John Hughes said that Dr. Hillard called on him and reference was made to Mr. Jones; he said: "Do they want that man to die up there?" to which witness replied in a jocular manner: "I guess so. He could not recall Dr. Hillard's exact words but they left the impression of his previous statement."

Alex. Jones visited the deceased on the day previous to his death. He saw Dr. Aldrich with him. He saw Dr. Aldrich take his brother's watch and private papers and with Thos. Jones count the money in his pocket which amounted to twenty or twenty-five dollars.

Dr. Powers was called and said he had visited the deceased on the 19th of September and found him suffering from typhoid fever and congestion of the lungs. He concurred with the testimony. He saw him again on the 24th and he was sinking rapidly.

H. R. Jones, brother of the deceased, wanted the attending physician to use a stomach tube as suggested by Dr. Hillard, but he said it was no use, he was dying. He also said his liver and lungs were affected but he had got them all right.

Dr. Hillard saw the deceased on the evening of Sept. 2. He was then in a dying condition. He found that he had congestion of the lungs. He had not been taking nourishment and he divided a stomach tube. He had a tube but Thos. Jones, brother of the sick man, objected to its being used. The brother said he did not wish to persecute him. He would not give any opinion as to whether or not the deceased had typhoid fever. He did not deny having made use of the expression which Col. Hughes attributed to him but did not remember having so expressed himself.

Joseph Thompson, a resident of Clark said shortly after Mr. Jones was taken down he asked Dr. Aldrich how Mr. Jones was. The doctor said he was badly shaken and dying. Subsequently he heard Dr. Aldrich tell Dr. Hillard that Mr. Jones had not been delirious. He wondered at this.

H. H. Jones said he saw Dr. Aldrich at the funeral of Mr. Jones. The doctor said that the deceased had succumbed to a general collapse of his system. Regarding the will, of which Dr. Aldrich was the sole executor, he said that the doctor told him that if there was anything in the estate business he might as well have it as anybody else.

The inquest adjourned until Thursday, December 5th, to receive the report of the physicians.

Keep Enemies Out.

All diseases that linger and finally kill are the effects of bad blood. The blood must be kept perfectly pure. That is what the kidneys are for. They have everything to do in filtering out the poisons.

This process of filtration may be interfered with by a cold. Usually if there is any lack of good kidney work, is cold, or perhaps over eating or over drinking.

Nearly every complaint starts with a cold. So in the diseases that finally kill. The thing to be aware of is the cold. This brings us to the question:—What is the best way to treat a cold? Experience teaches us as from the unpalatable experience of a cold. Every Fall in all the homes in which the kidneys show themselves there is no treatment known to man anywhere equal to Dodd's Kidney Pills.

AULD LANG SYNE.

to do the chores as usual, but on his not returning at tea time, which the family usually have about 6 o'clock, one of his brothers was sent out to tell him to come in.

He went to the stable and found the chores had not been done and also that a rope was missing. He went back and reported this to the father and brothers when they all started out in search.

That being snowed the ground they easily found him down to the swamp, where they found his body hanging from a limb, his toes touching the ground. He was quite cold and stiff, so they got a number of neighbors to view the body and also took advice from a physician who declared that an inquest was unnecessary.

There had not been in good health for about two years, often being very depressed in spirits.

Young Jones had given no intimation of the family and he contemplated and his parents had almost heartily over the end of the world. It is thought that his illness was due to his mind, which caused temporary aberration of mind, in which condition he ended his life.

The funeral will take place this afternoon at 2 o'clock and will be largely attended by the deceased was widely known and very popular.

St. John's young people met last night.

borne smoking and tasty to the head of the table where it was served by Col. Bell to the Scotchmen and their friends.

Secretary Menzies presided the feast of reason and flow of soul—the toast list by reading the following messages from sister societies:

From D. G. Campbell, president of St. Andrew's Society, Hamilton:
"Some have meat that Causes eat,
An' some can eat that has no meat;
But the meat an' We can eat."

From A. M. Chubb, president of the Toronto Society:
"Gin from meat warms."

From President G. M. Grant, of Kingston: "Kindly Kingston Scotch and loving greetings to Peterborough folk."

"Gin from meat warms." Montreal.
"Gin from meat warms." May ye be as happy as we with ye the night."

This is the reply that Peterborough Society sent to the above places:
"Gin from meat warms." Scotchmen send their greetings to St. Andrew's night—and may the Scotchmen's face o' fat haggis warms tell ye aye aye."

President Bell proposed the toast to the Scotchmen and the toast to the object of the society and mentioned the fact that in the way of dispensing charity, the society had become an important factor. It was a fact, he said, that many Scotchmen needed help, which was a tribute to their thrift and industry.

The toast list which followed was of a most entertaining and enjoyable nature, and the responses were particularly brilliant. At a late hour the 37th annual dinner of this society came to a pleasant close.

NOTES.
The Highland Ladies which joined the entrance to the dining room, was kindly followed by Miss Rudkins and was an acceptable addition to the decorations furnished by Mr. Alf. Kingcastle.

The members of the society were more than pleased with the splendid collation and the toast to the host and hostess.

SELF-SACRIFICE.

The Mother's Conception of Her Duty Was Clear and Her Purpose Firm.

Miss Stella Delaney was lost in thought. This is a warning against venturing into unfamiliar territory. To do Stella justice, it must be said that she seldom wandered in thoughtful fields. But the present was an extraordinary occasion.

Mr. Archibald Vandermillion had asked her to become Mrs. Archibald Vandermillion, and he must have known it, for he committed his proposal to writing and sealed himself of the postal facilities in transmitting it. Mr. Vandermillion was not by nature a courageous man. He had not the nerve to propose verbally. That is why he sent a letter.

Like the dutiful daughter that she was, Stella Delaney laid the letter in her mother's lap and asked the maternal advice.

Mrs. Delaney read it carefully and then said:

"I don't think Archibald Vandermillion would suit you at all for a husband."

"Why, mamma?"

"Well, in the first place, he is old enough to be your father."

"But, mamma, girls often marry elderly men, especially if they don't show their age particularly."

"But this is precisely what Mr. Archibald Vandermillion does. He shows every day of his age. Then, again, he has led a very wild life for at least thirty years. Think of that. He was sowing wild oats fully ten years before you were born. An inexperienced girl like you could do nothing whatever in managing a man like that. He has had his own way all his life, without the least restraint from a judicious wife, and it is very strange that he should think of giving up his bachelor freedom."

"But, mamma—"

"Hear me out, Stella, love. Not for all his vast wealth, nor for the elegant establishment he could give you, would I commit my delicate daughter of nineteen years to the care of such a man as Archibald Vandermillion. I should be an unnatural mother even to think of such a sacrifice for a moment. The sort of wife he needs is one who can curb his unbridled inclinations and habits, and transform him into a useful member of society. For these reasons, Stella dear, I have resolved to marry this man."

With the virtue of self-sacrifice upon her noble features, Mrs. Delaney swept out of the room, leaving her daughter lost in deep thought, as before remembered—Harper's Bazar.

A MIST-CURE.

An attack of rheumatism had considerably aggravated Mr. Twillier's rheumatic irritability.

"Can't ye do something to help me out of this?" he asked indignantly. "Dye want to see me hoochow myself out of existence? I s'pose ye think it would be funny to think of my wrestling with a harp and a pair of wings and the hoochows all at once, don't ye? I s'pose ye—but here another spasm caught him."

"What can I do?" she asked pleadingly.

"I can't hold your breath for you and count nine, you know."

"No. But you can scare me, can't ye? Ye can holler 'Boo!' in my ear when I'm not expecting it, or something like that."

"Mr. Twillier," she answered hesitatingly, "I am surprised at you. The idea of my engaging in any such nonsense is sufficiently absurd to be worthy of you. I have something more important than 'boo' to say to you."

"Eh?"

"I will have to have a new wrap this winter."

"What's that?"

"And, while it is a little more expensive to have with me, I think it will be the most economical in the end. So to-morrow you can give me a check."

"Mary—are you insane? What does this mean?"

She looked at him in silence for a moment and then said:

"Your hoochows are gone, aren't they, dear?"

"Why—ye—ye come to think of it, I believe they are."

"I thought," she said, "that if anything would scare you that would."

The Spring Feet's Difficulties.

The poet sang a song of spring of sephyras sweet and vernal, of groves that ring and brook that sing and melodies eternal. He sang of groves and bowing lush, of groves by birds invaded—then through two fies of blowing slush across the street he waded.

He sang of deep, umbrageous grots and odoriferous sephyras, of shady spots and flower-plots and sweet and loving wives.

He sang of flower-burdened trees and sweet melodious grots, and then went out and froze his knees—but that's another story.

The poet sang a song of spring and ode of rhythmic dizziness, of groves that ring and birds that sing and all that kind of business. He sang of showers and brooks and flowers, this wrapt poetic wizard, then roamed around for thirteen hours lost in a snowy blizzard.

He sang of daisied upland slopes and woods of glorious greenery, and trotted out all kinds of tropes to describe his scenery. He sang how the groves were ringing—and then went out and caught the grip and discontinued singing.—New York World.

Kingstonians Prayed Yesterday They Did so In Private.

Special to The Times.

KINGSTON, Dec. 2.—There was no public gathering at which Christian Endeavorers may be yesterday in pursuance of the invitation given on Thursday last for the conversion of Col. Ingersoll. If they prayed it was in private. The various churches suggested the suggestion. Rev. J. R. Black, chairman of the Canada Congregational Union, deplored the suggested action, saying the circumstance would furnish with another subject for a heinous and a fling and sneer at the Christian religion. The Whig says the act "will strengthen and elevate that suffer in his own estimation more than the fullest freedom of the land for fifty years could accomplish. A dignified silence from a united Christianity best fits his heart; religion will never soften a stony heart by making its holder more notorious or more vain and consequential than he already is."

Railway Notes.

The new agreement between the C.P.R. managers and their engineers is for five years. It has been signed, all parties expressing themselves as being satisfied with its terms. The changes made from the old agreement, which expires next month, are not important.

An elegantly fitted private car for the use of the new president, Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson, who, it is said, will reside in Montreal for some time, is about to be turned out at the Grand Trunk Railway shops at Point St. Charles. The car is equipped with all the latest appliances for the comfort of its occupants.

How to Cure All Skin Diseases

Simply apply "SWAYNE'S OINTMENT." No internal medicine required. Cures itching, eruptions, redness, all greasiness on the face, head, and all itching skin diseases, white and black, and all other skin diseases. The cure is guaranteed by no other remedy. Ask your friends for "SWAYNE'S OINTMENT." Lyman, Sons & Co., Montreal, to be tried again.

Simple Cure for Lockjaw.

A writer in Clark's Horse Review gives his experience in curing lockjaw, in which he says: "If a nail is picked up get it out, of course, as soon as possible; then get a half pail of hot water—as hot as the horse can possibly stand it—pour in plenty of vinegar and also plenty of salt. This is all, only it must be so hot that at first when you put the horse's foot in it he will pull the foot out of the water; put it again; and hold the foot in steadily. Hold it in an hour or longer and repeat it again after two hours. Do this at least four times or more the first day and repeat the process next day. In nine cases out of ten it will save the horse. It has been tried on man, and I used it myself on my own horse. Some one may say that this remedy is no good, but if I had a valuable horse it is the remedy I would try. Nothing will kill the poison quicker if taken in time."

These are Chinese Maxims.

When the sword is rusty, the plough bright, the prisons empty, the granaries full, the steps of the temples worn down and those of the law courts grass grown, when doctors go afoot, the bakers on horseback, and the men of letters drive in their own carriages, the empire is well governed.—L'Alequin.

Modern Buildings.

"How was the building fell down with a crash?"
"One of the bricklayers took a pinch of snuff, contrary to strict orders; he was compelled to sneeze and the mischief was done!"—Dorfbachler.

Piles! Piles! Icing Piles.

Symptoms.—Moisture; intense itching and stinging; most at night; worse by scratching. If allowed to continue tumor form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and in most cases removes the tumors. At drug stores for 50 cents. Dr. Swayne & Philadelphia Lyman, Sons & Co. Montreal, wholesale agents.

The winter session of the Reichstag opened yesterday. The Emperor was not present and the speech from the throne was read by the Chancellor, Prince Von Hohenlohe.

Twenty Thousand Roses.

There are nearly 20,000 rose trees in bloom now at Dunlop's conservatories Bloort-st. west, Toronto. Visitors are always welcome. Mr. Dunlop is proud of his establishment and takes pleasure in speaking of his beauties. He ships them by rail and express to all parts of Canada, and as these orders are filled direct from the trees, he guarantees them to arrive in good condition. Sale room, 45 Yonge-st., and 45 King street west.

Keep Enemies Out.

All disease that lingers and finally kills are the effects of bad blood. The blood must be kept perfectly pure. That is what the kidneys are for. They have everything to do in filtering out the poisons.

This process of filtration may be interfered with by a cold.

Usually if there is any lack of good kidney work, is cold, or perhaps over eating or over drinking. Nearly every acute ailment starts with a cold. So do the diseases that finally kill. The thing is to arrest the cold. This brings us to the question—What is the best treatment for a cold? Experience teaches us, from the universal success of Dodd's Kidney Pills in all the forms in which arrangements of the kidneys show themselves that there is no treatment known to man anywhere equal to Dodd's Kidney Pills.

IMPERSONATED A CLERGYMAN.

Well-known Halifax Citizen Illegally Marries Two Young People.

Special to The Times.

HALIFAX, N.S., Dec. 3.—A sensational case came to light here, in which a well known citizen impersonated a clergyman and illegally married a young man and woman.

The couple came to the city from the country, and the young man obtained a marriage license and they repaired to the house of a clergyman. The latter was out, but as the visitor stated his errand was urgent, he was directed to the house where the minister was.

Thither the country couple went, and when they arrived stated their mission. The clergyman was not there, but the citizen told him he was the man of cloth. The couple were unsophisticated, and the man went through a mock ceremony and pocketed the fee.

The young man and woman went away happy, but after having lived together as man and wife for several days the fraud that was perpetrated upon them was discovered solely through an accident. The injured couple immediately had a legal ceremony performed, and the man placed the case in the hands of the police.

A warrant was issued for the arrest of the citizen who usurped the functions of the clergyman, but the officer who called at his house found the man absent, and it is believed he became frightened at what he had done and skipped out. To spare the feelings of the unfortunate couple the police for the present withhold their names from the public.

HE WAS SMOTHERED.

The Awful Death of Mr. James W. Campbell of Toronto.

Special to The Times.

TORONTO, Dec. 3.—James W. Campbell, brother of Archibald Campbell, M. P. for Kent County, was working on the third floor of his brother's mill at Toronto Junction this evening, and went into the huge shorts bin to get a scoop shovel. Just as Campbell got into the bin several tons of grain fell on him. He was taken out as quickly as possible, but was unconscious, with only one spark of life remaining. His mouth, nose, ears and eyes being packed full of shorts. He died in a few minutes, in spite of every effort of the medical men, who were quickly on hand.

The Times.

PETERBOROUGH, DECEMBER 4, 1865.

A BIG BOOM.

South Africa is just now in high favor with British capitalists. South African mining and other stock is in high request in London. Millions of pounds of English money have been invested in South African mining ventures. The French and Germans, too, have been making South Africa a field of investment. The way in which stocks have appreciated there within the last few months has been something surprising. We learn from Bradstreet's, which is a good authority on such subjects, that the value of the shares of a group of South African enterprises consisting of eight mining companies and three trust or financial concerns was a few months ago £11,935,000. These same shares are now quoted at £25,400,000. This is a great jump in so short a time. The appreciation has been £13,528,000, or considerably more than 100 per cent. This means big fortunes for lucky speculators. The reader will not be surprised to learn that in South Africa stupendous fortunes have been made. One man, who rejoices in the name of "Barney," who was the other day, so to speak, as poor as a church mouse, has netted $100,000,000. Dr. Chauncey Depew, who has just returned from Europe, said to an interviewer in New York.

The excitement in South Africa gold mines equals the wildest speculation in Colorado or California. Both London and Paris are crazy. One of the best informed bankers of Europe told me that 100 men had pocketed in cold cash within the past year $500,000,000 by the sale of the stakes or shares of these companies. The money had come from the confiding British public and the usually cautious French. Forty millions of it was won by a man who went to the Cape as a juggler in a circus, and is now climbing rapidly the social ladder. The stakes are constantly rising in price, and, of course, capitalization, and at no distant day the bubble will burst, scattering ruin more widely than has been experienced for a generation.

The boom is still on. Very little attention is paid to the warnings of the cautious. They are very likely attributed to envy by the successful speculators and those who have not been successful are not as yet convinced that large gains for all who have put their money in "Kaffirs" is an impossibility. The boom fever while it is raging blinds men to everything that does not tell in favor of the success of their favorite enterprises. We wonder if the time will ever come when British Columbia mining projects will be looked upon with favor by British investors. We see that Mr. Clive Phillips Wolley and Mr. W. C. Prescott, have through the Times, directed the attention of British capitalists to British Columbia's mineral wealth and to the progress that has been made in developing it. It is to be hoped that their praiseworthy efforts will meet with the success they so well deserve. Who knows but that before very long fortune will smile on this province, and that those who are so energetically and so pluckily, in the face of many discouragements, proving in a practical way that its mineral resources are rich and varied will be almost if not altogether as successful as the South African pioneers.

With the long delayed Trent Valley Canal under construction, and work for nearly everybody, there should be comparatively little charity required during the coming season of cold and frost.

It is said that the friends of the Hyams have spent almost $100,000 on the recent trial. The crown also has to foot an enormous bill. The only people who are ahead are the lawyers. They always will.

A DIFFICULT POSITION.

Lord Salisbury is at the present moment, with respect to Turkey, in a very peculiar position. He has, both in London and Constantinople, used some very strong language, with respect to the Armenian outrages. He has urgently requested the Sultan to institute reforms in Armenia. He, too, has been careful to let not only the British nation but the whole civilized world know what are his opinions and his intentions with regard to Armenia. He is ostensibly backed up by France and Russia.

The Sultan has listened to Lord Salisbury gravely and politely. He may have protested a little, though if he has it has been very gently. But he has done nothing. He has not taken a single step towards carrying out the reforms which the British Premier has advocated so strongly and so publicly. The Sultan's inertia seems to be invincible. Nothing can induce him to move. It is said that his inaction is approved secretly by Russia, and that it is not altogether displeasing to France. What is Lord Salisbury to do? After saying so much as he has said and leading the people to believe that the Sultan would not be deaf to his exhortations, is now to withdraw and leave the unhappy Armenians to their fate? It is believed that he has gone too far to retreat with dignity, that British prestige will suffer if he permits the Sultan to disregard his protests. Yet England incurs a fearful responsibility if she by means of a display of force tries to bring the Sultan to reason. Europe, it is said, is in such an inflammable condition that a spark may cause a conflagration, and would Lord Salisbury, for the sake of a few Armenians, be justified in running the risk? There is no doubt that if he took vigorous measures to bring the Sultan to reason he would have the hearty support of the British nation, but who is to tell what enemies he may make for Great Britain if he takes the initiative, or how she will come out of the struggle if a hostile demonstration against Turkey results in a European war?

In the construction of the new battleships fireproof wood is to be employed. The process of fireproofing consists in forcing sulphate and phosphate of ammonia into the wood by hydraulic pressure.

A bicycle boat has been invented by a telegraph operator in Seattle, and has been successfully operated on the waters of the harbor there at a speed of nine miles an hour. It is a combination of whale-back boat and bicycle. Described in the simplest way it is a boat with a bicycle mounted amidships, the power exerted on the pedals being transferred to a propeller arrangement at the stern. The rudder is operated by a bicycle handle bar, just as an ordinary bicycle is steered. The boat shell is of steel framework covered with canvas, and the whole thing is kept right side up by a 260-pound keel of lead. The inventor thinks he will be able to get much more than the present nine miles an hour out of his bicycle boat when he has perfected it.

It is needless to say that Mr. Murray was much pleased. You may gather that fact from the perusal of his letter here to appended. QUERY.—How many of the people of Peterborough invest their money to better advantage?

McMILLAN ON TRIAL.

Charged With Setting Fire to the Osgoodby Building.

Special to The Times.

TORONTO, Dec. 4.—The first case called when Judge Macdougall took his seat in the Court of Interim Sessions this morning was that of the Crown v. Wm. McMillan, charged with setting fire to the Osgoodby building on the night of January 10 of the present year. Crown Attorney Dewar represented the Crown, and Mr. J. W. St. John, M.L.A., and D. C. Ross the defendant. At the outset the latter applied to His Honor to allow certain material witnesses of the defence, including servants of the G. N. W. Telegraph Co. and a laboring man residing at Bowmanville, to be heard as Crown witnesses as the defence were too poor to incur the expense of bringing them to court. The judge did not think the law would entitle him to pursue this course. Finally the prosecution and defence came to a private arrangement for securing the attendance of the witnesses.

The selection of a jury was then proceeded with. Many jurors were challenged by the defence and numerous others asked by the Crown to stand aside, the following jury being finally chosen: Andrew W. Annis, Scarborough, farmer; Albert Gilmore, 80 Birch street, carpenter; F. N. VanZant, Markham, agent; James Gould, Newmarket, laborer; Jno. Bigham, jr., Toronto Junction, mason; Watson Elliott, King, farmer; William Bone, Vaughan, farmer; William Anderson, East Gwillimbury, farmer; Charles Doan, East Gwillimbury, farmer; James Brock, East Gwillimbury, farmer; John Watson, King, farmer; Alex. Crookshank, 112 Ann street, plumber.

Crown Attorney Dewar in addressing the jury referred to the disastrous conflagrations at the beginning of the present year and said the Crown proposed to trace the origin of the Osgoodby fire to the prisoner. The evidence was of a circumstantial character. The prisoner however, was charged with the strongest motive for committing the offence. McMillan in the month of January was Toronto agent for the Union Card and Paper Co. of Montreal, who had an office and storeroom in the middle of the building. The prisoner received monies on behalf of the company for paper sold. In July, 1894, there was a deficiency of $24 in his accounts. In September the amount had increased to $114. This augmented until in the middle of November it amounted to $157. On the 10th of January, the day of the fire, the prisoner received an intimation from his employers that his deficiency amounted to $250 and demanding payment.

Mr. Dewar went on to refer to the escape of the caretaker from the burning building and his statement that the fire came from below his room, which was on the top story.

Then the Crown Attorney referred to the evidence of Rosenthal that on the night of the fire he saw McMillan set fire to a piece of paper in the office, at the same time saying, "I wish the whole building would go like that," and the subsequent outbreak of the fire.

The first witness called was Mr. W. R. Meade, an assistant of Mr. Miller, the architect of the Osgoodby building. He gave technical evidence regarding the construction of the building and the position of the elevator. The structure was not fireproof. The object of the testimony was to show the ease with which a fire once started would rapidly spread, and to pave the way for fuller evidence by producing plans.

After the evidence of Nightwatchman Chambers as to the time of the fire, the court adjourned for recess.

St. John's, Nfld., Dec. 4.—It is understood that Governor Murray is arranging for the appointment of three commissioners to investigate and report upon the condition of the colony. He will recommend reforms to the public service, especially a remodelling of the financial arrangements. The evidence in the trial of Parrot for smuggling, is likely to involve a number of persons hitherto unsuspected. ### RAILS SUSPENDED IN MID-AIR.

The C.P.R. Bridge Over the St. John Falls Badly Damaged.

Special to The Times.

St. John, N.B., Dec. 4.—The heavy rain of the past week caused a land slide last night in the western abutment of the cantilever bridge over the St. John falls, leaving the Canadian Pacific rails suspended in mid air. The slide which took place about an hour after a train had crossed the bridge carried with it the poles and wires of the Canadian Pacific telegraphs. Temporary repairs were completed in time to divert any disarrangement of the regular running system between here and Montreal.

Herbert Krahn, arrested in New York in October upon his flight from London with C. P. R. shares and cash not his own, was returned to England on the Teutonic, which left New York yesterday.

The strength and pure blood necessary to resist the effects of cold seasons are given by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"I have for the last 25 years of my life been complaining of a weakness of the lungs and colds in the head, especially in the winter. Last fall I was again attacked. Reading of Hood's Sarsaparilla I was led to try it. I am now taking the fifth bottle with good results. I can positively say that I have not spent a winter as free from coughs or pains or difficult breathing spells for the last 25 years as was last winter. I can lie down and sleep all night without any annoyance from cough or pain in the lungs or asthmatic difficulty." E. M. CHAMBERS, J. F., Cora Hill, N. B.
